WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—(AP)—The Ford Motor Company was ordered by the Labor Board today to get notices to employees that it would refrain from discouraging unionism by "physical violence" or espionage. The order was based, the board said, on a finding that the company had engaged in a "war" against union organization in the Dallas, Tex., plant. This campaign, the board alleged, was formulated, directed, approved and ratified" by the Ford "policy makers" in the Dearborn, Mich., main office.

Knudsen, production chief of the national defence commission, revealed tonight that United States production of warplanes had reached a rate of 10,800 a year and would pass the 18,000-a-year mark by next January. Monaghan, who also conducted the services at the grave in Seven Mile Bay cemetery. The funeral procession was led by the Boy Scouts with Mr. A. P. Ceretti as leader.

RED CROSS.—They tell us at Red Cross headquarters that "women are knitting again," but I believe we might modify that the "women are knitting yet," for I am sure they have never stopped. But the point is knitting is speeding up for the big winter's work ahead. Sweaters are what they are concentrating on now—high neck sweaters for the Army. Of course, the knitting of socks goes on interminably — and just a word about that—many socks have been coming in much too long and too large in the leg. It's a case of using your own judgment. If you are using heavier wool, don't put so many stitches on and don't make the leg longer than 14 inches from the bottom of the heel to the top of cuff and don't knit them too tightly. If the knitting is too tight it leaves no margin for shrinkage and thickening and the result is they are stiff and hard, very difficult to wash and most uncomfortable to wear. The Red Cross headquarters is asking today to have all army sweaters for which material has been given out turned in as soon as possible. There is need for sweaters immediately. If you are doing a sweater and a pair of socks, finish the sweater first and turn in to the Red Cross headquarters or to your local branch.

Field Day At De Sable

A second of a series of field days organized by the Division of Illustration Stations, Dominion Experimental Farm Service, in cooperation with Mr. W. R. Shaw, representing the Prince Edward Island Department of Agriculture, was held at the farm of Mr. Hector MacKay, DeSable, yesterday.

A special feature for the ladies was a discussion by Dr. J. A. Clark, Superintendent of the Experimental Station, Charlottetown, on general improvement of homesteads and gardens.

Mr. F. A. Driscoll, head poultryman of the Experimental Station, Charlottetown, gave a very practical and informative address on "Feeding and Care of the Poultry Flock."

A yearly review of the program of work conducted at this station since its inauguration in 1931 was given by the Supervisor, Mr. W. N. Black, following which a tour was made of the farm, the program of work outlined and a detailed description given of each field treatment and demonstration. Some of the finest crops in the province were viewed in the course of this tour.

A special feature at this station was a demonstration and discussion on draft horses with special reference being made to stallion and horse breeding policy. Mr. W. R. Shaw dealt very carefully with this important phase of the program. The registered Clydesdale stallion "Prefect" recently purchased by the operator from the Experimental Farms Branch was exhibited by Mr. James MacKay. Many fine tributes were paid the owner of this outstanding sire.

After being scored by Mr. Shaw, two Clydesdale mares were further scored as to confirmation and type and a discussion followed.

In view of the fact that hay is one of our most important crops the matter of cutting it at that stage when the protein content is highest and therefore of greater nutritive value was stressed by Mr. D. C. Schurman, assistant to Superintendent and Field Husbandry and Forage Crops, Experimental Station, Charlottetown.

The importance of using good seed and methods adopted to control loose and covered smut of grains was dealt with by Mr. R. Bruce McLaren, Cerealist at the Experimental Station, Charlottetown.

Other speakers included: Mr. John H. Myers, Hampton and Mr. L. W. Roper, Charlottetown.

The third field day will be held on the farm of James E. Daly, Iona, today.

Toronto Born Man Replaces Planes Lost

TORONTO, Aug. 9—(CP)—W. Garfield Weston, Toronto-born biscuit manufacturer who today donated approximately $445,000 to replace the 16 Royal Air Force fighter planes shot down over the English Channel yesterday, visited this city last April.

Mr. Weston, at 42 one of England's wealthiest men, is extremely proud of being a Canadian. He is member of Parliament for Macclesfield, and attributes much of his success in English politics to the fact that he is a Canadian.

When elected, he said, "they couldn't get anyone to run against me because of that fact. They felt if they did, it might be looked on as an insult to Canada."

Hangars At Airport To Cover Six Acres

Building are rapidly being erected at the Charlottetown Airport on the Sherwood Road as the work is being rushed to completion. In all 34 buildings are to be erected at the bombing and gunnery school which is under the Empire Air Training Scheme.

The project is being done by the Storms Contracting Company with Mr. J. C. Pinch in charge of the building work. Three hundred and fifty men, half of whom are carpenters, are working on day and night shifts at present and it is expected that this number will be increased by 100 next week.

Three hangar foundations have been laid. In one of these the concrete work is finished awaiting the erection of the steel structure. The forms for the concrete in the other two are being built. When completed there will be an acre of concrete on the floor of each of the six hangars which the contract calls for.

The headquarters building, which is 30 by 148 feet, is also nearing completion. The roof is shingled and a start has been made on the interior. The gunnery Instruction School and workship have also been started. Altogether work on about 14 buildings is underway.

It is expected that the project, with mostly all wooden buildings being erected, will call for three and a quarter to four million board feet of lumber. The only part of the construction which is not of wood, with the exception of the foundations, is the framework of the six hangars. This framework is of steel and it is estimated that enough steel will be used in the project to cover seven acres of ground. The shingles to cover the walls alone amounts to 8,000 bundels.

The ground work at the airport is also progressing rapidly. At least two thirds of the paving on the runways is completed. Approximately three quarters of the gravelling on the runways is completed. The house on the Gillespie farm and the house on the Horne farm have yet to be moved from the extension to the airport. All the other buildings have been moved.

Naval Activity Leads War Work On West Coast

VANCOUVER, Aug. 9.—(CP) — British Columbia, one of the most defence-conscious of Canadian provinces in the days of peace, threw its full weight into the Empire effort on the outbreak of war last September.

The fortifications and defence batteries which were installed in the Pacific Coast area in the years leading up to the outbreak of the conflict have not yet been employed, but a steady flow of men and materials moves from British Columbia eastward into the areas where war is waged or threatens.

A few hours after the outbreak of hostilities, ships of the Royal Canadian Navy stationed on the west coast were on their way to the Atlantic by way of the Panama Canal. Some of them have since crossed the Atlantic to work in British waters and the Fraser, named after the British Columbia river, went to the bottom, the first Canadian naval loss.

While Canadian preparations for action overseas and for the defence of the Eastern shores—somewhat overshadowed the Pacific defence problem, the latter has not been neglected. Military, naval and air effort in British Columbia is directed towards local defence as well as combat in Europe.

For the army, recruiting started with the outbreak of war and slackened off when units for the 1st and 2nd divisions reached war strength. It started again in June, when units were mobilized for the 3rd and 4th divisions, and continued actively as the non-permanent active militia prepared to send all volunteers who offered themselves to summer training camps.

Naval headquarters at Esquimalt, on Vancouver Island, were kept busy taking on men for the Royal Canadian Navy, many of whom moved eastwards to man destroyers, patrol ships and minesweepers serving on the Atlantic.

Air Activity

So far British Columbia has not bulked large in the allotment of schools under the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan. An elementary flying training school was set up at Vancouver. The province falls under the direction of No. 4 Air Training Command with headquarters at Regina.

Headquarters of Western Air Command responsible for the air defence of Western Canada, is at Victoria and under it an extensive program of bettering defences is under way. At Patricia Bay, east of Victoria, an air base to cost $1,500,000 is under construction. It will accommodate sqadrons of both sea and land planes. Other bases are contemplated at Ucluelet on the west coast of Vancouver Island and in the Queen Charlotte Islands.

Factories and shipyards on the west coast are busy on war orders. Work under way in marine industrial establishments includes construction of anti-submarine boats, minesweepers, refueling scows and cranes.

Other factories are producing tents, flags and ensigns, blankets, army uniforms, overcoats, boots, aircraft, rope, and diesel engines.

B. C. mines and forests are important sources of essential materials. Large quantities of timber are being shipped to Great Britain and to Eastern Canada. Copper and other base metals are produced at Trail and British Columbia's gold production helps to maintain Canada's foreign exchange position.

Veterans of the last war, of whom British Columbia has many, responded generously to the call for volunteers for the Veterans' Home Guard and its reserve companies and many found places in the Canadian Active Service Force.

The most notable is Maj.-General Victor W. Odlum of Vancouver, commander of the 2nd overseas division.
