The New York Times

"All the News That's Fit to Print."
Gives more space to news than any other New York newspaper. It prints a greater variety of news. It gives impartial news free from bias. It goes into home news that other newspapers do not. It is a state newspaper, neat in typography, rational in its news treatment, and independent in its opinions. It has refused to appear in the victor, the ignominious or the thoughtless. Special Cable News is one of the most important features of THE NEW YORK TIMES. The London Times' foreign reports appear in this country exclusively in THE NEW YORK TIMES. No other American newspaper excels THE NEW YORK TIMES in the presentation of Domestic Telegraphic news. The Associated Press reports are augmented by hundreds of Special Correspondents.

THE NEW YORK TIMES
Is Now Appearing Every Sunday
Improved and Enlarged

A departure of the Magazine Supplement which accompanies each number of the Sunday Edition of THE NEW YORK TIMES is the introduction of Cartoons and Illustrations. The many bright, breezy, entertaining articles are brightened by illustrations from the pens of well-known artists. New features will be constantly introduced to improve the Magazine, but the old friend, THE MAN IN THE STREET, will remain to amuse people with his bright, chatty and clever stories of men and women who figure prominently in the news and events of the day.

The News Section of
The Sunday Edition of
THE NEW YORK TIMES

will be interesting as it always is—readers of the SUNDAY TIMES may depend on getting "all the news that's fit to print" promptly, accurately and well told. The Financial Quotation Supplement which accompanies the SUNDAY EDITION OF THE NEW YORK TIMES covers all transactions in stocks, bonds and investment securities—both listed and unlisted. It includes capitalization of corporations—dividends—date and rate, the fluctuations in quotations for the closing week—high and low price for both the current year and the year preceding, and other information indispensable to either investor or speculator to aid him in solving financial problems. The Quotation Supplement is kept on file by all banks and financial institutions for daily reference.

The New York Times
Saturday Review of Books

Which accompanies the Saturday Edition, treats books as news. The book publishers of the country have made THE NEW YORK TIMES SATURDAY REVIEW OF BOOKS their preferred medium for announcements of new publications.

THE DOMINANCE OF PARTY.

The vote in the House of Commons on the railway bill has demonstrated the solidarity of party, or, as the Montreal Witness puts it, "the helpless slavery engendered by the party system." There is nothing in the Transcontinental Railway scheme essentially Liberal, or contrary to any principle of the Conservative policy. The question before the House was one upon which there must necessarily have been wide differences of honest opinion among the men of both parties. But they voted on both sides in almost solid phalanx for and against it. Mr. Blair, a Liberal, it is true voted in accordance with his strong convictions against the measure, but influential as he has been he took no one with him. Mr. Tarte's differences with his late colleagues had been in regard to another question, that of protection, and he voted apparently on the general ground of an Opposition member, but carried no other member with him.

As for the people, they have been left quite out of account in the matter. They were in no way consulted. Their representatives before leaving their homes six months ago had not themselves even heard of the gigantic proposition to which they have now committed themselves and the country. The Liberal leaders and the Grand Trunk people made the agreement involving a hundred millions of dollars outlay, entirely behind the backs of the people, and the Liberal representatives in secret caucus endorsed it. The people did not know what was being done until they and the country had been committed beyond recall to the building of a railway across the continent. What the leaders and the caucus agreed to in secret the solid party majority in Parliament ratify as a matter of course. The slavery of party, the crack of the party whip, holds every man in his place when the test vote comes. Under the party system the discussions and voting in Parliament are a mere matter of form. As a matter of fact when Sir Wilfrid and the Grand Trunk people had once made their secret agreement the country was bound hand and foot.

The scheme has hardly been grasped by the country at all. The country is dazed by the magnitude of the proposal, and its own utter helplessness. Before a single public meeting had been held, before elects have had any opportunity of consulting with their representatives, they find their bugs and costly scheme fastened upon them. They can only hope that it may not prove injurious and intolerable in its results as the haste and secrecy of its inception must lead them to fear that it may be.

The buildings, fences and grounds ought to be put in better order than they now are for the coming exhibition. The buildings and fences are sadly in need of whitening, and the gates ought to be painted. First impressions made upon visitors count for much and first impressions will not be favorable unless a little pains be taken to make the buildings and surroundings presentable. The time is now short, but with energy and a reasonable outlay the work can yet easily be done.

Premier Peters, Mayor Warburton and President Messervy of the Board of Trade joined in a telegram to Admiral Douglass asking that the warships which are to visit us shortly may be permitted to remain till after the exhibition. It may or may not be practical for the Admiral to comply with this request, as the movements of the squadron are usually planned a good while in advance. It is, however greatly to be desired that the ships may be here: while the Exhibition is in progress. Their presence would afford a great attraction and probably some festivity might be arranged which would be mutually pleasing to the officers of the ships and our people generally.

DISCOURAGED

The expression occurs so many times in letters from sick women to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription that it is completely discouraged. And there is always good reason for the discouragement. Years of suffering. Doctor after doctor tried in vain. Medicines doing no lasting good. It is no wonder that the woman feels discouraged. Thousands of these weak and sick women have found health and courage regained as the result of the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, drives unhealthy drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, and cures female weakness. It makes weak women strong and sick women well. "In the year 1899 I was taken sick," writes Mrs. Edna Crowder of Ripley, Lauderdale Co., Tenn. "My limbs ached, and severe pains in back and lower part of bowels, with difficulty in urination, and smarting and burning pain after. I tried many kinds of medicine and four of the best doctors in the country, until I gave up all hope of recovery. In January, 1901, I wrote to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and received from him a letter, telling me to try his medicine. I took eleven bottles, six of 'Favorite Prescription,' five of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' one vial of 'Pelle's,' and used one box of 'Lotion Tablets' and one of 'Healing Suppositories,' and am now able to work at anything I want to. Thanks to you for your valuable medicine and kind advice."
Weak and sick women are invited to consult Dr. R. V. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.
