Child Welfare

Report on Child Welfare given by Mrs. Allan Wyand, at Federated Women's Institute.

Dear Fellow Members—Again we come to the close of a year of constant effort on behalf of the children of the Island, and once again we must report on our ownership.

I received 128 replies to questionnaires against the last year but I am sure this does not denote lack of interest. I know some consider the questionnaires very monotonous but we never can estimate the value of the questionnaires until we learn to build our monthly programs on one or more of these papers.

The material available is unlimited and a good way is to list up papers read on subjects, studied each year. In this way much ground may be covered and knowledge be gained.

The interest in school improvement for health of children is quite wonderful. I would like to specially mention here the splendid report read by the convener of public health teacher and children to have the schools cleaned monthly instead of twice a year, which was the case a few years ago.

Several schools' report lighting system changed, also new seats for correction. The sanitary condition of the school toilets are also being emphasized. Many schools are giving much attention to the beautifying of the grounds by flower gardens etc. If flowers mean so much happiness for grown-ups what about children?

Vaccination has been given special attention also adenoid treatment.

Glasses do not seem to be in much demand, due, no doubt to the zealous work of the Rest Cross Nurses in having an effect?

I am glad to note that some report papers and books on Child Welfare, read and discussed. If we read a book and discuss it, so much the better for our members and they are also much better understood.

For years now your convener has spent much time on the movement for Dental Health, and we are glad to report definite progress has been made. Enlisting the support of our Government on our behalf, we are now able to announce that Dental Clinics are possible and free to all children up to 12 years of age. Dr. Thompson travelled last winter under difficult conditions and secured wherever possible and now it is up to ourselves to make this wonderful offer a success. Ask the Public Health Department for a clinic in your school district and learn the provisions made for such. We have much need for us to specialize a bit on what Malnutrition may imply. A child may be fed on the fat of the land and yet be undernourished. It is a study of food value, we need to suggest in these cases, and I am afraid they are many.

Respectfully submitted, Katherine C. Wyand.

School Experts To Tour Canada Exchange Views

(By The Canadian Press)

LONDON, July 9—British directors of education, including several men who are credited with notable achievements in various fields of pedagogy, will visit Canada in the autumn to lecture on educational developments abroad.

In their turn the 12 outstanding educationists who comprise the party will conduct a survey of educational and industrial progress in Canada with relation to the Empire.

Members of the party are being selected not only for their educational qualifications but geographically as well, so as to represent to Canadian audiences the most comprehensive picture possible of British developments in their respective fields.

The party, due to arrive at Quebec Sept. 5, will include G. T. Hankin, chief staff inspector of the English Board of Education and directors of education for various English and Scottish districts. Care will be taken to include a director from one of the industrial areas where education of unemployed adolescents and single men is a principal factor.

Representatives of the London County Council Education Committee, the Welsh Education Department and the Northern Ireland education ministry will be in the party.

Directors of the group will give addresses and demonstrations of general interest to the public, as well as to audiences of a definitely educational character. For example Mr. Hankin will take one or two programs of educational films and Blatnerphone records of school broadcasts. It is the intention of the party to present various programs in centres where time permits.

From Quebec to British directors will go to Ottawa for a three-day visit. The party will journey to Sudbury, Sept. 9, where an inspection of mines will be made. The party plans a trip west, visiting Fort Arthur, Fort William, Kenora, Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Calgary, Banff, Lake Louise and Vancouver.

The educationists will arrive in Toronto on the return trip east, Oct. 5, and will remain there for five days.

Leaving Toronto the party will visit Kingston, Montreal, Fredericton, Saint John, Digby and Halifax. The visitors will return to Quebec Oct. 23 sailing for England three days later.

WINSLOE NORTH SCHOOL

The closing exercises of Winsloe North School were held on the afternoon of June 27th with a large attendance of parents and visitors.

The pupils were examined in the various subjects by their teacher, Keith M. Johnston, and showed by their quick and ready response how well they were instructed during the past year.

The Premier said even now he is not satisfied and continues to show that venomous display of temper.

Mr. Geo. M. Matthews

Mr. George M. Matthews was the first speaker and was given an attentive hearing as he ably reviewed the record of the Conservative Government. In speaking of the plank in the Liberal platform remaining revenue and expenditure meet, how he asked, did they propose to do that? By cutting down salaries, reducing the work on the roads and so on.

They must either do that, and the people will have little or no work on a day, or they must follow the line of least resistance and increase taxation. He warned the people to remember the Bell Government who taxed the people to bring revenue. There was much applause when in conclusion Mr. Matthews spoke of the many benefits that the 1st District had received during the Conservative rule, many more than they had received under Liberal rule.

In his ten minutes rebuttal at the close Mr. Matthews replied to the misleading statements of the Liberal speakers, that additional expense had been incurred with the appointing of Stipendiary Magistrates. The office, Mr. Matthews explained had first been created by the Liberals when in power and the only change made was that the Conservative Government had appointed three men, one in each County, their combined salaries being the same as that paid to the one official under the Liberal Government.

Mr. Henry Peters

Mr. Peters who is a returned man was greeted with much applause when he came forward and announced his pleasure at seeing so large an audience on their opening night.

He praised the work of Hon. Dr. MacMillan and his Government during the last four years and laid particular stress on the large amounts which he had received from Ottawa as compared with the Saunders-Lea Government.

Campbell Miss statements Flayed By The Premier At The Tignish Meeting

Liberal Campaign Leader Reduced To Humiliating Silence On Subject Of His Own Party Platform. Premier MacMillan Nails Slanderous Misrepresentations In Vigorous Speech Supporting First Prince Candidates.

The joint political meetings for the 1st District of Prince County opened Monday night at Tignish with a real old time political rouser.

The spacious hall was packed to the doors, many not being able to gain admittance.

Hon. Premier MacMillan and the Conservative candidates were given an enthusiastic welcome.

Premier MacMillan, who spoke after the candidates, was in excellent fighting form and ably defended his Government and answered the misleading and ridiculous statements of Mr. Thane A. Campbell so convincingly that the Liberal candidate was left completely at sea.

Mr. Joseph J. Arsenault very capably presided.

Mr. Campbell showed a childish display of temper when his request that he should be the last speaker was not granted by the chairman.

After each of the other candidates had spoken in turn and Mr. Campbell was called on, he called for Captain John Peary, who was in the audience to come to the platform to speak in his place.

Mr. Arsenault very properly insisted that Mr. Campbell should speak in his turn, when Mr. Campbell said with childish petulance, "I am the Premier and I will come ahead of me."

Mr. Campbell referred to the matter again when the Premier got up to address the audience following after the candidates.

Hon. Dr. MacMillan referred to Mr. Campbell's display of temper as the same venom which he displayed in the House when, because he was reprimanded by his leader he remained away from the House at one of the most important sessions.

Mr. Campbell interrupted the Premier a second time on the same subject.

Mr. Campbell, who should have spoken next to Mr. Matthews, was the last Liberal candidate to speak. He took up the most of his time ridiculing the present Government and going over what was said to the meeting in Tignish at the last Provincial election.

He would not be surprised that the support of the 1st District would surpass that of the last election. There was not much enthusiasm from the audience and the remark fell rather flat.

There was nothing of a constructive nature in his long speech and he kept silent on the platform of the Liberal party; although he complained more than once that Premier MacMillan was not going to announce his platform until Tuesday night.

"What is the use of him coming here if he does not give us his platform?" he asked.

When Mr. Peters made mention of the extravagance of the Liberal Government in purchasing gravel from New Brunswick, when there was plenty right in their own province.

Mr. Anes Gallant

Mr. Gallant was the first of the Liberal candidates to speak. He took up most of his time complaining that the Conservative Government had humiliated the people by making them accept the debt, instead of giving them work to make an honest living.

A little later on the inconsistency of his remarks were shown up when he complained bitterly that the relief was out off in April and that the Government had stopped sending money to a certain house in his district.

He went on to say, "We will furnish work. How are you going to get it to do?" asked a voice in the crowd. Well, where we cannot give work relief must be handed out. We cannot do anything else, (laughter).

Much amusement was caused when Mr. Gallant criticized the roads and said the road to Tignish was disgraceful, where he had not travelled some years ago.

Before the Premier had got fairly started he was interrupted by Mr. Campbell again alluding to the fact that the Premier would not speak first. The Premier dispensed with the matter by saying that Mr. Campbell was showing the same venom that he had displayed when he had been reprimanded by his Leader on more than one occasion.

Taking up the criticism aimed at him by the Liberal candidates the Premier left them silenced amid the applause of the audience, who were eager to hear the Premier in spite of the late hour.

In sarcastic terms the Premier asked why Mr. Campbell had made no reference to his platform. "Why?" because it is a hopeless document that offers no hope.

"Right Economy." "How are they going to do it?" continued the Premier, "out of expenditures on Public Works? Is that what you want?" (Loud cries of No!)

"What's your platform?" Mr. Campbell had asked, to which the Premier replied: "You will get my policy in time enough." Turning to the audience, he remarked: "He does not think enough of his to tell you about it."

Voice in the audience: "He slipped on a plank." Continuing the Premier said, we are criticized because we spent money, we should not have done this and we should not have done that. We could not be so economical as we had to spend money on the poor. According to the Liberales we should not have done these things and the conditions the people would have been much worse off if the Government had not come to their assistance.

Premier MacMillan was loudly applauded when he brought Mr. Campbell to task for the many ridiculous and misleading statements he had made that night in his endeavour to belittle the Conservative Party. The Premier brought applause more than once when he justly claimed that Mr. Campbell could not speak the truth and had purposely misled the people.

Referring to Mr. Campbell's remarks that he cannot get information in regard to unemployment money, the Premier said that was a senseless remark made to mislead the people as Mr. Campbell knows well enough that the unemployment relief money paid for one year is not put into the public accounts until next year.

"Is that not right?" he asked and Mr. Campbell could not deny it. Well,

"callable," he was reminded by the chairman that his time was up. The audience disappointed that he had not yet spoken on the Platform of his leader, Mr. Walter M. Lea, clamoured for a further hearing from Mr. Campbell.

Mr. Matthews came forward and very generously invited his opponent to continue. Instead of Mr. Campbell making amends and enlightening the audience as to what the Liberals would do he continued his tirade on the "Bond Issue." In his closing remarks he stated that they intended to cut down salaries of officials. The Liberals also feel they can dispense with some of the office. He spoke sneeringly of the Public Health Department and considered that substantial economies can be effected of over a million dollars. He closed his lengthy remarks by saying that he would only be able to touch on the fringe of certain points on account of the illness of Mr. Lea.

Premier MacMillan

Hon. Dr. MacMillan received a tremendous ovation when he rose to speak about 11:30. He expressed pleasure at again meeting the people of Tignish, where he had taught school some years ago.

Before the Premier had got fairly started he was interrupted by Mr. Campbell again alluding to the fact that the Premier would not speak first. The Premier dispensed with the matter by saying that Mr. Campbell was showing the same venom that he had displayed when he had been reprimanded by his Leader on more than one occasion.

Taking up the criticism aimed at him by the Liberal candidates the Premier left them silenced amid the applause of the audience, who were eager to hear the Premier in spite of the late hour.

In sarcastic terms the Premier asked why Mr. Campbell had made no reference to his platform. "Why?" because it is a hopeless document that offers no hope.

"Right Economy." "How are they going to do it?" continued the Premier, "out of expenditures on Public Works? Is that what you want?" (Loud cries of No!)

"What's your platform?" Mr. Campbell had asked, to which the Premier replied: "You will get my policy in time enough." Turning to the audience, he remarked: "He does not think enough of his to tell you about it."

Voice in the audience: "He slipped on a plank." Continuing the Premier said, we are criticized because we spent money, we should not have done this and we should not have done that. We could not be so economical as we had to spend money on the poor. According to the Liberales we should not have done these things and the conditions the people would have been much worse off if the Government had not come to their assistance.

Premier MacMillan was loudly applauded when he brought Mr. Campbell to task for the many ridiculous and misleading statements he had made that night in his endeavour to belittle the Conservative Party. The Premier brought applause more than once when he justly claimed that Mr. Campbell could not speak the truth and had purposely misled the people.

Referring to Mr. Campbell's remarks that he cannot get information in regard to unemployment money, the Premier said that was a senseless remark made to mislead the people as Mr. Campbell knows well enough that the unemployment relief money paid for one year is not put into the public accounts until next year.

"Is that not right?" he asked and Mr. Campbell could not deny it. Well, the Premier said, "he may bluff some people but he cannot bluff me." (Loud applause).

Coming to Mr. Campbell's remarks on the highways, the Premier maintained it was utterly misleading for Mr. Campbell to say that all this money was being spent on a road from Borden to Charlottetown.

Prince County will benefit to the extent of 40 miles of this highway and if the Government have enough money and it is economically sound they will have more good roads through the villages and secondary roads.

The Premier again left Mr. Campbell nonplussed when he gave the credit of building the Sanatorium to the Women's Institutes and not as Mr. Campbell would have the audience believe, to the Liberal party. They only gave after they had been waited on with a petition from the Institutes and then they did not give as much as the Conservative Government had done.

The Premier answered very effectively Mr. Campbell's glaring misstatement that the MacIntyre Highway is as good as when it was built. "That is absolutely untrue, and he knows it," four thousand dollars have been spent on it already.

Voice: "He cannot tell the truth." The Premier also dealt equally effectively with the criticism of the Southport Highway, leaving Mr. Campbell as usual with nothing to say.

Coming to the question of the Bond Issue the Premier had Mr. Campbell cornered when he asked him why his Government did not pay their overdraft before they left office. "He won't answer you, but Mr. Lea did when he said they did not want the electors to know they had such a large overdraft on the eve of an election," sarcastically remarked the Premier.

Warning to his subject the Premier showed up another glaring mis-statement that "the Government had not called for tenders." He prates that we did not call for tenders to pay off their debt of 1-4 millions. Why does he not tell you, that we got no bids?" asked the Premier amid loud applause.

Mr. Campbell still remained silent under the continuing fire of the Premier's remarks.

Another ridiculous statement made only to influence the poor, the Premier said, was Mr. Campbell's remark why had these bonds not been made "callable." "How many bonds in the Provincial treasury are 'callable bonds'?" the Premier asked. Mr. Campbell knows very well there is not one.

"Why? Because it puts up the price," and yet Mr. Campbell explained, and still Mr. Campbell had nothing to say.

The Premier kept on pulling the Liberal statements to pieces showing in every instance where they were false.

"Anything I say," said the Premier, "can prove out of the public record. My Hon. friend cannot say that." (Loud Applause).

Interrupted by some one in the audience who asked the Premier what was in the tenders. The Premier said, "Campbell knows, I don't."

The Premier ended his triumphant speech by bringing Mr. Campbell to task on his statement in reference to the cost of Prince of Wales College. "That it cost far too much." After a few attempts to explain matters Mr. Campbell gave it up and the Premier said down amid much applause.

Mr. Joseph J. Chaisson of Tignish spoke in support of the Conservative candidates and Captain Perry of St. Louis for the Liberals.

The meeting was a decided triumph for the Premier and his supporters.—S.

LIBERAL BLUFFS

penditures necessary. Captain J. E. Purchase acted as chairman, capably and impartially.

Dr. I. J. Yeo, the first speaker, spoke eloquently on generalities. He gave an analysis of world political conditions, and discussed political trends in Canada. He compared the government to a school teacher, a clergyman and a hired man. There might be many causes of dissatisfaction, Dr. Yeo suggested.

He quoted figures from a Guardian editorial Monday, but neglected to read the whole article. Government costs were too excessive, Dr. Yeo said. He advocated the cutting of the representation in two, and explained the difference between direct and indirect taxation, giving illustrations of each. Taxes were crushing the life out of the country, he believed.

Answers Criticism

Mr. MacDougall in opening his address first rebutted statements of the last speaker. Dr. Yeo in criticising expenditures had not told the cause of the debt being raised. He had not told about Prince of Wales College, Falconridge unemployment relief, old age pensions, which had been promised by the Liberals and given by the Conservatives.

Mr. MacDougall referred to his boyhood days in Belfast. He was not new to public life, as he was chairman of public property in the City Council, and councillor in the largest ward in Charlottetown.

Liberal Platform Questioned

How did the opposition plan to balance the budget, Mr. MacDougall asked. Were they going to reduce teachers' salaries, as they had threatened to do? Did they intend to reduce the sessional indemnities? Did they intend to neglect the maintenance of roads? Reference was made to the excessive cost of building and maintaining the MacIntyre Highway.

Mr. MacDougall stated he knew that Prince of Wales College was a splendid job. He had been disappointed by not receiving the contract, but the larger firm had built it very cheaply and at low cost to have the organization together. The Government was not insane enough to build on such a crumbling foundation.

The present government, Mr. MacDougall reminded the audience, was receiving $150,000 from Ottawa annually, as a result of efforts to have the Duncan Commission report implemented. No able or more competent band of men could be leading the affairs of the province.

Dr. Yeo had said the province could be run by fifteen good men. Mr. MacDougall would go on to tell and say that the province could be run by ten good men.

Mr. MacKinnon's Address

Mr. Dougald MacKinnon attempted to rebut the arguments of Mr. MacDougall. He criticized the Southport Highway. He said that the late Hon. J. D. Stewart had nothing to do with getting $40,000 from Ottawa in lieu of railway taxation.

The Government was tearing down the Provincial Building, Mr. MacKinnon stated. He criticized the government for not making provision for the road building expenditures in the estimates.

The MacMillan Government was elected on a platform of economy. He promised to vote against the Government if the Liberals were elected, and failed to make revenue and expenditures meet.

Mr. Jenkins' Address

Mr. MacKinnon had stated that in Falconwood Hospital the saving had been affected by Old Age Pensions. Mr. Jenkins revealed the fallacy of this statement at the beginning of his address.

He had been prompted in 1915 to go to the war Mr. Jenkins said. The same spirit had prompted him to enter politics at the present time.

Mr. Jenkins placed the blame for the necessary borrowing by the present government on the failure of the Liberals to fund their debt. He outlined the work done by the Department of Public Health under the MacMillan Government, especially with reference to the work done in the failure of the Liberals to get the subsidies. It remained to the Conservatives to bring home the bacon. "Now $3,000,000 is placed to the credit of Prince Edward Island at Ottawa from which the Province receives $100,000 a year," said Mr. Jenkins. With reference to Mr. MacDougall, Mr. Jenkins stated that he was not only a contractor, but a farmer of exceptional success.

The speaker stated that his chief aim would be to improve conditions generally, especially in the line of industry. Some years ago he had started a brick kiln, the product of which could undersell imported brick. This instance proved that much could be done to improve industry. It was also proved that raw limestone could be profitably burnt in the district.

Criticism of Public Health

Mr. J. Walter Jones read figures from the Public Accounts with reference to the Department of Health. He thought two nurses could do the work for half the amount. He admitted toxic and Dental Clinics were all right. Mr. Jones discussed trade policies. The Marketing Act had ruined the potato market, he said. The main issue was the case in the debt. Mr. Jones said and quoted figures, comparing the government to a housekeeper.

The teachers were getting equivalent to a raise in salary, he complained. There was no tuition charged in F. W. C. he said.

He was interrupted by a student in the audience who stated that Prince of Wales College fees compared favorably with those of mainland universities, and quoted the tuition rates. Mr. Jones dropped the subject.

Mr. George MacLean criticized Dr. Yeo's speech, and referred to the latter's neglect to explain the circumstances rendering the expenditures necessary.

With reference to the failure of the Liberal Government to fund the overdraft, he used Mr. Jones' metaphor. Would Mr. Jones keep his housekeeper if he found that she was making expenditures which she was concealing.

Mr. MacLean reviewed the financial records of both parties and showed that the present government had gone behind only about $900,000.

Dr. Yeo had not told the people that in a few months in election year the Liberals had spent $600,000 just before the election.

As regards the matter of road superintendents, Mr. MacLean revealed the deplorable state in which the Liberals had left the business of the Department of Public Works. Mr. MacLean spoke optimistically of the return of the MacMillan Government. "Dr. MacMillan is admitted by both Liberals and Conservatives as the greatest Premier the province has ever had," he said.

Mr. Jones and Mr. MacKinnon attempted to join with several hecklers in the audience.

Mr. MacLean assailed the criticism of Mr. Jones regarding Public Health expenditures, and ex-pressed surprise and regret that criticism should come from such a source. Public Health was a subject which touched the life of every person present.

Bluff Called

Mr. MacDougall in rebuttal stated that as a City Councillor he had been in a position to know the truth of Mr. Jones' complaint regarding the circular he had received concerning his cowstable. The circular had not come from the Provincial Government, but from Dr. I. E. Crookall, Food Inspector for the City of Charlottetown.

Mr. Art King, Charlottetown, expressed the desire to speak in defence of the Department of Public Health. On being informed that no provision had been made for additional speakers, he withdrew.

25 Million In Path Of Floods

(Copyright 1935 By The Associated Press)

(A. F. By Guardian's Special Wire) CHANGTSEH, Hunan Province, China, July 9.—Fierce followed flood central China's rain-swollen rivers raged down to the sea today, and famine stalked after, sure to claim his share of the dead.

With 25,000,000 persons in the path of the great waters, and its toll of lives already counted in the hundreds, flood waters from the Yuen River and the Tung Ting Lake besieging this city reached disaster stage.

Hundreds of thousands were trapped within the city walls as every dike outside, save one, collapsed. A few missionaries, struggling heroically, did what they could to lessen suffering, but their efforts could not measure up to the proportions of the catastrophe, in which 100,000 Changteh homes already were submerged.

Fire broke out in various parts of the city as the waters rose. The flames, though largely kept under control by the waters separating buildings, burned to death many persons trapped in roundabout, the waters roaring roundabout.

Food was becoming scarce, and prices for the slim supplies to be found within the wall soared.

The extent of the flood, which seemed certain to reduce western Hunan Province to beggary, was revealed in communications from Shenchow 200 miles southwest of here.

The country thereabouts is an unbroken lake, the advices said, something hitherto unknown in that region. A gale has been blowing over Shenchow and the countryside for the last 48 hours, whipping the waters into currents and waves which add to the damage the flood is doing. No estimate of the dead at Shenchow, where many residences have been carried away or shattered by wind and waves, has yet been made.

As the waters of the Yuen River rose, Shenchow victims clambered atop dikes most of which later collapsed, carrying those upon them to death. Many of those fortunate enough to find parts of the dikes which stood against the water were blown into the torrents by the roaring winds. Waters were still rising, reports said.

Still another dispatch said the Han River had broken through its dikes 50 miles above Hanyang and its waters were pouring inland on both sides.

With the entire area west of Hankow and from Shasi northward to be flooded, engineers were rushed from Hanyang to try to stem the Han.
