REV. J. W. S. LOWRY SUFFERS PAINFUL HURT.—On Wednesday evening, Dr. J. W. S. Lowry suffered a very severe and painful wound by a violent kick from his horse and is confined to his bed as a result. The minister had just returned from a meeting at Clyde River and while putting away his horse the animal struck him a heavy blow on the right limb, inflicting a deep gash in the flesh, which required some seven stitches to recover the wound. All the preaching services of the Central Parish are therefore cancelled for this Lord's Day, but the Elders of the parish will hold a service of prayer and praise in Canoe Cove Church in the afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Origin of Afternoon Tea.—"Afternoon tea," as a fixed repast, independent of so-called cups of tea at any hour of the day is only about 100 years old. We owe it to Anna, wife of the 7th Duke of Bedford, who first coined the expression "a sinking feeling" when she surveyed the gaps between a prodigious breakfast, a light luncheon with no servants in attendance, and an eight o'clock dinner, which were fashionable in her day. She was the first hostess to have cakes and tea served regularly at 5 o'clock, and the custom has since become a universal in Great Britain that, as the song says, "everything stops for tea."

Marriage Of Miss V. M. Lake

The following wedding from an English exchange will be of interest here as the bride's mother is a descendant of Lieut. Charles Douglass Smith, who was Governor here from 1813 to 1825 and a first cousin of Mrs. Anne Wright, 194 Prince Street.

A wedding that attracted a large gathering took place at St. Anselm's Church, Hatch End, on Saturday, when Miss Veronica Mary Lake, the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cuthbert Lake, of Alderton, Royston Park-road, Hatch End, was married to Mr. Anthony Clapham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Clapham, of 22, Westbury-road, Hatch End.

The Rev. F. T. Lewis, the vicar of St. Anselm's; the Rev. H. Clapham Foster, cousin of the bridegroom; and the Rev. C. Shepherd Gibbs, were the officiating clergy. Mr. James Clapham, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Given away by her father, the bride was gowned in a picture dress of white chiffon with short puffed sleeves over a taffeta under-dress, trimmed with fuchsia of old Carrickmacross lace. A posy of orange blossom was in front and flounces of chiffon and lace at the hem. The family wedding veil of Carrickmacross lace was held in place with a wreath of orange blossom. The bride carried a bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley, white carnations and white heather.

The bridal attendants were the Misses Cynthia and Audrey Lake, sisters of the bride; Miss Esther Clapham, cousin of the bridegroom; Mrs. Nancy Padfield and Miss Gladick; they wore dresses of apricot moire, reversible satin, cut on renaissance lines with sashes of brown velvet and neckline trimmed with brown velvet, bound with gold cord; bands to match were worn in the hair. They held bouquets of carnations to tone with their dresses.

Sir William and Lady Foster, Lady Maddocks, Mr. Michael Clapham, Miss Chapman, Mr. H. Cooke Lake, Miss Cooke Lake, Mr. and Mrs. S. Barnett, Mrs. A. C. Wilkinson, Miss Stanley Smith, Mr. F. S. Sutton, Miss Sutton, Mr. P. Bray, Mr. and Mrs. and Miss Oldham, Mr. E. Oldham, Mrs. and Miss Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Rees Reynolds, Mr. Major and Mrs. Cartwright, Mr. and Mrs. Phillipson, Mrs. Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Cassinet Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Cradick, Mr. and Mrs. Pilcher, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Copson, Mr. and Mrs. Oldham, Miss Oldham, Mr. and Mrs. James Bruce, Mr. and Mrs. Montague Wolfe, Mr. and Mrs. Jarmain, Mr. W. S. Walker, Mrs. Frank Lewis, Mrs. C. Shepherd Gibbs.

Later in the day the happy couple left for the wedding holiday, which is being spent on the Continent. The bride's travelling attire was comprised of a brown coat with fox-fur and skirt, and hat to match. Young Jimmy was pushing his baby sister's perambulator down the street. "Hey, Jimmy," called his buddy from across the street, "do you get paid for that?" "Naw," replied Jimmy disgustedly, "this is a free wheeling job."—Bee-Hive.

IN MEMORIAM

JAMES A WILSON

There passed peacefully away at his home Cardigan North, in the early hours of Sunday morning, January 26, James A. Wilson, in the 78th year of his age. He was the last surviving member of a family of six brothers and three sisters, an elder brother having predeceased him three weeks before. Although in failing health for some years previous, he was up and around until within a few hours before his death. Little did his family realize the end was so near but he died well fortified by the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church, of which he was a faithful member.

He was a kind friend and a good neighbour, strict and honest in his dealings with his fellow men. His door was ever open to all, friends and stranger alike. He will be greatly missed by all, especially in the home, where his memory will be ever cherished as a kind husband and loving father.

The late Mr. Wilson was a plasterer by trade having worked on many of the churches in King's and Queen's counties, the last of these being St. Dunstan's Basilica, Charlottetown. He was twice married, his first wife being Felicitas Campbell of Newport, who died in early married life, leaving a family of four, all who reside in the United States, Wilfred and George employed by General Motors Co., Detroit, Michigan; Beatrice, Mrs. Howard Bert, nurse in the Lynn Hospital, Coseella, Mrs. Henry J. DesRobert, Lynn; Some years later he married Rosella Kiggins, Kellys Cross. Four children were born to this union, Teresa, stenographer, Rosemary, teacher in the Cardigan North School, Katherine and James at home. Besides the immediate family there are left to mourn one grandson Howard Bert and a number of nieces and nephews.

The funeral which was held over awaiting the arrival of his daughters took place at all Saints Church, Cardigan on Thursday, was very well attended despite the almost impassable condition of the roads. The last sad rites were conducted at the church and grave by his beloved pastor, Rev. Fr. Rooney, who so well prepared him for his journey to Eternity a few short hours before he passed away.

The pall bearers were Messrs:—Robert MacLaren, John J. MacDowd, John D. Campbell, Richard Green, John MacIntyre, and Hugh MacAulay. Hearse driver, Francis Campbell. May his soul rest in peace.

MR. ORLAND H. DICKEY (Waltham Tribune Feb. 14)

Orland Howard Dickey of 74 Maple street died suddenly at his home early last evening. He had been troubled with a slight bronchial disorder for the past two weeks, but death was due to a heart attack. Mr. Dickey was born in Malton, N. Y., but had lived in Waltham for the past thirty-five years. He had been in the employ of Tucker Anthony and Co., Brokerage House, in Boston, for the past five years as a clerk. Previously he had been associated with the Aberdeen Construction Company Boston, for fifteen years, in charge of its office correspondence.

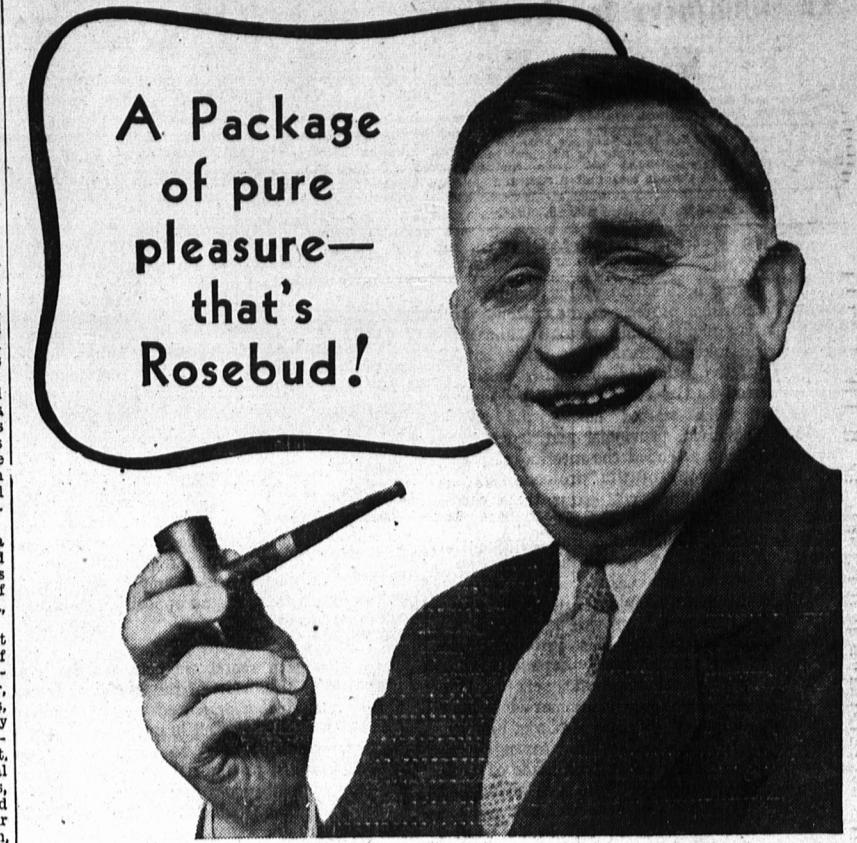

In 1915 Mr. Dickey married Miss Georgie M. Macdonald of this city, who survives him. For eighteen years he was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of which he was a devoted member. His passing is a severe loss to his church and to the community and he will be mourned by many friends and relatives. While not participating in civic affairs he was nevertheless keen in his devotion and loyalty will make his memory live long with all who were privileged to know him.

Funeral. Attended by a large gathering in which was included many of his associates was the First Presbyterian Church, where he had been treasurer for eighteen years, as well as business associates, relatives and friends, the funeral of Orland Howard Dickey, 74 Maple street, was held Saturday afternoon. The Rev. Alan L. Blacklock, his pastor and a personal friend of the family officiating, stressed in his eulogy as three outstanding interests in the life of Mr. Dickey, his devotion to business, home and church, to all of which he had given his best efforts. He also spoke of his unflinching efficiency in whatever he undertook and his unvarying punctuality. Flowers in profusion banked the casket. The pallbearers were: George Davidson, Austin Burns and John Munro, representing the Honourable Fr. S. Morrison and Clarence Freeman, representing the Session. Interment was in the family lot in Mount Peake Cemetery, funeral arrangements having been directed by George A. Clarke.

Mr. and Mrs. Dickey have been visitors to Summers at the home of Dickey's sister Mrs. Geo. M. Shaw Stanhope, P. E. I.

JOHN HENRY PEAKE

Died at Malpeque on Thursday, February 20, John Henry Peake. He sustained with Christian patience an illness that finally terminated in death. He was born at Cape Traverse in the year 1857. Thus, at death, he had attained his seventieth year. While still a young man he came to Malpeque and secured a comfortable homestead. He served, in the years, in the capacity of mail contractor and ever gave satisfaction. Daily he made the trip of fourteen miles, and despite heavy roads and inclement weather, he measured time. For a time he pursued "the clanging trade" and thus realized the picture, the village blacksmith. He at times diverted into the art

His Majesty's Thanks Expressed To Island People

The following communication has been received by Lieutenant Governor DeBlais from His Excellency the Governor General of Canada: Government House, Ottawa, Feb. 25, 1936. My dear Lieutenant-Governor, I have been commanded by the King to convey to you, and the people of the Province of Prince Edward Island, His Majesty's thanks for the kind message of sympathy contained in your telegram to the Secretary of State on the death of His Majesty King George V.

of fishing, and his success therein is no "fish story." Several times he braved a sea that was able to surmount, and trusting in a Higher Power, always safely reached shore.

In whatever capacity he served he proved a success, and in every feature, he attained the object of his ambition. A dutiful Christian was he, ever taking an exemplary interest in the congregation of which he was a member and always supporting the financial needs.

His funeral was held on Sunday, February 23rd, to the United Church, the attendant clergyman being Rev. M. Murray who spoke with touching effect of the solemnity of the occasion. The pallbearers were Messrs: Burley Owen, Ralph Ramsay, Melville Bryenton, Ernest Bryenton, Everett Wall, and Russell McKenzie. Surviving the members of his family are: Sons, Gordon, Moncton, N.B.; Heber, Western Canada;

Co-Eds Must be Creative In Work

(By The Canadian Press) EDMONTON, Feb. 27.—A girl's adaptability and personal worth counts for more than education in finding employment. Miss Margaret Kinney, national secretary of the Student Christian Movement in Canada, told a group of women university students here. Speaking from the angle of the university co-ed, the woman said the quick-witted and imaginative co-ed can open new fields of vocational endeavor and find hidden opportunities after graduation. She must, however, have ability and resourcefulness. "Where once jobs were open and eager to receive women graduates," she stated, "today the graduate may have to create a job, a niche for herself in the business world."

Choosing a vocation of all-absorbing interest is the only way to reaching success, she added. "If it is just a means to an end, leaving your real pursuits and interests to after-hour activities, you will not be satisfied."

School teaching, nursing, law and journalism most often attract women graduates, she explained. A new science, adult education, gaining ground in America after successful trials in Europe, offers an unbroken field to women teachers. The church also has a place for women, Miss Kinney said.

Concluding, she urged co-eds to "be wise, imaginative, and creative in your work—it will pay."

"The main ballroom of the Ritz-Carlton was the setting for a large tea dance given yesterday afternoon by Mr. and Mrs. — to introduce to society their bonum ferns and tall palm trees daughter."—New York paper.
