1929 election—the second triumph of the Farmer Party—Mr. Brownlee was named premier.

Though the United Farmers' political organization claims independence of the widespread co-operative body, United Farmers of Alberta, the two movements are linked by kindred feeling. Before becoming premier, Mr. Brownlee was a Calgary lawyer associated with the Alberta Wheat Pool, a direct offshoot of the United Farmers of Alberta economic unit.

Every member of the Brownlee cabinet is seeking re-election. The premier will run again in Ponoka; Hon. George Hoadley, minister of health and agriculture, is contesting High River-Okotoks; Hon. J. F. Lynnburn, attorney-general, asks re-election for Edmonton; Hon. R. C. Reid, provincial treasurer, for Vermilion; Hon. O. L. McPherson, minister of public works, for Little Bow; Hon. Perren E. Baker, minister of education, for Cypress; Hon. V. W. Smith, minister of railways, for Camrose; Hon. Irene Parby, minister without portfolio, for Lacombe.

An extra touch of speculation is added to the campaign by the fact that membership in the cities, where proportional representation governs balloting, is now increased. It is pointed out that while the Farmer's Party obtained 43 of 60 seats in the 1926 election, they polled but 71,967 out of a total of 175,137 votes.

In seeking return to power the government party refers to its record in obtaining control of the natural resources, in rehabilitating the provincial telephone system and in disposing of the government-owned northern Alberta railways. Opposition charges claim the government has been extravagant, has increased unduly the provincial debt, and represents a group rather than the province as a whole.

Heavy Balotting In Alberta Election Is Anticipated

(Canadian Press)

EDMONTON, Alta., June 9—Rulers of Alberta for almost a decade, the United Farmers Party takes to the field of political battle June 19 in quest of renewed allegiance. In the provincial fray no quarter will be asked or given as followers of Premier J. E. Brownlee struggle to hold their throne. Acclamations will be rare in the joust for ballots.

Premier Brownlee himself demands unreserved approval from the voters; he is no disciple of the creed that a strong opposition brings better government. In campaign speeches he has contended that the Farmer Party's power—holding 43 of 60 legislative seats—has contributed toward the government's ability to protect and serve the province.

But Liberal, Conservative, Labor and other groups have rallied to the fight, with lists of candidates which aggregate almost double the Farmer Party's total. The Communist Party has made its appearance in the provincial field as one of the minor groups seeking representation; at least three candidates will carry the red banner.

At dissolution standing of the Legislature was as follows:
United Farmers ..... 43
Liberals ..... 7
Conservatives ..... 6
Labor ..... 4

Total ..... 60
The next Legislature offers seats to 63 members, due to a re-distribution of representation at the last session. Calgary and Edmonton, the province's only multi-member ridings, each alter their number of representatives from five to six. In addition, rural constituencies are shifted with the resulting increase in out-of-town seats by one.

Both Liberal and Conservative groups boast newly-appointed leaders. A. A. McGillivray, former Conservative chieftain, gave way late in 1929 to D. M. Duggan, former mayor of Edmonton. Early this year J. T. Shaw handed over the Liberal leadership to Mayor J. W. McDonald. Mr. McDonald has never served in the Legislature, but Mr. Duggan has been a member since 1926.

Mr. Brownlee made his appearance in the Farmer Party in 1921 when he was selected as attorney-general in the first U. F. A. cabinet after Hon. Herbert Greenfield's new-formed party put an end to sixteen years of Liberal administration. After Mr. Greenfield's retirement, before the

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lowe, left Hamilton on Thursday for Charlottetown, where Mr. Lowe has accepted a position as rancher for Dr. E. S. Notting, Experimental Farm. Mr. and Mrs. Lowe are both natives of London, England, the former has been a resident of Hamilton for five years, while the latter came here as a bride one year ago. During their residence here, Mr. and Mrs. Lowe have made many friends who sincerely regret their departure, but it is believed that Mr. Lowe is well adapted for the work he has now undertaken. In church and social life Mr. Lowe has been a willing contributor in song and in reading but it is in the choir of Princeton United Church that he will be most greatly missed. Their going from this place came as a surprise to citizens here, who, one and all, follow them with hearty good wishes for life's best in their new home.

Miss Clark, R. N., of Centreville, is spending the week end, the guest of her cousin Mrs. John Simpson, Hamilton.

Another of our boys, Mr. Leigh Crozier, Darnley, has been successful, having received the degree of B. A., from McGill University, Montreal. It is a pleasure to congratulate Mr. Crozier on the outcome of his four year's work and it is anticipated that even greater success will follow him as he continues his studies.

Mr. and Mrs. Keir Woodside, Mrs. H. A. Stewart, Mrs. J. H. Woodside and Mrs. John Simpson, were recent motorists to Summerside.

A telegram received by Mr. H. L. Donald, Clerk of Session from Rev. D. M. Grant announced that Rev. E. M. Alden, Cornwall, had accepted the call to Princeton United Church. Intimation to this effect came as welcome news to the congregation on Sunday June 8th.

Mrs. Wm. Profit, Long River and Miss Jean Simpson, Belmont, Mass. are guests of their parents Mr and Mrs. Frank Simpson, Hamilton. Their many friends are glad to meet them again.

Hearty congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cousins, fitting his old home in Alberry plains

Made Tour Of Store In Car

(Special to the Guardian)
TORONTO, Ont., June 10—Undaunted by "no parking" signs, two visiting Shriners went shopping in their roadster yesterday afternoon. The wide open portals of Simpson's store with an enormous welcome sign seemed more inviting to the nobles than the stern faced cop who refused to let them stop the car; so the charioteer turned his car and drove right in. Down the wide aisles went the two pilgrims honking horns and shouting greetings to shop girls and customers. No one prevented them in their tour of inspection which was made in a leisurely manner. Satisfied with their conquest they returned the same way. They said they enjoyed the trip and liked the store. Incidentally it is whispered that they won a $2,000 bet at the same time.

TO INVESTIGATE NEW AUTOMATIC TRAIN CONTROL

MONTGOMERY, N. B., June 11—A party of Michigan Central Railway officials from Detroit, Mich., passed through Moncton today via the Canadian National Railway, enroute to Amherst, N. S., to inspect a train control device known as the Wainwright automatic train control.

The party consisted of Mr. J. P. Jennings, Supt. of Motive Power; Mr. J. C. Mock, Electric and Signal Engineer; W. W. White, Supt. of Air Brakes; F. J. Hill, Chief Electrician.

Producers of plays by Sir James Barrie during a recent charity week in Glasgow, Scotland, received the following message from Sir James: "To wish you much success in your effort for the Commonwealth Fund in Glasgow. It is a brave cause, and with you at the helm the ship should once more come home laden."
