MILK TO BE SOLD BY THE FOOT

Milk is to be sold by the foot in Copenhagen following recent experiments at a Danish farm. Tests have shown that the natural water may be withdrawn from cow's milk and the remaining pulpy substance rolled into sheets similar in appearance to paper. The rolling is done by special machines, and the milk becomes so highly concentrated that it is a food in itself. When required in liquid form it is easily dissolved in boiling water.

STARS 6
C. N. R.'S 5

"Tossing" the first ball, which official umpire, Dr. Charles Dougan declared a perfect strike, His Worship Mayor Prowse duly inaugurated the City League Baseball Series at the C. A. A. Grounds last evening.

If Mayor Prowse's "windup" and the general enthusiasm of the large and colorful crowd of fans present is any indication, it looks as if the local baseball season of 1930 will be a decided success.

The occasion last evening was made doubly prominent by the presence of His Honor Lieut. Gov. Heartz and party, with His Worship the Mayor, who occupied a reserved section of the stand, draped in their honor with the Union Jack. The Legion Band, always ready and willing to help out a worthy cause, was present and rendered lively and entertaining selections.

THE GAME

The opening set, too between C. N. R. Recreation Club and the Stars was hard fought from start to finish, the clash, going into an extra inning, before a winner was returned. The Stars finally nosed their opponents out in the tenth, by a score of 6-5.

For an opener, last night's game, was of a calibre equal to any game played in the Maritime Provinces. C. N. R.'s looked good in the opening frames, crossing a man over in the first with three more runs in the fifth. The Stars trailing behind a four-one lead, tightened up, scored one in the sixth and evened the count in the eighth, by netting three in the eighth; their opponents chalked a run in the seventh. With the score tied in the ninth, the fans began to leave the stand but hesitated when Umpire Dougan announced that the teams would play extra innings; the Stars clinching the game in their half of the tenth, when Saunders, with one man down, singled to right and got on, Carbonell following doubled to centre, the former scoring the winning run.

The lineups were as follows:—STARS: R. McInnis, r. f.; W. Ryan, l. f.; M. Diamond, c.; F. Bolger, short stop; McCabe, catcher, Kerr, third base; McInnis, second base; Saunders, first base, G. McDonald, pitcher, Carbonell relieved in the box.

C. N. R. MacDonald, third base; Squarebriggs, second base; Gormley centre field; Lynds, first base; Larter, right field; G. McMahon, left field; Martin, catcher; Goss, short stop; Ayers, pitcher.

Cold drinks supplied through the generosity of J. T. Morris and the Sussex Ginger Ale Co., were much appreciated by the players, Mr. Ed. Acorn dispensing the refreshments.

The winners last night were: at the plate, Dr. Chas. Dougan; on the bases, W. J. MacDonald.

The U.S. Navy Made 'Em

WILL JACK SHARKEY (Left) BE THE FIRST SAILOR TO WIN A TITLE SINCE JOHNNY BUFF?

ON PAPER JACK FIGURES TO WIN.

SPORT BUG.

BUFF.

"IF THERE'S ANY GLASS IN SCHMELING'S CHIN, I'LL FIND IT OUT EARLY!" SAYS MR. SHARKEY.

You can be sure that when Jack Sharkey credits the U. S. Navy to a big extent for his success as a pugilist, it is really no mere publicity ployer of flag-waving gesture for applause. For it was in the service that the one-time Josef Paul Kakauskas, born at Binghamton, N. Y., first drew on boxing gloves, first took it on the chin with a defeat or two. Emerging from the navy as Battling Ski, early and small-time professional ring successes induced Ex-Gob Kakauskas to have the courts change his name to Jack Sharkey and that's the big hairy-chested baby who will battle Max Schmeling of Germany for the world's heavyweight championship in New York tomorrow night.

Sharkey is still the typical sailor man in high fighting spirits and hard-boiled good fellowship when he likes a guy. He's a rather surly fellow to those he doesn't like. But to those who really know him, the American champion is as jolly a tar as one would want to play with, or be with, in a fight or a frolic.

Of course, Sharkey is as loaded with temperament as he is with ring skill. He has burned long because many fans unjustly rate him as a "foreigner" when he is actually a native American and more proud of that fact than of his fistie prowess.

Jack is so high-strung he breaks into tears easily, and yet this crackling of the armor plate on this human battleship only goes to show what a warm-hearted bozo this two-fisted ex-tar really is.

Though boxing is an ace sport in the Navy, which has developed many ring notables, that service has produced but one other professional champion, the flashy Johnny Buff, who lorded it over the world's bantams for about a year (1921-22).

In his own life story, Sharkey probably explains that dearth of Navy-made champs by noting how he used to box at night after shoveling coal for half a day or more. You're likely to leave your fight in the stockhold under such circumstances. And that is a reason why Jack had to quit the Navy in order to be a successful pro boxer.

ISLANDER IN OLD COUNTRY ICE HOCKEY

That ice hockey is coming into its own in Great Britain is shown by the large attendance at championship games last winter between Scotland and Manchester. 50,000 people attended the games.

Outstanding among the players for Scotland was S. A. McDonald, Jr., son of Mr. S. A. McDonald, Charlottetown. Mr. McDonald is a student at Edinburgh University. Following is an account of the first game.

SCOTLAND, 3; MANCHESTER 2.—In the British Ice Hockey Championship semi-final tie at Crossmyloof, Glasgow, on Saturday night, Scotland defeated Manchester by the odd goal in five. It was a fast and thrilling duel. The game was not long in progress when McDonald tested the Manchester keeper with a fine drive, and he followed with another accepting a cross from Brady. Melland, securing possession, carried play to the other end, where after a spirited attack, he opened the score for Manchester. With amazing speed play was carried from end to end, and both keepers showed exceptional ability in dealing with shots. The equaliser came from Tingley, who after a fine individual effort sent into the corner of the net. Both defences were checking well, and the attacking forwards were never idle. First one goal was in danger and then the other. From one of those movements, McDonald, who played a magnificent game throughout, put Scotland on the lead with a fine drive. Within five minutes White equalised. Near the close McDonald, again securing possession, put on the winning goal for Scotland. Teams:—

SCOTLAND.—D. Croll, (Kelvingrove); A. R. Bazin, A. J. Tingley, (Queens) and A. Brady (Mohawks); E. McLeod, (Queens); Substitutes:—J. Campbell, (Mohawks) and J. A. Easton, (Varsity).

MANCHESTER.—S. S. Bookbinder; Rev. J. White and Dr. W. E. Ord; N. Melland, J. Cook, and W. B. Davies. Substitutes:—J. Ferguson and N. Schfield.

Referee—H. Reid, Glasgow.

In the final game, between England and Scotland the former team won a hard fought battle by a score of 2-1, McDonald scoring Scotland's only counter. Desperate efforts of Scotland to tie the score were foiled by the opposing goal tender.

The only Canadian other than Mr. McDonald playing for Scotland was A. R. Bazin, stellar defense man.

SUMMERSIDE, June 9.—In the Supreme Court at Summerside on Monday, Mr. Justice Saunders, presiding, the cases against Rufus Gaudet, of Summerside were before the Court. The accused had pleaded guilty to the charge of breaking and entering the store of Messrs. Brace, McKay and Co., of Summerside and taking certain articles which had since been recovered. Attorney General Campbell stated that he desired to place some evidence before His Lordship with reference to the circumstances of the case, for the guidance of the Court in imposing sentence. Messrs. A. Sterling McKay and L. R. Allen, of the firm of Brace, McKay and Co., Ltd., and Chief of Police Kane and police officer Linkletter, gave evidence. Mr. Morley M. Bell appeared for the prisoner and made a strong plea for leniency on the ground of his youth and the circumstances of his upbringing. The Court deferred sentence until Thursday next.

LAUGHS GALORE IN "WHAT A MAN"

It's a gay comedy-drama, based on the popular novel, "The Dark Chapter" by E. J. Rath. In it, Denny first appears as a tramp; for he has learned that a wealthy woman in town collects tramps as her hobby, and tries to start them on a respectable career. His plan works, and since he's an able auto mechanic, she gives him a place as her chauffeur. Her husband, children and even the butler are highly indignant at this placing of a tramp in their home, and all of them plot to get rid of him. Little by little, he wins them over, with the exception of Eileen, one of the daughters, and the butler, a haughty English servant. In the role of mistress and employee, Denny and Eileen are thrown much together—and things start to hum along completely different lines than you'd suspect. It's a novel plot, rich in amusing and entertaining features, a happy combination of fine acting, great story and clever production. There's never a dull moment in it. Of interest to local golfers is the comedy "Match Play," starring two famous golf champions Walter Hagen and Leo Deagle.
