PROVINCIAL LEGISLATURE

The gift had been made, traits, he might say, which were characteristic of his honorable friend and valuable characteristics they were in any one. He was sure from what he knew of him they would always cling to his honorable friend. The dread disease, the conditions of which the gift was intended to alleviate, had made terrible inroads among the people in spite of all efforts of the Medical Association and Anti-Tuberculosis Societies to combat it.

DR. JENKINS, on behalf of the Medical Association and the Anti-Tuberculosis Society, joined in a few words of commendation to the generous donor. He said the members of the Sanitarium would be such that it would be some time before they would be fully appreciated, but he felt assured that the benefits to be derived would be greater than from any other gift which it would be possible to make.

DR. DEWAR spoke on behalf of the medical profession in similar terms. HON. J. A. MACDONALD, representing the Anti-Tuberculosis Society of King's County, also spoke in appreciative terms of the gift and expressed the pleasure the people of King's County felt at such generosity.

THE SPEAKER put the resolution to the House and it was carried unanimously by a standing vote. THE SPEAKER in formally conveying the resolution to Mr. Dalton said that the thanks of parliament were one of the highest honors that could be conferred upon any person, and it had never been voted to anyone unless it had been unquestionably well deserved.

His Hon. the Governor, then entered the House accompanied by the officers of the Guard of Honor and, after giving his assent to the 84 acts session, read the following address: Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly.

In relieving you of your Legislative duties I desire to convey to you my appreciation of the earnest and thorough manner with which you have applied yourselves to the public business. I trust that the important measures which have engaged your attention—the most numerous in any one session in the history of the Province—will result in adding materially to the progress and prosperity of our people.

I thank you for the liberal supplies which you have voted for the maintenance of the Public Service and I assure you that the strictest economy will be exercised by my government in expending the same. I sincerely trust that the blessings of Divine Providence may rest bounteously upon you in the discharge of your ordinary avocations as well as upon the people whom you represent.

HON. CHARLES DALTON, on rising to reply, was received with loud applause, in which the audience heartily joined. Speaking with some emotion, he said he had been very deeply touched by the resolution and the very kind way in which the speakers had referred to his gift.

He had been following foxes all his life and not paying much attention to other matters, and now when he heard himself spoken so highly of in that House, "He didn't know himself." He was glad to be in a position to do something to counteract the effects of this terrible disease.

Looking over the statistics he noticed that, out of 1,000 deaths on this Island, 217 were due to consumption, and those who were carried off were mostly in the prime of life, when they should be strong and healthy citizens, and of value to the community.

He had learned from experience that the Medical Association and the Anti-Tuberculosis Society had been ever-ready to give assistance in combating the disease, and spreading information about it and its causes. But the people were slow to appreciate the benefit of proper tactics.

In smallpox were to break out in their midst, people would be up in arms at once to have steps taken to clear it out, and prevent a recurrence. That was because they saw the immediate effects of the disease and became alarmed.

Similarly, in London a number of years ago, when Jack the Ripper murders were prevalent, people, not only in London, but all over the Empire, became anxious and determined to have the mur-derer run to earth. That was also because they had the immediate effects before them. But here they had this dread disease causing even greater havoc amongst them. And, simply because the people had been slow to stem the ravages and avert the cause. If it could be brought home to the people the dreadful curse, tuberculosis was upon them, he thought they would insist as vigorously as in the case of smallpox or any other outbreak in having an end put to it.

Today we have probably the richest province in Canada—judged by the value of the ranches and other livestock owned in the Island. Why, therefore, should they not be up and doing something to alleviate the suffering of those who are victims of this terrible disease. For himself, he felt that, "of him to whom much was given much would be required."

It was the duty of every man to assist in alleviating suffering so far as was within his power. He had been complimented for having made his gift without any stipulation or restriction as to the beneficiaries. He wanted to catchism, one of the first questions he inquired was, "Who is your neighbor?" And the answer was, "Mankind of every description." (Applause). He, therefore, felt that in providing an institution of this kind, it should be made to answer that question, and that in providing relief and assistance they should not stop to inquire the different classes or creeds of the would-be recipients.

Proceeding, the hon. gentleman said that he had noticed that Dr. Friedman, a man of world-wide reputation, had come from Europe to New York in connection with the discovery he had made for the cure of tuberculosis. He would like to see the Medical Association here invite Dr. Friedman to come and give a demonstration of his cure. If the invitation were sent and accepted, he would guarantee it would not cost the province anything. (Applause). It would be a very great pleasure for him to assist the Association to extend its influence and energy in the conduct of its fight against tuberculosis. (Applause).

LEGISLATURE PROROGUED

His Hon. the Governor, then entered the House accompanied by the officers of the Guard of Honor and, after giving his assent to the 84 acts session, read the following address: Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly.

In relieving you of your Legislative duties I desire to convey to you my appreciation of the earnest and thorough manner with which you have applied yourselves to the public business.

I trust that the important measures which have engaged your attention—the most numerous in any one session in the history of the Province—will result in adding materially to the progress and prosperity of our people.

I thank you for the liberal supplies which you have voted for the maintenance of the Public Service and I assure you that the strictest economy will be exercised by my government in expending the same.

I sincerely trust that the blessings of Divine Providence may rest bounteously upon you in the discharge of your ordinary avocations as well as upon the people whom you represent.

The House was then formally prorogued, this closing the second session of the 37th general assembly of Prince Edward Island.

Before the members departed several of the most enthusiastic of them, aided and abetted by some of the visitors, including the stalwart Dr. Gauthier, conferred upon Hon. Charles Dalton, as the hero of the session, the degree of "The Grand Bounce," by tossing him skyward the usual three times with one for good measure.

THREATENED ICE BLOCKADE

Approximately 123 grain boats are there headed for Buffalo. The windrows of ice are 20 to 40 feet deep in places. The feed and fuel question on the fleet standing at Whitefish Point is causing a good deal of anxiety.
