ACTUAL SWORN TESTIMONY BEFORE FEDERAL JUDGES

This is the eleventh article of a series telling fully for the first time in sworn Federal Court testimony the inside workings of the new billion dollar booze industry.

Folks, will you hear Mr. Turner?
The name is Turner—DeWitt Turner.
Mr. Turner is the gentleman right over there on the left—with the shine of sin on his forehead. He says this experience meeting must not adjourn until we've heard him.
"I live at the Goethe-Shore Apartments—a swell North Side district in Chicago. I have been a partner trafficking in high-grade liquor for three years."
Hold on, Mr. Turner. No soliciting orders in the court room, please.
"I always kept the faith with my clients. If the liquor wasn't some that actually came from abroad—that's Europe, you know—I wouldn't deceive anybody. I'd say, 'Take my word for it—it's O. K.'"
"I was the fellow which put service in the bootlegging business. Service pays dividends. I have satisfied customers. I invented the famous slogan: 'The customer is always tight'."

Mr. Turner, now that he has pleaded guilty, insists on raising his right hand, swears to tell all. Shall we give him audience? Very well. We now will hear the bootlegger's own story—Mr. Turner's story.
"Yes," he said under oath, "the Mayor of Edgewater got his. I paid him."
"While we were unloading our schooner that we brought up to this dock in the North River at Edgewater, N. J., from down in the Bahamas, one of the town's cops, Flannery, took me over to the municipal power house."
"There I met Mayor Wissel and I paid him $4,500 one day and $4,300 the next."
"We had 100 men unloading that rum ship. Everybody pretty busy. We needed the Mayor's protection. We unloaded day after day like the stuff was cement or cases of canned tomatoes. I'd see the Mayor once in a while."
"Well, how's things going?" he asked.
"Well, you work direct with me," he said.
"I saw him three times during the next week. Yes, at the power house office. He asked again how was everything going; did I have any kicks. Then I gave him some more money. Gave him $5,000 twice and $4,000 once. That made $22,500."
"Well, says he, 'I could use some of that merchandise myself. Say about 200 or 250 cases, eh?' I'll send a city truck down to the ship for it."
"So we delivered to his Honor 200 Scotch, twenty-five cases of rye, twenty-five champagne and five all alcohol, with the load short twenty-nine cases of Scotch."
"I can use some more liquor," he says, later. "I want 150 cases—and listen I want those twenty-nine cases that were missing."
"We delivered the stuff to him. The value of the different items he handled was a little over $20,000."
"Later I met the Mayor at the Dyckman Street ferry, on the Jersey side. He was with a man named Bleigh, an attorney. The Mayor wanted me to take care of the defence fund for Joe Smith, whose shipyard we used to unload the Elker. Joe had been arrested on some barges. The Mayor wanted me to take care of the bail bond and attorney's fee."
"I don't think it's up to us to do that, but I will take it up with my partners and let you know," I told him. I later met the Mayor at Mr. Bleigh's office, 2 Rector Street. The Mayor again insisted. We told him we did not think it was up to us to take care of Smith."
"Yes, I used to meet Harry Gertner, one of those taking the stuff, in the Flatiron Building. He made three payments, totalling $55,000. That did not settle the account. Later I got $25,000 more. That is all I ever collected."
"In all, I collected from him about $80,000, perhaps less. We had a partnership in the liquor that came in on the schooner."
"He then handed me a statement."
"There was a $10,000 item he said was for extra labor, salaries and board for men on board. I asked him 'What is the $2,105 for?' He said, 'It's for George's trip.' He didn't say George who."
"There was a $23,350 item which was the amount of money that Cecil Kinder had given him for our end of the investment, when he was returning to us. Gertner said he was giving it back, that we would not get any of the profits."
"The statement was in trade language. 'White' meant alcohol. 'White sixty thousand times' meant 60,000 gallons of alkyl. The '2' meant $1.50 a gallon freight and 50 cents a gallon for money paid out over at New Jersey dock, which is equivalent to $2 per case, six gallons to the case. 'M. T.' is malt. Thirty-six dollars it cost a keg—$30 for freight and $6 graft over in New Jersey."
"Here's an item: 'C. S. 1430 x 13. That means liquor, at $13 a case, $10 a case freight and $3 a case paid in graft."
"The total in that statement was $169,140, representing the total amount of money that myself and the Kinder had coming from Mr. Gertner—or half the profits."
"Here's some more items."
"Short Br. 39x12, 468—39 cases of brandy at $12 a case."
"Sc. 9x10, 90—nine cases of Scotch at $10 a case, $90."
"Bc. 3x14, 42—Bacardi rum, three cases at $14."
"Ch. 7x14, 98—Champagne, 7 cases at $14."
"There was one item of $15,101.63 that was to take care of the ship, which had been seized at Nassau."
"Other items were: 'Materials for ship, $70.25; men to load trucks, $450; charter of ship, $10,000; telephone, $11; crew, $10,569.39; investment, $23,350; balance cash due, $50,601.74."

IN MEMORIAM
DAVID SPEARS.

There passed quietly away at Granville on March 16th David Spears at the age of forty seven. All that medical aid and loving hands could do could not stay the grim reaper.

David Spears was born in Nova Scotia and came to New London nineteen years ago, there he married Maria Adams and engaged in fishing. He moved to Granville ten years ago and bought a farm and combined farming and fishing. There by hard work and industry built up one of the finest homes in that section of the country. By his uprightness and honesty he endeared himself to all his neighbors so that after his death more than one of them was heard to say "we will miss Dave" as he was familiarly known.

He leaves to mourn a widow who has the sincere sympathy of the community. The esteem in which he was held was shown by the large number of people who followed the remains to the grave.

The service at the house and grave was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Coburn of Bradabans.

The pall bearers were Ernest Colley, William Gunn, James Taper, Robert Carr, Wesley Paynter, Heath Harding.

Interment in North Granville Cemetery.

Unclaimed Medals At National Defence Headquarters

(Canadian Press)
OTTAWA, Ont., April 21.—Some 108,000 medals, in addition to decorations, are unclaimed by men and women who served with the Canadian Expeditionary force in the great war, according to the order published today by the Department of National Defence. These awards are in stock at the headquarters office here and are made up as follows: 1,915, unclaimed 1914-15 stars, 67,636 British war medals and 40,390 victory medals together with the distinguished conduct medals, military medals, medals of the Order of the British Empire, meritorious service medals and French medals.

It is the desire of the National defence headquarters, according to the order now issued to dispose of these medals as quickly as possible. Commanding officers of units are asked to draw the matter to all men under their command in the hope that the men concerned will make immediate application for their awards. While most of the unclaimed awards are for non-commissioned officers and men, there are a number of women, including eight nursing sisters in the list.

He Has Earned His Leisure
His income is assured

HE and his wife can look calmly out on the world. He is old and can work no longer but, he is independent—his income is assured.

How did he do it? He was fond of good things; he didn't live a miserly life. He couldn't save money in the ordinary way any more than the rest of us could, for only three men in a hundred are able to save enough money, unaided, to retire upon at sixty.

Long ago he did a wise thing. He called in one of our trained representatives who helped him to systematize his spending and showed him how a few dollars deposited each year with The Imperial Life would give him independence in his old age, and also provide for his family should he die prematurely.

He has earned his leisure—his income is assured. Will this describe YOUR future? Why shouldn't it?

May we tell you about the income you can insure for yourself twenty or thirty years hence, by making small deposits now—when you have the money?
