"Roberta" At Prince Edward

At last the screen presents the perfect musical comedy!

RICO-Radio, which produced "The Gay Divorcee," has outdone itself with "Roberta," a glamorous, romantic and tinsel production starring Irene Dunne, Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, which opened yesterday at the Prince Edward Theatre.

In presenting them in "Roberta," the Jerome Kern hit which made recent stage history, the studio gave an object lesson in picking the right vehicle for the right stars.

A delight to the eyes and the ears, and a treat to the emotions, "Roberta" contains every element of entertainment. The romantic story, richly spiced with comedy and containing some strong human interest drama, is closely knit, convincing and entertaining. Without the delightful musical numbers and superb dancing, it would still hold audience interest.

Those singing and dancing numbers, however, rank as the best ever brought to the screen, including the memorable "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes," are retained in the film, and in addition, new sure-fire hits are introduced. These are "Lovely to Look At," sung by Miss Dunne; and "I Won't Dance," sung by Astaire and Miss Rogers and danced by Astaire.

A brilliant fashion parade, in which strikingly beautiful models display a wide variety of stunning creations, is a colorful feature of the picture.

The story centers about romance in a Paris gown shop after Huck Haines and his former All-American football player pal, John, are stranded in France with a jazz band. John suddenly finds himself proprietor of the "Roberta" gown shop in Paris and falls in love with the beautiful head designer, who is an exiled Russian princess. Huck, the irrepressible, finds a great dancing partner, and a big heart throb, when he meets an old girl friend from his home town, who is masquerading as a countess.

Randolph Scott is John, who makes love to Miss Dunne. Astaire and Miss Rogers are the Huck and Countess of the story. Splendid supporting performances are contributed by Helen Westley, as Madame Roberta; Victor Varconi, Claire Dodd and Louis Alberni.

"Roberta" will establish entertainment standards for a long, long time.

BLIND GIRL POET GAINS ENTRANCE TO NEWNHAM COLLEGE

LONDON, Aug. 12—An 18 year old blind poet, who failed to gain an open scholarship to Cambridge did so well in competition with the best-sighted women of her year that both Girton and Newham Colleges offered to accept her as a member.

The girl, Miss Ruth Hitchcock, has chosen Newham, and will go into residence next October. It is her intention to study theology—an unusual line of study for women.

Her school career has been an outstanding success. At 14 she passed the piano examination of the Associated Board and the Royal Academy of Music, and at 16 gained her school certificate with honors.

"White Lies" A Poignant Drama Of News World At Capitol

"White Lies," a romantic drama set in the turbulent scene of the newspaper world, is the thrilling new attraction to be seen at the Capitol Theatre during the next three days. Walter Connolly, Fay Wray and Victor Jory enact the leading roles under the direction of Leo Bulgakov, the screen's newest director recruited by Columbia from the Moscow Art Theatre.

Briefly, the story tells of the career of John "Front Page" Mitchell (Walter Connolly), headline seeking publisher who drives a man to murder by ruining his reputation in a series of sensational articles. Joan (Fay Wray), Mitchell's daughter, attempts to placate the victim of her father's ruthless reporting but as a result of circumstances is herself accused of the murder perpetrated by the crazed man. Terry Condon (Victor Jory), a police officer in love with Joan, apprehends the real murderer and brings the exciting film to a dramatic conclusion.

Connolly surpasses his superb work in "The God Destroyer" and "The Captives" in the news-mad portrayal of the news-mad publisher. Fay Wray is equally as good in the role of the unfortunate Joan, while Jory is more than capable as the romantic police officer. Others in the cast are Leslie Penton, Irene Hervey, Robert Allen, William Demarest and Oscar Apfel.

Monks Raise Dogs Find Wide Market

ST. NORBERT, Man., Aug. 12—Twenty miles from Winnipeg on the Manitoba prairie, the Trappist Monastery of St. Norbert, with its cowed and silent monks, offers strange contrasts of medieval life and twentieth century farming activity.

Twenty-nine monks live a life of penance and prayer and at the same time operate a 2,000 acre farm which supports the institution with its produce.

Known officially as Notre Dame de Prairie, this unusual monastery has been a stronghold of the Catholic faith for 43 years. Founded in 1892 by Monsignor Richot and Tache, this remnant of middle age Europe set down in Western Canada continues to be an outpost of the Trappist order whose code of silence and prayer. The Trappists are of the Cistercian order founded originally in the seventh century on the establishment of a monastery at Citeaux, Normandy.

The monks never speak to a living soul. Necessary routine conversation is carried on by their hands with a sort of deaf and dumb system. They never leave the grounds and spend their days in prayer study and work in the fields. Living the most frugal of lives, they strive to attain their ideal of penance for themselves and the rest of the world through continuous prayer.

"We are priors. We are praying men, who transmit the business in life," explained Father Basil, who meets the visitors at the imposing gateway. "We are specialists like the Jesuits who preach and the nuns who heal. Our mission is to pray for mankind."

Through the Prior and Brother Louis, who transmit the business, the only contact is made with the outside world.

During the last two years Great Dane dogs have been raised and as the monastery is approached along the dusty road the bark of the Danes, blends with the peal of the bells in the turret calling the monks to prayer. There are 150 Danes in kennels now and a splendid trade is being built up. Dogs have been shipped to buyers in Honolulu, New Orleans and Quebec.

Men are allowed to visit at the monastery, but women are forbidden with two exceptions—Queen Mary of England and Lady Bessborough. A guest house is maintained where male visitors can spend a secluded few days.

Financial worries are harassing the St. Norbert monks this year. According to Brother Louis, the business agent, oppressive municipal and provincial taxes on the 2,000-acre farm are cutting into the profits of the monastery. "It keeps up the institution will be forced to withdraw to another province," he said. "We are the only monastery in the Trappist order that is taxed and we find the burden heavy to bear."

THESE SEEM TO BE MAGIC NUMBERS IN THIS FAMILY

HYANNIS, Mass., Aug. 12—Within three hours Wednesday night, Mrs. Ella Child's great-grandchildren increased from six to nine.

There were no triplets, not even twins to swell the brood, but single children born to each of three granddaughters in interesting succession.

At 6:15 a boy was born to the Gordon C. Warrens.

At 7:30 it was another lad at the home of the Richard P. Washingtons.

At 9 the stork left a girl with the Arnold Westlings. She was named Priscilla Violet for two great-grandmothers, one an American colonist, the other a Wampanoag Indian.

Each of the children weighed within a few ounces of 7-12 pounds.

Each child was the third in its family.

All are doing nicely.

Japan Dependent On Foreign Sources For Raw Materials

Japan is dependent on foreign supplies for a considerable portion of her raw materials. In the case of metals, she can only rely on a domestic supply of iron equal to 13 per cent of her steel requirements; copper 80 per cent, lead, zinc and tin from 10 to 50 per cent. For nickel, antimony, quicksilver, platinum and aluminum Japan must depend almost entirely on foreign sources of supply, according to the Industrial Department of the Canadian National Railways. Japan has an abundance of sulphur, clay, kaolin, silica sand, limestone, and gypsum. As regards other materials, raw cotton is that most greatly needed for Japan's textile industry. Annual requirements amount to approximately 1,000,000 metric tons, this making her dependent entirely on foreign sources of supply for raw cotton. Japan's bluminoous output amounts to approximately 36,000,000 metric tons, equivalent to about 90 per cent of the total demand. In the case of anthracite, Japan can only supply 60 per cent of the demand from domestic sources, this not including the requirements of the navy. Only 7 per cent of the petroleum demand can be supplied from domestic sources. Japan is lacking in natural resources and her industries have created a demand beyond the country's capacity to supply for iron and steel, raw cotton, wool, rubber, petroleum, and thus is looking towards Manchukuo as a possible source of raw material, that country having great potential natural resources.

FEELINGS "WOUNDED" GENTLEMAN SEEN FOR BREACH OF PROMISE

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 12—Charles I. Feingold, 45 filed suit for $25,000 for breach of promise to marry, claiming his feelings were "wounded."

He named as defendant Marion F. Hertz, who he said married another man the day after he had taken her apartment hunting.

Feingold stated that her failure to keep a promise to marry him on June 7 caused "injury to his character and social standing."

Miss Hertz standing in a Market street store, recently became the bride of James E. Hayes.

ALL LIES

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 12—Harold Bowers, life guard, is getting pretty much disgusted about all these stories he's heard about the handsome lifeguard and all the pretty girls squealing for help just to be dragged out in his many arms.

Harold has taken 36 persons from the pool this year and there wasn't a "swell looking girl" in the lot.

"All the femininity I've rescued has been 11 or 12 year old kids or grandmothers," Harold lamented.

HONOR OLD WEAVER

An 80 year old widow, Mrs. Hutchinson of Ramothom, England, who has spent more than 70 years working in a mill at Radcliffe, and has been a weaver for 30 years, was given a purse by the workpeople and also received a gift from the firms. She still works.

A FINE STANDING—Miss Minnie Lanigan of Cambridge is to be congratulated in the wonderful achievement she attained in winning one of the Kings County scholarships in the matriculation examinations recently published. Miss Lanigan is worthy of all the more praise because of the fact that she did not have the opportunity of attending a graded school, having attended the public school in Cambridge throughout the course. No doubt too, credit is also to be given to her general and energetic teacher, Alfred Cairns, who has been employed in the above district for the past five years.

Conditioned Air Makes Voyage a Joy

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 12—On examination of the log book of the last voyage of the "Lady Rodney" cruise liner of the Canadian National Steamships from Montreal to the Caribbean Sea, some interesting facts were revealed concerning the temperatures prevailing in Montreal during that sailing period in comparison with the temperatures found in the ports of call at the Southern colonies according to Victor E. Eke, passenger traffic manager of the company.

The actual temperatures marked in the ship's log book reveal that the temperature recorded in Montreal on the date of sailing, July 10, exceeded the thermometer reading in any port of call during the time of arrival of the ship and the temperatures at each port in the Caribbean Sea varied only slightly from that recorded in Montreal on the respective dates.

In our midsummer with the frequent absence of any cool breeze, the trade winds covering the southern islands can be depended upon to civil the atmosphere and there is a reliable evening breeze each day called "The Doctor."

Those temperatures on land, combined with special ventilation facilities on all "Lady" liners producing a pleasant temperature which can be personally regulated make a voyage to the Caribbean Sea a comfortable cruise as is proven by the increased cruise business this summer and advance bookings for the Fall season.

Australian Visitor Shocked in U.S.

"It was a shock to find myself regarded as an alien when I reached America," said R. W. Neville, manager of an Australian mercantile firm, at a monthly dinner of fellow-merchants, Neville said ready made suits sold in U.S.A. at $25 in Australia currency and he had seen an overcoat priced at $400.

"When I arrived at the Chamber of Commerce in Los Angeles and said I came from Australia," Neville continued, "I was told politely that the Foreign Secretary was the man to whom I must talk."

"Newspapers bearing tomorrow's date are on sale there today. Every second woman is a blonde. I was told there are natural and suicide blondes. The suicides were so called because they dyed by their own hands."—Australian Press Bureau.

King is Customer of Melbourne Man

MELBOURNE, Aug. 12—It was "cheek," possibly, but it was worth trying, thought Arthur Irwin, of the Defense Department, Melbourne, Australia, as he sat down and addressed a letter to His Majesty the King, Buckingham Palace, London.

King Edward had a rare stamp—an Australian twopenny-halfpenny with a misprint—and, knowing that "Your Majesty is an ardent stamp collector," he thought, perhaps, "Your Majesty might be interested." The stamp was for sale.

Within six weeks an impressive looking letter, carrying the Royal Household seal, came addressed to Irwin. Written by one of the King's private secretaries, it read:

"I am commanded by the King to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 9th November respecting the 2-1/2 Australian stamps second water mark, which was issued in 1919, containing an error.

"His Majesty is prepared to make an offer of 10 pounds for the stamp provided that, on inspection, it meets with his approval.

"If this offer appeals to you, will you be good enough to arrange for the stamp to be sent to the King?"

After inspection the king purchased the stamp.

Wedding Bells

A very pretty double wedding was solemnized at St. Mary's Church, Souris, on July 3rd, 1935, by Rev. I. McDonald, when Miss Mary Whalen, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Whalen, East Baltic, became the bride of Mr. Alexander Mooney, son of Mrs. Daniel Mooney and the late Daniel Mooney, Souris. The bride looked very winsome in a dress of white satin cut on the princess lines and trimmed with radium lace, and wore a large white peltie hat, and other white accessories. She was attended by Miss Dorothy Chapman, who looked charming in a dress of flowered crepe and white dress accessories. The groom was ably supported by Mr. Clarence McAulay, Souris Line Road.

The second couple participating in this happy event were Miss Helen Mooney, sister of the above mentioned groom, and Mr. Percy Murphy, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Murphy, Elmira. Miss Mooney looked very charming in a dress of daffodil yellow crepe and white accessories and was attended by her sister Miss Isabel, who wore a dress of yellow organdy with brown trimmings. The groom was supported by Mr. Thomas Harris, Elmira, a lifelong friend of the groom.

After the ceremony the happy couples motored to the home of Mrs. Daniel Mooney, where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served to the immediate relatives of the contracting parties, after which the bride couples and their attendants motored to Charlottetown, where dinner was served to them at the Revere Hotel. Spending the afternoon sightseeing they returned to Souris where supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Mooney then motored to the bride's home where about one hundred and fifty guests awaited their arrival. After a bounteous supper was served the evening was pleasantly spent in music and dancing until the wee sma' hours of the morning when the guests departed wishing Mr. and Mrs. Mooney bon voyage on the sea of matrimony. The many useful and valuable gifts received testify to the

Caribbean Isles Draw Number Visitors

MONTREAL, Aug. 12—With the increasing popularity of the British West Indies as a holiday playground of unusual attraction, resulting in a large number of passengers from Canada and the United States visiting these colonies in the Caribbean Sea, our steamship services to that territory are now carrying capacity lists, stated Captain E. E. Tedford, Acting General Manager of the Canadian National Steamships.

This increase in tourist business has brought that vacation area more prominently to the attention of Canadians and Americans alike, stated Captain Tedford, with passenger traffic fairly evenly distributed throughout the year, the summer and fall seasons being as popular as the winter and spring periods for travel to these popular resorts.

"I have no hesitation in stating that the Canadian National Steamships offer to the public one of the best travel propositions they can find anywhere."

"Our cruise fares are so low, including steamship accommodation, transfer charges and hotel expenses at terminal ports, that they amount to considerably less than the cost of an average holiday of similar length from 11 to 38 days, as a matter of fact, which is quite unique, a list of ports, delictual beaches and an old-world setting retaining the charm of earlier days, yet presenting a colorful cosmopolitan atmosphere full of interest and also modern hotel comforts."

Furthermore, the area comprising the British West Indies is favored by cool Atlantic breezes which maintain an equable temperature throughout the year.

"Passengers tell us that they invariably feel more comfortable at sea and ashore on these cruises than they do in our northern latitudes during the summer."

"However, the best recommendation we can offer are the cruises themselves and the number of unsolicited compliments coming to us after almost every voyage tell their own story of undisguised satisfaction with our services and the area visited. On a recent sailing of the "Lady" liner, for instance, was a passenger who was making his 17th cruise by our line, accompanied by his family, and many others make our cruise voyages a regular feature of their vacation. Nothing we can say, however, speaks quite so eloquently as the service itself and the popularity of our cruises is a good confirmation of this fact."

Captain Tedford pointed out that the "Lady" cruise liners were designed and built for this tourist business and are the largest steamers engaged in regular service between Canada, the United States and the British West Indies. In addition to personally regulated temperature, other features include broadcasting facilities, the installation of bathing tanks and the formation of West Indian orchestras on board.

Two cruises have been arranged to meet popular demand and the needs of those who desire a vacation comparatively close to our shores, which have their own unique attractions, not to be found elsewhere, all of which indicates in some measure why our cruise business has increased," stated Captain Tedford.

EGYPTIAN SILHOUETTE INSPIRES JEAN PATOU

PARIS, Aug. 12—The Egyptian silhouette, influenced by figures on the walls of the pyramids, appeared today at Patou's fashion show, London.

It was designed with wide but rounded shoulders and form-fitted hips, with draperies falling in front of the skirts which were slightly longer than usual. The dresses were trimmed with gold braid and colored velvet ribbons.

Angle length crepe evening gowns were designated with the most complicated draperies yet seen—swinging from waist to hem and back, making form-fitting hip draperies. Numerous deeply slit skirts were shown in new colors of vivid violet, named Isis, and bright cherry, called Anahis, and bright cherry, called Anahis.

The mannequins' bare feet were thrust into open-toed sandals.

Religious paintings of the renaissance inspired Lanvin's evening hostess gowns. Hostess dresses were designed like apostles' robes, with hooded yokes, big sleeves and straight-belted fullness.

Day skirts were decidedly longer, extending from six to nine inches from the ground, with shoulders wide.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN OFFERS METROPOLITAN BALLET THEME

NEW YORK, Aug. 12—"Uncle Tom's Cabin" may be presented in the form of a ballet at the Metropolitan Opera House as another step in that institution's Americanization program.

This was disclosed by George Balanchine, director of the American ballet, which will supplant the traditional opera ballet at the Metropolitan.

Youth and new ideas were sought in the retention of the American ballet, said Edward Johnson, general manager of the Opera Association. He added, however, that the new dance ensemble probably would absorb from the old "the best looking ones, the best dancers, and those with the best extremities."

popularity of this young couple. The happy couple motored to Souris which is to be their honeymoon trip. Mooney is one of our popular blacksmiths.

Mr. and Mrs. Murphy were tendered a miscellaneous shower upon their arrival at their new home in Elmira. The bride was one of the successful Island teachers and has endeared herself to the hearts of the people of Elmira. The many useful and valuable gifts received show the esteem
