ENJOYABLE CRUISE.—Mr. James Rafuse of Windsor, N. S., who has been Chief Engineer on Senator Curry's yacht, "Milcent" for the past four weeks sailing on the Bras d'Or Lakes, Strait of Canso and P. E. Island waters, returned home last Saturday. Mr. Rafuse is delighted with the beauties of the trip.

A MEAN THEFT.—On Monday evening while Mr. Peter McMahon, of Kensington was driving into Summerside by car, he was run into by a Georgetown car, near the railway crossing at Travellers Rest and his machine was so badly damaged, having a wheel broken, that it had to be left on the road while Mr. McMahon proceeded to Summerside for help. On arriving back he was dismayed at finding two of his tires missing. Having been absent from his home for sometime he left the car again and went into Kensington to report his accident and loss but returned shortly to the stranded car and found that thieves had again visited the machine and this time the remaining two tires and batteries had been removed. Needless to say Mr. McMahon is greatly disturbed over his loss and every means will be taken to locate the thieves.

MEMORIAL SERVICE.—The annual Memorial Service in memory of the men who made the supreme sacrifice in the great war, at the Geddie Memorial Church in French River, where a fine monument has been erected, was held on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 10th. This annual celebration loses none of the interest first shown in the unavailing of the monument 4 years ago. The Church grounds was filled with carriages and cars long before the hour of service arrived. Deep solemnity characterized the greetings of the people as they met each other and walked to view the floral decorations about the monument. Three new names were found engraved upon it. Archibald Cousins, deceased, who died at St. Agathe; their deaths caused by the sufferings of the war. The Rev. George Millar, Minister of the Church in which the services were held, presided and conducted the devotional exercises. Special music was furnished by the choir of the Presby. Church of Long River and the Church of England French River, assisting the choir of the Geddie Memorial Church—their most suitable selection rendered so well contributed much to the impressiveness of the occasion. The address of the Rev. Mr. Spriggs of the Church of England, who spoke from the words "He Maketh Wars to Cease unto the End of the Earth" was a fine inspiring appeal. The way by which God made wars to cease required the enlistment of all. A monument in our hearts embodying the spirit of supreme sacrifice to Christ's cause was listened to those words of comfort over the past and hope for the future. Many who could not gain admission to the church building heard well at the open windows. A generous offering was made for the care of the monument and the expense connected with the engraving of the three new names.

The Family Physician.—The good doctor is always worth his fee. But it is not always possible to get a doctor just when you want him. In such cases, common sense suggests the use of reliable home remedies, such as Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, which is wonderfully effective in easing inflammatory pains and healing cuts, scratches, bruises and sprains. The presence of this remedy in the family medicine chest saves many a fee.

No man or woman should hobble painfully about because of corns when so certain a relief is at hand as Holloway's Corn Remover.

PRINCE EDWARD TODAY AND THURSDAY

New Mineral Named for P. E. I. Miner

The following article will be of interest to many in this Province as Mr. Gillespie referred to is a brother of Mr. George Gillespie and Mr. William Gillespie, blacksmith of Clyde River. Another brother is Gordon Gillespie, of Mayo. KENO CITY.—Frank Gillespie, well known claim owner and prospector of the Keno camp, who also is among those who joined in the recent winter stampede to Beaver, and with his fast dog team, formerly owned by Lilly Anstee of Dawson got there in time to stake close to discovery on the rich new find on Grey Copper Hill, near only figures has become known in the scientific world, which has perpetuated his name in honor of the discovery by name of a new mineral. The new mineral is termed "Gillespie" and was found by Mr. Gillespie when he was prospecting in Alaska, about 100 miles from Fairbanks. Mr. Gillespie found there in remote mountains a peculiar pinkish or reddish mineral. Specimens were shown to Philip S. Smith, acting director of the United States Geological Survey who took them to Washington, D. C., and there had them analyzed. Mr. Smith wrote to Mr. Gillespie, in part, as follows: "The chemical laboratory of the United States Geological Survey has been looking over some of the specimens from your place that I brought back with me, and I am glad to tell you that the reddish mineral which came from the glacier back of your place is apparently a new and hitherto undiscovered mineral, consisting largely of iron, barium and silica. Unfortunately it has no commercial value, but because it is new, the Geological Survey department is anxious to obtain some more of the material, and would be glad of any information regarding the kinds of rocks in which it occurs, and any other facts of geological significance. I will write you further."

A carefully prepared article by W. T. Schaller on the new mineral was published in one of the U. S. Geological reports, and it resulted in numerous inquiries regarding Mr. Gillespie from mineralogists all over America. Samples also were requested, but Mr. Gillespie, on coming to Keno some two years ago, brought no sample with him. It is an unusual mineral in its value and in the interest of the meantime Mr. Gillespie is satisfied to follow the lure of the great silver-lead fields of Keno and Beaver. He is a brother to R. L. Gillespie, veteran Dawson miner, now mining in the Red Lake, or the Mayo mining district. The article in the U. S. Geological report on "Gillespie" is as follows:

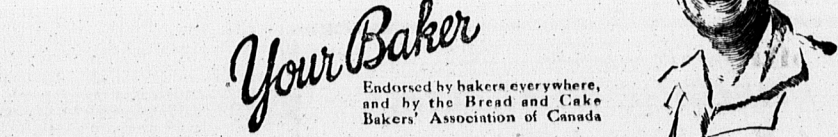

Mineralogy.—Gillespie, a new mineral. Waldeemar T. Schaller, U. S. Geological Survey. A small rock specimen collected from a moraine near his claim near the head of Dry Delta, Alaska range (about 100 miles S. E. of Fairbanks, Alaska, by Mr. Frank Gillespie (after whom the mineral is named), of Richardson, Alaska, was brought to the U. S. Geological Survey by Dr. Philip S. Smith of the Survey. The rock specimen is composed of a micaceous mineral (gillespite), with a strong red color, which could not be identified by simple tests. By chemical analysis the mineral proved to be a silicate of ferrous iron and barium with the composition Fe²⁺BaSiO₁₀. Two other minerals, a grayish green diopside and a white barium green diopside and a white barium feldspar, with the red silicates, compose the rock. Several other minerals are seen in this section, but only in very small quantities. The mode of occurrence of the rock is not known but it suggests contact metamorphism with the development of abundant barium minerals. The red gillespite forms thick scaly masses from one to five millimeters across and nearly as thick. The rock mass is compact and although no crystal faces are detected, thin sections of the rock suggest an occasional terminal plane on a gillespite. The mineral does not scale off like mica, but the basal cleavage is very well developed. The physical properties are: brittle, H.—4, sp. gr.—3.33. Luster vitreous color red, streak pink. The color is close to Ridge way's "Pomegranate Purple," Pl. X I, hue no. 71, tone "d," and to "Spinel Red," XXVI, hue no. 71, tone "d." Translucent. Optically uniaxial, negative, birefringence very low, strongly pleochroic. Reflective indices: (near red) 1.619, (pale pink to nearly colorless) 1.621. In the blow-pipe flame, gillespite fuses easily and quietly to a black non-magnetic globule. Heated in a closed tube, it darkens and assumes a deep violet color, the original red color being regained on cooling.

King Declines To Sign Treaty CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 12.—Advices from Mecca say King Hussein Hedjaz declined to sign the proposed treaty between Great Britain and Hedjaz, negotiated by the King's London representative Dr. Naji El Assie. The refusal of King to sign the treaty is said to have been due to pressure by the Palestine Arab executive which urged him not to ratify it unless Palestine was made part of the Arab confederation. In defiance of the Balfour declaration establishing the Jewish National homeland, Palestine. DICKENS BRINGS GOOD PRICE LONDON, Aug. 12.—The record price of $7,000 was paid at an auction recently for the first issue of the first edition of "Pickwick." In the original numbers and wraps, brought out in 1836-7. There was keen competition from American collectors, but the copy was secured by a Londoner. After keen bidding against American buyers, another Englishman secured a first edition copy of Grays Elegy printed in 1751, for $7,750. The copy contains six pages and was considered by the original collector to be incomparable. Mistress: "Mary, your young man has such an air of braggadochio about him."
