Mr. Morris who did all that medical skill could do, but it appears never robust, at length yielded to the stroke. His pastor, Rev. Mr. Nolan, officiated at the obsequies, assisted by Rev. M. N. McLeod, when a large number of friends gathered to pay their last tribute of respect to one whom in life they all respected. Much sympathy is felt for the family, some of whom came from afar to soothe his last hours. "The Righteous shall be had in everlasting remembrance."

HAZELBROOK:—Miss Cassie Wood is visiting in Keppoch the guest of her Aunt, Mrs. Mary Wood.—Mr. Webb, pastor of the Baptist church is holding special services here this week.—Herbert Carver has purchased a fine specimen of horseflesh. Mr. Carver is doing quite a business in horses this spring.—The roads in this vicinity are almost impassable. A rig with runners and wheels, each of which could be adapted would be the right thing for use at present.—Seymour Myers is going extensively into poultry raising. He is putting up a large and commodious poultry house as the first step in that direction. Mr. Myers expects to raise a lot of chickens this year, and has purchased one of the best incubators in the market.—The ratepayers of the school are still divided about going in with the McDonald Consolidated school. At Hillsboro someone greatly in favor of it, others want to stick keep to the old school system.—Aubrey Myers is making some fine improvements to his farm and buildings.—Mr. Myers has gone from his home to his farm every day this winter a distance of about two miles.—The snow shovellers are to work shoveling the snow off this part of the M. E. Island Railway. Mr. Lingley will make his headquarters at Truro. He was a popular and obliging official and many friends in St. John while glad of his promotion, will regret his removal from the city. Mrs. Lingley will also be missed by a large circle of friends.—St. John Sun.

The death took place at Dundas Centre on the 17th inst. of John D. Matheson, Esq., in the 40th year of his age. He leaves a wife, two daughters and two sons. He was a useful citizen, a man of great intelligence, of deep but unassuming piety, of a retentive memory, he was an excellent conversationalist, a deep thinker, a great reader, and possessed a fund of that rare ingredient, good common sense. For over twenty years he was in the Magistracy, and filled his position with credit. By occupation a tailor, he was in that line a master workman. He was unwell for two months and was attended by Dr. Morris who did all that medical skill could do, but it appears never robust, at length yielded to the stroke. His pastor, Rev. Mr. Nolan, officiated at the obsequies, assisted by Rev. M. N. McLeod, when a large number of friends gathered to pay their last tribute of respect to one whom in life they all respected. Much sympathy is felt for the family, some of whom came from afar to soothe his last hours. "The Righteous shall be had in everlasting remembrance."
