THE GUARDIAN'S WEEK END SERMON.

Text—But now they desire a better country that is a heavenly city.

Throughout the year that has gone God has continuously reminded us that in the midst of life we are in death...

More fitting therefore is it that as a congregation we do not for the memory of our own number have long since and lost awhile...

Throughout the year and specially during recent days God has spoken very clearly to us by His message...

With death there is no respect of person. He calls alike at the cottage of the lowly and the palace of the King...

With many the burden of the passing year had told heavily and they welcomed the rest that remaineth for the people of God...

The place of business and the house of God that is difficult for us to think of these without them...

In the reverent stillness of the memorial hour I call the roll of those whose voices answer not...

John McSwain, Mrs. Mary Munro, Joseph Irenaeus Storey, John McMillan, Garfield McDonald...

Mrs. Mary Ann Matheson, Mrs. Phoebe Carruthers, Margaret McMillan, Mrs. Catherine McLeod...

William Malcolm Taylor, J. Milton Davidson, Henrietta Anderson...

These are they whose absence we deeply mourn...

We had the year farewell with heavy heart and as we turned the first page of the new year...

But her memory and that of others gone will long be an inspiring influence in the faithful discharge of sacred responsibilities that devolve upon us...

We are painfully conscious too that as last Sabbath evening's shadows gathered and the bells were calling worshippers to the house of prayer...

But before his translation he had this testimony that he pleased God. Here he crossed the threshold of his earthly home as he was returning...

These are the names of our sainted dead who in reality have entered into life. And though God hath put our lives so far apart we cannot hear each other speak we firmly believe...

In other words that they have inherited a better country that is a heavenly city. To all the loved ones gone to worship henceforth in the upper sanctuary our thought and affection find no more fitting expression than in the poetic strain of our It sings in every heart...
