IN MEMORIAM

MRS CATHERINE MCNEILL

The death occurred at Dorchester on October first of Mrs. McNeill formerly Miss Catherine McPhee of Georgetown. The whole community was deeply grieved on learning of her death after a lingering illness, borne with true Christian patience. All that loving hands and medical skill could do was done but God willed otherwise. Her deathbed scene was a tranquil one, her loving pastor being with her and her soul, being fortified by all the rites of our Holy Religion, passed peacefully to its creator and Judge, assisted by the prayers of those loved ones present.

Her kind and cheerful disposition and sympathetic nature endeared her to all, being loved and respected both by young and old. Her charity and unbending faith ever impelled her to promote the good work of the community in which she lived and of the church to which she belonged. Her going will be felt every where. She leaves to mourn, besides her sorrowing husband, a large family of sons and daughters, besides one brother Daniel McPhee of Georgetown. The many beautiful floral tributes and spiritual bouquets show the high esteem in which she was held. Sincere sympathy is extended to the family.—A.

ARTISTIC SIGN—An artistic sign in gold leaf, bearing the trade mark and name of the Canada Life Assurance Company, has been placed by Mr. Crossman upon the plate glass of the front office door of W. K. Rogers Company, Ltd., and is attracting much favorable comment.

LOCAL PICTURES SHOWN—An interesting feature of the picture programme at the Prince Edward Theatre last night was the showing of local scenes taken recently by Mr. J. A. S. Bayer. These included life-like pictures of Lady Byng at the Golf Links, the yacht race in the harbor, the Guardian fire and views of Queen Square. The films showed up very clear and distinct and were very much appreciated. They are being shown again this evening.

A RUM RUMOR—It was rumored in the city last night that a number of kegs of rum eluded the eagle eye of the inspectors at Rustico last week and had been smuggled on board a schooner, Mr. Barbour, chief inspector, who returned last night from Summerside, states that this could hardly have been possible as a thorough search had been made. After finding the first twenty-two buried kegs on Friday a search made Friday night in the woods nearby brought to light seven kegs. This was brought to the city and another search instituted in the woods, resulting in the discovery long after dark of seven more. On Saturday the big haul of eighty kegs in the hay loft was made. The whole premises were combed over minutely.

NEW REPAIR MACHINE SHOP—Garage men and motorists generally will be interested to know that Mr. Angus McEachern has opened up a repair machine shop in the garage building formerly occupied by Mr. Wood, 58 Pownall Street. The new shop is equipped with the latest machine repair equipment, including an electrical driven grinder and drill, cylinder boring machine, machine lathe, connecting rod aligner and equipment, etc. A specialty is being made of cylinder boring and machine repair, and the reputation of Mr. McEachern, who has had twenty years' experience with Bruce Stewart & Company and two and a half years as mechanical foreman with the J. Stanley Wedlock Company, assures to his patrons first class workmanship. Garages men throughout the Province need no introduction to Mr. McEachern, and the fact that he is now established in business for himself will, we believe, be sufficient to attract a generous measure of patronage. Connected with the new repair machine shop is the upholstery establishment, conducted by Mr. G. F. Ball, where general body repairs to cars, including tops, sides, etc., will be done cheaply and efficiently.

Five Toed Tabby

(By Dominion News Service.)

LONDON, Oct. 14.—A woman artist, of Spring Grove, Kingston-on-Thames, owns Little Tich, a tabby cat, seven years old, who has an aversion from entering the house by the back door. It has five toes on each paw. Every night the cat goes out by the back door, but when it returns it always walks up to the front door, knocks just like a human being, and waits for the door to be opened. If there is not an immediate answer it knocks again, and although the back door may be open, continues until its knock is replied to. One night the family were awakened by loud knocking; Tich had returned home late. At first no notice was taken, but the cat hammered away until a member of the family, in dressing gown and slippers, was obliged to open the door. The cat also has no fear of water. If it sees a rat on the op-
