SAVE YOUR TEETH

Until quite recently whenever a person had the toothache, his friends one and all immediately gave him the sage advice, "Go and have it pulled." We extract teeth when necessary by the most painless method yet discovered and replace them with a plate or with crown and bridge work. BUT OUR PRINCIPAL BUSINESS IS SAVING AND FILLING TEETH.

If you have a cleft palate give us a call. We can refer you to cases in which we have treated with wonderful success.

STYLE AND FINISH

Without quality can't make permanent business. But quality without style and finish never gets any business. It's so the world over. So we crowd in our boots all that catches the eye—but we never forget to put into them that inherent wearing value which makes them "stand the racket."

One of the correct things for Men's wear is a patent leather with extension sole. Price $4.50.

WONDERFUL BROECK TOWN IN HOLLAND

The Original Spotless Town Among the Dykes

POINTERS FOR CH'TOWN

Rules Which Citizens Must Observe
—Neatness and Brilliancy
Almost Painful.

Far up in northern Holland among the dikes and canals of the little kingdom lies Broeck, the original Spotless Town. The palings of the fences of Broeck are sky blue. The streets are paved with shining bricks of many colors. The houses are rose colored, black, gray, purple, light blue or pale green. The doors are painted and gilded. For hours you may not see a soul in the streets or at the windows. The streets and houses, bridges, windows and barns show a neatness and a brilliancy that are absolutely painful. At every step a new effect is disclosed, a new scene is beheld, as if painted upon the drop curtain of a stage. Everything is minute, compact, painted, spotless and clean. In the houses of Broeck for cleaning purposes you will find big brooms, little brooms, tooth-brushes, aqua fortis, whiting for the window panes, rouge for the forks and spoons, coal dust for the copper, emery for the iron utensils, brick powder for the floors and even small splinters of wood with which to pick out the tiny bits of straw in the cracks between the bricks. Here are some of the rules of this wonderful town:

Citizens must leave their shoes at the door when entering a house. Before or after sunset no one is allowed to smoke excepting with a pipe having a cover, so that the ashes will not be scattered upon the street.

Any one crossing the village on horseback must get out of the saddle and lead the horse.

A cuspidor shall be kept by the front door of each house, where it may be accessible from the window.

It is forbidden to cross the village in a carriage or to drive animals through the streets.

In addition to these established rules it is the custom for every citizen who sees a leaf or a bit of straw blown before his house by the wind to pick it up and throw it into the canal. The people go 500 paces out of the village to dust their shoes. Dozens of boys are paid to blow the dust from between the bricks in the streets four times an hour. In certain houses the guests are carried over the threshold so as not to soil the pavements. At one time the man in for cleaning in Broeck reached such a point that the housewives of the village neglected even their religious duties for scrubbing and washing. The village pastor, preached a long sermon, in which he declared that every Dutchwoman who had faithfully fulfilled her duties toward God in this world would find in the next a house packed full of furniture and stored with the most various and precious articles of use and ornament, which, not being distracted by other occupations, she would be able to brush, wash and polish for all eternity. The promise of this sublime recompense and the thought of this extreme happiness filled the women with such fervor and piety that for months thereafter the pastor had no cause for complaint.

Around every house in Broeck are buckets, benches, rakes, hoes and stakes, all colored red, blue, white or yellow. The brilliancy and variety of colors and the cleanliness, brightness and miniature pomp of the place are wonderful. At the windows there are embroidered curtains, with rose colored ribbons. The blades, bands and nails of the gayly painted windmills shine like silver. The houses are brightly varnished and surrounded with red and white railings and fences. The panes of glass in the windows are bordered by many lines of different hues. The trunks of all the trees are painted gray from root to branch. Across the streams are many little wooden bridges, each painted as white as snow. The gutters are ornamented with a sort of wooden festoon, perforated like lace. The pointed facades are surmounted with a small weathercock, a little lance or something resembling a bunch of flowers. Nearly every house has two doors, one in front and one behind, the last for everyday entrance and exit and the former opened only on great occasions, such as births, deaths and marriages.

The gardens are as peculiar as the houses. The paths are hardly wide enough to walk in. One could put his arm around the flowerbeds. The dainty arbors would barely hold two persons sitting close together. The little myrtle hedges would scarcely reach to the knees of a four-year-old child. Between the arbors and the flower beds run little canals which seem made to float paper boats. They are crossed by miniature wooden bridges, with colored pillars and parapets. There are ponds the size of a bath, which are almost concealed by illuption boats tied with red cords to blue stakes, tiny staircases and miniature kitchen gardens. Everything could be measured with the hand, crossed at a leap, demolished by a blow. Moreover, there are trees cut in the shape of fans, plumes and disks, with their trunks colored white and blue. At every step one discovers a new effect, a fresh combination of hues, a novel surprise, some new absurdity.

The rooms are very tiny and resemble so many bazaars. There are porcelain figures on the cupboard, Chinese cups and sugar bowls on and under the tables, plates fastened on the walls, clocks, ostrich eggs, shells, vases, plates, glasses, placed in every corner and concealed in every nook, cupboards full of hundreds of trifles and ornaments without name, a crowding disorder and utter confusion of colors.

FARM LABORERS' EXCURSION.

Ticket Agents, Maritime Provinces: This is to advise you that male or female farm laborers who have already arranged to work with farmer friends, or with same farmers they have worked for in former years, will be conveyed free, prior to August 31, 1902, from Winnipeg to such points in Manitoba and Assiniboia as stated in general instructions, on presentation of usual farm laborers' certificate to Canadian Pacific Agent at Winnipeg, without rendering it necessary for such farmers to go to Winnipeg to certify that they have engaged them.

Illustration.—The object of the new plan of distribution is not to force Wm. Smith to work for Geo. Jackson at Estevan, whom he does not know, if he prefers to work for James Johnston at Yorkton, whom he does know. Laborers will be given as much freedom of choice as possible.

The fact of farm laborers being primarily ticketed to Winnipeg, with the promise of free distribution to certain territory, places them in the best possible position to obtain work for this reason:

Winnipeg is the seat of the Manitoba Government and the headquarters of the Canadian Pacific Western Lines. Therefore, if any person considers he has just cause for complaint, he can make it at once to headquarters with the positive assurance of immediate investigation of his grievance and, if ascertained to be well founded, a satisfactory adjustment.—Yours truly,
C. B. FOSTER, D. P. A., C. P. Ry.
