Bean Bag Basket

The guests are divided into two groups, and then each is subdivided into two sides. A small box or scrap basket is placed in the centre of the group, and a throwing line marked on the floor for each side equally distant from the basket. Each side has a score keeper. Each person can try three times to throw a bean bag into the basket. The side with the more points receives a set of bean bags as a prize.

Bean bags may be made from print or any material on hand. Amusing ones can be made in crescent, colored Mammy, or animal shapes. Fill with ordinary beans which most farm homes can boast in quantity at this time of year.

Old Timers' Memory Parade

The piano begins playing "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia" and the players are asked to join in a circle to parade around the room. Immediately after this announce that some friends will show glimpses of "The Good Old Days" are asked at intervals. A lot of

This is done by having different ones give scenes representing historical scenes of the community, or outstanding events. These may be done in pantomime, shadow picture or play. Take-offs on some of the older members of the community who are still there are always loads of fun, and you are bound to remember some of the screamingly funny incidents that always happen in families down through the years.

This is particularly suitable to a Christmas home-gathering.

Ghost Prophecy

Everyone takes part in this side splitting game. Ask the crowd to join hands in a circle while someone taking the part of the ghost or spirit, stands in the centre. The players dance around him until he gives the word to stop. A person previously designed asks the ghost a general question such as "Who is here tonight with his right shoe on his left foot?" The ghost points to anyone. The dance then continues, while more questions are asked at intervals. A lot of good questions will cause much merriment.

Ring on a String

The old-fashioned game of Ring on a string, still played by the children, is also entertaining for grownups. Most people know how to play this. Form a circle and pass a sufficient length of string or cord to go loosely round the circle. Pass a ring on the string from one player to another, while one player stands or sits in the centre and tries to guess who has the ring in his hand.

This game is much more fun than it sounds, and much of the interest depends on the ingenuity and cleverness of players in concealing the ring. If the one in the centre guesses correctly he takes the place of the discovered one and the game continues.

A Legend of Nazareth

The Song of CHRISTMAS

THE long journey from Nazareth to Bethlehem... a new Star in the sky... heavenly music above the hills of Judea... the flutter of angel wings... the swift journeyings of the Shepherds... Mary and Joseph and the new-born Child... the coming of the Wise Men, with their gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh...

From these inspiring things the Songs of Christmas was fashioned more than twenty centuries ago. The years have added new notes of happiness. Carols and song upon the air... candles gleaming into the night... secret whisperings and laughter in the home... greetings going from friend to friend... deeds of love and mercy done in the name of a Child.

No great symphony or composition can match the Song of Christmas. It rises above the clatter and roar of the city; it throbs through the scattered town and hamlet; it sings through the sunlit islands of the South; it permeates the frozen wastes of the Northland. In ever-widening volume its strains echo around the world.

Before its magic the hosts of darkness take flight. It touches the slumbering chords of memory; it heals old hurts and scars; it binds loved ones in a closer and deeper tie.

There are no friendless or forsaken within its sound; under its influence the strong reach out to help the weak. Peace and Love and Joy—these are its loudest notes, and they are for all men. For the Song of Christmas is the greatest of all songs because it is understood by every heart
