Laurier Has Notified The Dominion Alliance.

Says the Vote Not Large Enough to Justify the Passing of a Law—The Alliance Not Satisfied—Test Vote in Parliament Called For—A Third Party.

TORONTO, March 10.—(Special)—Premier Laurier has notified Mr. Speer of the Dominion Alliance that the vote in favor of prohibition did not represent such a proportion of the electorate as would justify the introduction by the government of a prohibitory law. Only 23 per cent of the electorate spoke in favor of prohibition.

The Alliance is not satisfied and will discuss the matter on Tuesday. It is understood that a vote will be called for in parliament on the question.

The Quebec Alliance already has taken measures to organize a third, or prohibition party, independent of existing political organisations.

A GREAT PAPER MILL.

The World's Largest Begun at Millinockett.

BANGOR, Me., March 8.—The capital stock of the Great Northern Paper Company has been increased from $1,000,000 to $4,000,000 and has been taken. Work on the company's new paper and pulp mill at Millinockett, Aroostock county, has already commenced. It will be the largest mill of the kind in the world.

The mill will be supplied directly from the 250,000 acres of spruce country already controlled by the company. These lands lie to the north of the site. The company has a grip on enough spruce to furnish a full supply for more than 30 years of steady work. During the winters of 1899 1900 the company's lumber crews will cut and drive to the mill or its rail connections from 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 feet of spruce, in order that stock may be at hand for the beginning of work in the summer of 1900.

In the erection of the mill and water power, $2,000,000 will be expended.

HANGED TOGETHER KIPLING IMPROVES

Sam Parslow and Mrs. Poirier Executed.

Frightful Scene at the Execution—The Mob Tear off the Black Caps From the Dead Convicts—Story of an Atrocious Crime and Terrible Punishment.

ST. SCHOLASTIQUE, QUE., March 10.—(Special)—At four minutes past eight this morning Cordelia Viau and Sam Parslow were hanged for murdering the former's husband, Isadore Poirier.

Eight hundred persons saw the execution and then made a rush for the gallows and tore away the black cloths from the faces of the dead convicts.

During the march to the scaffold the crowd outside attempted to force the gates.

Several shots were fired, but police maintained order.

STORY OF THE CRIME

The crime for which the guilty pair suffered was committed on Sunday, November 27, 1897. It had been contemplated for months before. Cordelia Viau Poirier was about 33 years of age. She was the organist of the Catholic church at St. Jerome, where Sam Parslow sang in the choir. They became gradually intimate.

On the fatal Sunday Poirier attended church at St. Jerome in the morning, as did his wife and Parslow. In the afternoon the husband did not attend vespers, but stayed at home drinking, while Mrs. Poirier went to church and played the organ for the services. She returned home, where she found Poirier and Parslow. Poirier being under the influence of liquor and asleep.

She asked Parslow to hitch up the horse, that she might drive to her father's, four miles distant, and Parslow did so. Then he unhitched the horse again, after which he and Mrs. Poirier entered the house, and it was at this time that the crime was committed.

Parslow took a butcher-knife and slashed the sleeping husband across the throat. Poirier awoke and sought to defend himself, when a desperate life and death struggle ensued, resulting in the death of Poirier.

Parslow hitched up the horse again, and Mrs. Poirier drove away to her father's, after which Parslow returned to the house, divested himself of his blood-stained shirt, which he burned in the stove, donned one of his victim's shirts, locked the house, put the key in his pocket and went to the house of his brother, George Parslow.

On Monday morning Mrs. Poirier, on her way home from her father's, stopped at George Parslow's house and had a few minutes' conversation with Sam Parslow, after which she continued her way homeward. Upon arriving she found the blinds down and the doors locked. She went to a neighbor's and told them she could not get in.

From there she went to the church at St. Jerome and played the organ at a wedding. At the conclusion of the ceremony she returned, and at her suggestion a neighbor forced an entrance to the house through a window. It was then that the crime was discovered.

After their arrest both confessed to a guilty knowledge of the deed but each blamed the other. They were found guilty but obtained a new trial on the ground that the confessions made before the coroner had been improperly admitted as evidence. The second trial recently held resulted in a conviction and the sentence now carried into effect.
