

A Leader's Wife Views --But Not With Alarm

By Ruth V. G. Campbell

It's pleasant to linger before an open fire on a brisk spring morning, when the sunshine outside is brilliant but cold—particularly pleasant in the added warmth of spontaneous friendliness which radiates from Mrs. George Drew, the much-discussed wife of the much-discussed new leader of His Majesty's Loyal Opposition, the Progressive Conservative Party of Canada.

The Drews have only recently acquired their two-and-a-half-room suite in The Roxborough, in Ottawa. It leaves much to be desired in the eyes of the new leader's wife, who looks forward to a home of her own to house eleven-year-old Edward and eight-year-old Sandra—a house where informal entertaining of the members and their wives, and their other friends, will be possible. "We enjoy doing that so much," says Mrs. Drew.

However, already the small apart-

MRS. GEORGE DREW

Mrs. Drew's view as to women's part in matters political has had ample opportunity to crystallize during the past few weeks, when she has been meeting hundreds of people in all parts of Canada, and speaking to many of them. However, she confesses that the personal contacts after meetings mean more to her than any speech she may make. And as a rule, except on such rare occasions as her speech to the Women's Canadian Club in Winnipeg several months ago, her talks are not prepared. "I come in with a few words after George," she sums it up modestly. And at such times, she likes to wait for the reaction of the gathering and to speak extemporaneously. "It is easy to be spontaneous," she adds, "because people everywhere are so terribly enthusiastic about what the Progressive Conservative Party is trying to do—they are so keen about this country and all it has to offer them."

Herself young and vital, Mrs. Drew's interest in the young people of Canada in general, the Young Progressive Conservatives in particular, goes without saying.

Guide-Parent Banquet at Trinity Hall

The Ladies of the Junior Womens Auxiliary of Trinity Church gave a lovely banquet to the Guides and mothers of the 6th and 7th Charlottetown Company. The tables looked really beautiful with vases of tulips on all tables. Mrs. Harry Cudmore, diploma'd Guider and Captain of Trinity Company, presided. Seated at the head table were, the Guide Prov. Commissioner, Mrs. J.G. MacDonald, Dr. and Mrs. Dudley, Dr. and Mrs. Rice, Prof. Kendall, Brig. W.W. Reid, Mrs. Cudmore, Miss I. Arsenault (Div. Commissioner), Mrs. F.G. Hutcheson, Dis. Commissioner, Mrs. E.M. Bagnall, Dis. Commissioner, Miss L. Duchemin, Public Relations, and Mrs. F.S. Jenkins, Field Secretary.

Grace was said by Dr. Rice and the King proposed by Mrs. Cudmore, who also expressed pleasure at the numbers present. Plans duets were rendered by Joan McGuire-Jean Tweedy, Maureen Bohaker-Nancy Flynnman, Helen Chappell and Marjorie Pickard, in a very pleasing manner.

Guides responsible, for proposing the toasts carried out their duties in a very impressive way and are to be highly congratulated for their excellent vocabulary and clearness of speech. All spoke remarkably well and I am sure that each thought and time had been given to training. Norma Jean Allan proposed a toast to the Church and said "how fortunate and proud they were to be part of the Church life." Dr. Dudley responded by saying how much impressed he was with the toast by Norma Jean and also emphasized that the Church could not run without the support of the mothers and daughters. Johanna MacDonald proposed toast to mothers and daughters with Mrs. Bohaker responding. Anne Cery and Francis Henderson gave a quite talented performance of tap dancing. Joan McKinnon proposed a toast to the Boy Scouts Organization and Brig. W.W. Reid responded who said, "It was always a pleasure and a privilege to work with Mrs. Cudmore and the Guides and in future hoped that still further co-operation would be possible."

All the Guides joined in singing "The Lass of Richmond Hill" and the Chant Song. These were the songs that were recently sung in the Musical Competition and I felt that the girls sang them even better than when singing in the competition. Mrs. Cudmore spoke briefly to the parents and detailed some of the work necessary to become a First Class Guide. Joan Marie McGuire followed by reading an essay on the "History of Guiding". This is a part of the first class test and had been extremely well prepared. Guiding was dealt with from its inception. Maureen Bohaker proposed a toast to the Girl Guide Association. Mrs. J.G. MacDonald, Prov. Commissioner, replied in her usual charming manner. She referred to the splendid record of the 7th Trinity Company stressing outstanding leadership that they were so fortunate in possessing, having Mrs. Cudmore, leader, and two Gold Cord Guiders, Miss Louise Avar and Margaret McLellan as lieutenants. Parents of the Guides were thanked for the support they so willingly gave their daughters and the interest that was obviously shown in the Guide work. Support from parents was so necessary and so helpful and encouraging to a Guide, said Mrs. MacDonald.

Jean Tweedy thanked Mrs. MacDonald and expressed appreciation to the Junior Womens Auxiliary for the lovely banquet. Mrs. F.G. Hutcheson, president of the F.X. Auxiliary, and also Guide Commissioner, said what a pleasure it had been to help and that she felt that the Young Peoples Organizations did much good towards promoting good future citizens.

An impressive ceremony of badge presentation and enrollment with the Guides in horseshoe formation followed. Colours were marched on by Freda McCullum, Nancy Flynnman and Maureen Bohaker. Three recruits were enrolled by Mrs. Cudmore with Mrs. MacDonald assisting. They were recruits, Ernestine Mills, Evelyn MacKenzie and Jean McKenzie. Badges were presented, Laundress, Minister, Homemaking and Hostess to others of the 7th.

The lovely evening that was so much enjoyed by everyone closed with Evensong and Tea.

Keefe-McGannon Wedding

(Montreal Star)

In the rectory of the Church of the Annunciation, Town of Mount Royal, at one o'clock on Saturday, the marriage was solemnized of Mr. and Mrs. F. G. McGannon, of Calgary, Alta., and Mr. George Clinton Keefe, Jr., of Montreal, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Keefe, formerly of New York City. Reverend Father F. T. Moyie officiated. White snapdragons and tulips banked the fireplace.

Mrs. J. Driemen, of Winnipeg, attended the bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. W. L. McGannon. The best man was Mr. Walter G. Conrad, of Toronto.

The bride wore a white satin period gown, with train of lily-of-the-valley from which fell her finger-veil of illusion net, while she carried a bouquet of white hydrangeas.

The matron of honor in a frock of heliotrope heavy crepe, wore chapeau accessories and carried a cascade bouquet of sweet peas.

Mrs. McGannon, the bride's mother, was wearing a floor length gown of turquoise crepe and dusty pink accessories with a matching hat and a corsage of pink gardenias.

The reception was held at the Mount Stephen Club, where spring flowers composed the decorations, with a low white centrepiece for the bride's table. Mr. and Mrs. George Clinton Keefe left later by plane for a wedding trip to Bermuda, the bride wearing for travelling an imported beige and brown suit topped by a beige gabardine coat and worn with dark brown accessories. The couple will reside on Cote St. Catharine Road.

Out-of-town guests were: Mr. G. Hughes of Charlottetown, P.E.I., and Mrs. L. P. S. Bignall and son Jerry, of Washington, D.C.

The bride is a graduate of St. Mary's Academy and College, Winnipeg, Man. Mr. Keefe attended Yale University. He served with the R. C. A. F. during the war as wing commander and was awarded the D. F. C. and Bar, the D. S. O. and Bar, the Croix de Guerre and the Cross of The Netherlands. Mr. Keefe is a nephew of the late Mrs. G. G. Hughes and is well known in Charlottetown as he spent many summers here.

"We didn't do much at the wood-splitting today," James observes from his old armchair, "it's been a peculiar day—and most annoying." "Now we mustn't think of it in that way," Mr. D. comments, "when you consider how well things have worked out and compare this in mind with what might have been, then you get a different point of view. As for losing the day, as you think, there's no question about it, if you lost it in one way, without doubt it will be made up in another. And today's circumstances just go to show that man does not step along by himself nor according to his own plans—no indeed, he is herself, so face the bitter fact that this man over whom you are breaking your heart doesn't love you, doesn't want you, is tired to death of you. No man has to experiment with his emotions to know how he feels towards a girl. If he is really in love, it breaks out on him like the measles and he can't hide it.

Be wise enough and brave enough to break with your fiancé who has ceased to desire you. It will hurt, but it will not be the heartache that being an unwanted wife is.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a girl of 15, very much in love with a boy of 18. Everything would be fine if he would only work, but all he does is to ride around on an old bicycle and dead-beat his food. He has had several good jobs, but he never sticks to them, and if he worked in a pie factory, he would stay there until he got his stomach full. Then he would lay off until he got hungry again.

I can't wait all my life for him to straighten up and make something of himself. What would you advise me to do?

SALLY ANNE

ANSWER: Well, Sally Anne, being a practical-minded person myself, I would strongly advise you not to waste any more time on your deadbeat sweetie. Love is, of course, a beautiful and romantic thing, but, unfortunately, we cannot exist on romance alone. We get hungry and crave beefsteaks more than we do sentiment.

A husband who is allergic to work is a mighty poor bet. At the age of 15 you need not be in any hurry about getting married, and let me urge you to pick out a good provider when you select your mate.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have gone with the same man for more than 20 years. I love him and I think he loves me. He needs me and I need him. Don't you think he should marry me so we could love and cherish each other? He is a sweet, devoted lover, but he has never asked me to marry him. He comes to see me all the time and is jealous if I go out with anyone else.

How can I force him to propose? I am sick of his stalling.

LONESOME AND PANICKY

ANSWER: I don't wonder that you are lonesome and panicky, and assuredly you are also lacking in good, hard, common sense if you have wasted 20 good years on a man who not only has not popped the question, but who is also serving notice on you right now that he is never going to do it.

There is no use in asking why he doesn't do it, because the answer to that is obvious. He is utterly and entirely selfish. He wants your companionship, but he doesn't want to pay for it by supporting you, or curtailing his freedom. Have some sense and drop him.
