TOO MANY STAMPS IRK

Protests from stamp collectors in various countries that Mexico issues too many stamps and too many varieties have led Mexico City's collectors to ask the post-office department to slow down its printing presses. This year five special issues have been brought out. Subjects chosen were foundation of St. Nicholas in Morelia, centenary of the first postage stamp, centenary of the discovery of Campeche, and another historic date. The protest complains that Mexico is following the pattern of small European countries which obtain considerable revenue from sale of unused stamps to collectors.

Red Cross Concert At Kensington

The Male Chorus concluded their present series of Red Cross concerts at Kensington last Tuesday night performing before a packed house. An extra special feature by the "Singing Sisters" Messrs. Connie LeClair and Jack Taylor was the highlight in merit. At the conclusion of their program a vote of thanks moved by Major McNeil, seconded by Mr. J. P. Moffitt and James Fendergast was tendered to the chorus and to Dr. W. J. P. McMillan the special speaker on behalf of the Red Cross.

Dr. McMillan was in splendid form. He made the house in repeated applause as he presented Britain's cause against the forces of the Hun and particularly so when he denounced that type of citizen who is anxious to buy interest in the bearing bonds but who refuses to contribute to Red Cross charity.

The Male Chorus is to be commended for their work in the Red Cross campaign. They undertook the long distant concerts and provided their own transportation free of charge.

Bushes That Yield a Delicious Fruit

Though the home gardener often lacks space enough for an orchard, he need not entirely forego the pleasure of raising his own fruit. A few of the bush fruits, placed in some out-of-the-way corner of the grounds, will bear a luscious reward for the grower.

One of the newest of the bush fruits to receive popular acclaim is the Boysenberry. First introduced in California in the Spring of 1935, it is now fairly well known throughout the country and well deserves the name of "king of bush fruits." It is a cross between the raspberry and blackberry.

The fruits begin to ripen very early in July and continue for a period of two to three weeks. Colored a deep dark purple they have a distinctive flavor which is very pleasant. When fully ripened they are fairly dripping with juice and the fact they have no core and very few seeds makes them delightful for eating fresh.

For the gardener who wishes just a bush fruit for home use, a half dozen or less plants are adequate. Preserves, jellies, juice, and for eating uncooked. The plants are best obtained from a nursery, rather than the uncertain method of growing them from seeds. They make a good background as for best results, they are trained on poles or a trellis.

As with other bush fruit, the Boysenberry needs a fertile and well-drained soil. If the ground is already very fertile then no other fertilizer need be added, but it is usually safe to add some extra food to most home soils. Poultry or barn manure is good and if this is not available a complete commercial fertilizer will be needed. Irrigation is important if the season is a dry one, since they like damp and moist soil, especially during the fruiting season. P.E.S.—In New York Sunday Times.

Sees No Signs Of Italian "Push" On Egyptian Front

(Note—Edward Kennedy, Associated Press staff correspondent, with the British troops in Egypt, gives in the following story his impression of the desolate Eastern war front after a tour of the British lines. A veteran newspaperman, Kennedy has reported on the Spanish civil war and covered assignments in Paris, Rome and Budapest before going to Egypt.)

WITH THE BRITISH TROOPS IN EGYPT, Oct. 2 — (AP) — On a plume trip along the British front in Egypt, I have seen no indications that a big Italian "push" is imminent—but the threat of war already is driving the children of the desert from their homes.

With their flocks and wives, the Bedouin tribesmen are being exodus to safer regions. Long camel caravans plod eastward with the possessions of the desert dwellers and their animals. Villages fringing the coast are being deserted. Impetus to the exodus was given by the Egyptian government which sent troops to warn the desert people of their danger, but they left their homes reluctantly.

The Italians appear to be consolidating their positions on the strip of wasteland they occupied two weeks ago before an attempt to drive deeper into Egypt.

British Forces Ready

British officers declare they are ready to repulse any such attempt. When it came to the point of fighting the battle on lines of their own choosing.

Principal Italian outposts in Egypt are Sid Barani, on the Mediterranean coast, and Bir Sofafi, an inland oasis near the Libyan frontier.

The Italians have driven a wedge into Egypt 60 miles long and 25 miles wide at its base and are separating the Italian outposts and the British line is a barren no-man's-land, scores of miles wide at some points. And British patrols and tanks patrol this stretch of sand and stunted shrubs daily. They seldom meet any Italian patrols because the latter rarely venture from their outposts.

The Italians keep an eye on no-man's-land from the air, however. Italian engineers have concentrated recently on rebuilding the road along the Mediterranean coast. (This road has been shelled heavily by the British Mediterranean fleet.)

Innumerable problems confront the Italians. Their chief difficulty is in transporting troops and supplies in a region almost devoid of water.

Seeks Recovery Of War Planes At Martinique

OTTAWA, Oct. 2 — (CP) — Moves reported from Washington looking to the recovery of some 100 American-built war planes from the French island of Martinique aroused interest here.

The aircraft were loaded aboard the French aircraft carrier, Bearn, at an east coast Canadian port and Canadian airmen helped to load and service them for battle.

The Bearn sailed from Halifax shortly before the collapse of French resistance in May but was unable to make a French port owing to the German advance and finally crossed the Atlantic to put in at Martinique. Aboard were Sqdn. Ldr. Acland Raymond of Montreal and a detachment of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

The aircraft taken were mostly Northrop dive bombers. They were delivered to the east coast Canadian port fully equipped and armed. The Canadian airmen were loaned to the French to assist in making necessary adjustments in the aircraft and instructing French airmen in their operation.

The Canadians left Martinique shortly after the Bearn arrived there and are now back in Canada. A number of the Northrop aircraft, said to France under the same arrangements remained at the east coast port after Franco-German armistice and have since been taken over by the Royal Canadian Air Force. Some of them are in use as training planes at Canadian air stations.

Two Boys Will Stand Trial For Murder Next Week

SYDNEY, N. S., Oct. 2 — (CP) — Two country boys accused of shooting an elderly farmer to death will go into court for preliminary hearing here next Tuesday on murder charges.

The boys, Robert Smith, 15, and Dan Angus MacIsaac, 14, are accused of the Sept. 25 shooting of Angus (Klondyke) MacIsaac, 68-year-old farmer and former gold-miner at his home in Ben Eoin, 16 miles from here.

Arrested and charged yesterday, the youngsters were arraigned today before Magistrate A. M. Crofton, who remanded them for preliminary hearing. They will be held in the county jail here until the hearing.

The pair, from the country district around Ben Eoin, would normally have appeared in juvenile court because of their youth. But Judge A. D. Campbell of that court issued a special order yesterday transferring them out of his jurisdiction.

They are alleged to have shot MacIsaac with his own .38 revolver. The farmer was found dead in his home last Thursday. Police said they believed he had walked into the house while a burglary was underway.
