

Movie Men of World May Be Invited To General Conference

(United Press)

GENEVA, Oct. 3.—Declaring that there are at least 50,000 cinema halls in the world and that the moving picture is steadily increasing as an international force for good or evil, Julian Luchaire, Honorary Professor of Grenoble University, France, and Inspector-General of Public Education, recently urged the League of Nations committee on Intellectual Co-operation to convene an international cinematograph congress which would bring together representatives of promoters, producers, authors, artists, critics and directors.

Professor Luchaire hailed the motion picture as one of the most important movements in the history of intellectual life in the course of the last 20 years. He said its influence on the populace can only be gauged in that of the theatre in the cities of ancient Greece and that of the daily press in modern nations since the nineteenth century. He estimated that taking the average number of spectators to be 300 in each of the 50,000 world cinema halls, and keeping in mind that each picture is usually repeated ten times, a film which goes all over the world, as many do, is seen in a relatively short space of time by 150,000,000 persons.

Undoubtedly, said Professor Luchaire, the impression made upon this enormous public is superficial compared with the influence of certain books which have taken years or centuries to impress themselves on the human race, certain sacred books, for instance, but it is a striking fact that only the Bible and the Koran have an indisputably larger circulation than that of the latest film from Los Angeles. He said that the cinema has been adapted to religious propaganda in various countries in the United States and 25,000 churches use the screen as an adjunct to the pulpit. For all these reasons and for the additional one that the cinema has become intrinsically international, Professor Luchaire held that it should be included within the scope of the activities of the Committee on Intellectual Co-operation.

The future alone will divulge, the speaker insisted, whether the cinema is to have high educational value and the elevating and ennobling influence which the theatre seems to have had on the masses in ancient Greece, or the debasing influence of vulgar music-hall shows or of cheap novels. The French professor said he was convinced that great things could be accomplished by an international conference in the way of leading the cinema into channels which would be productive of good for humanity.

Flappers Growing Keen To Join London Police

(United Press)

LONDON, Oct. 3.—English women, aroused by a desire to enlarge the long restricted horizon of their activities are rushing pell-mell to Scotland Yard these days in an endeavor to enlist in the Metropolitan Police Force at the very fountain head of police administration in England.

Their endeavors are a little premature. Nevertheless, they are greatly encouraged by a committee report recommending increase in the number of women "bobbies" at present very small. But parliament must enact the necessary legislation to provide for the salaries of the police women before actual recruiting can commence.

All this to the contrary ambitious women, not content with merely writing to Scotland Yard, beside the entrance of the big round towered building off Whitehall in an attempt to press in person their claims to preferment as members of the police force. All sorts of women are among the besiegers, old, young, middle-aged, girls with bobbed hair and other gay young friskers are strangely mixed up with grave old plodders, all anxious to serve as guardians of John Bull's peace.

—ISLANDER DEAD.—George Laurence Gorman died in Boston Mass. on September 23, 1922. He was the son of the late Peter Gorman, Kensington, where he lived until he had attained his nineteenth year when he went to Boston. There he followed the profession of wood turning in which he showed exceptional proficiency. He was extremely popular among his co-workers and other friends. He recently spent a short vacation at the old home in Kensington, then went again to Boston. There he was stricken with disease, and after a brief space succumbed to its ravages. In his last days he was attended by his parish priest—who administered to him the strength-giving rites of the Roman Catholic Church. At the time of his death he had attained his forty-seventh year, and was buried in Boston. He was a young man of exemplary character, and, in his associations with his fellow-men, proved himself the true christian gentleman. To mourn are left his widow and five children in Boston, and at the old home in Kensington, his mother, and his sister, Lucy, and Statee. He is survived also by his brothers Joseph and Linus, and 25,000 churches use the screen as an adjunct to the pulpit. For all these reasons and for the additional one that the cinema has become intrinsically international, Professor Luchaire held that it should be included within the scope of the activities of the Committee on Intellectual Co-operation.

Oppose Giving Canada Preference On Paper

LONDON, Oct. 3.—The Daily Telegraph's correspondent at Sydney says that W. Shakespeare, secretary of the Australian provincial press association, states that the members of the association are opposed to the preference given to Canada on newspaper in connection with the recent trade agreement between the Australian and Canadian governments, the opposition being mainly on economic and patriotic grounds.

Secretary Shakespeare does not agree with H. E. Pratten, Australian minister of trade and customs, that the result of the agreement will not materially affect the British trade in newspaper. Shakespeare claims that the agreement would make Australia favor American owned paper mills in Canada.

The preference given British newspaper by the Australian committee, says, has proved a blessing to thousands of skilled workmen in Great Britain and has resulted in two of the largest paper mills in the world being erected in the United Kingdom to cope with the special requirements of the export trade.

While the British paper mills are fighting against heavy odds to regain their pre-war status the Canadian paper mills have expanded and are exporting nearly 95 per cent. of their production to the United States, from which country British newspaper is practically excluded on the ground that it is too high priced.

Ninety-one per cent. of the newsprint from all the mills in Canada and 100 per cent. of the newsprint from the Canadian Pacific coast supplying the Australian trade are from American-owned and American-controlled mills. Mr. Shakespeare asserts. The members of the Australian provincial press association, he says, would prefer to pay duty on Canadian newsprint rather than see the interests of the commonwealth and Great Britain sacrificed.

The negotiations between Australia and Canada, the Post's correspondent says, proceeded up to noon on Friday last, and the complete schedules of the new tariff agreement were not ready for the members of the house of representatives until after the Minister of Trade and Customs, H. E. Pratten, had begun his speech in the house that day, announcing that the agreement had been entered into.

Canada imports 20,000 tons of dried fruit annually, the Post's correspondent says, and it is expected that Australia's share in this trade will be greatly increased as a result of the agreement and that the Australian products will displace Canadian imports from Greece and the United States.

Your rubbers will last longer if you put a half inch layer of crushed tissue paper into the heels. The paper forms a soft cushion for the hard heel of the shoe and thus lessens the wear on the rubber.

Stiff?

Minard's rubbers up stiff joints and sore muscles. Splendid for rheumatism and backache.
