Sunday School Lesson
THE PRINCE OF PEACE
(Isa. 11:1-10; Matt. 2:1-13; Luke 2:8-14.)

"Thou shalt call His name Jesus; for it is He that shall save His people from their sins."—Matt. 1:21.—Golden Text.

Jesse was the father of David. At the close of the last chapter the fall of Assyria is pictured as the falling of cedars of Lebanon by the axe swung by Jehovah himself. The cedar once felled puts forth no new shoots—the Assyrian power shall fall to rise no more. Next the prophet speaks of the house of David to an oak, which when cut down puts out a new growth. A branch out of his roots shall bear fruit. The prophet sees one shoot of great fruitfulness. The great fulfillment and illustration of these words was seen in the birth of our Lord. The once majestic stem of Jesse was reduced to a humble, unknown family, for which the inn had no room. The axe of Rome had levelled all the proud growth of the Hebrew forest, and the tree of this family had suffered with the rest. But the root sent up a new shoot and branch. Out of that cut-down tree sprang the life which remade the world, and has given such hope and joy to mankind as were never known before.—F. B. Meyer.

"We, who live in countries from which wild beasts have been exterminated, cannot understand the insecurity and terror that they cause in regions where they abound. They do not impress and more the human conscience or imagination. But they once did so most terribly. Isaiah, from his ancient point of view, is in thorough accord with the order of civilization, when he represents the subjugation of wild animals as the first problem of man, after he has established a strong government in the land. Isaiah would not have the wild beasts exterminated, but tamed. There our Western and modern imagination may fail to follow him, especially when he includes reptiles in the regeneration, and prophesies of adders and lizards as the playthings of children. But upon a warm spring day, in Palestine, to sit upon the grass, beside some old stone of ruin with its face to the south, is indeed to obtain a rapturous view of the wealth of life with which the beautiful God has blessed and made merry man's dwelling-place. How the lizards come and go among the grey stones, and flash like jewels in the sun! And the timid snake rippling quickly through the grass, and the assembly of reptiles with his shiny back, and the chameleon, shivering into new color as he passes from twig to stone and stone to straw,—all the air the white dove with the music of the cricket and the bee! You feel that the idea is not to destroy these pretty things, but, as Isaiah declares whom we may imagine walking with his children up the steep vineyard paths, to watch the creatures come and go—the idea is to bring them into sympathy with ourselves, make pets of them and playthings for children, who indeed stretch out their hands in joy to the pretty toys."—George Adam Smith.

We wish each and all to be happy on that day on which God gave the first and best of all Christmas presents. His Son Jesus Christ, in order that He might redeem us from sin, and prepare the way for us to follow Him to heaven. That is a good reason for giving Christmas presents, isn't it?
Another reason is, because the wise men who came from the East (probably Persia) brought with them the most valuable treasures of their country to present to the Kingly Babe. They had studied the skies for long years, and knew every star well. They had also studied God's Holy Word, and knew from what had been foretold there that Jesus Christ (the Messiah) was to appear. It is a very wonderful thing that at this time there was a great expectancy that the long promised Saviour was at hand.

Accordingly, when the wise men saw this unusual star, they immediately connected it with the coming King, and leaving all they set out at once. In its direction, and after a long, weary journey, they came to Jerusalem. Without doubting for a minute what the star meant, they simply asked, "Where is He that is born King of the Jews?" For we have seen His star in the East, and are come to worship Him." When news of this was brought to King Herod, he as you know, grew very nervous and called his wise men together, and asked where the prophet had said that Jesus should be born. He was afraid that his kingdom was about to pass to this new rival sovereign. He was told that the King was to be born in Bethlehem, so Herod asked the wise men to go there, and when they had found the Babe, to come back and tell him, as he would also like to go and worship the Child; but really Herod wished to kill Him, as we afterwards learned. The child grown to be a man, expected to be a Saviour, has so drawn

Easy to Make This Pine Cough Remedy

Members of families ever by its prompt results, balsamic, and saved about $2.

You know that pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several valuable elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest. Pine is famous for this purpose.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is heavy plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth) in a 16-oz. quart and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make 16 ounces—more than you can buy ready-made for $2.50. It is pure, good and very pleasant—children like it eagerly. You can feel this taste hint of a cough, so good in a way that means business.

The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the inflamed membrane—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Ladies and Gentlemen, Electors of the City of Charlottetown;—

Notice to Advertisers

The co-operation of advertising patrons is requested in the direction of getting "copy" into the business office before twelve noon on the day previous to publication. (Saturday 10 a.m.) Very often the receipt of a large advertisement or even regular changes after that hour serves to dislocate the regular work of getting the paper made up in time to catch the mails—and not infrequently such ads are at the last moment left out. This situation is not of service to either the advertiser or our readers and we, therefore, request that copy be received in the business office.
