Special musical selections will be rendered by Trinity Church Choir, Charlottetown.

The Old Church

I have seen stately temples rear their spires,
And to a world in darkness lend their light
Heard too the melting melody of choirs,
And eloquence that was the soul's delight.

Knew treasuries that fairly overflowed,
With gifts that well-gowned Charity has made;
But memory and affection show the road,
To where life's corner-stone for me was laid—

There, mid the hills, a chapel plain is sighted,
Whose windows opened out on the world's need;
Where passion's words oft to a flame were lighted
That man from sin's dominion might be freed;

For them sin was no ache or growing pain,—
And ancient prophets seemed with us again.

—Alexander Louis Fraser.

CORNWALL —Service in the Church was conducted Sunday evening, July 7th by the Mission Band with the children in the choir. Mr. Harry Hyde very kindly presided for the evening. After the singing of "God sees the little Sparrow fall" the scripture taken from Psalm L XXXIV was read by Eva MacPhail, Prayer was effectively offered by Evelyn Godfrey While the offering was received Miss Jessie Murray beautifully rendered "Have Thine own way Lord" which was much appreciated accompanied by Miss Mildred Hyde. The guest speaker, Mrs. J. F. Easton spoke in a very impressive manner pointing out the great responsibilities of parents in the early training of children, that they may grow up in the service of the master, and take advantage of their heritage since they were not born in the lands of those who have not yet heard of Christ, that they may become channels of His eternal Love and Power. The leaders, Mrs. Frizzell and Mrs. Murray prepared the program. The service closed with singing "Jesus loves me," and benediction.

Red Cross Summer Health School In Progress

Continuing a service for the teachers of the province which was originated last year, the Prince Edward Island Division of the Canadian Red Cross Society is again conducting a Summer School for Health. This School opened on July 3rd, and will continue for two weeks. Accommodation is provided by the Red Cross for the teachers while in Charlottetown, and the course was made available to any who wished to take advantage of this excellent opportunity. The aim of the course is to provide for the teachers assistance with their Junior Red Cross programmes as a means of promoting health and citizenship among their pupils. The Department of Education has long recognized the educational importance of Junior Red Cross in the schools. In the absence of any Summer School provided by the Department of Education this is the one opportunity the teachers have of meeting for any considerable period of time to discuss with other teachers problems similar to their own. Prince Edward Island is the only province in which the Red Cross is solely responsible for such a course.

Several subjects which are closely related to the establishment of good health habits are included in the curriculum. Junior Red Cross activities and methods of health education, physical education, nutrition, swimming and water safety, first aid all have a part in the programme. The instructors include Miss Jean E. Browne of Toronto, National Director of Junior Red Cross, Miss Sophie Newson, Provincial Director of Junior Red Cross, Mrs. Harry Cudmore, Provincial Director of First Aid Swimming and Water Safety, with Miss Mabel Matheson in charge of the first aid instruction, Col. W. W. Reid, Director of Physical Fitness and Miss J. Estelle Haines, Provincial Director of Red Cross Nutrition Services. Special speakers include Mr. Lloyd Shaw, Director of Education, and Dr. B. C .Keeping, Director of Public Health Services.

The opening sessions have provided an indication of the profit to be derived from the course. The keynote was set by Mr. L. W. Shaw in his two lectures on Citizenship. Mr. Shaw pointed out the truth of Hitler's statement that "He who has the youth has the future." In Canada we need to recognize the responsibility of the school, the home and the community in training our youth in democratic Canadian principles. The Junior Red Cross in which the boys and girls learn to assume responsibility for their meetings and government of their own branch is better than any text book in teaching our youth the value of these principles of citizenship.

Miss Browne in her first lectures emphasized our modern conception of education in which we consider the teacher responsible for the development of the whole child, and not just his ability to recite the day's lessons. Here again, the most effective teaching devices are example and practice. The teacher herself must be a good example of good health. The ultimate aim of health education is a nation of healthy citizens.

The discussion of nutrition as a specific phase of health, led by Miss Haines centred around the question, "Should Children Eat"? The class agreed that children do have a right to those foods which assure their best growth and health, and that the teacher has some responsibility in the development of good eating habits in her pupils. The provision of an adequate noon meal at school is one means of discharging their responsibility.

The Course in Red Cross First Aid, conducted by Miss Mabel Matheson is well underway. It is a very full course to cover in the time allotted and will require considerable "homework" if the teachers are to pass the examination which is given at its conclusion.

The teachers are thoroughly enjoying the swimming lessons in spite of the fact that the weather has been so unusually cold for the time of year. A picnic supper planned and prepared by these teachers during one of the Nutrition periods was attended by the members of the Swimming Instructors Course now also in session, and was a huge success.

The Canadian Red Cross Society is convinced that the most effective means of promoting health is through the establishment of good health habits with school children. It is regrettable that more teachers are not able to avail themselves of the opportunity of deriving from this course new ideas and inspiration for teaching health and citizenship.

Air Tragedy Affects P.E.I. People

Miss Ruth Dickleson, New Glasgow, P. E. I. received word of the following accident to her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Foster W. Weeks. The victims have other relatives in P. E. I. who were also shocked over the tragic happening:
(Oakland Calif. Tribune, June 27)

The body of a sixth victim was found last night in the tangled wreckage of the private five-place plane which caught fire in mid-air and crashed yesterday near Concord en route to a Reno wedding!

It was identified as that of Mrs. Gladys Linn, 38, wife of William E. Linn, wealthy Oakland sportsman and owner of the plane, and mother of William E. Linn Jr., 8, who also died in the crash.

Inspector Ray Stoeffels, of the Contra Costa County sheriff's office, said her body was identified by a ring found near the wreckage and by bits of red hair.

Bodies of the other victims were so badly mangled that identification still could not be made, but authorities said they learned definitely that the others aboard were Foster W. Weeks, 50, 1236 Ashmont Avenue, Piedmont, a real estate operator; his wife Margaret, 41, and Mrs. Dorothy Fowler, 34, of 1610 Hearst Avenue, Berkeley, formerly with the Women's Army Service Pilots and Linn's secretary and pilot.

CHILDREN ORPHANED

The air tragedy wiped out the entire Linn family and orphaned the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Weeks. The three Weeks children, Barbara, 13; Shirley, 15, and Foster Jr., 17, were vacationing at Russian River at the time of the crash and were returned here last night by relatives.

At first it was believed Mrs. Linn was not aboard the plane, although she had told friends the night before that she intended to make the trip to Reno to attend the wedding of Frank C. Burhans, an executive of Fox West Coast Theaters, and Mrs. Doris Harvey, head of an Oakland employment agency.

The plane had seats for only four passengers, in addition to the pilot, but apparently the boy sat on someone's lap.

COUPLE MARRIED

Burhans and Mrs. Harvey were receiving their marriage license when they were notified of the crash. They were married shortly afterward, and planned to return here today.

The Metropolitan Club, founded and headed by Weeks, will be closed tonight in his memory, officers of the club announced.

Opening of the $300,000 Oakland Speedway, a project headed by Linn, will take place Sunday as originally scheduled.

Linn's single-engine cabin plane took off from the Oakland Airport at 10.26 a.m. yesterday, returned four minutes later for minor repairs and took off again at 10.35 for Reno.

Trouble again developed in the air, and the plane caught fire near Concord. The burning plane first was spotted by Russell Goebel, 9, of 2052 Bonifacio Street Concord, who had borrowed a pair of binoculars from a playmate.

"I was looking through the binoculars to see if they were any good," the boy said. "All of a sudden I saw the plane. Smoke started coming from the tail and then flames.

PLANE SEEN AFIRE

Other witnesses saw the flaming plane streak toward Buchanan Field, apparently attempting an emergency landing.

Several witnesses reported they saw two persons leap from the plane a moment before it crashed and exploded near the airfield.

From the positions of two bodies a quarter of a mile from the wreckage, it was believed that Linn and his son were the ones who leaped.

The exploding plane started a grass fire which burned over 20 acres.

An investigation into the cause of the crash was begun by Dwight F. Peterson, inspector in charge of the Oakland District office of the Civil Aeronautics Administration but he said the plane was so demolished by impact and fire that it will complicate the process of determining anything from the wreckage."

TERRIFIC IMPACT

Larry Eshpeter, operator of a Hayward aircraft service and a friend of Linn's inspected the wreckage, scattered over a quarter-mile area, and said the plane "must have been diving at nearly 300 miles an hour when it hit the ground."

Linn, who lived at 2507 Eighth Avenue, was a member of the Contra Costa County Sheriff's flying unit. He was the owner of two Oakland ballrooms and an airplane products factory in Berkeley

Mrs. Fowler, an expert pilot, was his secretary at the airplane products factory.

Linn's sister, Mrs. Anne Johnson, of Chicago City, Minn., will arrive here by plane today to make funeral arrangements for the Linn family.

Funeral services for Mr. and Mrs. Weeks will be held at 3 a.m. tomorrow at the Albert Brown Mortuary, followed by burial at Mountain View Cemetery.

In addition to the three children, Weeks is survived by a brother, Harold, of Berkeley, and two sisters, Mrs. Jack Norris and Miss Margaret Weeks, both of Oakland, Mrs. Weeks is survived by her mother, Mrs. Fred J. Bodinson of San Francisco, and a sister, Mrs. Reginald Krieger, of Hayward.

Arrangements for funeral services for Mrs. Fowler still are pending.

ADMINISTRATOR NAMED

Linn's accountant, John D. Brethauer, was made special administrator to carry on Linn's various businesses pending location of a will today when a petition for special letters of administration was heard by Superior Judge J. J. Allen.

Brethauer testified that Linn's income totalled $100,000 a year.

The special administrator's bond was set at $30,000.

Gone dear parents, gone forever,
How we miss your kindly faces—
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your places.

A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still —
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
