In Memoriam

MRS. FRANK WILLIS

A sad gloom was cast over Kingston and surrounding district by the sudden death of Mrs. Frank Willis (formerly Miss Ethel Bowman of North Wiltshire.) She was of a very kind and cheerful disposition, always willing to help in every good cause, a faithful member of the Methodist Church and W. M. S. There are left to mourn her sorrowing husband, also a little boy and 3 other members of her family are her father Mr. Wm. Bowman, one brother Aquila Bowman of North Wiltshire; two sisters Mrs. Arthur Smith, North Wiltshire and Mrs. Charles Miller, Vancouver, B.C. The funeral which was largely attended took place at Kingston cemetery on February 27 the services being conducted at the house and grave by her pastor Rev. S. D. Webster. The pall bearers were Chester Edwards, Robert Edwards, Geo. Green, Wm. Green, Geo. Paynter and Wm. Paul.

MRS. JAMES McDONALD.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Augustine McIntyre of Bayside, Lot 14, was overshadowed by sorrow when the sad news came to them by telegram that their youngest daughter Eva, beloved wife of Mr. James McDonald had died at the Sisters Hospital in New York of double pneumonia on January 29th. A few days before the tidings of her serious illness had been received but it was fondly hoped that she might recover. But God in His Divine Providence called her otherwise and she passed peacefully away fortified by the last consoling rites of Mother Church of which she was ever a faithful and devout member.

Deceased was ever of such a kind and loving disposition that none knew her but to love her none named her but to praise. For her many friends and acquaintances she had always the kind word and sunny smile, and by her ever abiding patience and unselfishness she gained lasting friendship and undying love in the home circle which had so long been brightened by her presence but now cruelly saddened by the unflinching hand of death her memory will long be fondly cherished as one of those rare flowers which God sends to earth but plucks so soon to bloom forever in Heaven. On Feb 3rd her remains accompanied by her sorrowing husband, two brothers, John and Gussie and her sister Jessie were brought to her home in Bayside where a large crowd of sympathizing friends and neighbors awaited. Few could realize as they gazed on the fair young form, beautiful in death, that those lips were forever dumb and those hands clasped over the cold and pulsating breast were clasped for eternity.

On Feb 5th the large funeral cortege wended its sorrowful way to St. Patrick's Church, Grand River where a Requiem mass was sung by the pastor, Rev. J. A. McDonald after which the remains were tenderly laid to rest in the family plot to await a glorious Resurrection. The pall bearers were Jimmie and Herman McIntyre, Basil, Michael and Sandy Morrison and Harold Brown. There are left besides her grief stricken husband and parents, Mrs. L. McDonald, Mattapan, Mass., Joseph and John A. in Maine, Mrs. P. Kilbridge, Port Hill and Jessie and Gussie now at home. These mourn the loss of one whose place can never be filled on this side of the grave. May the Lord grant unto her Eternal rest and may the light of His love shine upon her forever.

...SOURIS BRANCH G. W. V. A. annual meeting will be held in their rooms at 8 p. m. on Tuesday the 23rd inst. Business—election of officers and other important matters. A full attendance is requested. 7546-3-11ME61

...A BUSY SPOT.—Mr. N. J. Nicholson, is enlarging his garage to suit his ever increasing business. He has a good staff of efficient helpers, all returned soldiers! He keeps his help the year around, for he is busy all the time, putting cars in condition for next season's wear.—T.

"The Greatest Thing in Life"

Griffith Creation of Sweet Human Traits Brought Out in War at Once a Love Story and a Grand Spectacle

To the millions of soldiers coming home, to millions of others at home and their sweethearts and wives, the military story which is not a sham, which may be intensified in action, just as life is intensified in drama, will not lose its charm during this generation. There is more melodrama, more exquisite pathos, more comedy material, for that matter, more real drama stored up in the events of the war than in all our previous history. The playwright who ignores this, and Griffith is not one of them, ignores the spirit of the age, Griffith is essentially a playwright, both by nature and training, and he is wise in his generation to seize upon those themes which are closest to the hearts of our people.

The greatest thing in life, that which is responsible for flowering the earth with children, is love human love, if it must be so designated. Love is above the animal instinct, beautifying and enriching it in a thousand ways, one of these being the idealism of woman-kind, another the illusions of man. He must have his illusions, or he refuses to love, quits when they are destroyed, while she, the world mother, loves, on in spite of losing them.

Says Drug Is An Ether Compound

JUST A FEW DROPS LOOSENS ANY CORN SO IT LIFTS OUT WITHOUT PAIN

You simply say to the drug store man, "Give me a quarter of an ounce of freezone." This will cost very little but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn from one's feet.

A few drops applied directly upon a tender, aching corn should relieve the soreness instantly, and soon the entire corn, root and all, can be lifted out with the fingers without pain.

This new drug called freezone is an ether compound discovered by a Cincinnati man, who says that while freezone is sticky it dries in a moment, and simply shrivels up the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. Don't let father die of infection or lockjaw from whitening at his corns, but cut this out and make him try it.

Such is the theme of Griffith's story, with Lillian Gish in an exquisite portrayal of the thoroughly feminine character that seeks to be impressed, her performance straight through being without a blemish, a beautiful characterization.

A crowded house at the Prince Edward began to applaud pure artistry, a wondrous scene in the air, of upruling smoke from exploding bombs, across which an occasional aeroplane was seen darting, and these scenes are beyond the ordinary, as far removed from clap trap as any of the kind ever shown on the screen. That applause rises as the action goes on partly from relieved suspense, partly because we realize now that we are reading history in picture form. The only marred detail, some early subtle commentaries, are forgotten in the splendid merits of the production, in its tender notes of pathos, its sincerity, its beauty, its grandeur. No desecrating person can see "The Greatest Thing in Life" and not sigh for more Griffiths. This splendid picture will be repeated today for the last time.

HER NIGHTCAP WAS "FLU PREVENTIVE"

(New York Herald)

"I want a nightcap and I want it right away," said a sleepy masculine voice over the telephone to Eugene D. Miller, secretary and treasurer of the Parkway Square group of hotels, at the Biltmore late last night.

More peculiar requests than that have found their way to Mr. Miller since prohibition went into effect, and he naturally supposed it was a drink that was wanted.

"It's not for me," the voice went on. "It's for my wife. She is subject to colds, and she wishes to take every precaution against influenza."

"Hold the wire a minute," replied Mr. Miller, as he thought of all his friends and of his own empty cellar, and then returned to the telephone, saying:

"I'm very sorry, sir, but we haven't a thing in the house. There isn't a drop to be—"

"But I don't want —," the sojourner began.

"I know, I know," began the treasurer, "and we would be very glad to accommodate you, but every bit of our stock has been removed from the hotel and disposed of weeks ago."

"But I don't want what you think I want," the sojourner finally explained. "No?"

"No! My wife wants a night cap—a regular nightcap—one that goes on the head and not to the head; you know, with lace and trimmings and all that stuff." A maid found a nightcap.

"His friends are glad to see their genial friend Mr. Cecil Hynes Montague, out again after his long and trying illness.—T.
