R. A. F. Transport Command Crossing

Best actual flying times, exclusive of brief halts, over both main routes from Montreal to Britain are those of Captain S. W. A. Scott. A few days ago his flying time for the journey, alighting on the way in Nova Scotia, was 11 hrs. 50 mins. A week before, he made the Montreal to Britain run, with a short stop at Newfoundland, in 12 hrs. 21 mins. East to West crossings from Britain take, of course, considerably longer owing to the prevailing head winds which are encountered. Since the late Captain E. R. B. White made a non-stop flight, not hitherto announced, of 13 hrs. 30 mins. from Lanchashire, England, to St. Hubert, Quebec, (3,100 statute miles) on June 10, 1941, the feat has never been nearly equalled. The best approach to it was a recent flight by Captain G. R. Buxton direct to Montreal in 14 hrs. 52 mins. The best actual ocean crossing from Britain is that of Capt. Richard Allen, 10 hrs. 18 mins., to Newfoundland. Record-making though this flight in a modern four-engine bomber was, it only emphasizes the merit of an achievement nearly six years before by Air Commodore G. J. Powell, who is Senior Air Staff Officer of the Atlantic Group at Montreal Airport. The Air Commodore, then with Imperial Airways, was pioneer of the flying boat service from Britain to Botwood, Newfoundland, and, as captain of the Empire flying boat, Cambria, he made a crossing in August, 1937, of 10 hrs. 24 mins.-only six minutes longer than the best of the many hundreds of Atlantic wartime flights in higher-performance military aircraft.

NO STEAK... just a seagull. NO COFFEE... just putrid water. NO HEAT... just a freezing wind to chill the bones!

That is Hardship!

Men forced down at sea know what hardship is. They know the tortures of thirst, of hunger and of utter helplessness. Our own airmen have fasted that hardship in the bleak Atlantic; British flyers have come through the ordeal in the North Sea. Eddie Rickenbacker and his six companions fought the "Mad Pacific" for twenty-one days in Good-year life rafts. Yes, all these men know hardship.

We in Canada live in security and comfort... our fighting men live in danger and discomfort. We... all of us... can provide the money to "BACK THE ATTACK!" That's little enough, when we know that every dollar invested now brings added security to our loved ones and to our homeland!
