Living & Leisure / THE WOMAN'S REALM

ON THE BENCH

The benches in a park are made in such a way as to dissuade, and how the back, curved very fine, One must in honesty admit, The sitter from too long a sit.

Consider how the slatted seat Dooms tender flesh to quick defeat, And how the back, curved very fine, Precisely hits each bump of spine.

If one sits to the rear, it's found The feet just fall to reach the ground.

If one sits up to meet this lack, One very soon slips slowly back.

But this is what the builders sought, And well indeed they planned and fit on through morning, noon and night.

And those who came by later, wear- ing, Have no place for their own pos- sessor.

—Richard Armour in The New York Times.

Hints on Etiquette

Don't be a guest in the home of a newly wed pair, eat the bride's cooking and then offer the old fam- ily cookbook of recipes—especially if you are one of the in-laws.

SELLS HER TIME MAKES INCOME

Every community has one or more middle-aged widows with too much time on their hands and too little income for real security. And every middle-class neighbourhood has young mothers who would gladly pay for the occasional ser- vice of a proxy mother, points out a woman columnist.

So why, don't the young and the older women of a community get together?

Here is one case where they did: The proxy grandmother is en- tirely self-supporting and is in such demand that prospective mothers call her months in advance to make sure she will be on hand to run their houses and look after the other children while they are in the hospital.

The young mothers of her com- munity also call on her when vaca- tion time rolls around.

The proxy grandmother has her calendar filled for months ahead. She is one of the best-loved women of her community. And she is financially independent. She also has the satisfaction of knowing that she has helped dozens of young couples through periods of their lives when they desperately needed help.

The middle-aged woman without business experience or any particu- lar talent besides homemaking who wants to be self-supporting and make a real contribution to her community might well consider the possibility of becoming a proxy grandmother.

BRISQUE PHONE MANNERS DETRIMENT IN BUSINESS

"Never answer the telephone with a fat 'No,'" a top-notch New York secretary advises girls enter- ing the business world.

That is about as good advice as a girl who wants to get ahead in her job is ever likely to receive.

The fat "No" is such an easy way of taking care of a request which might involve a little extra trouble that many girls in small jobs employ it almost routinely. Consequently, they stay in small jobs.

The newcomers to the business world who give the impression of wanting to do their jobs as well as possible are the ones who try to give a positive answer to any re- quest for service or information.

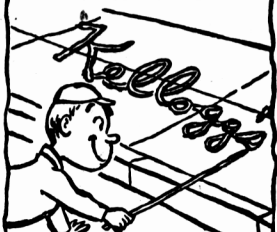

Perhaps a new salesgirl doesn't know her stock as well as she should. She doesn't appear inter- ested or disinterested if, instead of acting as if she had never heard of the article requested by a custom- er, she says, "I am not sure whether we have it or not, but if you'll wait just a moment I will find out."

It is easy to say, "I don't know," to a request for information—but it is likely to sound pretty ineffi- cient when the answer could be, "I haven't that information, but you can get it from such-and-such a place," or "I'll see if I can find out for you."

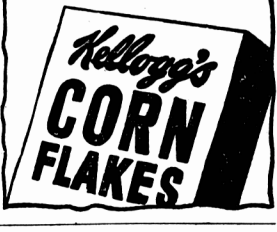

And even when a "No" must be given, there is no reason for mak- ing it a fat "No." It is accepted in a much better spirit if accompanied by an explanation, or at least by a sincere "I'm sorry."

There are so many lazy, careless, or just plain disinterested, job- holders that the girl who takes the trouble to give positive rather than negative answers to requests when- ever possible, is sure to push ahead of those who don't.

Asparagus Juice

Soup can be made from the juice in which asparagus is cooked. Use a few of the left-over stalks, thicken, and add cream, butter, and seasoning. Serve with hot, round crackers.

Ringworms

A remedy for ringworms is 1 part of iodine in 2 parts of water or alcohol. Touch the surrounding flesh with this solution. It will prevent spreading, and in about two weeks the ringworm should disap- pear.

The Pottery Vase

If the new pottery vase leaks a bit, pour some melted paraffin into it about a half-inch thick. Then use as usual, and you will have no more seepage onto treas- ured furniture.

How Can I!!

Q. How can I make candles burn longer? A. By placing them in the refrigerator for a day or two before they are lighted. Nor will they trickle down over the candlestick as readily.

Q. What is a good way to use left-over meat? A. Small bits of meat left over from roasts or steaks can be added to a drop biscuit batter and baked in the biscuits as a novel kind of sandwich.

Q. How can I exterminate ants? A. Place lumps of gum camphor in their runways and near nests infested by them.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Marry In Own Class

Union Of Prominent Family Advised To Stay On Own Side Of Tracks

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I come from a very prominent family that has always held a high social position, and I am faced with a problem I do not know how to solve. I have fallen in love with a young woman who not only comes from the wrong side of the tracks, but who is a divorcee whose husband left her because she cheated on him, but she says that if I marry her she will be faithful to me.

I think it would break the hearts of the whole family if I married this girl. Do you think she would make me happy? Do you think she would repay me for all that I have to give up if I married her? I am not so desperately infatuated with her that I am ready to say "all for love and the world well lost," but I'll admit I am sorely tempted.

What's your advice? Drop her and start going with some girl in my own social position? Or marry her and be dropped by all my old friends and family?

ANSWER: One of the most important don'ts in marriage is don't marry out of your own class. And this applies to family, social position, money, age, religion, all of the innumerable things that determine whether a marriage will be a success, or a failure. Congeniality is the very bedrock on which a marriage must be founded if there is any happiness in it.

STAY IN OWN CLASS

The youth and beauty that capture a man's fancy soon fade. Romantic thrills don't survive everyday living, and when these are gone a married couple do not speak the same language and have the same background and know the same people they bore each other stiff. Look about you and see the tragedies that occur when people marry out of their own class. The old men being dragged about by girl wives who want to dance and have fun. The educated men ashamed of their illit- erate wives. The thousands upon thousands of married couples who quarrel incessantly because they have nothing in common.

So my advice to you is to stay on your own side of the tracks when (Continued On Page Three)

And for a birth-stone a ruby. Not at all superstitious, but then much interested in "signs and por- tents" I opened an old birthday book that since school days has been stowed away and neglected. Many of the names there are al- most forgotten now in their native haunts, and others have gone on to "a better land." Today's quota- tion from Tennyson was perhaps chosen for the like of me. That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton M. D.

WHOOPIING COUGH CAN BE DANGEROUS

Physicians and parents hereto- fore have not taken whooping cough too seriously, but recently the full danger of an attack of whooping cough has become known, and prevention by use of vaccines is now routine treatment by children's specialists and in children's clinics. The fact that an attack of whooping cough in very young children may, later in life, cause epilepsy in further arousing physicians and parents of the need of protection from this disease.

Dr. Archibald H. Hynes, Chicago, in the "Medical Clinics of North America," states that in recent years whooping cough has caused more death than nearly all the other contagious diseases com- bined. It is particularly fatal dur- ing the first year of life. Now that vaccines to prevent whooping cough are available, parents owe it to their children to take the same precautions against whooping cough that they do against diphte- ria, formerly the most fatal of children's diseases.

While physicians do not re- commend vaccination against whooping cough before the age of six months, they do advise it to be done before the eighth month. It is in early infancy that most deaths occur and also when the seeds may be sown for an attack of epilepsy later on in children or in young adults.

"In 1940, the Committee of American Academy of Pediatrics for the State of Illinois recommended in a pamphlet distributed by the Illinois State Department of Health that whooping cough im- munization (vaccination) be under- taken at three or four months of age." This was given at this early age on the theory that even if complete protection was not se- cured a mild or modified attack might occur if the child did have the attack. As mentioned once be- fore, vaccination is now given at the one time for whooping cough and diphtheria.

The treatment of an attack of whooping cough has not changed much from former years, there being three main points for par- ents to watch: good ventilation, nourishing food, expert nursing. Regardless of age, it is better to give nourishment in small quan- tities of food at greater intervals. If a baby suffers an attack of coughing after taking his bottle, it is likely to vomit and lose food taken. If this happens, about 15 minutes are allowed to elapse and another bottle containing the pre- scribed formula is provided. This is important as it keeps up the child's strength and weight.

Cook's Corner

Fricassee Chicken With Sour Cream

1 1-4 lb. chicken, cut into serving portions
3 tablespoons vinegar
1-2 cup flour
1-4 cup fat
1-3 cup chopped onion
1-4 cup chopped parsley or celery leaves
1-2 cups sour cream

Rub chicken with vinegar and roll in mixture of flour, salt and pepper. Melt fat and brown chicken on all sides in hot fat. Place browned chicken in large casserole, add onions, celery leaves and cover with sour cream. Cook covered in a moderately slow oven 325 degrees S. until tender 2 1-2-3 hours. Six servings.

Chicken Mousse

1 1-2 tablespoons granulated gelatine
2 tablespoons cold water
3 egg yolks
1-2 cups chicken broth
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
2 cups cooked chicken, chopped
1-4 cup chopped sweet pickles
1-2 cup heavy cream, whipped

Soak gelatine in cold water for 5 minutes. Beat egg yolks and add chicken broth. Cook in top of double boiler until mixture coats spoon. Add salt, pepper and soaked gelatine. Stir until dissolved. Cool mixture until partially set. Add chopped chicken, pickles and fold in the whipped cream. Pour into a greased mould and chill until firm. Unmould on bed of lettuce and garnish with sliced tomatoes, sliced hard cooked egg, watercress and radish. Serve with mayonnaise. Six to eight servings.

"I CRIED MYSELF TO SLEEP — The night I found they were whispering about me!"

"Why not admit it, I just wasn't popular—that's all. But I never expected to be so humiliated as I was the night of Mary Jane's party. As I came into the room, I heard Bob and Jim whisper ... 'B.O.'"

"It was only a murmur, but I caught it. I imagine people whispering that about me. I hurried home, and cried myself to sleep."

"... AND I'LL HAVE THREE CAKES OF LIFEBOUY, PLEASE!"

"SAY! LIFEBOUY IS A WONDERFUL BATH SOAP! SUCH RICH, CREAMY LATHER ... SO REFRESHING, TOO!"

"I never dreamed it was so much fun to be popular. I pity the people who are care- less and fail to take precaution against 'B.O.' It can spoil their whole lives."

"The next day, I was still terribly upset. Then I realized that no one with 'B.O.' can be popular. So I got myself some Lifebouy right away."

"Now I never miss a day bathing with Lifebouy! I know that I can depend on Lifebouy for all-over and long-lasting protection against 'B.O.'"

"I never dreamed it was so much fun to be popular. I pity the people who are care- less and fail to take precaution against 'B.O.' It can spoil their whole lives."

HOW TO STEP UP PROTECTION AGAINST "B.O."

TESTS prove not only that Lifebouy stops "B.O." (body odor) but that you can build increasingly better protection against "B.O." by always bathing with Lifebouy. Try it. Bathe with Lifebouy for just seven days. See how fresh and clean your skin feels. And when you know that a Lifebouy bath stops "B.O." faster, gives you longer-lasting protection, you won't ever want to miss your "BATH A DAY THE LIFEBOUY WAY!"
