BOBBY GETS PUNISHED

The HOUSEWIFE and HER ACTIVITIES

HOME

'Tis sweet to hear the watch-dog's honest bark
Bay deep moul'd welcome as we draw near home;
'Tis sweet to know there is an eye will mark
Our coming, and look brighter when we come.

—Byron.

FLOWERS FOR THE HOME

Fresh flowers do a lot to brighten up mid-winter days and give your home that air of spring. A tiny spray of yellow spring flowers will make your dinner table much gay-er. And a small bouquet of diminutive roses in the guest room will make your guest doubly glad that she decided to visit you.

ROSIERY ECONOMY

If you have trouble with your stockings coming out at the toes, loosen the stockings slightly before putting them on. This eliminates the taut stretch across the toes. The chances of holes appearing are thereby greatly minimized.

TO BRIGHTEN A FROCK

Smart Knitted Collar and Cuffs

Now and then we all find one frock of which we feel a bit tired, and yet we don't want to discard it. Here is a good way of giving it a fresh appearance by adding knitted collar and cuffs for merely a few pence:

One ounce of Paton's super Scotch fingering, 3 ply, one ounce white, one ounce black and one ounce blue (if you have any other wools you want to use you could use the colors you have instead of these).

Collar—Cast on No. 11 needles; 102 st. k. 2. p. 2. for 14 rows; increase 1 on every p. st. for 2 rows. k. 3. p. 3 for 7 rows; increase at every p. st. for 2 rows. k. 4. p. 4 for 14 rows; join in black wool, k. 6 rows, k. 4. p. 4; join in the blue wool, k. 4. p. 4 for 6 rows. Increase at every st. k. 1 row. Cast off very loosely.

Cuffs—Cast on 55 st. k. 2. p. 2 for 17 rows; increase to k. 2. p. 3 for 30 rows; join in black k. 6 rows, increase at every st.; k. 1 row, cast off very loosely round; work the other cuff in the same way.

Ties—Cast on 10 st. k. 1. p. 1 for 12 inches; join in the black; k. for another 1 1/2 inch; the last row is more easily knitted with three needles.

Color suggestions.—White, pale green, and darker green; red (cardinal), white and black; brown and orange; navy and white or black and white.

TABLOID

When your garments come home from the cleaners in large paper bags, do you save the bags? If so, you will find them very useful when you want to store articles at housecleaning time.—Zasu.

BAD POSTURE MAKES FOR AN UGLY FRAME

Bad posture makes for an ugly body—often for an unpleasant frame of mind. After all, how can your nerves be relaxed if your bones and muscles are twisted into all sorts of abnormal shapes? And how can you present a calm, smiling face to the world if your nerves are out of sorts? Therefore, if your face looks tired and drawn and you sometimes have aching muscles and tired legs, it may be that you are sitting incorrectly.

Never slouch into a chair. Modern furniture is designed to make you comfortable and at the same time you are sitting up straight. It is possible to sit straight and look graceful at the same time. Never get the idea that you have to

A RELATED APOLOGY

Dick Canby did not come out that afternoon for the simple reason that Jeanne refused to allow him.

As far as Canby and his kind were concerned, she was through. Never again would she feel that false dependence upon luxury and wealth and so-called social position. Canby accepted her refusal to see him with his usual equanimity. He only said:

"All right Jeanne, if that's the way you feel about it."

"I am sorry but it is the way I feel."

"I suppose you're offended because I wouldn't make that investment for you, aren't you?"

"Not at all," she protested. "I am more grateful every day of my life that you refused me."

"Well, I suppose there is no more to be said. I'm leaving for Cuba Monday. I felt as though I would like to square myself on that house party matter. I've been a little sorry for the proposition I put up to you."

"You needn't be," Jeanne told him. "I've forgotten about it already."

"You're pretty magnanimous," he grinned. "You're sure there is nothing I can do?"

"Nothing, thank you. Good bye and good luck."

When she hung up the receiver she felt that she was definitely shutting off that part of her life. Never again would

Do You Surrender to Misfortune? Dorothy Dix Shows Temptation to Take Easiest Way

Why Are Women So Prone to Take the Easiest Way Out of Everything and Then Blame Fate When Things Go Wrong? How Many of Us Are Cowards at Heart?

The other day I met an acquaintance whom I had not seen for several years and who was so sadly changed I scarcely knew her. She had been a handsome, alert, middle-aged woman, conspicuously well dressed and well groomed. She had turned into a prematurely old woman with sagging chin and bent shoulders, shabbily dressed in clothes of the Warren G. Harding era, and without so much as a smudge of powder on her nose.

"Don't look at me," she exclaimed in answer to my startled glance. "I know I'm a fright. I know I am a wreck, but since my husband died I've just given up. I don't go anywhere. I don't see anybody. I don't bother to buy any decent clothes. I've just dropped out of everything."

Ah, I thought, you are a coward and you have taken the easiest way of meeting trouble. You have surrendered to it. When misfortune came to you, you didn't take it on the chin. You took it lying down. When life handed you one, you didn't fight back. You simply threw up your hands and quit.

It is so easy to succumb to sorrow and to make a fetish of it. So easy to brood over your unhappiness until it acquires a morbid fascination for you. So easy to shut yourself up in a darkened room until you dread going out into the sunlight. So easy to sink into a morass of melancholy until you drown in your own tears.

The women who never get over things, who spend the balance of their lives in the cemetery after some one they love dies, who put in forty years bemoaning the loss of a worthless husband who has forsaken them for a platinum blonde, and who never cheer up after the loss of their money are the spineless women who never even try to make a comeback to sanity and happiness. They just give in because it is so much easier.

Somehow, the temptation to take the easiest way is a sin that particularly besets women, and it is at the bottom of most of their failures and misfortunes. It is most classical example is, of course, afforded by the pretty young girls who elect to follow the primrose path rather than walk the hard road of right living. They desire the bright lights, parties and gay times, chiffons and jewels, but they are too indolent and self-indulgent to work and earn them for themselves, so they barter their souls for them. Which seems easy money at the time, however disastrous a bargain it proves to be later.

It is because women find it so hard to resist the temptation to take the easiest way that they fall so often in their undertakings. They balk at paying the price of success, which is hard labor and singleness of purpose. They are not willing to put their work before their pleasure. They trust to luck in getting on, instead of efficiency.

Most girls don't even bother to perfect themselves in the techniques of their trade. It is a rare thing to find a saleswoman who takes enough interest in her job to hunt you up anything you want or to study your figure and complexion and age and bring for your inspection just the kind of frocks and hats you can wear. Most of them just display what is on their counter and you can take it or leave it. They are not worrying about being supersaleswomen. It is so much easier just to do as lazily as you can get by with.

And it is because women take the easiest way in marriage that there are so many divorcees. A woman thinks that when she has her man safely tied to her by all the powers of State and Church, her work is done and she can sit down on the do-nothing stool and fold her hands. She doesn't consider that she has to make any more effort to keep him pleased and placated.

She lets herself slump. She quits counting her calories and gets fat. She quits reading and studying and keeps up with things and she gets dull and tiresome. She gives up her music because it is tedious to practice. She makes no effort to be an interesting and entertaining companion to her husband.

She slumps in her housekeeping because what's the use of burning oneself up over the kitchen stove preparing appetizing dinners when you can step around to the delicatessen and buy some potato salad and cold meat? And what's the good of taking the trouble to set a table daintily when you can slap down a dab of this and a can of that on a piece of oiled cloth?

It takes a lot of work and thought and sacrifice for a woman to keep herself looking attractive. Being a good housekeeper and home-maker is one of the most strenuous jobs on earth, and a lot of women simply won't do it. They take the easiest way, which is renouncing on their job, and that is why wives keep the path to Reno hot.

Worst of all, most criminal of all the women who yield to the temptation of taking the easiest way are the mothers who let their children go to their own waywardness and ungovernability, because they haven't the backbone and the nerve to control self-willed youngsters and make them behave. It is so much easier to rock the baby to sleep than to listen to it cry a time or two. It is so much easier to try to avoid rousing Johnny's temper than to teach him to control it.

It is so much easier to indulge Mama in the things she should not have than it is to have scenes with her. It is so much easier to leave bringing up your children to Providence than it is to wrestle with the job yourself. And when your children go to the devil it is so much easier to blame it all on luck or heredity than it is to face the fact that it is your own fault.

Oh, it is always a temptation to take the easiest way, but it is always the coward's way and the slacker's way. DOROTHY DIX.

Mermaid School Examination

The semi-annual examination of Mermaid School was held on the afternoon of January 26th last, a large number of parents and friends being present. The pupils were examined in the various subjects by their teacher, Mr. Hollis H. Jenkins, and by their strict attention and prompt answers showed how carefully and efficiently they had been taught during the half-term just expired. The examination was of a very high order throughout. Deserving of special mention were an arithmetic match by the intermediate pupils, and a spelling match by the seniors, many complimentary remarks being heard regarding them.

At the close of the examination, the following program was given, with Mr. Vernon S. Munn as chairman:

Recitation—"Welcome"—by Marjorie Munn.

Recitation—"A Substitute"—by Dorothy MacDonald.

Recitation—"Practice Doesn't Make Perfect"—by Audrey Dixon.

Dialogue—"Buying Eggs"—by Blair MacDonald, Marion McEachern and Marjorie MacDonald.

Recitation—"A Detective"—by Eric MacDonald.

Recitation—"The Best of All"—by Lloyd MacDonald.

Recitation—"Santa Claus Fright"—by Roy Robertson.

Dialogue—"A Capable Servant"—by Robert Dixon, Leo MacDonald, and Ronnie Robertson.

Recitation—"When Father Carves the Duck"—by Iva MacDonald.

Recitation—"Good Afternoon"—by Alec Robertson.

Following the program, speeches were made by all present, congratulating Mr. Jenkins on the success of the afternoon's exercises, and commending him on the excellent work he has done during the short time he has been in the district. The teacher very generously treated all to delicious home-made candies, after which a social half-hour and the singing of the National Anthem brought to a close one of the most successful examinations ever held in our school.

WINSLÖE HUSKIES 1 SECOND HORNETS 1

On February sixth the Winslöe Huskies and the Second Hornets crossed sticks on Milton Rink in a game which resulted in a tie, 1-1.

This was the first of two play-off games, goals to count, to be played between the teams holding second and third place in a league comprised of Glasgow Road, Maple Leaf, Winslöe Huskies, Second Hornets and New Wiltshire Albatross, who are playing for a cup donated by the Milton Rink.

Both teams were at full strength except for the Hornets being short one player owing to sickness.

The play was fairly fast with some heavy checking by both teams. Several minutes after the game started a Crossman scored for the Huskies, and although both teams worked hard there was no more scoring in that period, nor in the second period were either team able to score.

In the third period the Hornets pressed the Huskies hard and kept Roberts busy kicking rubber and shortly before the period ended V. Coles scored for the Hornets making the game end 1-1. Percy Hooper handled the whistle.

Huskies: Goal, S. Roberts; defence, N. Diamond, S. Shaw; forwards, E. Rodd, A. Auld, A. Crossman, W. Rodd, G. Coles, M. Horne, L. Younker.

Hornets: Goal, J. Gillespie; defence, C. Matheson, V. Coles; forwards, L. Johnson, I. Andrews, L. Crabbe, F. Hooper, V. Gillespie.

APPROVE BASKETWEAVAN RIVER PROJECT

(Canadian Press)

REGINA, Feb. 10.—Construction of the South Saskatchewan River water project under a federal works programme, primarily as an irrigation scheme to re-establish agriculture in the drought stricken between Riverhurst and Moose Jaw was advocated by A. Ellison, Minister of Public Works, in a speech given at a public meeting in Regina on Monday.

Mr. Ellison said in that area where farms had been abandoned of drought, 10,000 families could be settled each on an irrigated 80-acre farm, to produce forage crops and vegetables and raise poultry and hogs.

He estimated the cost of the scheme at $15,000,000 which would include provision of water supply for Regina and Moose Jaw. The farmers, he said, could pay rental of $3. per acre each year and the project would thus pay for itself.

NORTHERN NURSE DOES GOOD WORK AMONG OUTPOSTS

(Canadian Press)

THE PAS, Man., Feb. 9.—Many are the deeds of valor performed by Northern nurses and doctors that pass unrecorded. But the saving of at least one life—that of a baby—is credited to Miss Alma Kennedy, Manitoba, public health nurse for the unorganized area north of The Pas.

At Sheridan, mining settlement 150 miles north of here, Miss Kennedy was called to see a baby seriously ill with diphtheria. A blood transfusion was necessary to save the child's life and when tests showed the nurse's blood matched that of the baby, Miss Kennedy gave a pint of blood to save the child.

Teaching school, caring for sick or injured and mending by dog team across the snowy tundras of northern Manitoba are all in the day's work for Miss Kennedy. In summer she travels by canoe or horse, toting her share of burdens over the portage. In winter she covers her territory by caribou dog team. Camp on the trail was overtaken by darkness when she returned to this Florence Nightingale of the mining country.
