HEAVY FIRE AT KENTVILLE DESTROYS NIAGARA SPRAY COMPANY'S WORKS.

KENTVILLE, Aug. 25.—The Niagara Spray Company's building was burned down and is a total loss. It is believed the fire was caused by a spark from a working train. The loss will be $14,000, with insurance of $6,000. The company was engaged in the manufacture of spray for orchards. The stock in the company is held principally by Kentville people. Captain C. O. Allen is the manager. The company will no doubt rebuild.

IMMANENT JUSTICE

There is a tendency on the part of certain influential American Newspapers to inflame public feeling against Britain and to sympathize with Germany. The attempt is all the more insidious in that no direct attack is made on Great Britain. The end is sought to be obtained by giving prominence to everything that favors Germany, extolling German bravery, and German patriotism; and the publication of lured pictures descriptive of Germany's "Trust in God and in the Fatherland." Were this pro-German attitude confined to the United States it would be bad enough; but unfortunately these newspapers have established an extensive news agency service in Canada and supply many Canadian newspapers with hundreds of columns weekly of this anti-British news under the guise of an independent press service.

The American cable and news supply is not under the same strict censorship as that of the British Empire, and this gives the anti-British element the opportunity it desires to stab in the dark, the British people, and this through the medium of their own organs of the press in Canada. We have before us now an eight page, highly attractive supplement offered to the Canadian Press by a leading newspaper and newspaper syndicate in New York on every page of which pro-Germanism is rampant.

In our Monday's issue we gave a full report of Sir Edward Grey's speech. It is one of the finest parliamentary efforts of the present generation and shows in the clearest, most logical terms that Britain has been forced into this war, not only against her will but against her material interests. Her honor was in jeopardy and no country can afford to barter her honor and expect to retain her place among nations.

This Sir Edward made clearly evident, and he could have gone further and proved that the immediate outburst of the European War was the result of Germany's attempt to force Austria into a war with Serbia well-knowing that Russia must be embroiled.

In such circumstances the effort of diplomacy, in the ordinary sense of the word, are foredoomed to failure. Diplomacy requires time, and from the beginning to end time was just what Berlin and Vienna were determined to deny. Sir Edward Grey made one desperate attempt. He proposed on July 28 an immediate conference of the ambassadors of the four "disinterested" Powers—Great Britain, Italy, France and (save the mark!) Germany. All accepted save, of course, Germany, who in face of her refusal has now issued a barefaced statement, that they "worked throughout shoulder to shoulder with England"! Germany was out to force the great upheaval. All the rest, the conversations, the fiction of mediation the courtesy telegrams, were the merest by-play for the gallery. This has been proved by the publication of certain correspondence between Russia and Great Britain.

Germany and Austria alone have wanted this war; for they alone rejected every overture and denied every delay that might have saved peace of Europe.

HASTY CONCLUSIONS

We are in receipt of a signed letter from a "Westerner, born of Island parents," who is at present enjoying a visit to the Garden of the Gulf to which he had looked forward for years. The letter, which we do not think it advisable to publish at present—because, evidently, its conclusions were arrived at hastily—expresses pleasure "as far as the land is concerned," but disappointment at what the writer calls a "total lack of patriotism," on the part of the people in "this country of plenty."

The writer had seen a company of "fine looking young men march in full equipment through the streets of Charlottetown." They "expected an ovation, but if they had been Germans taking possession their march would not have been as silently received. Not a hand clap greeted them" &c.

This is not placing the matter fairly. The first contingent which left for Sydney and Canso and the date of whose departure had been announced previously were given a fitting send off. Thousands of citizens lined the streets and cheered them, standing by them until their steamer left the wharf. And they did not go empty handed. Thereafter, all military movements were, we consider, very properly, made quietly as were all such movements not only in Canada but in the United Kingdom. There was little time and no desire for demonstration, but short as the time was and secret as the departure of the soldiers for overseas service was, the boys were given a splendid ovation and a send off that satisfied both them and their friends at home that they carried with them the hearty sympathy and best wishes of all classes and conditions of citizens.

Here is a statement which is entirely unjust and uncalled for: "Oh wonderful patriotism that talks horseracing and foxes, raises the price of oats and hay to help (?) the mother country and when free contributions are asked immediately rush (?) tons of produce to the railway and boats—Not." It is quite true that people "talk horseracing and foxes," and in attending to their usual avocations and enjoying occasional recesses like horseracing, they are serving the Empire more faithfully, more sensibly, than if they neglected their duties and with lengthened faces bemoaned the war. The war is on and will be on till it is finished and, clear of going to the front—which all cannot do—and contributing of their substance—which all can do—the best help the people can give is to do their work, whether it be looking after foxes, farming, or even horseracing.

As to the second accusation, free contributions have not been asked for, and our farmers have not raised the price of hay and oats. Consequently our correspondent has drawn a wrong conclusion. When these free contributions are asked for our people will respond freely or we are greatly mistaken in them.

It is quite possible that, as a people, we are not demonstrative. There was little demonstration in connection with the fund for the Hospital ship but in less than two weeks the women of Prince Edward Island contributed over $4,000 in cash and they are still contributing. There was little demonstration in connection with the volunteer movement but, in proportion to our male population within the age limits, we have already sent as many men to the front as any one of our sister provinces, and when the call comes for more, if it comes, we shall have more to offer their services.

It is possible also that in the midst of our prosperity and our hitherto uninterrupted chase after wealth, we may have taken a firmer grip on our pursestrings and that we look longingly at our hard earned dollar before parting with them.

Now that our dollars and our products are to be weighed against the life of the Empire we have no doubt that, when the opportunity comes, both dollars and products will be poured out freely and that the farmers will "rush tons of produce to the railway and boats."

PRESENTATION TO SIR W. W. SULLIVAN

A deputation of the residents of Hope River, consisting of Messrs. W. H. Hogan, and Jeremiah O'Conner, waited upon his Lordship, the Chief Justice Sir W. W. Sullivan, at his Chamber in the Law Courts yesterday afternoon and presented him with the following address:

To Sir Wilfrid Sullivan, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Prince Edward Island.
May it please your Lordship:
We are happy to make known to you the pleasure with which we learned of the King's most gracious sovereign, the King has conferred upon you the order of Knighthood.
During your long public career in this Province, you have always performed your duties in such a manner as to meet with general approval. As Premier you always legislated to what the best interest of the people, while as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court during the last quarter of a century, your judgments have merited the approval of all creeds and classes. It is fitting, therefore, that such services in the Empire should be recognized in general congratulatory on the signal manner in which you have been honored, it is fitting that the people of Hope River should in a special manner show their pleasure they are that a native of the parish is the recipient of such an honor.

In conclusion, we express the hope that you may be long spared to enjoy the honor so well deserved and that you may for many years to come to dispose justice in our courts with the same sound judgment and strict impartiality it has characterized your judicial career.

Signed on behalf of the parishioners of Hope River:—
W. H. Hogan, Jeremiah O'Conner, John J. Dolron, Clarence Reid, Patrick Dolron, John J. McAlleer, Frank Dolron, Matthew LeClair.

His Lordship in reply warmly thanked the deputation and those whom they represented for this well conceived and beautifully worded address. His memory of the people of Hope River went back over more than half a century, and many of those whom he knew and respected in his youth are now resting in the graveyard there. He had always taken great interest in the district and he remembered with pleasure that he was always in politics its people always gave the good majority. He had been a member of a good majority. He had been upwards of twenty-five years Chief Justice of this Province. That was for a longer period than any judge of whom he knew, with perhaps the exception of his predecessor, the Bench. The people of his native district had been kind enough to express the hope that he would continue to preside in the Supreme Court. He was happy to say that he felt as well able to do so now as he ever felt. He was perhaps better fitted for the duties of the position because he knew more law. In conclusion he asked the members of the deputation to convey his thanks to the people of Hope River and an expression of his appreciation of their address and the good wishes contained.

REV. DR. FULLERTON'S TOUR

A representative of the Guardian yesterday called on the Rev. Dr. T. F. Fullerton who expressed his impressions on his recent journey through the West as follows:

Making a hurried journey through the West, one is impressed with the immense distances, vast natural resources and the high possibilities of Canada. In any normal year a great amount of wealth must be made and circulated in the West, as has been done in the past. This year, however, is abnormal, as all along the belt of the Western provinces the crops have been poor; and while in the north they have been good, yet the crops will on the whole, be far below the average and this, with the money agency, makes the outlook for the winter a very hard one indeed. In the larger centres there are a great many unemployed and some steps will need to be taken to stave off the hardships that must ensue. In the city of Calgary, where I made my headquarters, I found many Islanders, some of whom have done exceedingly well. Owing to the oil boom most of the people put in their ready cash anticipating speedy returns but as a result of the dulness of trade and the declaration of war on the part of Britain much of that money is tied up and no result will be forthcoming for some time. Some of the companies are still boring for oil and every body in Calgary is satisfied that the oil is there and that in a short time investors will be amply repaid. Everybody in the West while acknowledging that the immediate outlook is dark is highly optimistic as to the future.

In respect to the war, the West is full of enthusiasm, thousands congregating in the streets of Calgary in front of the newspaper offices waiting for the latest bulletins, cheering the successes of the allies and bursting again and again into patriotic sounds. Hundreds are eager to join the overseas contingent and have offered themselves for that purpose. In Calgary alone they could raise a force of four or five thousand men; this enthusiasm is characteristic of all the cities of the West.

Dr. Fullerton came across a good many Islanders, among whom were Miss Ross, Ex-matron of the P. E. I. Hospital, Mr. and Mrs. Ewen Stewart, Dr. McLaughlan, Mrs. McPhail and her family, Mrs. Nicholson, daughter of Mr. Ewan Stewart, Mrs. McDonald, of Montague, and her son, Mr. J. T. McDonald, Mr. John McLeod, formerly of Sentner and McLeod, and Charlie Hanson. These Islanders are all well and doing well.

SUCCESSFUL RACES HELD AT MONTAGUE

Montague, the Beautiful, had a record attendance at its annual horse race meeting on Monday afternoon. Weather conditions were good and special trains were run from Charlottetown, Summerside and Souris. They were simply packed. It is estimated that fully 1,500 persons went by train, while in the vicinity of 2,500 were conveyed by carriage, making a total of about four thousand. The new grandstand was crowded, and if there had been two more of equal size they also would have been filled. There were a refreshment and a dining both, and in the latter department over one thousand dinners were served. The promoters should be able to declare a good dividend. The races were highly successful, each class being well filled with the best horses in the province, and they would have been thoroughly enjoyable but for the endless scoring in the free-for-all, in which there were 17 scores in one heat and 14 in another. Some of the horses were so worn by this scoring that they could not do justice to themselves in the remaining heats. Most interest was centred in the free-for-all in view of the meeting of Dr. Sharper, the popular trotter, with the best pacers in the province. Vesta Boy, the old warrior of the Grand Circuit, with a record of 2:54, was returning the winner. He is a very difficult horse to get started, but once under way is hard to beat, as his victory over Frank Patch, 2:64, at Halifax two years ago shows. Dr. Sharper won the first heat in the fastest time of the day. The second heat was won by Vesta Boy, only inches separating Vesta, Sharper and Helen R. The third heat was won by Helen R., after an extremely close finish with Vesta Boy, the latter winning the fourth and fifth heats.

The 2:34 class was interesting by reason of the presence of four of the best stallions in the province, namely, Mayor Todd, Bottom, King Dods and George Cresceus. The first heat was won by Mayor Todd, trotting beautifully throughout, and pulling off the event by a nice margin in very fast time, 2:22, over a slow track. The second heat was won by George Cresceus, Brenton H. Sharper and Helen R. The third heat was won by Vesta Boy, the latter winning the fourth and fifth heats.

The 2:30 class trot and pace was a fight between Derby and Ruby D. The former paced splendidly throughout, winning in straight heats "with some to spare." Ruby D., the fast young pacer owned by Mr. H. C. Hooper, was a good second; Zealot third and White Sox, the only trotter in the group, fourth.

The officials were: Starter, Fred J. Wright, Summerside; Judges, A. C. Rogers, Summerside; Ronald Steele, Charlottetown; Timers, R. Silliphant, W. S. McKie.

THE INCREASE IN THE PRICE OF TEA IS UNWARRANTED.

OTTAWA, Aug. 25.—What are believed to be unwarranted increases in the cost of staple foodstuffs since the outbreak of war have attracted the attention of the Government. The increase of ten cents in the price of tea is a case in point. For this increase there is said to be no just grounds and the assumption is that it was based upon a desire to take advantage of the war situation irrespective of any change in the wholesale cost of the product. Such an increase would interest an enormous profit to those interests controlling the tea supply of Canada. It is probable that this and similar increases in other lines of food will be investigated by the Government and a remedy sharply applied.

A Store of Surprises

Attend The Flower Show Aug 26 & 27

"You have something new every time I come here", said a woman to us recently.

And she was quite right—for this store is as close to the style center as the fastest express shipments out. The styles we show this month are usually different lines than those of last month—usually they've just arrived—we have the new while its NEW—when you want it, the whole store is full of new models—BECOMING models—decidedly chic ideas that we want to show you.

The new Fall coats are so thoroughly splendid that we hope you won't deny yourself the pleasure of seeing them.
