Blind Gardeners Tell of Prowess

LONDON, Sept. 19.—(C.P.)—"Gardening for the Blind" is the title of a booklet issued from the office of the National Institute for the Blind, Great Portland street, London, which is affiliated with the Guild of Blind Gardeners. Just what a blind person can do in a garden is told in this booklet by blind men. One of them says: "During the past 12 years of total blindness, I have produced sufficient culinary vegetables to maintain an ample supply of all kinds for domestic use all the year around." But how can weeds be distinguished? Another blind gardener tells us: "The position of a weed is a good guide. The plants in the beds are known, and as they are placed in rows or clumps, it follows that any plant which is out of alignment is, for our purpose a weed." And here we come to what would appear to be the most difficult of gardening tasks for a blind person—mowing the lawn—though the writer calls it "the most pleasant of weekly jobs." He admits that "it is not possible in cutting grass to keep a straight line," but considers this unnecessary. "A little practice will enable one to detect the difference in sound between the whirring of the blades when cutting or when revolving freely.

B.A. Trestrail Returns To Rogers-Majestic

RESUMES FORMER DUTIES AS DIRECTOR OF SALES AND ADVERTISING ACTIVITIES —LAUNCHES AGGRESSIVE CAMPAIGN

TORONTO, Sept. 19.—After an absence of slightly over two years, B. A. Trestrail has been re-engaged as director of sales and advertising for the Rogers-Majestic Corporation Limited, manufacturers of Rogers and Majestic radios, Mr. E. S. Rogers, president, announced today.

MR. B. A. TRESTRAIL

While holding no illusions as to the possibility of great increase in volume, Mr. Trestrail believes that the trend is towards stabilization with gradual increase in prices and this coupled with a great reduction in the number of radio manufacturers in Canada presents an opportunity or real progress to those companies whose production is carefully regulated and whose merchandising embraces aggressive and original advertising, as well as sales efforts.

"We plan a distinctive and novel newspaper advertising campaign based on Mr. Rogers' platform of 'A New Deal in Radio', details of which will be announced shortly and which I believe will be a distinctly pleasant surprise to the trade and to the public, not merely from the standpoint of interest but because of the rather sensational values and features to be presented in the new models.

"The history of every depression has shown that the home entertainment industry suffers from a most violent and rapid deflation followed by a prolonged period of stagnation, leaving but few of the stronger companies in the field ready and able to take advantage of the revival when it occurs.

"Rogers-Majestic is in a splendid position to maintain its pre-eminence in the radio field and with two such outstanding lines as the Rogers and the Majestic radios with the values offered this year, we are certain to procure our share of the business."

Buried Viking Fully Armored

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 19.—(C. P.)—The tomb of a Viking chieftain, buried more than 1,000 years ago was recently found at Laangtorpa in Central Sweden. The find clearly showed the warrior was of high rank and furnished an interesting example of the burying customs of his day. He had been interred with full armor and with a fine sword, evidently made in the South of England.

The sword hilt was decorated with silver ornaments, on one of which some magic runes had been engraved, probably intended to make the bearer victorious in warfare in the great unknown. At his feet two wooden chests with iron mountings, probably containing food, had been placed.

To provide for his amusement on his last journey a set of precious glass playmen had been buried with him. At the foot of the grave his horse and dog had been interred.

In the immediate vicinity a heavy sword, a larger spear-head and some simple game pieces of bone were found. Archeologists believe these may have been the belongings of the servant buried with his master to serve as his escort and defender in death.

Fine Flax Crop Grown By King

LONDON, Sept. 19.—(C. P.)—King George's flax crop at Sandringham has been gathered and the East Anglian harvest this year has been so good that Belgium, the home of the finest flax in the world, may have to take second place in this industry.

"The seed will also be of excellent quality," an official of the Linen Industry Research Association said. "This is a matter of great importance, as it is hoped that East Anglia will become the centre of supply of pedigree flax seed for the Northern Ireland flax-growers, who for this commodity have had to depend almost entirely on the foreigner.

"The next stage is the baling of the crop at the quay in King's Lynn, so that it may be shipped to Northern Ireland for turning into fibre at Lambeg, County Antrim. Then only will it be possible to determine whether East Anglia can become the producer of a flax crop second to none, and whether modern mechanized methods can beat the inherited skill of centuries in providing for the linen trade a fibre of the famous Courtauld quality."

In 1931 the King grew a small acreage of flax on his Sandringham estate and the flax straw was transported to Ireland, processed into fibre in the experimental factory of the Linen Industry Research Association, and manufactured by noted Ulster firms into a range of different kinds of linen. This linen was presented to their Majesties in December, 1932.

The experiment was such a success both as to the yield and high quality of the fibre, that interest was aroused in the possibility of establishing a flax industry in East Anglia, which up to 60 years ago was one of the traditional homes of flax.

HIGHER PRICES FOR OATS

(Seed Branch Note, Sackville, N.B.) Farmers in districts producing surplus oats are advised to study crop prospects and markets before selling at low prices this season. The September 11th crop report, Dominion Bureau of Statistics, states that the yields of all grains in Canada are below average.

The unfavorable season in the Prairie Provinces lowered yields almost to the very small grain crops of 1931. In Ontario, yield per acre of spring wheat, oats and barley were the lowest since 1921. Despite slightly increased acreages of grain in Quebec and the Maritime Provinces, production is less than 1932 because of the late cold spring and drought in summer.

Montreal grain prices, published in the larger daily papers, may serve as a guide to farmers. The September 14th issues quote No. 2 Canada Western oats at 43c, and No. 1 Feed oats at 40c per bushel. The freight per bushel on carlots of oats from Montreal to Saint John, N. B., is 8 1/2c and to Sackville 9 1/2c, which would make the delivered prices on September 14th 51 1/2c and 48 1/2c to Saint John, 52 1/2c and 49 1/2c to Sackville.

DERWENT RIVER CONDEMNED

LANCHESTER, England, Sept. 19.—(C. P.)—So great is the danger of a big outbreak of typhoid and paratyphoid at Consett, Durham, that notices signed by the local medical officer of health advising people, especially children, not to bathe or paddle in the Derwent river have been posted on its banks. The banks are patrolled daily by police and no person is allowed to dip foot or hand in the water. There are many typhoid cases reported in the Lanchester hospital.

Fruit should be picked as far as possible in the cool of the day and never whilst wet from rain or dew.
