MIXED FARMING POPULAR

West No Longer Devoted to Growing Wheat Western Canada is turning to mixed farming instead of exclusively raising wheat, said Geo. Bury, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific. "I have seen no evidence for a long time that is more encouraging for the future of the West. The farmers are not planting their faith in any one crop, and, what is more, they are not draining the fertility of their land by lack of rotation of crops from year to year. It is nearly certain that there will be about 2,000,000 acres more under cultivation this year than ever before, and although the effects of the money stringency have certainly been felt in the West as elsewhere, there is a solid foundation for the prosperity of the Western farmer that cannot be disturbed by the fitters of the stock market."

ICELANDERS ADAPTABLE

Professor Thinks They Discovered America "Icelanders and their contributions to history" was the theme chosen by Professor A. Holmes, Ph.D., M.D., of Queen's University before the Ottawa Teachers' Association in the Toronto Normal school hall. "The Commonwealth of Iceland was created owing to the irresponsibility of a woman," quoted Mr. Holmes. "Only will I say yes to being his sole and lawful wife," said a maiden exceeding fair to Harold Hairfair, when he brings to subjection all Norway as freely as does King Eric rule the Swede realm." After a brief historical sketch of the history of Iceland, and upon observations made during the course of a tour of the country last summer, Professor Holmes asserted that there was no doubt in his mind that the Icelanders were the first to discover America. "Their newspapers," continued the speaker, "exhibit tenacity, capacity of action and passion, and powers of description." "It is no wonder that the modern Icelanders should excel in matters of learning after so many centuries of educated ancestors."

His "One-Horn Shay"

When the history of London street traffic is written, it will probably be recorded that Lord Rothschild was the last person to ride daily through the City in a brougham. Motor omnibuses are all careful to give the blue brougham plenty of elbow room, for every driver on the road knows Lord Rothschild's carriage, and thinks kindly of the generous donor of pheasants who rides inside. Although he is now in his seventy-fourth year, Lord Rothschild is regular as a clock in his attendance in the City. About four o'clock in the afternoon the blue brougham takes him home again to Piccadilly.

How to Keep Acive

WHEN OLD AGE OVERTAKES US. Mrs. John Widmayer of Jackson, Mich., says: "Although 69 years of age, and naturally, because of my advanced age, in an enfeebled condition, I can truthfully say that Vinol has done wonders to keep me as active as I am. It is the best medicine to create strength that I ever saw. This spring, I was very much run down and worn out but I took Vinol about the house. I can recommend Vinol as a very invigorating tonic." "Should the system get run down—digestive organs weak—the blood thin and sluggish—take Vinol, which is a delicious combination of the medicinal—body-building properties of cod's livers, with the useless grease eliminated and tonic iron added. We regard Vinol as one of the greatest body-builders and strength creators in the world for aged people. We wish every feeble old person in this vicinity would try Vinol on our agreement to return their money if it fails to give satisfaction. E. A. Foster, Central Drugstore, Charlottetown, P. E. I."

WHEAT CULTIVATION IMPOVERISHES SOIL

D. C. James Raises the Question as to Whether It Pays the Farmer to Grow Wheat New light was thrown by Mr. C. C. James upon the necessity for mixed farming in Canada. Mr. James stated in an address that one year's wheat crop when sent to England carried with it $25,000,000 worth of the best soil material of the country. In the meantime, Canada with its comparatively cheap lands and labor, was competing with the cheap lands and labor of the Mediterranean and other countries from which Great Britain obtained one-half its wheat. The statements of Mr. James led to the pointed question as to whether it pays Canada to grow wheat. He referred to the excessive cost to the whole nation which comes from the constant opening of new wheat lands, with the consequent railway extension and the cost to the country to keep the new settler on his land until he is well established. The most important problem for Canada now was to convert the wheat grower into a farmer, a fact which was not evident to the majority of Canadians, as the people in general failed to consider that wheat growing was mining the land. To Mixed Farming The efforts being made by the various departments of agriculture to turn men from "land mining" to mixed farming were referred to by Mr. James, who declared that the occupier of the land has no right to destroy the natural resources. This has been learned in England 150 years ago, and has been known in France for generations. The solution lies in mixed farming, which necessitates cheap money for the Western farmer, that he may speedily acquire stock. Most authorities on agriculture in Canada, practical farmers, bankers, railroad directors are agreed on the desirability of more mixed farming and less wheat mining. The general tendency is towards greater diversity of crops and more attention to stock. Undoubtedly, the introduction of the big gasoline tractor has encouraged the growing of very large areas of wheat with little attention to the soil, often by its absentee owners. In one of the newer sections of Saskatchewan, a man who was turning ten furrows with a tractor, was asked casually what length of furrow he could make, and he replied "Forty miles," the only thing that can stop me is the Saskatchewan River. There is not a stone or stick between me and it."

ADVICE TO FRUIT MEN

Consumers Will Always Pay For the Best "One must have the ability to produce fruit of better quality and more cheaply than his competitor to be successful in fruit-growing," said Dr. H. A. Surface, of Harrisburg, Pa., to the Niagara Fruit Growers' Association convention. "Produce the best and the consumer will pay for it. Don't put good fruit in a poor package. Feed and water a tree when it needs it, just like a person." He strongly advised specialization in any community on one class of fruits. Keeping trees low headed was recommended, as this makes it easier to prune, spray and pick. Dr. Surface expressed himself strongly in favor of cooperation among growers, both in the buying of supplies and the sale of products. In an address on "The Most Profitable Commercial Fertilizers for the Orchard," Prof. R. Harcourt, of the Ontario Agricultural College, pointed out the value of growing limonious crops, like the clover, and plowing them under for the purpose of adding nitrogen to the soil, which these crops do by means of nodules on their roots. "Nitrogen," he said, "is the most expensive and valuable of all plant foods. Potash and phosphorus are always present in the soil, and it is up to the tiller to make them available by proper methods of cultivation. Humus or decaying vegetable matter in the soil is one of the important factors in rendering all these constituents available for the use of the plants. "Many soils are deficient in lime, which is necessary to neutralize acidity and to aid in keeping the texture in the desired condition. Lime is secured cheapest in the form of dust from a stone crusher. Before buying a pound of fertilizer, one must first look to the presence and condition of organic matter and lime in his soil, and he must be prepared to give good cultivation. Of all fertilizers barnyard manure is the best, but it can be used to excess."
