A Rose Valley correspondent writes that Miss Bell McKinnon, Quincy, Mass., is visiting her old home in Rose Valley.—John Trowsdale and Miss Annie McKenzie, paid a short visit to Rose Valley recently.—Gordon Williams paid a short visit to Rose Valley Sunday.—Thomas McKenzie has returned home after spending his vacation at Mr. Murphy's, Emerald.

At Zion Church, Charlottetown, the Rev. H. J. Fraser took both services yesterday. In the evening he preached from Galatians 2:20, "Who loved me and gave himself for me." He emphasized the individualism of Christ's teaching by quoting many examples of the Saviour's way of dealing with sinners and showed that salvation was a personal matter between the person and God.

A Westmoreland correspondent writes that William J. Callaghan, teacher of Westmoreland, spent Sunday at his home, Emyvale.—Heber McVittie is visiting in Tryon, the guest of his cousin, Heath Rowatt.—Mrs. Samuel Cameron, Hampton, and Mrs. Robert McVittie, Westmoreland, spent the week end in Summerside.—Chester Wilson and family and Mrs. Elmer Pearson, Haverhill, Mass., are spending their summer vacation at the home of their parents, Andrew and Mrs. Wilson, Westmoreland.

A correspondent writes that the roads in Kingston are now in a splendid condition. The road master David Wilson has shown much ability and discretion in carrying out the provisions of the road act. But to the people belong the praise for the willing response they have made to the road master's call. There was no difficulty in obtaining teams, men or money, all taking interest and pleasure in the work. The result is that 3 miles of road is well made and yet there is money on hand to pay for culverts and odd jobs. In the appointment of Owen Agean as road machine operator a good selection has been made. He is skillful and devoted to his work. So far, by practical test, the road act stands approved, as by the careful enforcement of its provisions, success in road making is assured. At the annual school meeting of the Kingston District 450 supplement was voted for a male teacher. The farmers of Kingston are hopeful for a good year and much building, repairing and decorating are being done.—Mrs. D. J. McNeil is slowly recovering from an attack of pneumonia.

The funeral of the late Miss Josephine Wynne, Charlottetown, took place yesterday afternoon from her late residence, Bayfield St., to St. Dunstan's Cathedral, thence to the J. C. Cemetery where interment took place. There was a very large attendance and many expressions of sympathy were heard. The following were the pallbearers: Dr. Brown, William Gillis, Vincent McQuaid, Joseph Gillis, Ernest Leonard and J. A. Gillis. The services at the church were conducted by Rev. Pius McDonald and Rev. Maurice McDonald at the grave.

The final game in the league series for the Hearts trophy was won on Saturday afternoon by the Y. M. C. team, Charlottetown. They defeated the Victorians in a full game by the score of 12 to 9. Tarry Prowse and Gus Stanley each took a turn in pitching for the Vics, and they borrowed "Billy" Ghespie of the Abbies to catch for them. In payment for this borrowing on their part the Y. M. C. A. had J. Harward on third, H. Dewar and W. Whitlock were the battery for the Y. of themselves. The game was well played fairly close together all through. These two teams will now begin a series of five games for the honor of second place. A beautiful prize is to be awarded to each member of the winning team. Some fine plays were made on both sides. These teams are pretty evenly matched and the play off will show the best ball seen in the city yet this year.

The annual church parade of the League of the Cross Society of Charlottetown was held yesterday, a bright summer sun lending itself to enhance the pretty picture of some two hundred little chaps in procession, headed by their band, en route to their Cathedral. Here an excellent discourse to the League on Christian warfare was delivered by Rev. Dr. Campbell, Rector of St. Dunstan's College, in which excellent advice was the main feature. The learned Doctor was eloquent in his closing passage, adjoining his hearers to "remember thy creator in the days of thy youth" and to draw in closer to the great Captain and enjoy the delights of spiritual well being. W. J. Brown sang "O Salutaris" and Miss L. Blanchard the "Ave Maria" with beautiful effect, after which the society formed up again and returned to their hall by a circuitous route. The band rendered many excellent sacred selections and the Society was marshalled by Andrew Butler, W. Morgan, Wilfred Doucette and Alvin McDonald.

Peter Campbell, of Ford's Mills, Kent County, N. B., is a striking example of vigorous and well preserved manhood. He was born at Grand River, P. E. I., March 4th, 1810, and is now in his 103rd year. In appearance and activity he is younger than many men at 75. His wife was Miss Esther MacKenzie, who died some years ago, leaving no children. In religion he is a Presbyterian. He does not hear as readily as in early life, but he reads without glasses—second sight. His memory is good and is somewhat different from the typical old person. He remembers distinctly the Miramichi fire, and how the smoke settled about like a dense fog, and he remembers event ten years earlier, but he also remembers recent events equally as distinctly. His nerves are strong and his hand is so steady that he regularly shaves himself, not with a safety razor, but the old fashioned kind. He has for a number of years spent the summer and fall in shaving shingles, and makes from five to ten thousand in a year. As shingles made this way are good for from fifty to one hundred years, he gets a ready sale for all he makes. Just now he is industriously at work in the garden where he spends from six to ten hours a day. In the early spring he knits a gasperaux net. Occasionally he walks from Ford's Mills to Bass River, a distance of six miles. When he first came to the country there were no roads from Mill Creek to Bass River. Everyone went in canoes. He has no particular fond about diet. He uses tea but not tobacco. He remembers giving $16 one time for a barrel of flour. He is affectionately called Uncle Peter by the residents of Ford's Mills, who all think he is a wonderful man, but he does not think so himself.

INSECT BRICK LAYERS.

LONDON, June 20.—Wonderful animals whose names the public never heard of were on view at the rooms of the Royal Microscopical Society, in Hanover Square, where the members held their annual exhibition. The subject this year was Pond Life. It was a rare privilege for the uninitiated visitor to peer down those brass tubes and see the amazing forms of life known only to the microscopist swimming about at the other end.

It was a sacred circle of serious enthusiasts into which the visitor penetrated. There were men of all professions there and of all ages, united in the common body of microscopy; earnest researchers after truth. There were old gentlemen there who have been gazing through microscopes for forty years and more, who are more enthusiastic now than on the day when they first gazed through an eyepiece, and from whom the smallest forms of life have no secrets, and amongst them was Thomas H. Powell, the doyen of microscopists, who has made the smallest and most perfect microscopic lenses in the world, which themselves to be seen properly need a magnifying glass. Such lenses can magnify to more than 3,000 diameters, and it is to these that the bacteriologists owe their exact knowledge of the habits of some of our most deadly enemies.

There were some very wonderful animals, which, as they showed their delicate beauties under the night rays of the microscope lamps, invested our weedy ponds with a romance little suspected by he who is not a microscopist. For sheer interest the prize must be given to the Mellicerta Ringens, a wonderful little fellow who lives in a little brown tube that he has built brick by brick, in exactly the same way as bricklayers build a chimney from the inside. He is provided with delicate little wheels which revolve ceaselessly in the water, and wash food into his mouth, and under the lens one could see specks floating towards him, and disappearing into his microscopical interior.

Altogether the exhibition made one regret the disappearance of the rich amateur microscopist. In mid and late Victorian days the rich and leisured gentleman thought it quite the usual thing to have his 200 guinea microscope set. Now the enthusiast can get all that is necessary for a little more than a tenth of that sum.

The Public Examination of York School took place on Thursday 20th in the presence of quite a number of the parents and others interested in school work.

The different classes were examined as follows:—Geometry by Dr. J. C. McDonald, Latin, and Spelling, W. C. West; English and Canadian History, Mrs. Pope Cooke and Miss West; Geography, Rev. E. A. Westmoreland, French by Miss Edith Howard. The following prizes awarded by the teacher and presented by E. Brown. Attendance Cecil G. Day and Jack Cooke. General proficiency, Myra Hardy, Peter Proud, Claude Vessey, Leigh Vessey, Muriel Brown, Edna McDonald, George and Marion Lewis. The people of York district are certainly to be congratulated on having the services of such an advanced and painstaking teacher as Mrs. Westmoreland, Capt. W. E. Hardy and Dr. J. C. McDonald and others expressed themselves as well pleased with the general proficiency of the pupils in the different classes and the hope was freely expressed that Mrs. Westmoreland would take charge of the school another year. At the close the pupils were treated to oranges donated by W. C. West.

YE OLDE FIRME. Interior View of one of Canada's beautiful homes, containing a Heintzman and Co., Upright Piano, in Louis XV. design. Of the several attractive designs in the Art Series of Heintzman & Co. Upright Pianos. perhaps there is none more artistic than this Louis XV. design. Take note of the architecture of the case. In every perfect manner it reflects the period of this famed ruler of the seventeenth century. The peculiar art finish that is familiar to the recco period will not be missed. The lines and scrolls are all of the most artistic character, and there is a finish and grace in every turn emblematic of the period of Louis XV. —In tone and touch and power all Heintzman & Co., Pianos hold a distinctive position. None equal them in these great essentials of a high class instrument. —We build Pianos in special architectural designs to conform with the architecture of the home. You are invited to inspect our full series of art designs. Miller Bros 123 Kent Street. Sole Agents for P. E. Island.
