

The Red Cross Campaign is the only National War Service appeal to the people of Canada this year ... Payment of pledges may be spread throughout the year ... Next week be ready for the collecting teams.

THUNDER FROM THE STANDS

By Vincent Richards

They were playing again now and the Frenchman was pressing the advantage he had gained by winning the first set. His attack was relentless, his recoveries magnificent. Only Len's service saved him from an occasional net play. But it was impossible for him to concentrate upon the little white ball. Lefevre kept persistently returning to him. Always a picture of serene face—smiling and radiant, he was always frightened and fearful—Lefevre chased back after a long ball that fell from over his shoulder. He was at the net, "killed" the sensational return. "Monsieur Lefevre is in the second set, two games to one."

Two games to one! That all the difference? Oh, yes, and that was one set already in Lefevre's credit. But what matter eventually, he, Len Rollins, had won or lost. He'd much rather win the match in Indianapolis if he could. In New York it was a different matter. Let's see, the match had started at 2:30; it must be about three now. Why, in New York, it was only seven o'clock. Plenty of time. Plenty of time to cable Justin—and Grace. He still loved him. More than she did. Why, of that he would be sure. Perhaps if he—but it was no use. Yet was it? Why not? An sudden illness and—no, he had not, must not, do that. It was not, it just wasn't what the English called cricket. Yet he might, in the next change, let down a message and have it read to them. He might. But he knew better. In motion pictures, things were done that way, not in real life. Real life was more conventional, inexorable.

Zing-zing-zing—raquet meeting a fuzzy ball. Lefevre dancing on that were spry and tireless; self, long-limbed, cool, deliberate, moving back and forth, up and down, arm making arcs and circles. The ball shot off his raquet. Perfection was beginning to come now, and vaguely he wondered if his greater efforts should stir up other things—other things which crowded all else out of his mind.

He won the next two points. Lefevre frowned. He had gone out to Easthampton after her at once, they'd never been there for that ride in Hughes' car. And if they hadn't—but what was he thinking of that now! It was late. The sharp intake of her following the rest period Len sensed the change in the spectators, the ball boys, the linesmen, even the referee. There was a lack of confidence in their god Lefevre. At first the change was slight, then marked and complete. An easy one-sided victory was turning into a brilliant and sensational uphill struggle.

"Monsieur Rollins' game," Monsieur Rollins leads in the fourth set, two-love.

The flicker of a frown creased Lefevre's forehead. The French Davis Cup star broke Len's service for two successive points, but un-derstandably, Len smashed his way to a lead of three games with bullet-like aces and phenomenal net play.

And now Lefevre was plainly worried. He fretted about a pebble that had become uprooted on the court. It was necessary for him to lighten the faces of his shoes. And once he gazed at a linesman who called in favor of the American a shot which nicked the side-line. Len was making splendid use of his height now by the net. At a time when Lefevre's stroking had weakened in strength and accuracy. Kill Lefevre tried to tell him back into the deep court with long, floating lobs and passing shots, but his efforts were futile. Len Rollins was not to be stopped.

Len noticed, and it was the first genuine thrill he had experienced since he began the all-important match. Claret's hand digging into Wheatey's shoulder, yet Wheatey did not seem to notice. And Swanson and Higgins sat forward, staring, breathing unevenly as if they themselves were playing. Len was serving again, and if he won this game it would square the match. If he could take the game and set, it might crush Lefevre's spirit.

Zing-zing-zing—went the ball. Crunching of rubber-soled shoes over clay. Swishing of flannel as legs darted here, there. Cries of "Out!" "Good!" "Fault!" in excited French from the linesmen and referee. The deadly quiet of the stands except at the conclusion of volleys which won applause. And finally, tonelessly from the referee's chair: "Monsieur Rollins wins the point 6-2. The match stands squared at two sets all."

The sun had dropped some in the sky and it was a little cooler when the players returned to the court. But it was a resolute Lefevre Len realized now. Not the unsettled one of the last two. Rather, a man who realized his danger. His face was grim with determination.

But Len did not fear him.

(To be Continued)

CHAPTER X

From below where he paused momentarily to bite into a piece of lemon, Len raised his head toward the umpire and laughed. Slapping the raquet challengingly against his flannel-trousered leg, he went out on the court. So she wanted him to be a great player, did she? Well, she'd read in the papers about him tomorrow!

Lefevre seemed to sense a change in his opponent. The wry, almost pitying smile disappeared. He knew as did Len, that many a Davis Cup match had been won by the man crossing, trying too hard.

Lefevre seemed to sense a change in his opponent. The wry, almost pitying smile disappeared. He knew as did Len, that many a Davis Cup match had been won by the man crossing, trying too hard.

There was no stopping Len. He swept through Lefevre in that third set with relentless and devastating accuracy. There was acclaim from the boxes as the referee made the announcement: "Monsieur Rollins wins the third set 6-3. Score in sets now is two to one in favor of Monsieur Lefevre." He caught a faint ray of hope shining in Swanson's eyes when their glances met over the unbacked marquee as he and Lefevre left the court.

When he returned to the court

CHAPTER X

From below where he paused momentarily to bite into a piece of lemon, Len raised his head toward the umpire and laughed. Slapping the raquet challengingly against his flannel-trousered leg, he went out on the court. So she wanted him to be a great player, did she? Well, she'd read in the papers about him tomorrow!

Lefevre seemed to sense a change in his opponent. The wry, almost pitying smile disappeared. He knew as did Len, that many a Davis Cup match had been won by the man crossing, trying too hard.

Lefevre seemed to sense a change in his opponent. The wry, almost pitying smile disappeared. He knew as did Len, that many a Davis Cup match had been won by the man crossing, trying too hard.

There was no stopping Len. He swept through Lefevre in that third set with relentless and devastating accuracy. There was acclaim from the boxes as the referee made the announcement: "Monsieur Rollins wins the third set 6-3. Score in sets now is two to one in favor of Monsieur Lefevre." He caught a faint ray of hope shining in Swanson's eyes when their glances met over the unbacked marquee as he and Lefevre left the court.

When he returned to the court

CHAPTER X

From below where he paused momentarily to bite into a piece of lemon, Len raised his head toward the umpire and laughed. Slapping the raquet challengingly against his flannel-trousered leg, he went out on the court. So she wanted him to be a great player, did she? Well, she'd read in the papers about him tomorrow!

Lefevre seemed to sense a change in his opponent. The wry, almost pitying smile disappeared. He knew as did Len, that many a Davis Cup match had been won by the man crossing, trying too hard.

Lefevre seemed to sense a change in his opponent. The wry, almost pitying smile disappeared. He knew as did Len, that many a Davis Cup match had been won by the man crossing, trying too hard.

There was no stopping Len. He swept through Lefevre in that third set with relentless and devastating accuracy. There was acclaim from the boxes as the referee made the announcement: "Monsieur Rollins wins the third set 6-3. Score in sets now is two to one in favor of Monsieur Lefevre." He caught a faint ray of hope shining in Swanson's eyes when their glances met over the unbacked marquee as he and Lefevre left the court.

When he returned to the court

CHAPTER X

From below where he paused momentarily to bite into a piece of lemon, Len raised his head toward the umpire and laughed. Slapping the raquet challengingly against his flannel-trousered leg, he went out on the court. So she wanted him to be a great player, did she? Well, she'd read in the papers about him tomorrow!

Lefevre seemed to sense a change in his opponent. The wry, almost pitying smile disappeared. He knew as did Len, that many a Davis Cup match had been won by the man crossing, trying too hard.

Lefevre seemed to sense a change in his opponent. The wry, almost pitying smile disappeared. He knew as did Len, that many a Davis Cup match had been won by the man crossing, trying too hard.

There was no stopping Len. He swept through Lefevre in that third set with relentless and devastating accuracy. There was acclaim from the boxes as the referee made the announcement: "Monsieur Rollins wins the third set 6-3. Score in sets now is two to one in favor of Monsieur Lefevre." He caught a faint ray of hope shining in Swanson's eyes when their glances met over the unbacked marquee as he and Lefevre left the court.

When he returned to the court

CHAPTER X

From below where he paused momentarily to bite into a piece of lemon, Len raised his head toward the umpire and laughed. Slapping the raquet challengingly against his flannel-trousered leg, he went out on the court. So she wanted him to be a great player, did she? Well, she'd read in the papers about him tomorrow!

Lefevre seemed to sense a change in his opponent. The wry, almost pitying smile disappeared. He knew as did Len, that many a Davis Cup match had been won by the man crossing, trying too hard.

Lefevre seemed to sense a change in his opponent. The wry, almost pitying smile disappeared. He knew as did Len, that many a Davis Cup match had been won by the man crossing, trying too hard.

There was no stopping Len. He swept through Lefevre in that third set with relentless and devastating accuracy. There was acclaim from the boxes as the referee made the announcement: "Monsieur Rollins wins the third set 6-3. Score in sets now is two to one in favor of Monsieur Lefevre." He caught a faint ray of hope shining in Swanson's eyes when their glances met over the unbacked marquee as he and Lefevre left the court.

When he returned to the court

CHAPTER X

From below where he paused momentarily to bite into a piece of lemon, Len raised his head toward the umpire and laughed. Slapping the raquet challengingly against his flannel-trousered leg, he went out on the court. So she wanted him to be a great player, did she? Well, she'd read in the papers about him tomorrow!

Lefevre seemed to sense a change in his opponent. The wry, almost pitying smile disappeared. He knew as did Len, that many a Davis Cup match had been won by the man crossing, trying too hard.

Lefevre seemed to sense a change in his opponent. The wry, almost pitying smile disappeared. He knew as did Len, that many a Davis Cup match had been won by the man crossing, trying too hard.

There was no stopping Len. He swept through Lefevre in that third set with relentless and devastating accuracy. There was acclaim from the boxes as the referee made the announcement: "Monsieur Rollins wins the third set 6-3. Score in sets now is two to one in favor of Monsieur Lefevre." He caught a faint ray of hope shining in Swanson's eyes when their glances met over the unbacked marquee as he and Lefevre left the court.

When he returned to the court

CHAPTER X

From below where he paused momentarily to bite into a piece of lemon, Len raised his head toward the umpire and laughed. Slapping the raquet challengingly against his flannel-trousered leg, he went out on the court. So she wanted him to be a great player, did she? Well, she'd read in the papers about him tomorrow!

Lefevre seemed to sense a change in his opponent. The wry, almost pitying smile disappeared. He knew as did Len, that many a Davis Cup match had been won by the man crossing, trying too hard.

Lefevre seemed to sense a change in his opponent. The wry, almost pitying smile disappeared. He knew as did Len, that many a Davis Cup match had been won by the man crossing, trying too hard.

There was no stopping Len. He swept through Lefevre in that third set with relentless and devastating accuracy. There was acclaim from the boxes as the referee made the announcement: "Monsieur Rollins wins the third set 6-3. Score in sets now is two to one in favor of Monsieur Lefevre." He caught a faint ray of hope shining in Swanson's eyes when their glances met over the unbacked marquee as he and Lefevre left the court.

When he returned to the court

CHAPTER X

From below where he paused momentarily to bite into a piece of lemon, Len raised his head toward the umpire and laughed. Slapping the raquet challengingly against his flannel-trousered leg, he went out on the court. So she wanted him to be a great player, did she? Well, she'd read in the papers about him tomorrow!

Lefevre seemed to sense a change in his opponent. The wry, almost pitying smile disappeared. He knew as did Len, that many a Davis Cup match had been won by the man crossing, trying too hard.

Lefevre seemed to sense a change in his opponent. The wry, almost pitying smile disappeared. He knew as did Len, that many a Davis Cup match had been won by the man crossing, trying too hard.

There was no stopping Len. He swept through Lefevre in that third set with relentless and devastating accuracy. There was acclaim from the boxes as the referee made the announcement: "Monsieur Rollins wins the third set 6-3. Score in sets now is two to one in favor of Monsieur Lefevre." He caught a faint ray of hope shining in Swanson's eyes when their glances met over the unbacked marquee as he and Lefevre left the court.

When he returned to the court

CHAPTER X

From below where he paused momentarily to bite into a piece of lemon, Len raised his head toward the umpire and laughed. Slapping the raquet challengingly against his flannel-trousered leg, he went out on the court. So she wanted him to be a great player, did she? Well, she'd read in the papers about him tomorrow!

Lefevre seemed to sense a change in his opponent. The wry, almost pitying smile disappeared. He knew as did Len, that many a Davis Cup match had been won by the man crossing, trying too hard.

Lefevre seemed to sense a change in his opponent. The wry, almost pitying smile disappeared. He knew as did Len, that many a Davis Cup match had been won by the man crossing, trying too hard.

There was no stopping Len. He swept through Lefevre in that third set with relentless and devastating accuracy. There was acclaim from the boxes as the referee made the announcement: "Monsieur Rollins wins the third set 6-3. Score in sets now is two to one in favor of Monsieur Lefevre." He caught a faint ray of hope shining in Swanson's eyes when their glances met over the unbacked marquee as he and Lefevre left the court.

When he returned to the court

CHAPTER X

From below where he paused momentarily to bite into a piece of lemon, Len raised his head toward the umpire and laughed. Slapping the raquet challengingly against his flannel-trousered leg, he went out on the court. So she wanted him to be a great player, did she? Well, she'd read in the papers about him tomorrow!

Lefevre seemed to sense a change in his opponent. The wry, almost pitying smile disappeared. He knew as did Len, that many a Davis Cup match had been won by the man crossing, trying too hard.

Lefevre seemed to sense a change in his opponent. The wry, almost pitying smile disappeared. He knew as did Len, that many a Davis Cup match had been won by the man crossing, trying too hard.

There was no stopping Len. He swept through Lefevre in that third set with relentless and devastating accuracy. There was acclaim from the boxes as the referee made the announcement: "Monsieur Rollins wins the third set 6-3. Score in sets now is two to one in favor of Monsieur Lefevre." He caught a faint ray of hope shining in Swanson's eyes when their glances met over the unbacked marquee as he and Lefevre left the court.

When he returned to the court

CHAPTER X

From below where he paused momentarily to bite into a piece of lemon, Len raised his head toward the umpire and laughed. Slapping the raquet challengingly against his flannel-trousered leg, he went out on the court. So she wanted him to be a great player, did she? Well, she'd read in the papers about him tomorrow!

Lefevre seemed to sense a change in his opponent. The wry, almost pitying smile disappeared. He knew as did Len, that many a Davis Cup match had been won by the man crossing, trying too hard.

Lefevre seemed to sense a change in his opponent. The wry, almost pitying smile disappeared. He knew as did Len, that many a Davis Cup match had been won by the man crossing, trying too hard.

There was no stopping Len. He swept through Lefevre in that third set with relentless and devastating accuracy. There was acclaim from the boxes as the referee made the announcement: "Monsieur Rollins wins the third set 6-3. Score in sets now is two to one in favor of Monsieur Lefevre." He caught a faint ray of hope shining in Swanson's eyes when their glances met over the unbacked marquee as he and Lefevre left the court.

When he returned to the court

CHAPTER X

From below where he paused momentarily to bite into a piece of lemon, Len raised his head toward the umpire and laughed. Slapping the raquet challengingly against his flannel-trousered leg, he went out on the court. So she wanted him to be a great player, did she? Well, she'd read in the papers about him tomorrow!

Lefevre seemed to sense a change in his opponent. The wry, almost pitying smile disappeared. He knew as did Len, that many a Davis Cup match had been won by the man crossing, trying too hard.

Lefevre seemed to sense a change in his opponent. The wry, almost pitying smile disappeared. He knew as did Len, that many a Davis Cup match had been won by the man crossing, trying too hard.

There was no stopping Len. He swept through Lefevre in that third set with relentless and devastating accuracy. There was acclaim from the boxes as the referee made the announcement: "Monsieur Rollins wins the third set 6-3. Score in sets now is two to one in favor of Monsieur Lefevre." He caught a faint ray of hope shining in Swanson's eyes when their glances met over the unbacked marquee as he and Lefevre left the court.

When he returned to the court

CENTRAL GUARDIAN

This column is reserved for news of local interest, but advertising of a away nature may be inserted at 5 cents a word, strictly payable in advance.

COOKS for Photographs. L-593.

CONFEDERATION LIFE INSURANCE. L-978.

HAMPTON UNITED CHARGE.—Services on Sunday, May 10th as follows: Bonshaw 11 A. M. DeSable 3 P. M. Hampton 7:30 P. M. 5-8-11.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN CANADA.—Marshfield Charge. Services next Lord's Day, Mount Stewart 11 A. M. Highfield 3 P. M. Marshfield 7:30 P. M. Rev. A. C. MacPhail supply. Dr. A. O. Thomson, Interim Moderator. Annual congregational meeting, Marshfield, Monday, May 11th, 8 P. M. in the Church. 5-8-11.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN CANADA.—Brookfield Charge. Services next Lord's Day, Glasgow Road 11 A. M. Harville 3 P. M. Brookfield Sunday School 10:30 A.M. Worship 7 P. M. Dr. A. O. Thomson, Minister. 5-8-11.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT.—The P. E. I. Hospital gratefully acknowledges donations of seventy dollars from Prose Bros, Ltd., being share of proceeds of Anniversary Sale.

IF YOUR RADIO is not working the trouble may only be a bad tube. Bring or mail your old tubes and have them tested Free at Holmans, Charlottetown Store. 4-24-31.

READY FOR OPENING.—Mr. Lloyd E. Inman Borden, well known lobster buyer left on Friday morning for Canoe Cove where he will superintend preparations for the opening of his lobster business at that place also at Victoria.

CAVENDISH CHARGE.—Worship on Sunday, May 10th in Cavendish at 11 A. M. Stanley Bridge at 3 P. M. New Glasgow at 7:30 P. M. Meeting of the Official Board in Cavendish at 7 P. M. on Monday the 11th. All who are interested in a Sunday School in Cavendish are asked to meet at the home of Jeremiah Simpson's on Wednesday, May 13th at 8:30 P. M. Geo. W. Tilley, Minister. 5-8-11.

NORTH RIVER BAPTIST CHURCHES, Sunday, May 10th. Fairview: Service 11 A. M. Kings-ton: Service 3 P. M. Clyde River: A. Pageant: "The Last Church" at 8 P. M. Long Creek: S. School at 10:30 A. M. The Pageant at Clyde River will be presented by members and friends of the Church and is a great story of what the Church means to the world. Kingston kindly note change of hour from 8 P. M. to 3 P. M. No service at North River on Sunday. Rev. A. E. Todd, Minister.

CAVENDISH SCHOOL

Honor Roll of Cavendish School for the month of April:

Grade X—1. Clemmie Simpson.

Grade IX—1. Ethel Moore; 2. Jennie Moore.

Grade VIII—1. Doris Graham.

Grade VII—1. Lloyd MacNeill; 2. Gordon Gillis; 3. Chesley Clark.

Grade VI—1. John MacNeill; 2. Alley Graham.

Grade V—1. Herbert Moore; 2. Donald Simpson.

Grade III—1. Charlie Gallant.

Grade II—1. Harold Simpson.

Preston Simpson and Vivien Simpson equal.

Grade I (Sr.)—1. Walter Gallant; 2. Eric McNeill.

Grade I (Jr.)—No exams.

Perfect Attendance: Chesley Clark, John McNeill, Charlie Gallant, Eric McNeill, Walter Gallant.

—Teacher: Ruth Buntain.

CUPS MINUS HANDLES

LONDON.—(CP)—Many British housewives, temporarily relinquishing the struggles to replace broken crockery in the usual manner, are buying breakers—hand- less cups—instead of cups which are becoming more and more scarce.

Trinity United Church

FRIDAY, MAY 8th
7:00—Choir Rehearsal.

Prince Edward Island Hospital Annual Meeting

Notice is hereby given that in pursuance of the Act of Incorporation a public meeting of all contributors to the Prince Edward Island Hospital will be held in St. Paul's Parish Hall, Charlottetown, on Thursday, May 14th, 1942 at 8 P. M. for the purpose of electing Trustees for the government of the Institution in accordance with the Bye-Laws and for the transaction of such other business as may be brought before it.

ADA E. HARRIS, Secretary.
Board of Trustees.
5-8-11-61.

May Have Valuable White Mica Find

TORONTO, May 6.—(CP)—A report that muscovite, white mica, had been found by a farmer in eastern Ontario was confirmed today by Mr. Tremblay, geologist of the Ontario department of mines. He said this mica is combined with amber mica for use in the manufacture of heavy-duty spark plugs for airplane motors.

Commenting on a report that the recent find in eastern Ontario was the first such discovery in Canada, Mr. Tremblay said other deposits had been located in the Dominion previously.

"There is quite a large deposit of white mica near Quebec City and smaller pockets have been found in Ontario," he said. "There are possibly other deposits in the country."

Mr. Tremblay said amber mica is found extensively in eastern Ontario and central Quebec.

Producers of white mica were India and Ceylon.

NORTH TRYON SCHOOL

Report for the month of April:

Grade VII—1. Shirley Thomas; 2. Joyce Thomson; 3. Ethelbert Dawson.

Grade VI—1. Joyce Wood; 2. Melvin Dawson; 3. Charlie Thomson.

Grade IV—1. Morley MacDonald; 2. Heath Delaney; 3. Elaine Chisholm.

Grade III—1. Grace Howatt; 2. Boyd MacDonald; 3. Verna Wood.

Grade II—1. Ruth Thomson and Marion Delaney, (equal); 2. Leroy Thomson; 3. Ralph MacDonald.

Grade I (Sr.)—1. Doreen Howatt; 2. Richard Sawyer; 3. Ella Wood.

Grade I (Jr.)—1. Hazel Dawson.

Highest average in Senior Grades: 90.2 percent. Shirley Thomas.

Highest average in Junior Grades: 85 percent. Morley MacDonald.

Percentage of attendance: 89.4 percent.

Perfect Attendance: Gladys Delaney, Vernon Inman, Heath Delaney, Morley MacDonald, Richard Newsome, Lorne Inman, Kathleen Inman, Boyd MacDonald, Doty McKean, Verna Wood, Ruth Thomson, Claude Woodington, Ralph MacDonald, Doreen Howatt.

—Teacher: Jessie E. Leard.

MOTHER'S DAY SUNDAY MAY 10th

Give Mother Something Smart to Wear

Buy Mother something personal, choose for example one of these very lovely slips . . . one that she would not buy for herself but she'd love to have! Tea Rose, White, Ice Blue, ————— $2.00, $2.95

Matching Panties ————— $1.25, $1.59, $2.00

Give Mother Stockings, no lady ever has enough, and this gift will keep your memory sweet. Always the new ones at Moore & McLeod Limited, Sheers, Light Service, Sansrun Lisle. Stockings at $79c, $1.00 $1.25, $2.50

Mother would like Gloves . . . there's a glove department at Moore & McLeod's that has the sort of gloves that Mother likes, the modern styles in leather and fabrics. Choose for — — — $1.00, $1.25, $2.00, $3.00

How she'd delight in one of those beautiful bags or purses shown in so lavish a variety at Moore & McLeod's in every popular style and shape. $3.50, $5.00, $7.50, $10.

Useful as well as smart, a nice umbrella is ever a welcome gift. Many a time Mother will think gratefully of you on the wet days! — — — $2.95, $3.95, $4.95

Of course Mother would like a pretty blouse to wear with her new Spring suit the kind she likes are shown in sheers, silk jerseys, crepes — — — $1.95, $2.95, $3.95

MOORE & McLEOD Limited

Charlottetown Prince Edward Island

MOTHER'S DAY

This Sunday—May 10th is MOTHER'S DAY. Let us help you choose a gift for her.

De Raymond's Colours, Mimy, Flax, Gardenia, etc. 60c, 95c, $1.50	Hill's English Garden Fragrance in Painted Pottery $1.25	Adrienne Bath Powder or Cologne $1.15
---	---	--

SPECIALY WRAPPED MOTHER'S DAY BOXES OF CHOCOLATES

1 lb.—$1.00
2 lb.—$2.00

Other boxes 60c up

We have a host of Other Suggestions

"THERE'S NO HURT LIKE FORGETTING
THERE'S NO JOY LIKE BEING REMEMBERED"

THE JENKINS PHARMACY
THE Retail STORE
Dispensing Chemists
PHONE 219 COR. ST. GEORGE & KENT STS. CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I.

KISS YOUR TIRED FEELING GOODBYE!

Peoples Many Suffer Low Blood Count—And Don't Know It.

The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can weigh about as much as you ever did—even look healthy and strong, yet you can feel as if you had lead in your heels, your tired and peevish.

Low blood count means you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It is their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. And just as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car and make the power to turn the wheels, so you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you going power.

Get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today. They are world-noted for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles. Then with your blood count up, you'll feel like bounding up the stairs as if you were floating on air. Ask your druggist for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today.

Salvage Campaign At Summerside

The Salvage Committee at Summerside is to be highly commended for the excellent work they are doing. Mr. MacBeath was in communication with their organization yesterday and he informs us that a full car of paper is being loaded today. This car will be shipped direct to the paper mills to be manufactured into war essentials. Mr. A. Block, local dealer, is assisting in the sorting and loading of material. Other communities should take a tip from Summerside and get their shoulders to this campaign. The local Department of Highways big truck left for Summerside earlier this morning to assist in the loading of this car.

BROADSTAIRS, England.—(CP)

HERO OF HELIGOLAND

—Archibald Bishop, a hero of the battle of Heligoland in 1914, died here at 70. He was a lower-deck rating who took command of the destroyer Laurel when the captain was wounded.

DUTCH PIPES EMPTY

LONDON.—(CP)—Tobacco will be rationed in the Nazi-ruled Netherlands after May 17, but natives claim they can't get any less than they have now.

CHERRY VALLEY SCHOOL

The following is the report of Cherry Valley School for April:

Grade X—1. Mildred MacIsaac; 2. Dorothy Ings.

Grade VII—1. John McLeod; 2. Albert MacDonald; 3. Bennett MacIsaac.

Grade VI—1. Raymond MacIsaac; 2. Louis MacDonald; 3. Shirley Huggan.

Grade V—1. Verna Ings; 2. Craig Matheson.

Grade III—1. Margaret Murphy; 2. Maurice Ings.

Grade II (Sr.)—1. Eleanor Huggan.

Grade II (Jr.)—1. Everett Murphy.

Grade I (Sr.)—1. Norbert Murphy.

Grade I (Jr.)—1. Leslie Irving.

Highest average in Senior Grades Mildred MacIsaac.

Highest average in Junior grades Everett Murphy.

—Teacher: C. MacIsaac.

14-Year-Old May Be Youngest Canadian Soldier

TORONTO, May 6.—(CP)—Probably one of the youngest soldiers in Canada's (active) army, 14-year-old Pte. Ted Adair of Toronto is helping guard Canada's east coast. The lad, who looks more like an 18-year-old, was finally admitted to the army after Toronto board of education had forced him to give up a job and return to school.

"I asked the board of education to grant exemption to Ted so that he could leave school and get a job," his mother said today.

"He left himself, and did get a job delivering for a laundry. But he was forced to quit and return to school. He did—for two or three days. Then he told me he couldn't go on like that. He said he was going to run away and get work."

"I told him not to do that. That boy wanted to do something to help out here at home. Heaven knows we needed help."

"Then Ted came home one eve-

Canada's Fastest Growing Tea

TENDER LEAF TEA

Blended and packed in Canada

At your grocer's in 7- and 12-oz. packages—also in improved FILTER tea balls.

"Surprised?"

asks Mrs. Mink!

"Not a bit," replies John Breder. "I knew you'd produce a big litter after being fed 'Miracle' Feed regularly."

"Miracle" All-Cereal Fox and Mink Ration is composed of a wide range of thoroughly cooked major cereal grains. The addition of Rex Wheat Germ Oil gives "Miracle" Ration the valuable Vitamin E so necessary to the production of maximum litters.

"Miracle" All-Cereal Ration also contains a remarkable new secret growth factor which has proved of extreme importance in the healthy development of pups or kits. Start using "Miracle" on your ranch right now and be sure of a profitable season. It costs no more.

Write for your free copy of Miracle Fox and Mink Feeders' Digest.

MIRACLE FEEDS

CARVELL BROS., LTD.
Charlottetown

Exclusive Distributors for P. E. I.

THE OGILVIE FLOUR MILLS CO. Limited