ELOPERS PLAN NEWPORT HOME

BOSTON, Aug 21.—Mrs. "Jack" Geraghty, nee Julia French, the heiress, and the chauffeur she eloped with, are going back to Newport quite forgiven, he to resume his work with the automobile company.

Said the bride yesterday in Springfield: "There is just one thing in this universe I am interested in, and that is Jack. I should advise other young people to do exactly what I have done."

"I haven't heard one word from my family since we ran away, and I don't know whether I dare hope for their forgiveness or not. I shall allways be the happiest girl in the world, but of course it is pretty hard, on top of all the publicity we've had, to be estranged from one's father and mother.

"But then, dosen't the Bibe itself tell a woman to follow the man she is to spend her life with, even if she has to leave her parents? I think there is a lot too much said about one's first duty being to one's family when it means the choice between them and one's husband.

"We are going back to Newport just as soon as we get rested. We are both half ill with fatigue and the excitement of trying of evade attention Jack is about dead. He lost six night's sleep before we ran away, making all the arrangements.

"I have had to put him to bed for three days now, he is so fagged out.

"Jim sure I don't know whether my people will keep on with my allowance or cut me off—I know only what I read of them—but I am not afraid of that part of it.

"We've heard a rumor that we're to be met by a brass band and a procession with fireworks, but there is probably nothing in it.

"I should always advise a girl to marry the man of her choice in the whole world if need be, and I will say that eloping is good fun. But I can tell her that unless she can manage to escape the publicity we've had throughout our honeymoon she will have to go through a fiery ordeal.

"Of course, I enjoyed it all as an adventure, but it has been simply terrible to have people so eager to find out all about us and to watch our comings and goings. If we had been deepest-dyed criminals we could not have excited more curosity nor been spied upon more ruthlessly. That's the inside point of view on an elopement.

"And right here I'd like to say that I never gave out my life story to any publication. We have consulted a lawyer as to the possibility of suing for damages, for it seems like forgery to sign anyone's name to what she didn't write. But, then, no one who knows me will believe I could really give out such personalities. It's all the most atrocious fiction. It's lucky I care so precious little about the opinion of the world.

"We have a real adventure every time we try to go any place, If we so much as go down town to buy Jack a pair of socks we are pointed out, stared at and commented upon, asked questions and even snap-shotted all the way along, and then the socks themselves are criticised. We could not be treated worse in that respect if we were horse thieves—and all because I married the man of my choice.

"I don't see why we need to be kept in the limelight from dawn till dark. It's all very well to be romantic—the world loves a romance like ours, I know—but it certainly exacts the penalty of being unconventional. Be sure there is nothing in your past, I shall tell my girl friends, if you elope, that you wouldn't mind having dug out and hung on the telegraph poles for inspection.

"Only imagine having people so eager to pry into your individual happiness that they swarm on you curbstones like bees round a honeypot for the chance to observe your comings and goings.

"It's lucky I don't have to wear curl papers, for if I so much as showed my face at the window in them I know the fact would be heralded throughout four States. First it was an annoyance, then a bore, and now it is really unbearable. Their curiosity drives people to being positively rude. Imagine quizzing all your friends and neighbors— to the very children—for all they know about you.

"A woman from Philadephia, who came up to talk it over with us, says she is going to write a book on our elopement, and a woman in Boston hints at dramatizing it. Wouldn't that just put the finishing touches on us?

"Its because everyone envies us, and so I almost forgive them, though I cannot find words to express what I feel about it all. Really, did you ever know of such an ideal romance happening in real life?

"I have a whole trunkful of clippings. Won't it make an interesting heirloom?

"But why should it be so extraordinary to marry the man you love, when everyone knows that love is all that really counts in this world?

"The only way we can escape people's curiosity is to go out in the machine, and so we are taking long trips in it. We are touring around Holyoke, Chicopee Falls and all the love-

BUSY DAY FOR SIR WILFRID.

MONTREAL, Aug. 28—Sir Wilfrid Laurier spent the busiest day of his campaign yesterday. Leaving this city he journeyed to Ste. Hyacinthe, to attend the funeral of the late Mr. Beaupart, M. P. Returning at noon, he flashed across the city on his way to Steustache, where he delivered an address in the afternoon. Hardly was the meeting over before he was again upon the move hurrying to Ahuntsic; in the evening he presented the Liberal platform to the electors of that district.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflamination can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.
