ETHEL RAYMOND, SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT
This resume covers a period of fourteen months, viz., from February 28th, 1933 to April 30 of this year.

After our last Annual Meeting there still remained almost two and a half months of the College term. Just as the Easter holidays were beginning, two of our girls went down with measles and were obliged to remain in town; while a third fell ill with them almost immediately after her return from her home at the end of the term.

On May 19th College closed and our thirteen girls, all excepting one having successfully passed their exams, left for their respective homes, to appear again at Convocation a week later. Two students only returned to us for the three weeks course which ended on June 17th.

After the students left in May the house was thoroughly gone over, the drawing room painted throughout, two bedrooms painted and wallpapered and the wood work and walls of three rooms in the maids quarters painted. A part of the dining room ceiling which had reached the danger point, was cut away and satisfactorily repaired and the whole ceiling repainted. As the Easter holidays were over on the third floor with shelves of red cedar which has proved most satisfactory for storing our white and colored blankets. A cupboard was also built in the back hall of the ground floor, which very soon proved its usefulness. During the summer seventy guests were accommodated for longer or shorter periods.

A quantity of fruit of various kinds as well as pickles, chow and relishes were put down so that autumn found us with a well stocked supply pantry for the winter and will carry us well into the summer. Table and bed linen of excellent quality and other needed linen was purchased in the spring of 1933 in sufficient quantity to last us for another year or more. Since that time forty yards of curtaining was also added to our stock. On the 7th of September, thirteen students were again in residence six of whom were our last year's girls returning for second year work at P. W. C. and seven new students, six of whom were first year and one second year. The last mentioned not being willing to conform to the rules of the house found it necessary to look elsewhere for accommodation. In October another girl who attended college in 1932 came to us this year.

During the first term the girls were given a party to which were invited a number of College boys and girl friends and again after Easter of this year. Needless to say they made a good time for themselves. Nurses, the eminent attorney said are too efficient. "They wake you when you do not want to be awakened, wash you when you do not want to be washed, and then indulge in a orgy called a 'bed bath' until you haven't a blush left."

Turning to the matron of the hospital, Sir Patrick said: "When you are choosing nurses for head-ache you are sure every man would agree with him. Nurses, the eminent attorney said are too efficient. "They wake you when you do not want to be awakened, wash you when you do not want to be washed, and then indulge in a orgy called a 'bed bath' until you haven't a blush left."

Cundall Home Annual Report

The following reports were presented at the annual meeting of the Cundall Home on Thursday:

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS
We desire to extend to all a very hearty welcome to Cundall Home. We appreciate your coming to us to day, and hope you will come again.

It is our aim to make Cundall Home of the utmost service to the girls of the Province—a real home with home influences, where they will be surrounded with a wholesome atmosphere that will help them all through life. For some time it has seemed to the Board that throughout the rural districts many were not acquainted with Cundall Home, its aims and its purpose. It was thought advisable to hold the Annual Meeting at a time when people from out-of-town were able to attend.

We realize more fully every year that the student who is starting out on life's highway to higher education needs very careful guidance, and helpful surroundings. When we remember that most girls coming into College are leaving home and all the associations for the first time, does it not seem necessary that some provision should be made to help them find a right environment, congenial companionship, and a good home? It is with this in mind that we have sent out our invitations to you for this meeting. We seek your education needs very careful guidance, and helpful surroundings. When we remember that most girls coming into College are leaving home and all the associations for the first time, does it not seem necessary that some provision should be made to help them find a right environment, congenial companionship, and a good home?

Further improvement was made by having the Queen Heater formerly used in the old Gymnasium removed and set up on the third floor. This was indeed a boon when frosty windy days came. Not once did we have to bring the girls to the lower floors, their own rooms being much warmer. With these additions and the excellent coal provided by our good trustees, we were much more comfortable than during the previous mild winter.

The Ladies' auxiliary within the year provided the house with two chesters and an armchair. An "Always" was also purchased. The latter serving a much better purpose than the former over-worked sweepers which, however, still do duty at times. The grounds have had considerable spent on them, perhaps more than appears to be justified. Their present appearance. The trustees were good enough to provide the services of an extra man for a time last spring for garden and lawn. Twenty five loads of new earth were put on the grounds where several perennials added to the old and new beds. Five new flower beds were made and planted with summer blooming plants. We hope before long to see good returns for this work and cost. The first year a garden does not show to great advantage. What you may regard as still lacking, please attribute to the fact that the superintendent is not an experienced gardener.

The past winter has been a most satisfactory one both as regards the health of the students and their department. You will hear from Miss Terrell a report of their studies and recreation hours. There were five cases of German Measles in March. This was not a serious illness, still it confined two of the girls to the house during the whole of the Easter Examinations while a third was able to write a part only. I wish here to say a word of appreciation of our splendid help. I feel that they too have contributed well to whatever measure of success we may be considered to have achieved during the past year.

In closing I wish to express our warmest thanks to the Ladies' Executive for their kind and generous co-operation all through the year and also to our honored President of Trustees, Mr. Justice Hazard for his ever ready regard for our needs.

Respectfully submitted,
C. W. HASLAM, Superintendent.

REPORT OF GIRLS' STUDIES AND GYMNASIUM ACTIVITIES
The last annual report brought us up to the end of February 1933, and as has already been stated covers a period of thirteen months. As the girls spend three summer months at home this report will cover eleven months only.

Easter examinations followed shortly after our last annual meeting and the final examinations were held in May. Of the thirteen students in residence twelve passed successfully, one was required to repeat part of her work this year. Special mention should be made of one of the first year girls who ranked second among the young lady students on Convocation Day. She is with us at present in her second year and is again doing splendid work.

During the present College year we have had in residence seven second year students, five first year and one commercial student of Prince of Wales College. Results up to the present have been very good, and we trust that in the final examinations which take place next week all will be successful. Unfortunately three of our girls were ill with German measles during the week of the Easter examinations. Dr. Robertson very kindly made allowance for illness and they have been granted permission to make up for what they missed by supplementary tests and the standing they attain in the final examinations.

During the term a record has been kept of the number of hours each student spends in studying. Twenty-four hours a week has been the minimum requirement. The interest which the students show in their work differs, some study only because they are obliged to do so—with them a good time is more often given first place, the majority, however, take their studies seriously and appreciate the fact that there are stated hours for undisturbed study.

SAVED POLAND

A visitor to Niagara-on-the-Lake recently, General Josef Haller, defended Warsaw in August, 1920 from the invading Bolshevik army which threatened to engulf Europe in another war. Though less known to the general public, the Hon. Joffre and Poch, he is credited with having won more battles than they.
