"The Good Earth" Attracts Crowds At Capitol Theatre

The famous novel "The Good Earth" opened at the Capitol Theatre last night and the audience found words failed them to express their admiration of such a superb picture, which had transported them to China and in a marvelous way unfolded this ancient country.

In the hands of Paul Muni and Luise Rainer, the portraits of Wang and O'lan are etched in the minds of filmgoers for years to come. Muni, in an incredibly realistic Chinese makeup, offers an enthralling characterization of the farmer seduced by riches and flattery. Miss Rainer goes beyond makeup to the point where even her thoughts seem to be embodied in the Oriental conception. Her work in "The Good Earth" proves beyond argument that she is one of the comparable actresses of the screen.

There is not a flaw to be found in the entire cast. Walter Connolly is splendid as the Uncle; the Eungies, played by Tilly Losch, scores in an interpretative dance sequence; Charley Grapewin, as is the Old Father, as excellent. Ralph as Cuckoo, the Chinese doctor, and Soo Yong, Keye Luke, Roland Liu and Suzanna Kim are uniformly good.

—CHAMBERLAIN (Continued from page 1) Mr. Chamberlain continued. "These promises were made not to the German Government direct but to the British and French Governments in the first instance. "Speaking for the British Government we regard ourselves as morally responsible for seeing that the promises were carried out fairly and fully and we are prepared to undertake that I shall be so carried out with all reasonable promptitude, provided that the German Government will agree to settlement of terms and conditions to the transfer by discussions and not by force.

"I must just say that the Chancellor will not reject this proposal which is made in the same spirit of friendliness as that in which I was received in Germany and which is being accepted will satisfy the German desire for union of the Sudeten Germans with the Reich without the shedding of blood in any part of Europe."

—HENLEIN (Continued from page 1) been thrown open fully to Sudeten Germans from the "free territory." "We want to join Germany—our homeland," said a spokesman for the provisional government, "but Germany has hesitated. "We are asking to be taken in, but the door is still shut. "Thousands who want to cross the border daily don't understand why they must show passports and why we are subject to currency restrictions which existed when Asch was a part of Czechoslovakia. "The situation here is not as it was in Austria. Here customs and treasury guards are still functioning, whereas in Austria they disappeared immediately. "German customs officials say they have strict orders not to step one foot into either Czechoslovakia or the Asch "free territory." The border control was tightened within the past 24 hours. The personnel has changed, and the tolerance which sprang up after the Asch people declared themselves "free" has disappeared. "Henlein left orders for his followers merely to defend the "free territory," and not to attack near-by Franzensbad or Eger, where Czechoslovak authorities are in control.

—WARRANT TOO LATE GRIMSBY, England.—(CP)—A warrant was issued for arrest of Sidney Fow Smith, wanted on a serious charge, when he failed to appear after his name was called in court. Afterwards the sea washed his body up near Cleethorpes.

TEXT OF SPEECH BY CHANCELLOR HITLER

(Continued from page 8, tober 1. Mr. Benes now puts his hopes to the world. Neither he nor his diplomats conceal this. They declare: It is our hope that Chamberlain will fall, that Daladier will be removed, that revolutions will happen there. And our hope is Soviet Russia.

He still believes he can escape fulfillment of his duty. And there I can now say one thing: Two men are on the scene against each other. There is Mr. Benes and here am I.

We are two such different persons that when Mr. Benes sneaked through the world during the great wrestling of nations, I then fulfilled my duty as an honest soldier. I am a soldier of my people. I have little to say: I am thankful to Mr. Chamberlain for all his trouble and I assured him that the German people wants nothing but peace, but I also declared that I can not go beyond the limits of our patience.

And I further assured him and I repeat here that if this problem is solved, there will be no further territorial problems in Europe for Germany.

Never did I doubt success and final victory. A body of brave men and brave women gathered around me and they went with me. And so I ask my German people: fall in behind the man for man, woman for woman.

In these hours we will take one holy common resolve. It shall be stronger than any pressure, any peril. And when this will is stronger than pressure and peril, we will break the pressure and peril. We are resolved! Let Mr. Benes choose!

—PATIENCE EXHAUSTED But equally I want now to declare before the German people that as regards the Sudeten German problem, my patience is now exhausted. I have made an offer to Mr. Benes. It is nothing else than realization of what he himself has already conceded. He now holds in his hand peace or war.

Premier and Foreign Minister Bonnet to London inspired confidence here to two western democracies had done everything in their power to find a compromise between Hitler's demands for Czechoslovakia's cession to Germany of Sudetenland and the Czechoslovakia Government's stand.

At the same time, conferences of General Maurice Gustave Gamelin, chief of General Staff of National Defence, with British and French officials already being the two powers were preparing to meet any eventuality.

Should the situation grow worse overnight, another formal mobilization order was expected tomorrow to build up the force under arms already swelled past 2,000,000 by individual calls to colors and partial mobilization orders over the weekend.

—DEPRESSED ATMOSPHERE A drizzling rain further deepened an atmosphere already dampened by concrete evidences of the possibility of war. Blue bulbs dimmed office lights and reflectors were taken from street lights on boulevards, trainloads of troops were leaving Paris and other eastern cities; towns near the frontier blacked out last night against possible air raids; shelter trenches were being dug in public parks here.

The Education Ministry made ready to issue orders postponing reopening of schools set for Oct. 1, while the Ministry of Public Works asked all who wanted to leave Paris "because of circumstances" to use the railways "which are guaranteed to them."

—QUAGGAPORT.—(CP)—Miss Kathleen Evison a Rand school teacher, became the first woman sailplane pilot in the Union of South Africa when she passed final tests by gliding for 38 minutes.

Young Peoples' Conference

The Young People of the Church of Christ on P. E. I. met in annual conference over the weekend at Central Christian Church, Summerside. There were about seventy delegates present from all parts of the island.

The sessions were presided over by Bruce Stewart, Murray Harbor, retiring president. The conference opened Saturday afternoon with registration and a supper in the church followed by a social hour.

The evening meetings opened at 7:30 with a devotional period led by Olive Murray, Roland Murray gave the address of welcome, which was responded to by Lloyd Williams, Charlottetown, Keith MacKinnon, Montague, Ross White, New Glasgow. The sermon was preached by Rev. A. B. McDiarmid, who spoke on the theme of the conference, "Jesus the King."

On Sunday the conference opened with morning worship and Communion, and sermon by the pastor. The afternoon was taken up with the business of the session, reports and nominations. Eric McGregor brought an excellent report of the Church Camp at Brudenell. There was much enthusiasm on the part of the young people and much discussion took place.

Lloyd Williams brought in the resolution in which the young people pledged themselves to the cause of temperance, also to foster the boys camp. The courses completed in the relation to the thanks to the local church for their hospitality.

Roland Murray, Summerside, was elected president; Mabel Beck, Aliston, Vice President; secretary, Vena Warren, New Glasgow; Treasurer, Floyd MacKinnon, Montague. Miss Catherine MacCallum was the organist, and the choir was assisted by members from other churches. Special numbers were given by Bobbie Schurman, Eric McGregor, Jean Emmann and Hazel Clark. George Dewar, Montague, led the devotional period in the afternoon and Albert Ling in the evening. Roland Murray conducted the Mizmor and the singing of "God be with you till we meet again" brought the conference to a close.

To the address during the conference were "Jesus Our Divine Lord", "Jesus Our Divine Teacher", "Jesus Our Divine Example"—S

In Memoriam MRS. ANGUS MACDONALD

There passed away on Sunday September 4th, at her home in Valleyfield East, Mrs. Angus Macdonald. She died at the great age of 94, yet her death was rather unexpected as she was only bedfast a few days. She was Valleyfield's oldest citizen. She is survived by two sons, Lauchlin, Charlottetown, and John of Valleyfield East, and four daughters, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Mackay, Mary Elizabeth, Mrs. W. A. Mackay, Lansing, Mich.; Margaret, Mrs. Angus MacPherson, Belmont, Mass.; Catherine J., Mrs. Malcolm Macdonald, Perth, Ontario; and one grandchild, Mrs. Margaret Macdonald, who died last year at the age of 96. Eight grandsons, ten granddaughters and one great grandson also survive.

The funeral services were held on Tuesday, September 6th. These consisted of reading and prayer at her home, service by the Church and the committal at the graveside, all of them being conducted by her pastor, Rev. A. J. Ebbutt, assisted by Rev. D. M. Sinclair, a former pastor.

The pall-bearers were her two sons, Lauchlin and John, her two grandsons, Herman Martin and Angus Macdonald, her son-in-law, Malcolm Martin, and Peter Macdonald.

MacKay Easily Defeats Gilkerson For Senate

The following from the Quincey Patriot Ledger of Sept. 21st will be interesting reading as State Senator John D. MacKay has been elected in the contest with City Councilor Gilkerson which had assumed heated proportions during the last two weeks, before primary day.

Displaying the same strength with which he has turned down other Republican candidates since 1928, Senator MacKay was renominated for his sixth term in the State House by a margin of 3,654 votes.

Braintree, Milton, and Randolph each gave MacKay a lead over the Quincey city councilor. Arno Frabizio of Quincey, the only Democrat candidate on the party ballot, polled 3,042 votes in Quincey, and a large vote in the surrounding towns. He will be MacKay's opponent in November.

The total vote for State Senator this year was 18,966 which exceeded by more than 5,000 the 1936 primary vote.

The Quincey total vote fell below the estimations which had been made by campaign supporters. MacKay's margin of victory, which was larger than in his contest for the Republican nomination with Dr. Charles J. Herbert of Squantum in 1934, was gained by the edge which he achieved in 80 per cent of the city's precincts, and in each town in the district.

—STRESSES (Continued from page 8, of the basic systems of law in the respective provinces. This was an accord with the concession of the Confederation Fathers, who anticipated a time when the laws of all the provinces which have similar basic systems should be uniform. They also anticipated a time when the Judiciary of Canada would be interchangeable, for it was provided in section 96 of the British North America Act that until such laws of the provinces and the federal government were made uniform the Judges of the Courts should be selected only from the Bars of those provinces in which they were to sit.

It is a national spirit of this great Dominion is ever to be inculcated it can only be done by catching the inspiration of those great men, the Founders of Canada, and raising that not of division and differences can Canada ever become great or united, but rather by the fostering of those common ideals and understandings of rights and positions of Canadian citizens regarding their property and civil rights, and of a realization that wherever their lot may be cast in this Dominion the same right will exist of free and easy access to the Courts in order to obtain justice."

—RAY OF HOPE Neither in Hitler's speech nor in the London note was the door slammed on European peace. But the consensus here was that peace had a slim chance.

Europe, which is thankful for small mercies these days, noted Hitler did not announce that Nazi troops would march into Czechoslovakia immediately.

At the same time the London note stressed: "It is still not too late to stop this great tragedy and for the peoples of all nations to insist on settlement by free negotiation."

The note was the first indication France and Great Britain had been given by Soviet Russia in a joint declaration of Sept. 17, in which the Soviet government stated that it would support any settlement which would meet the approval of all the provinces and be

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rinari' to go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sick and the work looks plain.

There's bowel movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Firm, and gentle, they make the bile flow free. They do the work of catnip but have no catnip or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Chamberlain's earlier declarations in its bluntness and clarity of purpose. It remained to be determined whether France would consider a German march into Sudetenland an cause for aid to Czechoslovakia or whether an attack on Czechoslovak areas proper would be the only signal.

Decline Comment Official quarters declined to elaborate on the note but it was understood that France would let Russia decide what constituted a German attack on Czechoslovakia.

This presumably meant Britain and Russia would accept France's position but did not rule out the possibility of Britain attempting to influence the French.

It was recalled French Premier Daladier last week indicated that France would not consider a German march into Sudetenland as a cause for aid to Czechoslovakia.

The feeling in Britain and France has stiffened considerably since then, however, and it was understood unofficially that an "attack on Czechoslovakia" now means invasion of the present frontiers of the Republic.

Trenches were being dug in London famous parks; thousands of persons, including children and aged couples, stood in lines for gas masks.

Both Mr. Chamberlain and Daladier, before the latter's departure for Paris, were making their President Roosevelt for his appeal for peace.

Daladier and Foreign Minister Bonnet flew back to Paris at 3:15 p.m. ending two days of vital talks precipitated by Hitler's demands.

Replies to Roosevelt Before his departure, the French Premier in a message to President Roosevelt pledged "with unflinching tenacity to look for any procedure for formal agreements which may be compatible with the dignity and vital interests of the nations involved."

General Gamelin flew here to confer for the first time under the Anglo-French military understanding meeting among others, Lt. Gen. Horre-Belisha, War Secretary, and Viscount Gort, Chief of the Imperial General Staff.

Britain and France tightened their military accord April 29. It was believed that the negotiations an agreement was reached that in event of war France would direct the armies and air forces of both countries while Britain would supervise both navies.

With General Gamelin's departure it was assumed that staff talks would be proceeding through military attaches on involved plans of campaign if the two nations felt forced to go to war.

There was an almost endless series of conferences during the day. General Gamelin joined Daladier and Bonnet in a conference with British cabinet ministers.

Stocks slumped and the pound sterling weakened, closing at $4.75 1/2, or 2 3/4 cents under Saturday's close.

A boom was lowered in Gibraltar to protect the southern entrance of the Admiralty Harbor and naval authorities called for volunteers for air raid precautions service.

Naval and military hospitals at Malta were ordered cleared. Premier Mohammed Mahmoud Pasha of Egypt announced to that nation's chamber of deputies that Egypt would stand by Great Britain in event of war.

He said all precautions had been taken and he pledged that the country would fulfill her obligations under the Anglo-Egyptian Treaty of Alliance.

Losses, insurance underwriters, revised the schedule of war risk rates, refusing to quote rates for Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Poland.

The joint ratings committee announced rates for the conveyance of goods to and from these countries would be left to the discretion of the individual underwriters.

—THE PHILOSOPHER A pedestrian crossed a traffic street while looking up at an airplane overhead. Three buses swerved to avoid him, but he didn't appear aware for a week, the driver asserted, and he was taken and he pledged that the country would fulfill her obligations under the Anglo-Egyptian Treaty of Alliance.

—WILD FUNGUS KILLS BOMBAY.—(CP)—Three animals were wiped out by a wild mushroom in Lansdowne. The mushroom was a small, white, bell-shaped fungus that grew on the ground. It was found by a woman who was walking her dog. She was told to avoid it, and she did. The dog was also wiped out by the fungus.
