HAPPENINGS OF THE WEEK

Canadian first glimpse of their Queen Wednesday was of a gracious lady attired in simple, pearl-embroidered ensemble of light wool with long fox fur from the shoulders to the end of the hip-length jacket. An off-the-face model hat of grey felt pinned at one side with a perky bow, grey shoes and stockings and white gloves completed her chic ensemble. The King was dressed in the uniform of a British admiral.

Lady Katharine Seymour and Lady Nunburnholme, the two charming and gracious Ladies-in-Waiting to Queen Elizabeth, are looking forward to seeing the "many smart dresses" worn by Canadian and United States women. "I imagine," said Lady Nunburnholme, "the reason one finds women on this side of the Atlantic turning out so smartly clothed is that they are able to buy charming frocks at such low prices. Clothes at corresponding prices in England would not have as much style." Lady Nunburnholme has been described as the most beautiful woman in England.

Lady Katharine could hardly wait to see Canada for it is her first trip, although Lady Nunburnholme has been to the Dominion once before. "I am sure I am going to enjoy every moment of our stay," said Lady Katharine. Lady Katharine was Lady-in-Waiting to Queen Mary for some years and is reputed to have introduced the use of the word "brilliant" by Royal Ladies-in-Waiting. Her husband, Sir Reginald Seymour, died last October.

Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose are doing a bit of traveling as novel to them as the voyage to Canada is for their parents, the King and Queen. A few days ago the Princesses, 13 and eight years of age, rode on an elephant at the London zoo. Last Saturday they had their first ride on a London subway train. They travelled in a third-class coach with several passengers for more than a mile. They were accompanied by their governess and Lady Helen Graham.

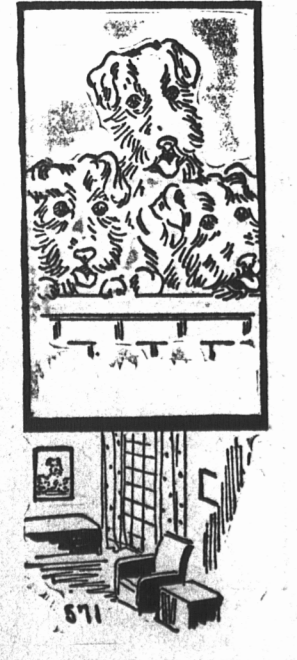

Dress for the royal garden party at Rideau Hall, Ottawa, will be much the same as for any formal garden party. Ladies will wear afternoon dresses of georgette, chiffon, lace, printed silk, or some made long, but many short, some made with coats of the same material.

Cameron-Vincent Nuptials

A quiet but pretty wedding took place in St. James Church, Armadale, Halifax, this Saturday morning at eight o'clock when Doris Vincent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Vincent, Halifax, was united in marriage to Mr. Robyn Gordon Cameron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eben Cameron of Charlottetown. Rev. A. Le Drew Gardner performed the ceremony. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was charmingly attired in a gown of tea rose satin and bridle picture hat of matching material and carried a shower bouquet of roses and pink and white carnations. Following the ceremony a reception was held for the immediate relatives. The happy couple will visit Montreal and other places on their honeymoon. The bride travelled in a suit of navy blue with matching accessories.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Eben Cameron of Charlottetown. The Guardian joins in happiest congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Cameron.

THREE PUPPIES

As a wall hanging, or on pillows, this hot iron transfer pattern is easy enough to place on the needleworker to attempt. The puppies are outlined and the ears and eyes are brown, the tongue a soft pink. The silk is green and the bricks bright red. To order this design, write your name, address and No. 571 plainly, on any piece of paper and send with 20 cents-in coin or stamps to Needlework Bureau, Charlottetown Guardian.

material. They will wear hats to correspond, and white gloves. If it is cool many will wear light weight coats or fur neck pieces. Gentlemen will wear morning coats and suits with either dark grey, with grey gloves and ties; or dark grey business suits, will be worn by many not possessing morning coats.

Mrs. Harold Hemming, with her two children, Louisa and John, left Vancouver last Sunday for the East en route to her home in London. She has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Weaver who accompanied her as well as a recent visitor to Charlottetown, will visit in Toronto, Quebec, Montreal and Ottawa, before sailing in the Empress of Australia for England.

Miss Helen Judson was delightfully entertained at the Charlottetown Hotel Monday evening when she was the guest of honor at a dinner-bridge, her hostesses being Miss Violet Birnie, Miss Inelda MacLellan, Miss Ruth Young, Miss Ruth Walker. It was a jolly gathering, the young bride-to-be receiving a very beautiful gift which she is to take part next week.

On Wednesday evening Mrs. Arthur Brown had a most enjoyable party at the Forester House, Pownall, for Miss Helen Judson who was very pleasantly surprised when the guests present showed her with numerous lovely miscellaneous gifts prior to her marriage. Daily refreshments were served by the hostess before the guests returned to the city.

Mrs. Ernest Coffin, who with Mr. and Mrs. Crocker of Truro, are on a holiday visit to England and France, has just concluded a trip through the British Isles and in ideal weather saw the Banks and Braes of Bonnie Doon in Alloway, Ayr.

Many social activities are centering around Miss Margaret Elizabeth (Betty) Rogers, whose marriage to Mr. Robert F. Large is to take place in St. James Church on June 3rd.

Mrs. D.F. Archibald and Miss Millie Bell were joint hostesses at Mrs. Archibald's pretty home at evening for Miss Betty Rogers who was given a pre-nuptial surprise shower of many lovely gifts. After good wishes had been extended the bride was served with supper served at a late hour.

Mr. Charles B. Howard, M.P., and Mrs. Howard, "Howards," accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Ben C. Howard, Jr., left Sherbrooke Tuesday morning for Ottawa to attend the functions being held there during the visit of the King and Queen.

The Duke and Duchess of Devonshire left England on May 11 for South Africa.

Mrs. Ralph Parker of Sydney, arrived Thursday to spend two weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A.B. Lee Horne of Summerside.

Mrs. W.S. Stewart, Mr. Murdoch McKinnon and Mr. Frank McKinnon are returning tonight from a three weeks trip to New York and the World's Fair. They stopped off in Boston en route.

Miss Frances Ayers is to be a June bride, her engagement being announced this week to Mr. Freeman W. Boyles.

Miss Anne Hunter who is having a delightful visit with relatives in Scotland, visiting many historic spots, spent a recent week-end in Broughty Ferry with Mrs. Will McLaren and family, formerly of this City. They had a very happy time talking over old friendships.

Miss Beattie Bell left Thursday on a visit to Boston.

Miss Elsie Nicholson who has been visiting her home here left Thursday on return to New York.

Mrs. L.A. Moore of Summerside entertained the younger set last Friday evening to a jolly dance honouring her two youngest children, Miss Mary and a Jolly Moore.

Mrs. T.M. Linkletter and her son, Max, who has just returned from the District of Columbia, house Convocation this week where Miss Zilpha Linkletter received her degree with distinction. They motored home from Halifax arriving in Summerside on Wednesday.

Mrs. B.W. Robinson, who has been hiding in Halifax, returned on Thursday to her home in Summerside.

Royal Presentation Bring Many Problems of Etiquette

Hundreds of feminine hearts across Canada are beating a little faster this week-end, for Their Majesties long-anticipated tour to Canada has begun. Before the month ends, a cross-section of official Canada will have had the honor of being presented to King George and Queen Elizabeth, and will be treasuring for a lifetime the thrill that comes with such occasions. Informally may be the keynote of modern etiquette but when it comes to greeting the King and Queen, the rules are strict and definite. To any one present at functions attended by King George and Queen Elizabeth there is a possibility that they may be presented and given a short audience, for the graciousness of Their Majesties is well known. There are several different rules that must be observed. Women curtsy and men bow, and if both Their Majesties are met at the same time, turn first to the Queen and then to the King. The King offers his hand, you bow slightly and then shake hands. The curtsy is simple. Stand firmly on the right foot, place the left foot behind and bend the knees to lower yourself six or eight inches. If you can not bend that low skillfully, remember to stop before you lose your balance. Your back must be held straight and your head should bend forward slightly as you curtsy. Your hands fall to your sides.

Do not bow to the floor. A famous royal visitor commented many years ago that she had seen more of Canadian women's manners than of any other. The figure should remain straight at all times.

YOUR INDIVIDUAL HOROSCOPE

By FRANCES DRAKE Look in the section your birthday comes in, and find what your outlook is according to the stars. (Copyright, 1939, King Features Syndicate Inc.)

For Saturday, May 20th (Aries) MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries) —The time prior to Noon is most advantageous for your important matters and plans between 12 and 3:30 p.m. more than ordinary care is advised in activities connected with water, beverages, chemicals. Late afternoons and evenings fine rain.

APRIL 21 to MAY 20 (Taurus) —Alertness, a well-planned program minus extremes and immobility should be your set-up today. No particularly auspicious or expansion or great gains. Routine favored.

MAY 21 to JUNE 21 (Gemini) —Important personal matters such as attending to bills, insurance, making promised phone calls, checking health with physician and dentist, correspondence, most favored. Perhaps all for new matters.

JUNE 22 to JULY 23 (Cancer) —Favorable period for self-development, attaching new and valued friends, renewing old acquaintances, visiting the sick, taking physical interest in community and church affairs; romance.

JULY 24 to AUGUST 23 (Leo) —A.M. fine work and pleasurable activities that require endurance, physical prowess, health exercises. Afternoon and evening best for everyday routine and familiar matters.

AUGUST 24 to SEPTEMBER 23 (Virgo) —Strike tempo commensurate with the day's obligations. You're the best judge of what's needed. Avoid a too hasty decision. Be friendly to one overlook failings and pettiness in others.

SEPTEMBER 24 to OCTOBER 23 (Libra) —Stress expansion and receptivity to modern but morning dress. But that is not obligatory. Dark business suits will do just as well. While official invitations have not yet been issued for these various functions, the list is more or less limited, since the short duration of the visit makes it obligatory to include official and representative Vancouver in the City Hall ceremony and the royal luncheon. How Can I ? ?

Q. How can I keep the vacuum cleaner in good condition? A. Keep the motor oiled according to manufacturer's direction, clean the brush regularly and often, empty the bag after each use, turn off the motor immediately when you are not actually working, and the life of your vacuum cleaner will be lengthened. Q. How can I prevent scabs when I burn my skin? A. Rub the new skin several times a day with good sweet oil. Persist in this treatment until the new skin is soft and flexible. Q. How can I clean discolored aluminum? A. Rub with a cloth dipped in lemon juice. Then rinse in warm water.

A Morning Smile

A very valuable deodorant, owned by a wealthy woman, was run over. The policeman detailed a man to tell the woman of her misfortune. "But break the news gently," he said, "she thinks a lot of this dog." The man rapped on the mansion door and when the woman appeared, he said, "I'm sorry, but part of your dog has been run over."

Difference in the Degree of Education Doesn't Make a Great Difference if the Young Man Shows a Desire to Improve His Mental Status

Dear Miss Dix—I have been going with a young man for about four years. We are very much in love and planning to marry some time in the near future, but I am a high-school graduate and he is not. He is neither coarse nor crude. He knows exactly how to dress and act both in public and private. This has made me very critical of him and caused me to wonder if they are right. Am I making a mountain out of a molehill, or do you think I would be happier giving him up?

Answer: You can be just as snobbish about education as you can over having blue eyes or money, and that is what you are being, it seems to me. You are looking down on this boy because he isn't a high-school graduate, but his high-school member of the real intelligentsia would regard you as little more than an ignoramus.

So you have no real reason to be snooty about the lack of education. That is a deficiency you can always make up. If he has a good native intelligence and is eager to learn and improve himself, you are foolish to turn him down because he didn't complete a school course and you did.

He may, in reality, know a great deal more about the things that matter than you. Furthermore, if you will look around among the men who are successful in business and who are the leading men in your community, whose opinions are looked up to and whose judgment is respected, you will be astonished to find out how many of them got their education in the School of Hard Knocks instead of a high-priced university.

The fact that your boy friend is willing to take correction makes me rate him highly. Anybody who is willing to learn from his wife who has had better advantages than he has had. I know a man who is polished in his manners, well informed, a fine speaker who uses excellent English, in his manners, well informed, a fine speaker who uses excellent English, who had to go to work when he was a mere child and who had virtually no advantages of education. But he married a school teacher and he was big enough to let her help him. She corrected his grammar and he was big enough to let her help him. She corrected his grammar and he was big enough to let her help him. She corrected his grammar and he was big enough to let her help him.

Dear Dorothy Dix—Very few men offer to give up their seats to young girls or women while riding in crowded bus or street car. I myself will only give up my seat to a sick or crippled person, or to an elderly man and woman, or to a woman with a baby in her arms. The reason for my attitude is that women of today consider themselves equal to men. They drink, smoke, show off their bodies just to see if they can make a man fall for them. I consider this vulgar and have lost respect for the modern woman. Years ago, when women acted modestly, they commanded the respect of man. Am I wrong in my ideas? L. T.

Answer: A woman can't have her cake and eat it, too, and undoubtedly when women fought for and achieved their rights they forfeited their privileges.

The tradition that a man should give his seat to a woman in a crowded car was based on the theory that man was stronger than woman and hence better able to stand than the frail, delicate little creature who was about to swoon with fatigue after having undergone the arduous labor of going to a machine and partaking of an ice-cream soda, when they think nothing of tramping around golf links for hours at a time, and when their chests are covered with medals for high jumping and steeple chasing and all sorts of athletic sports, they are certainly able to make a man give up his seat, physically as well as metaphorically, and I see no reason why a tired man should give up his seat to one of them.

Old-fashioned chivalry died out when women entered into competition with men in the business and the professions. Fairer manners are abundant in a business office. The man who works at a desk next to a girl can't be hopping up every time she moves, or pulling out her chair for her, or sharpening her lead pencils and doing the work she leaves undone.

But, it seems to me, the men who give women an equal chance to make a living are showing them the finest chivalry the world has ever known. It means something a lot more than picking up a lady's handkerchief, or giving her a seat in a car.

Dear Miss Dix—My daughter is in love with a young man who has been put in the penitentiary for blackmail. Also, he has been implicated in other robberies. In spite of this, my daughter has had a crush on him and she is right in wanting her to drop him? She is a sweet girl and only 18. A MOTHER.

Answer: Doubtless your daughter thinks she is being noble in sticking to this criminal who cherishes a romantic belief that she can reform him and lift him to a higher life when he gets out of the pen. It is a pity you can't make her see what an idiot she is being, and that she will only ruin her own life by continuing to love a man who has been in the penitentiary so many times that he has done simply robs from bad to worse and drags down all connected with him.

She ran down the hall and did not look back for the elevator, but walked down the single flight to her room. Once there, the door shut and locked and she was alone. She turned on the light and looked at her wrist. Then she threw herself on the bed and sobbed. The more she cried the harder she wept. She had met Terry Creighton. And what a meeting!

Torn Emotions Alison did not reply. "Would it be too much trouble to ask you to put a fresh patch, a little smaller one on it?" "Not at all. Come, please."

"Together they went back to her room and Alison, in silence, put a fresh badge on the torn cheek. She made it a small, neat patch, and when she finished, Terry peered into the mirror and seemed immediately satisfied. "Have you had breakfast?" he asked as they started for the elevator again.

"Yes," Alison was quick with the answer. She wanted to cut short this rather painful interview. It was a shame she had had to meet him this early this morning of all mornings!

"Jim and Phil are waiting for me downstairs. They're waiting now, and there was no more conversation until she joined the two boys."

"Where have you been?" "We're almost through," Jim demanded. "Then he saw Terry."

"I might have known you would pick up the best-looking stewardess who files our lines!" Alison flushed uncomfortably, but Terry was casual about the whole matter. "She's been fixing up my wound."

"What happened?" "I tangled with a guy from the South Shore. Several men tried to get mixed up with me, but I got away."

"I suppose that neat little blonde did that? The one who is always waiting for you?" "I don't remember."

"The boys had finished breakfast, so they finally left Terry. "He won't be alone long. Look at that girl over there! She'll keep you company, just say the word!" Jim remarked, nodding toward a pretty brown-haired girl sitting at a nearby table.

The Housewife And Her Activities

The trees to their innermost marrow are touched by the sun; The robin is here and the sparrow; Spring is begun and the silence are over; These petals that rise Are the eyelids of earth that uncover Her numberless eyes. —Archibald Lampman.

FRINGING AT FROGMORE The past few days have brought a wonderful change in the appearance of the Royal orchards around Frogmore (says the Daily Telegraph, morning Post.)

The earlier fruit trees are covered with blossom. These Royal orchards are still extensive, though not so large as the Prince Consort. Much of the fruit for the Royal table is supplied from here, but of late years the bulk of the apples have come from Sandringham. Frogmore, however, is still famous for its grapes.

Removes Burned Food Rub the oven-hot stained casserole and baking dishes with salt to remove the burned particles of food. Then soak in a pan of warm water, suds, and baking soda. Wash and dry.

The Clothes Bag The bag in which the soiled clothes are kept should not be neglected. It should be laundered very frequently and kept in an odorless and sanitary condition.

Dampened Chamols Use a dampened chamols, instead of a duster, on the furniture about once a month. You will notice a great difference.

Modern Etiquette (By ROBERTA LEE) Q. What is cognac, and how is it pronounced? A. Cognac is a superior French brandy made from wine produced at or near Cognac. Loosely used it is any French brandy. Pronounce ko-nyak. C as in coat, a as in at, accent first syllable.

Q. Should a close friend rush in to kiss the bride, at the conclusion of the ceremony, before her parents have done so? A. Never.

Q. How should the card of a woman physician read? A. Dr. Clara Wilson, or Clara Wilson, M. D.

All Tired Out Before Day Half Over

Women who should be strong and healthy become weak, run down and worn out, and are unable to attend to their household duties. They get up in the morning dreading the day's work ahead of them.

Some disease or constitutional disturbance has left its mark in the form of shattered nerves, impoverished blood, and an exhausted condition of the entire system.

Women will find in Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills the remedy they need to supply food for the exhausted nerve force, and one that will help them back to sound, perfect health again.

TIMELY TIPS FOR THE HOME SEWER

This popular little twopiece dress, "checks" its billowing swing skirt in navy blue and white crepe. It is such an effective contrast to the solid colored navy blue crepe Victorian basque collar. It buttons up to a childish collar, which is accented by a big bow tie of the checked crepe. You'll find the checked skirt such a smart contrast to all your lovely sweaters. The basque blouse will also be very useful as a jacket over some of your print frocks. The pattern can be used again for quite a different dress in the wee neck version in one material as chambray, printed voile, striped linen, dotted percale, etc. It's such an easy affair to sew... as an easy prize.

Style No. 2765 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19 years. Size 15 requires 3-1/2 yards of 39-inch material for skirt and bow; and 1-3/4 yards of 39-inch material for blouse.
