Tonight the stars are gleaming

One we loved but could not save.
The rolling streams of life pass on
But still the vacant chair
Recalls the smile—the love—
The voice of one that once sat there.

Bill Hart Picture An Epic of West

"TUMBLEWEEDS" A WINNER FROM THE START WITH BIG AUDIENCE AT THE PRINCE EDWARD

The ovation that Bill Hart received yesterday at the Prince Edward theatre, though it was only his pictured presentment, would have done the famous western star's heart good had he been there to hear.

The picture was "Tumbleweeds", and it is Hart's first for United Artists Corporation release. If his others are as good no one can find room for criticism. True, Bill has never made a bad picture but "Tumbleweeds" caps them all. It was directed by King Baggot, who decided to go on the reverse side used to be a star himself until he of the camera and handle a megaphone instead of grease paint.

Bill Hart is a real cowboy in this story—a strong, forceful personality, as he always is. It tells—the story—of the settling by homesteaders of the old Cherokee Land Strip between Kansas and Ohlahoma in 1889.

Molly Lassiter, one of the homesteader army, arrives on the scene. Bill, as Don Carver, hates all homesteaders till he sees Molly. Then he falls in love with the fair maid and becomes her champion. She has a bad half-brother who pals up with an ornery cuss named Freel. The two plan to grab off the water rights by settling on a certain ranch-house site. Bill has determined to do the same thing—for Molly—knowing she'll be lenient with the dater.

They get him arrested as a "sooner" and he gets out, beats them both up and stakes the claim. A lot of good fun is supplied by Kentucky Rose, a lovelorn puncher with a bald dome and a face like a bad dream. Lucien Littlefield is the actor of this remarkable role.

Barbara Bedford is the girl—and there's a corking cast with J. Gordon Russell, Richard R. Neill, Lillian Leighton, Jack Murphy, etc. The scenes are wonderful and the great land rush in particular is highly spectacular.

The fifth chapter of the Serial "Fighting with Buffalo Bill", and a delightful "Our Gang" comedy "Good Cheer" which breathes the Christmas spirit completes this fine week-end program which will be repeated today, afternoon and evening.

O'Brien Retains Title

There was a record attendance at Greenwich Village last night to witness the boxing bouts staged by the management.

The preliminaries between Perry and Ranaghan ended in a draw.

The feature fight of the evening was that between Champion O'Brien and the Challenger McLeod.

O'Brien on entering the ring, dressed in green fighting togs was greeted with a deafening ovation. The challenger was nearly being disqualified and the bout called on account of one of his gloves being found loaded with a piece of iron, but through the sportsmanship of the champion and with the understanding that the bout was to be fought according to the Empress of Ireland's rules, the four round tussle was begun.

The fight throughout was O'Brien's McLeod receiving the worst end all through and at the beginning of the fourth round, following a catch as catch can clinch the champion by a clever and speedy right uppercut floored the challenger and retained the championship.

At the close of the fair he was presented with a green bathing suit in recognition of his pugilistic prowess.

The door prize was won by Herbert Oatway, Spring Street.

THE LATE MISS ANNA PALMER

A beautiful and impressive service was held at an early hour on Thursday morning, December 2nd, was the funeral service for the late Miss Mary Anna Palmer whose death took place in London, England a short time ago. Following her own wish the casket urn containing her ashes was brought out from England by her sister to be placed in the family plot in Sherwood Cemetery.

During her life in Charlottetown the late Miss Palmer was a constant worshipper in St. Paul's Church where there are beautiful memorials erected in memory of her family who have always been held in the highest esteem.

The funeral was private only attended by near relatives and friends. The burial service was impressively read by the Rector the Rev. H. D. Raymond. The casket urn was covered with flowers a fitting tribute to the loving memory of a devoted sister and friend.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT LESS ANXIOUS ABOUT AIR ATTACKS THAN FORMERLY

LONDON, Dec. 3.—In his speeches at the various private discussions on Imperial defence before the representatives of the Dominions at the recent Imperial conference, Premier Baldwin made the statement that the Government was less anxious about air attacks than a few years ago. The Government tonight issued official reports of Premier Baldwin's remarks, which were largely concerned with the best methods of co-operation and consulation for mutual defence of the interests of the Empire. Mr. Baldwin emphasized the vital need of the Singapore naval base, and hoped the Dominions would co-operate with the Government in this heavy burden.

PROSPERITY, THRIFT AND INSURANCE. —In keeping with the present rather prosperous condition of Island affairs is the steadily increasing business of the life insurance companies. One of these, the Great-West Life, under the local management of Hyndman & Co., Limited, is doing a record business this year, writing over one hundred thousand dollars of new business within this Province in the month of November, and having put on its books this year a new business much in excess of that shown at the same date last year. This condition speaks well for our people, who thereby show a well-ordered tendency toward thrift, combined with an optimism for the future, which is truly encouraging.

CALLAGHAN — McGINN NUPTIALS.—An interesting event took place at St. Ann's Church ,Lot 65, on the morning of November 17th when Agnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter L. Callaghan of Emyvile was united in marriage to Daniel G. McGinn of the same place. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Louis Callaghan, D. D., brother of the bride. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Francis McQuaid and during the nuptial mass appropriate hymns were beautifully rendered by the pastor, Rev. Leo Herrell. The bride was very becomingly gowned in a dress of navy blue poiret sheen and a black velvet picture hat. She was attended by her sister, Miss Annie who wore a gown of pencil blue crepe de chene and a hat to match. The groom was ably supported by Francis Coady of St. Dunstan's University. The groom's gift to the bride was a Hudson Seal coat, to the bridesmaid a beautiful crepe de chene scarf and to the groomsman a set of pearl cuff links. After the marriage ceremony the wedding party drove to the home of the bride, where a dainty breakfast was served to a large number of relatives and friends amongst whom were the Rev. Pastor and Rev. Dr. Callaghan After the breakfast the bridal party left by train for Montreal and other Canadian cities. On returning home Mr. and Mrs. McGinn will reside in Emyvale. The many friends of this popular couple join in wishing them a pleasant journey through life.

"ARE MOVING PICTURES HARMFUL?"— A very entertaining and instructive debate on this question took place at St. James' Literary Society last evening, Mr. David Stewart, president, was in the chair, and there was a good attendance. Mr. W. H. Burns, who was unavoidably absent but whose paper was read by Mr. Ian Burnett led off for the affirmative. His argument was a very able one, and showed he had given the question much thought and study. He condemned attendance at moving pictures on two grounds: (1) Because moving pictures were neither truly artistic nor morally instructive; and (2) because the ideals and principles they set forth were not British conceptions of what life was or should be. He argued that not until films were handled by British producers could we hope to have moving pictures that would warrant our patronage, that at present the Hollywood idea of what the filming of story meant was the featuring of the sensational, the sensual, the ridiculous at the expense of the "soul" of the story. He urged his hearers to do all in their power to encourage British productions. For the negative side Mr. Roderick Munn submitted a splendid case which he delivered without recourse to his notes, and made a fine impression on the audience. He contended that moving pictures provided means of depicting the wonders of the world, of seeing foreign countries and manner of living such as would be othewise impossible. They enabled people in a short time to grasp the salient points of a great story; and brought vividly before the mind's eye great moral themes, such as the "Ten Commandments." But apart altogether from the educative and moral advantages of moving pictures, they provided an easy and ready means of restful entertainment, greatly appreciated by professional men and students, who desired just to be quietly entertained without much, if any, exertion. Those who lived in boarding houses knew the value of the moving pictures perhaps better than those who had all the comforts of home and the social advantages of congenial home life, companionship and entertainment. Modern picture theatres were so advanced in the matter of comfort and hygiene that he thought an appropriate slogan for them would be "coolest in summer, coziest in winter." In the discussion which followed nine took part all highly commending both Mr. Burns and Mr. Munn upon the excellence of their contributions to the debate. Mr. C. J. Gallagher gave a very interesting and informative address on the various points raised in the discussion, which was much appreciated. On the motion of Mr. Albert Roop, seconded by Mr. Heath Saunders, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered the leaders. Next week Mr. N. D. McLean will read a paper on Dumas "Three Musketeers."
