Maritime Tuberculosis Council Meets

That funds had been provided for two more medical men to be attached to the Riverglade Sanatorium or the Provincial Board of Health, of New Brunswick to act as diagnosticians, was the announcement made this morning, following a meeting of the Maritime Tuberculosis Committee held prior to the opening of the scientific sessions of the Canadian Medical Association in the Prince of Wales College here yesterday.

The provision of two more diagnosticians, it was said, was due to the 20 per cent increase in the budget of the Canadian Insurance Companies this year, making a total of $20,000 for the Maritime Provinces as compared with $14,000 last year.

It was also announced that $600 a year had been offered to develop the combined program of the Halifax Health Centre and the Halifax Tuberculosis Hospital in connection with medical supervision, which is to become part of the Dalhousie University course.

Present at the meeting of the committee was V. R. Smith, head of the Health Committee of the Canadian Life Insurance Company; Dr. H. A. Chisholm, of Halifax, provincial Inspector of Health and Dr. William Warwick of Saint John, representing Dr. George Melvin, Provincial Health officer for New Brunswick. There was much discussion relative to the work being carried on.

The resignation of Dr. George Wherrett, of Moncton, director of the Maritime Tuberculosis Educational Committee, was confirmed, to become effective upon his return from Europe next fall. Dr. Wherrett is to make the tour with 30 Canadian tuberculosis sanatorium superintendents and other officials in like capacities who will go to Europe in August to study for two months under scholarships given by the Canadian Life Insurance companies.

Miss Madge McCort, B. R. C. R. N., was officially appointed to take charge of the Moncton office on the departure of Dr. Wherrett.

Arrangements were completed, it was reported at the meeting, with the Government toward the installation of Dr. P. A. Creelman, of Nova Scotia, who is at present assisting Dr. J. L. Collins, superintendent at Riverglade Sanatorium, as full time health officer and diagnostician on Prince Edward Island. He will take up his duties here upon the return of Dr. Collins from Europe, where is going with the scholarship delegates.

It was reported that the Government had favorably considered increasing the per diem grant to the Saint John Tuberculosis Hospital to $1. The four traveling chest diagnosticians in the Maritime area during the year, examined, exclusive of sanatoria and hospitals in Halifax and Saint John.

In Memoriam

A gloom was cast over the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Fall, Crapaud, on Sunday evening, June 10th, when their darling babe, Charles Cameron, passed peacefully away at the early age of two and a half months. Very comforting words were spoken at the home by Rev. C. C. Rand, the choir sang, "Safe in My God To Thee," and all that was mortal of their darling was tenderly laid to rest in St. John's Cemetery.

Our home this week is saddened by deaths unexpected and removing from our midst the babe we loved so dear, but—God's will be done, We must not weep Nor wish him back again.

Changing Social Fashions in France

(By British United Press.) PARIS, June 20.—An order has just been issued which throws considerable light upon social life in France, and upon its development since the war. The Assistance Publique, the body which administers the considerable funds provided by the entertainment tax, or "droit des pauvres," and also controls the Paris hospitals, has just been given instructions that in future the second person singular is no longer to be used by doctors and others in addressing patients.

Contrary to the opinion of many foreigners, to "tutoyer" a person is not necessarily an indication of intimacy. It may rather be described as a mark of familiarity. Though it is usual between lovers in private, it is by no means always so in public, any more than it is between husband and wives of good breeding. Parents will "tutoyer" their children, but children after a certain age may well cease to do so to their parents.

The familiarity which the use of "tu" implies may, when it does not arise from intimacy, equally arise from an assumption of superiority. An officer who is sure of the regard of his men will "tutoyer" them, but he will equally use the singular instead of the plural to express contempt, as a seigneur of the eighteenth century would certainly have done to his lacquey or to a peasant on his estate.

It is this possibility of doubt whether the intention is affectionate, patronizing, or merely contemptuous which is the cause of the recent order. In the words of the order itself, "it is recognized that the intention of those who use the second person singular is to express their solicitude for their patients; but in the present state of society the practice defeats its object, as most of the patients consider it to be a misplaced familiarity and an offence to their dignity."

The change which is illustrated by the order is perhaps partly due to a recent change in the relation of the hospital patient to the hospital. Until recently no one could be received into a public hospital unless he could prove that he was indigent. He paid nothing, and was not allowed to pay anything. Today there is still a class of indigent patients who do not pay, but the degree of indigence required to qualify is greater. Formerly, anyone who could produce a certificate that he paid no income or other direct taxation was entitled to free treatment. Now he must show that he has been in receipt of poor relief.

On the other hand, not only must everyone else pay, but anyone, whatever his means, has now the right to go into a public hospital on payment. The hospital patient in general has consequently risen in the social scale. He refuses to be tutoye, just as the lady who does your housework is instructed by her trades union that she and her colleagues are no longer "domestiques." They are "gene de maison."
