

THE CHARLOTTETOWN GUARDIAN

President, W. Chester, M. L. ... Secretary, Lieut. Col. D. A. MacKinnon, D. S. O. ... Editor and Manager, J. M. Burness ...

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 25, 1925

THE COMING ELECTION

Men and women throughout Canada today are making up their minds, or have already made them up, as to how they shall vote at the coming election.

Any one of these or of similar reasons for voting is a prostitution of the sacred duty inherent in the franchise, a crime against the country and a betrayal of the trust committed to the men and the women of Canada.

There is no more sacred trust, no greater responsibility imposed upon men and women than that attached to the franchise.

As to the questions at issue in the coming election or in any election every man and woman has a perfect right to think and to choose for themselves.

The statement was immediately taken up by certain small Liberal politicians here as an intimation by Mr. Meighen that, if he became premier, he would not standardize the eastern and southern railways here.

There are too many who are content to follow the lead of others, too many who vote Liberal or Conservative because they did so at previous elections, or because their fathers had done so.

In this province of ours there are but two parties—Liberal and Conservative. So far as we are concerned and so far as Canada is concerned the main issue between the two parties is that of the tariff.

Should we have a protective tariff or a tariff sufficiently low to permit our wealthy and more populous neighbor, the United States, to pour its industrial and agricultural products into our country to undersell and to crowd out the products of our own factories and our own farms?

To the ordinary unbiased mind the question is a simple one. We have seen, for example, the price of eggs drop from 48 cents a dozen to 20 cents within one week, and the explanation was that several car-loads of American cold storage eggs had been dumped on the market at Halifax.

We have met American pork and other meats in our markets; we have met the products of American factories in our stores crowding out the products of our own farms and factories, leaving our farms vacant and our factories idle and driving our young men and women to the United States for employment.

These issues have been clearly defined by the leaders of the respective parties. Premier King declares that his policy is and shall be to further reduce the tariff, in other words, to permit American products to be dumped into Canada on the pretext that it will make those products cheaper.

Mr. Meighen, on the other hand, declares for a protective tariff, not as Liberals try to make us believe, a "high protective tariff," but a tariff that will give us an equal chance with foreigners in our own market. He declared during his recent speeches here that when he assumes the reins of government he will raise the tariff on American products as high as the American tariff on the same Canadian products.

Every intelligent elector, man or woman, can figure this out for themselves. It is a matter of fair play in our competition with America, and no elector should have any trouble in coming to a decision as to how to vote.

RAILWAY EXPENDITURE

The Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, in his speeches in Charlottetown and elsewhere, declared that if he be returned to power he will stop unnecessary capital expenditure on the Canadian National Railways.

There would be no Scribe Hotels, no political railways, no broadcasting radio stations, no railway golf links.

The statement was immediately taken up by certain small Liberal politicians here as an intimation by Mr. Meighen that, if he became premier, he would not standardize the eastern and southern railways here.

There are too many who are content to follow the lead of others, too many who vote Liberal or Conservative because they did so at previous elections, or because their fathers had done so.

In this province of ours there are but two parties—Liberal and Conservative. So far as we are concerned and so far as Canada is concerned the main issue between the two parties is that of the tariff.

Should we have a protective tariff or a tariff sufficiently low to permit our wealthy and more populous neighbor, the United States, to pour its industrial and agricultural products into our country to undersell and to crowd out the products of our own factories and our own farms?

To the ordinary unbiased mind the question is a simple one. We have seen, for example, the price of eggs drop from 48 cents a dozen to 20 cents within one week, and the explanation was that several car-loads of American cold storage eggs had been dumped on the market at Halifax.

We have met American pork and other meats in our markets; we have met the products of American factories in our stores crowding out the products of our own farms and factories, leaving our farms vacant and our factories idle and driving our young men and women to the United States for employment.

These issues have been clearly defined by the leaders of the respective parties. Premier King declares that his policy is and shall be to further reduce the tariff, in other words, to permit American products to be dumped into Canada on the pretext that it will make those products cheaper.

Mr. Meighen, on the other hand, declares for a protective tariff, not as Liberals try to make us believe, a "high protective tariff," but a tariff that will give us an equal chance with foreigners in our own market. He declared during his recent speeches here that when he assumes the reins of government he will raise the tariff on American products as high as the American tariff on the same Canadian products.

Every intelligent elector, man or woman, can figure this out for themselves. It is a matter of fair play in our competition with America, and no elector should have any trouble in coming to a decision as to how to vote.

The Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, in his speeches in Charlottetown and elsewhere, declared that if he be returned to power he will stop unnecessary capital expenditure on the Canadian National Railways.

Notes By The Way

In our notes as printed in yesterday's Guardian some absurd mistakes occurred. The writer did not read or see a proof of the notes in question. They are here reprinted as they were written.

At the election of 1911 the following members were elected to represent our three counties: Kings—J. J. Hughes, Liberal. Queens—A. A. McLean, Con. D. Nicholson, Con. Prince—J. Richards, Liberal.

The war period followed and the next federal election did not come till 1917, when the following members were elected: Kings—J. McIsaac, Con. (Queens—D. Nicholson, Con. J. E. Sinclair, Liberal. Prince—Captain J. Read, Lib.

The other day the Flight of Ministers of the King Cabinet surprised the country and alarmed all true-blue Liberals throughout the Dominion. Eleven were accounted for as having been appointed to the Senate or other official positions, or fled to other seats than those they had hitherto held, or declined to run again for Parliament. Now Hon. A. B. Copp, Secretary of State, and M. P. for Westmorland, has joined the fliers, making their number a full dozen.

And that does not include Hon. Sir Lomer Gouin, a former Minister of Justice, nor Hon. Mr. Fielding, Minister of Finance, neither of whom will have seats in the next Parliament.

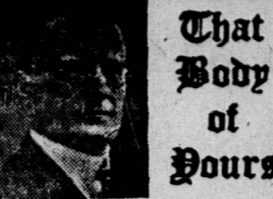

Fourteen are out, or seeking new constituencies. But Mr. Copp is out of the Government and is not looking for votes at the polls. When offered a unanimous nomination by the Liberal Convention in Moncton he declined it and informed the assembled delegates that he had tendered his resignation of the portfolio of Secretary of State. There is a vacant Senatorship in New Brunswick which is eagerly sought for by as many aspirants as there were in Prince Edward Island for like positions a few weeks ago, but Mr. Copp told his supporters he did not know whether he could get it or not, but would know within the next few days.

Notwithstanding the proverbial danger of "swapping horses when crossing a stream," the Government is taking the risk just on the verge of the cold waters of the election stream. A new Cabinet Minister must be found for New Brunswick, and Mr. Copp is to be "swapped" for the new man, generally believed to be ex-Premier Walter E. Foster, of St. John, who resigned the Premiership to Mr. Veniot two years ago, but retained his seat in the Provincial assembly until his defeat in the election of a few weeks ago.

Mr. Copp having declined to run in the coming federal election, made it necessary for the Liberal convention to find another candidate as a substitute and the choice fell upon Dr. E. A. Smith, of Shediac, a former member of the Liberal Provincial Government which has now disappeared. Dr. Smith undertakes the formidable task of contesting the federal seat in Westmorland without portfolio where Mr. Copp feared to venture as a full-fledged Cabinet Minister. It looks very much as if the nomination of Dr. Smith can serve no other purpose than to prevent the Westmorland seat going to the Conservative party by acclamation. The Opposition party and Dr. O. B. Price, their candidate, feel very confident of victory.

The outlook for the King Government in New Brunswick is dark indeed. From the first matters have gone from bad to worse with them there. Even in the dark days of 1921 the Conservatives carried as many seats as the Liberals and gained another at the by-election in Kent County when Mr. Donette captured that seat. The death of Hon. Mr. Pugsley was about as great a loss politically to the Liberal party in New Brunswick as the disability and retirement of Hon. Mr. Fielding was to that party in Nova Scotia. The overwhelming defeat of the Provincial Liberal Government has recently followed and now Hon. Mr. Copp has abandoned the field on the eve of battle. Only a discouraged and disheartened fragment of the once powerful Liberal party in New Brunswick now faces the electors.

On the other hand, Conservative prospects are growing brighter from day to day, not only in the Maritimes but throughout the Dominion. In 1922 Liberal provincial governments began to fall. First Alberta and Manitoba fell to the Progressives and since then in 1923, Ontario and Prince Edward Island were captured by the Conservatives.

By James W. Barber, M.D.

That Body of Yours

It will be welcome news to sufferers from ulcer of the stomach and of the part of the intestine next to the stomach, to learn that many cases are now cured without the knife.

I have spoke of the method of using a fine tube which extended down the throat and past the stomach and first part of intestine. The upper end was fastened by adhesive tape to cheek so that it couldn't slip down the throat. Through this tube liquid food was supplied to the stomach, the stomach had a complete rest, and the ulcer healed up in two or three weeks. Feeding just two light meals a day has also been successful in curing ulcer, because the ulcer gradually healed up during the long rest periods between meals.

However, a European physician has gone forward another step and has been successful in treating these cases by means of the X Ray. He reports a series of about forty cases, one half of which were completely cured, and of the remainder at least one half were very much improved.

The big point he emphasizes is that this treatment didn't just ease the pain and give temporary relief, but actually healed the tissues, and the ulcer disappeared entirely. In proof of this he submitted photographs taken before the treatments commenced, and again at the end of three weeks' treatment. The little depression which showed the location of the ulcer in the first picture had completely disappeared in the second.

Now Nature does her best to cure these ulcers and many patients have obtained relief by living on small quantities of soft foods. However the point that is forgotten frequently is that it is easily possible to start the trouble again by overeating or eating foods that give trouble before.

It is encouraging to know that this distressing ailment can be cured, and kept that way, with a little care and self sacrifice.

WELCOME NEWS
STUFF AND BLUFF
SIR.—The Patriot of Wednesday clashes some party bluff and stuff from the Ottawa Citizen, and in order to give some weight to the quotation designates that paper as "admirably independent."

TRUTH.
SIR.—The familiar old bluff of the Liberal press is being overworked. In Eastern Canada they preach of the big gains they are going to make in the West, and when they are hard pushed up against adversity in the West, they try to buoy up the drooping spirit of their followers there by painting illusive pictures of the situation in the East. It is their fight against blasted hopes. It is a repeat of their boasting in the P. E. Island, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick Provincial Campaigns, and will have as little effect in saving them from annihilation.

ABOLISH THE SENATE.
SIR.—You remember sometime ago me writing you a letter advocating to have the present system of appointing senators abolished. In looking over the Patriot I saw where Premier King said a man of 102 years was drawing his salary and stating that his usefulness must be put to a certain extent and he hinted that there should be a certain number of years that a Senator should act. This is the first wedge and a powerful one too and it seems a shame and almost a disgrace to have them appointed for life by a swapping machine. For this reason Premier King can have almost any party man appointed no matter his ability or knowledge of politics. Now Premier Meighen takes office and he has the same power as Mr. King had. Has not this been the practice of each party? It was the same in the United States till they abolished it and they now get their senators elected by the electors and almost all other members are just think we pay about forty thousand dollars a year for senators alone having about one hundred to legislate for a country of about nine million people. No wonder if people do emigrate, as the U. S. has not got over two-thirds of that number to govern one hundred and ten million. Now, Sir, we are nominating candidates to contest this election and we should have them pledged to support any party that will form a government to abolish the system—not the senate but the system—and then legislate on can be passed for the good of the people—not the Lawyers—the people that have to bear the burdens.

COMPANIONS OF THE NIGHT
Countless gems robe the gentle heaven
Moon and stars companions of the night
A star spoke peace from on high,
Conveying to a troubled world the light
Night, you are lovely even as day,
The full moon beams on the mountain, steep,
Above the rays no mist, as clouds appear,
The drowsy world is hushed in sleep,
Night, how wonderful and perfect
A beauteous earth looks up afar
On a thirsty land thy love descending,
Beneath a wandering moon and stars;
Shine and guide the wayfarer home
And through the lonely casement gleams
Light, the way of the wandering moon,
On mansions and halls thy radiant beams,
Moon and stars, protecting land and sea,
Gleaming on the cradle and the grave,
Light the thorny ways of those that roam,
Watch from the distant heaven and save,
Earth thou is divinely blest
With glorious inspiring light,
Your silvery rays robe the heavens
Moon and stars companions of the night.
—Barbara Deandie.

COMPANIONS OF THE NIGHT
Countless gems robe the gentle heaven
Moon and stars companions of the night
A star spoke peace from on high,
Conveying to a troubled world the light
Night, you are lovely even as day,
The full moon beams on the mountain, steep,
Above the rays no mist, as clouds appear,
The drowsy world is hushed in sleep,
Night, how wonderful and perfect
A beauteous earth looks up afar
On a thirsty land thy love descending,
Beneath a wandering moon and stars;
Shine and guide the wayfarer home
And through the lonely casement gleams
Light, the way of the wandering moon,
On mansions and halls thy radiant beams,
Moon and stars, protecting land and sea,
Gleaming on the cradle and the grave,
Light the thorny ways of those that roam,
Watch from the distant heaven and save,
Earth thou is divinely blest
With glorious inspiring light,
Your silvery rays robe the heavens
Moon and stars companions of the night.
—Barbara Deandie.

COMPANIONS OF THE NIGHT
Countless gems robe the gentle heaven
Moon and stars companions of the night
A star spoke peace from on high,
Conveying to a troubled world the light
Night, you are lovely even as day,
The full moon beams on the mountain, steep,
Above the rays no mist, as clouds appear,
The drowsy world is hushed in sleep,
Night, how wonderful and perfect
A beauteous earth looks up afar
On a thirsty land thy love descending,
Beneath a wandering moon and stars;
Shine and guide the wayfarer home
And through the lonely casement gleams
Light, the way of the wandering moon,
On mansions and halls thy radiant beams,
Moon and stars, protecting land and sea,
Gleaming on the cradle and the grave,
Light the thorny ways of those that roam,
Watch from the distant heaven and save,
Earth thou is divinely blest
With glorious inspiring light,
Your silvery rays robe the heavens
Moon and stars companions of the night.
—Barbara Deandie.

COMPANIONS OF THE NIGHT
Countless gems robe the gentle heaven
Moon and stars companions of the night
A star spoke peace from on high,
Conveying to a troubled world the light
Night, you are lovely even as day,
The full moon beams on the mountain, steep,
Above the rays no mist, as clouds appear,
The drowsy world is hushed in sleep,
Night, how wonderful and perfect
A beauteous earth looks up afar
On a thirsty land thy love descending,
Beneath a wandering moon and stars;
Shine and guide the wayfarer home
And through the lonely casement gleams
Light, the way of the wandering moon,
On mansions and halls thy radiant beams,
Moon and stars, protecting land and sea,
Gleaming on the cradle and the grave,
Light the thorny ways of those that roam,
Watch from the distant heaven and save,
Earth thou is divinely blest
With glorious inspiring light,
Your silvery rays robe the heavens
Moon and stars companions of the night.
—Barbara Deandie.

COMPANIONS OF THE NIGHT
Countless gems robe the gentle heaven
Moon and stars companions of the night
A star spoke peace from on high,
Conveying to a troubled world the light
Night, you are lovely even as day,
The full moon beams on the mountain, steep,
Above the rays no mist, as clouds appear,
The drowsy world is hushed in sleep,
Night, how wonderful and perfect
A beauteous earth looks up afar
On a thirsty land thy love descending,
Beneath a wandering moon and stars;
Shine and guide the wayfarer home
And through the lonely casement gleams
Light, the way of the wandering moon,
On mansions and halls thy radiant beams,
Moon and stars, protecting land and sea,
Gleaming on the cradle and the grave,
Light the thorny ways of those that roam,
Watch from the distant heaven and save,
Earth thou is divinely blest
With glorious inspiring light,
Your silvery rays robe the heavens
Moon and stars companions of the night.
—Barbara Deandie.

COMPANIONS OF THE NIGHT
Countless gems robe the gentle heaven
Moon and stars companions of the night
A star spoke peace from on high,
Conveying to a troubled world the light
Night, you are lovely even as day,
The full moon beams on the mountain, steep,
Above the rays no mist, as clouds appear,
The drowsy world is hushed in sleep,
Night, how wonderful and perfect
A beauteous earth looks up afar
On a thirsty land thy love descending,
Beneath a wandering moon and stars;
Shine and guide the wayfarer home
And through the lonely casement gleams
Light, the way of the wandering moon,
On mansions and halls thy radiant beams,
Moon and stars, protecting land and sea,
Gleaming on the cradle and the grave,
Light the thorny ways of those that roam,
Watch from the distant heaven and save,
Earth thou is divinely blest
With glorious inspiring light,
Your silvery rays robe the heavens
Moon and stars companions of the night.
—Barbara Deandie.

COMPANIONS OF THE NIGHT
Countless gems robe the gentle heaven
Moon and stars companions of the night
A star spoke peace from on high,
Conveying to a troubled world the light
Night, you are lovely even as day,
The full moon beams on the mountain, steep,
Above the rays no mist, as clouds appear,
The drowsy world is hushed in sleep,
Night, how wonderful and perfect
A beauteous earth looks up afar
On a thirsty land thy love descending,
Beneath a wandering moon and stars;
Shine and guide the wayfarer home
And through the lonely casement gleams
Light, the way of the wandering moon,
On mansions and halls thy radiant beams,
Moon and stars, protecting land and sea,
Gleaming on the cradle and the grave,
Light the thorny ways of those that roam,
Watch from the distant heaven and save,
Earth thou is divinely blest
With glorious inspiring light,
Your silvery rays robe the heavens
Moon and stars companions of the night.
—Barbara Deandie.

The Public Forum

This column is open for the discussion by correspondents of questions of interest. The Charlottetown Guardian does not necessarily endorse the opinions of correspondents.

A FORLORN HOPE
SIR.—Senator Leard from Western Canada, interviewed by the Halifax Herald, estimated a big falling off in the Progressive representation which—as in Ontario—is going to pieces. This change of sentiment in the West he claimed will ensure to the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen a following of 25 to 30 seats beyond the great lakes. He also intimated that the Liberals will make some gains from the Progressive defection but they will be very few, as the large centres were swinging towards Agricultural Protection.

This last suggestion, that the Liberals will make "some few gains" was grasped by the Government press (including the Patriot) and enlarged upon as a wonderful production of a real Conservative that the King Government was the whole and only thing in the West. Another glowing example of the throwing man grapple was not far off. I am Sir, etc.

STERN FACTS
SIR.—The Patriot of Wednesday clashes some party bluff and stuff from the Ottawa Citizen, and in order to give some weight to the quotation designates that paper as "admirably independent."

TRUTH.
SIR.—The familiar old bluff of the Liberal press is being overworked. In Eastern Canada they preach of the big gains they are going to make in the West, and when they are hard pushed up against adversity in the West, they try to buoy up the drooping spirit of their followers there by painting illusive pictures of the situation in the East. It is their fight against blasted hopes. It is a repeat of their boasting in the P. E. Island, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick Provincial Campaigns, and will have as little effect in saving them from annihilation.

ABOLISH THE SENATE.
SIR.—You remember sometime ago me writing you a letter advocating to have the present system of appointing senators abolished. In looking over the Patriot I saw where Premier King said a man of 102 years was drawing his salary and stating that his usefulness must be put to a certain extent and he hinted that there should be a certain number of years that a Senator should act. This is the first wedge and a powerful one too and it seems a shame and almost a disgrace to have them appointed for life by a swapping machine. For this reason Premier King can have almost any party man appointed no matter his ability or knowledge of politics. Now Premier Meighen takes office and he has the same power as Mr. King had. Has not this been the practice of each party? It was the same in the United States till they abolished it and they now get their senators elected by the electors and almost all other members are just think we pay about forty thousand dollars a year for senators alone having about one hundred to legislate for a country of about nine million people. No wonder if people do emigrate, as the U. S. has not got over two-thirds of that number to govern one hundred and ten million. Now, Sir, we are nominating candidates to contest this election and we should have them pledged to support any party that will form a government to abolish the system—not the senate but the system—and then legislate on can be passed for the good of the people—not the Lawyers—the people that have to bear the burdens.

COMPANIONS OF THE NIGHT
Countless gems robe the gentle heaven
Moon and stars companions of the night
A star spoke peace from on high,
Conveying to a troubled world the light
Night, you are lovely even as day,
The full moon beams on the mountain, steep,
Above the rays no mist, as clouds appear,
The drowsy world is hushed in sleep,
Night, how wonderful and perfect
A beauteous earth looks up afar
On a thirsty land thy love descending,
Beneath a wandering moon and stars;
Shine and guide the wayfarer home
And through the lonely casement gleams
Light, the way of the wandering moon,
On mansions and halls thy radiant beams,
Moon and stars, protecting land and sea,
Gleaming on the cradle and the grave,
Light the thorny ways of those that roam,
Watch from the distant heaven and save,
Earth thou is divinely blest
With glorious inspiring light,
Your silvery rays robe the heavens
Moon and stars companions of the night.
—Barbara Deandie.

COMPANIONS OF THE NIGHT
Countless gems robe the gentle heaven
Moon and stars companions of the night
A star spoke peace from on high,
Conveying to a troubled world the light
Night, you are lovely even as day,
The full moon beams on the mountain, steep,
Above the rays no mist, as clouds appear,
The drowsy world is hushed in sleep,
Night, how wonderful and perfect
A beauteous earth looks up afar
On a thirsty land thy love descending,
Beneath a wandering moon and stars;
Shine and guide the wayfarer home
And through the lonely casement gleams
Light, the way of the wandering moon,
On mansions and halls thy radiant beams,
Moon and stars, protecting land and sea,
Gleaming on the cradle and the grave,
Light the thorny ways of those that roam,
Watch from the distant heaven and save,
Earth thou is divinely blest
With glorious inspiring light,
Your silvery rays robe the heavens
Moon and stars companions of the night.
—Barbara Deandie.

COMPANIONS OF THE NIGHT
Countless gems robe the gentle heaven
Moon and stars companions of the night
A star spoke peace from on high,
Conveying to a troubled world the light
Night, you are lovely even as day,
The full moon beams on the mountain, steep,
Above the rays no mist, as clouds appear,
The drowsy world is hushed in sleep,
Night, how wonderful and perfect
A beauteous earth looks up afar
On a thirsty land thy love descending,
Beneath a wandering moon and stars;
Shine and guide the wayfarer home
And through the lonely casement gleams
Light, the way of the wandering moon,
On mansions and halls thy radiant beams,
Moon and stars, protecting land and sea,
Gleaming on the cradle and the grave,
Light the thorny ways of those that roam,
Watch from the distant heaven and save,
Earth thou is divinely blest
With glorious inspiring light,
Your silvery rays robe the heavens
Moon and stars companions of the night.
—Barbara Deandie.

COMPANIONS OF THE NIGHT
Countless gems robe the gentle heaven
Moon and stars companions of the night
A star spoke peace from on high,
Conveying to a troubled world the light
Night, you are lovely even as day,
The full moon beams on the mountain, steep,
Above the rays no mist, as clouds appear,
The drowsy world is hushed in sleep,
Night, how wonderful and perfect
A beauteous earth looks up afar
On a thirsty land thy love descending,
Beneath a wandering moon and stars;
Shine and guide the wayfarer home
And through the lonely casement gleams
Light, the way of the wandering moon,
On mansions and halls thy radiant beams,
Moon and stars, protecting land and sea,
Gleaming on the cradle and the grave,
Light the thorny ways of those that roam,
Watch from the distant heaven and save,
Earth thou is divinely blest
With glorious inspiring light,
Your silvery rays robe the heavens
Moon and stars companions of the night.
—Barbara Deandie.

COMPANIONS OF THE NIGHT
Countless gems robe the gentle heaven
Moon and stars companions of the night
A star spoke peace from on high,
Conveying to a troubled world the light
Night, you are lovely even as day,
The full moon beams on the mountain, steep,
Above the rays no mist, as clouds appear,
The drowsy world is hushed in sleep,
Night, how wonderful and perfect
A beauteous earth looks up afar
On a thirsty land thy love descending,
Beneath a wandering moon and stars;
Shine and guide the wayfarer home
And through the lonely casement gleams
Light, the way of the wandering moon,
On mansions and halls thy radiant beams,
Moon and stars, protecting land and sea,
Gleaming on the cradle and the grave,
Light the thorny ways of those that roam,
Watch from the distant heaven and save,
Earth thou is divinely blest
With glorious inspiring light,
Your silvery rays robe the heavens
Moon and stars companions of the night.
—Barbara Deandie.

COMPANIONS OF THE NIGHT
Countless gems robe the gentle heaven
Moon and stars companions of the night
A star spoke peace from on high,
Conveying to a troubled world the light
Night, you are lovely even as day,
The full moon beams on the mountain, steep,
Above the rays no mist, as clouds appear,
The drowsy world is hushed in sleep,
Night, how wonderful and perfect
A beauteous earth looks up afar
On a thirsty land thy love descending,
Beneath a wandering moon and stars;
Shine and guide the wayfarer home
And through the lonely casement gleams
Light, the way of the wandering moon,
On mansions and halls thy radiant beams,
Moon and stars, protecting land and sea,
Gleaming on the cradle and the grave,
Light the thorny ways of those that roam,
Watch from the distant heaven and save,
Earth thou is divinely blest
With glorious inspiring light,
Your silvery rays robe the heavens
Moon and stars companions of the night.
—Barbara Deandie.

COMPANIONS OF THE NIGHT
Countless gems robe the gentle heaven
Moon and stars companions of the night
A star spoke peace from on high,
Conveying to a troubled world the light
Night, you are lovely even as day,
The full moon beams on the mountain, steep,
Above the rays no mist, as clouds appear,
The drowsy world is hushed in sleep,
Night, how wonderful and perfect
A beauteous earth looks up afar
On a thirsty land thy love descending,
Beneath a wandering moon and stars;
Shine and guide the wayfarer home
And through the lonely casement gleams
Light, the way of the wandering moon,
On mansions and halls thy radiant beams,
Moon and stars, protecting land and sea,
Gleaming on the cradle and the grave,
Light the thorny ways of those that roam,
Watch from the distant heaven and save,
Earth thou is divinely blest
With glorious inspiring light,
Your silvery rays robe the heavens
Moon and stars companions of the night.
—Barbara Deandie.

COMPANIONS OF THE NIGHT
Countless gems robe the gentle heaven
Moon and stars companions of the night
A star spoke peace from on high,
Conveying to a troubled world the light
Night, you are lovely even as day,
The full moon beams on the mountain, steep,
Above the rays no mist, as clouds appear,
The drowsy world is hushed in sleep,
Night, how wonderful and perfect
A beauteous earth looks up afar
On a thirsty land thy love descending,
Beneath a wandering moon and stars;
Shine and guide the wayfarer home
And through the lonely casement gleams
Light, the way of the wandering moon,
On mansions and halls thy radiant beams,
Moon and stars, protecting land and sea,
Gleaming on the cradle and the grave,
Light the thorny ways of those that roam,
Watch from the distant heaven and save,
Earth thou is divinely blest
With glorious inspiring light,
Your silvery rays robe the heavens
Moon and stars companions of the night.
—Barbara Deandie.

COMPANIONS OF THE NIGHT
Countless gems robe the gentle heaven
Moon and stars companions of the night
A star spoke peace from on high,
Conveying to a troubled world the light
Night, you are lovely even as day,
The full moon beams on the mountain, steep,
Above the rays no mist, as clouds appear,
The drowsy world is hushed in sleep,
Night, how wonderful and perfect
A beauteous earth looks up afar
On a thirsty land thy love descending,
Beneath a wandering moon and stars;
Shine and guide the wayfarer home
And through the lonely casement gleams
Light, the way of the wandering moon,
On mansions and halls thy radiant beams,
Moon and stars, protecting land and sea,
Gleaming on the cradle and the grave,
Light the thorny ways of those that roam,
Watch from the distant heaven and save,
Earth thou is divinely blest
With glorious inspiring light,
Your silvery rays robe the heavens
Moon and stars companions of the night.
—Barbara Deandie.

COMPANIONS OF THE NIGHT
Countless gems robe the gentle heaven
Moon and stars companions of the night
A star spoke peace from on high,
Conveying to a troubled world the light
Night, you are lovely even as day,
The full moon beams on the mountain, steep,
Above the rays no mist, as clouds appear,
The drowsy world is hushed in sleep,
Night, how wonderful and perfect
A beauteous earth looks up afar
On a thirsty land thy love descending,
Beneath a wandering moon and stars;
Shine and guide the wayfarer home
And through the lonely casement gleams
Light, the way of the wandering moon,
On mansions and halls thy radiant beams,
Moon and stars, protecting land and sea,
Gleaming on the cradle and the grave,
Light the thorny ways of those that roam,
Watch from the distant heaven and save,
Earth thou is divinely blest
With glorious inspiring light,
Your silvery rays robe the heavens
Moon and stars companions of the night.
—Barbara Deandie.

HEINTZMAN & CO. PIANOS YE OLDE FIRME. The Heintzman & Co. Concert Grand was used by the great De Pachmann on each of his Canadian tours.

Choose for Your Home the Instrument great Artists acclaim. Visit Our Store. See and hear these Heintzman instruments and we are sure you will be convinced of their superiority over all other makes of Pianos.

MILLER BROS. Great George Street. Lloyd George Expected To Come Back. NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Lloyd George is expected by the British public to come back if he vigorously takes up the matter of economic relief, better housing and the liquor problem according to Rev. Dr. Cadman head of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. He returned yesterday from a European tour.

E. R. BROW. 146 RICHMOND STREET CHARLOTTETOWN. Fire, Life, Accident, Sickness and Plate Glass Insurance at Lowest Rate. Agent at Summerside, Lloyd Lewis Good Strong Stock Companies.

The Charlottetown Fox Breeders Protective Association. Organized by a group of Fox Ranchers in the vicinity of Charlottetown for the purpose of giving financial support to each other for the prosecution of parties who molest or steal from the members' ranches.

IZAL Kills Germs. IZAL is the modern High-power Germicide and is recommended by the Dominion Department and used by all leading farmers. We will gladly supply full directions.

THE 2 MACS. 149 Great George Street McDonald & Bradley Proprietors. MAIL ORDERS RECEIVE PROMPT ATTENTION.