Canada's Clarke Line Inaugurates Weekly Trips

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 15—This is Canada's Day in this great winter resort with the gala departure to-night of the Canadian T.S.S. "North Star" inaugurating the new Clarke Line weekly cruise service from Miami to Jamaica. Many Canadians and Americans of high distinction are taking this first cruise; which also calls at Haiti and Havana.

The inauguration of the new service was marked last night by a banquet given on board the North Star by Desmond A. Clarke, president of the Clarke Steamship Company, and Mrs. Clarke, the Governor of Florida, the Mayor of Miami, the presidents of the Chambers of Commerce of Miami and Miami Beach, and representatives of the Canadian Government and the Province of Quebec Government, with many other distinguished Americans and Canadians taking the first cruise, were present.

After welcoming the authorities of the State of Florida and the City of Miami, President Desmond Clarke said that the inaugural cruise had received the best wishes of the Prime Minister of Canada, Right Honourable W.L. Mackenzie King, the Canadian Minister of Trade and Commerce, Hon. W.D. Euler, the Canadian Minister of Transport, Hon. C.D. Howe, and the Secretary of State of Canada, Hon. Frank Mitchell. Prime Minister Mackenzie King extended his best wishes for the success of the service.

Hon. Mr. Euler wired the following message: "I hope that the enterprise of the Canadian shipping company, which is now inaugurating this international service, will be recognized and supported by the countries which it connects, in a spirit of good fellowship and good will, and that the result of this winter's operations will be sufficiently encouraging to enable the service to be continued in succeeding winter seasons."

Hon. Mr. Howe had sent the encouraging message which follows: "Please permit me to congratulate you on the establishment of a new steamship service between Miami and Jamaica by a Canadian ship. Your enterprise in bringing the Canadian flag to the various ports of call will do much toward developing friendly relations with Canada. Please convey to the Governor of Florida and Jamaica, the authorities of Miami, and to the President of Haiti and Cuba, greetings from the Government of Canada."

"We also have," said President Clarke, "the best wishes of the Government of the Province of Quebec and its Prime Minister, Hon. Maurice Duplessis, who has delegated one of the members of his cabinet, Hon. Orlime Gagnon, to represent his province on the inaugural cruise."

Mr. Clarke welcomed the Hon. Mr. Gagnon and Mrs. Gagnon and added he had received another kind message from Prime Minister Hepburn of Ontario, who had hoped to be present but was prevented to do so by imperative duties.

The Mayor of Miami praised the Clarke Line's initiative in bringing new business and prestige to his city. With this service, Miami becomes, for the first time in its history, an originating port for cruises to the West Indies. The New Northland Winter cruises to Nassau, which are again being operated this season by the Line, had in past years done much to develop favourable relations between Florida and the Bahamas, and he predicted similar success for the North Star cruises.

DIRECTORS OF THE CANADIAN CORPS RE-UNION, 1938.

LEFT TO RIGHT: Mr. A. J. Bushell, Lt.-Col. G. R. Philp, M.D., Colonel G. R. Hill, D.S.O., Major G. E. M. Dingle, Major Hugh Ferguson, D.S.O., Major T. M. Medland, Capt. W. W. Parry, R.C.O., Mr. Frank Barber.

The Canadian Corps Reunion for 1938 is under way. Slated to be held in Toronto on July 30th, 31st, and August 1st of this year advance information indicates that the gathering will far exceed, in numbers and enthusiasm, the never-to-be-forgotten Reunion of 1934, from which sprang the body which is sponsoring this year's event, the Canadian Corps Association.

Preliminary organization work has resulted in the selection by the Canadian Corps Association Council of a Board of Directors to handle the affairs of the function. The "randi camera" caught the directors at a recent meeting while they discussed some of the problems which arise from the concentration of considerably over a hundred thousand men in one spot for three days.

Illustrative of the all-embracing character of the Reunion is the personnel of the board itself. No less than five of the different services which made the Canadian Corps in France the magnificent fighting force that it was are represented on that body, members of the infantry, the Medical Corps, the artillery, Corps troops, and the Engineers comprising its membership. It is also a note-worthy fact that many ranks are represented from Colonel to "other rank," and that the majority of members of the board are men with long and varied experience in the army who hold prominent positions in the post-war life of Canada.

Seen in the picture, from left to right, are Art Bushell, Dominion President of the Canadian Pensioners Association, and erstwhile sergeant of the Original Third Battalion C.E.F., wounded at Passchendaele, since his return to civilian life—in which he heads his own firm—he has been a consistent worker on behalf of those with whom he served, at his office indicates.

Next in line is Lt. Col. George R. Philp, M.D., now Ass. City Coroner for the City of Toronto, and one of the first medical men in the Dominion of Canada to volunteer for war service. Joining up on August 6th, 1914, he landed in France on November 24th of that year. Besides commanding the 10th Field Ambulance he was responsible for the organization of the Duchesne of Connaught's Canadian Hospital at Taplow, in England, which commenced with two hundred beds, and handled altogether over twenty-six thousand military patients before it was closed. Before returning to civilian practice after the war he held a number of important appointments in connection with the rehabilitation of ex-service men.

A "Westerner" sits on Colonel Philp's left in the person of Colonel Charles R. Hill, who commenced his military service as a private, and finished up as Colonel, D.S.O. An original company commander with the 28th Battalion C.E.F., from Regina, Colonel Hill, in addition to a lengthy front line service, was in charge of the evacuation of all Canadian troops from France on the conclusion of hostilities—a movement which has been conceded to be one of the best conducted of any of the Allied troops. Besides being a vice-president of the Board of Directors he is a Past President of the Canadian Corps Association.

Welding the "big stick"—in this case a pencil—sits Major D. Ron Dingle, President of the board and of the Canadian Corps Association, and Comptroller of the Massey Harris Company. In between rising to a high position in the business world he has found time to do more than a bit of soldiering. Enlisting originally with the Queen's Own Rifles at the age of sixteen, he was a sergeant at nineteen, which rank he held on proceeding to France with the original Third Battalion, C.E.F. He won his commission on the field, and was wounded three times, the last "brightly" being in October, 1918. He has had long experience since the war in connection with veterans' affairs, and was the originator of what is now one of the largest unit groups in the Dominion, the Third Battalion Club.

Number five is Major Hugh O. Ferguson, D.S.O., another representative of a Western Battalion. Joining the 6th Battalion in 1914 he served in France with the 10th Battalion, of which he was second in command at the end of the war. Wounded twice, he was awarded the Distinguished Service Order for his work at Vimy in 1917. He is second vice president of the board of directors for the Reunion.

Major T.M. Medland, better known to the thousands of members of the Corps Association as "Tom", and secretary of the Corps Association and the board of directors, is third from the right. Enlisting in the ranks of the 48th Battery, he served with the 13th Battery C.F.A., in France, and was awarded his commission on the field. In addition to the time which he devotes to veterans affairs he finds time to direct his own lumber business and to command the 21st Battery in the Canadian Militia.

Behind his legal gaze on important documents and puffing the ever-present pipe—he is acknowledged Canada's champion smoking ring puffer—is Captain W. W. Parry K.C., legal adviser to the Corps, and a prominent Toronto lawyer. During the Great War he served with the O.A.S.C., and was also attached to headquarters of the Fifth Army. Since the war he has undertaken important legal work, and served as counsel for the veterans of Ontario before the Reunion Commission. He was also associate counsel at the sittings of the Royal Commission on price spreads.

Telling the President how the Sappers used to do it is Frank Barber, member of the Corps Council, for three years President of the Sappers Association, and entertainment-arranger de luxe. He served as a Sapper throughout his military service, and has been responsible for much of the outstanding progress which his association has made in recent years—a progress which the Corps Reunion will, he says, accelerate still more.

Besides the board of directors other committees are being brought into being. A general advisory committee, to which other veterans and associations have been asked to send representatives, is an accomplished fact, and, by virtue of the invitations which have been accepted, is representative of all Canadian and Imperial ex-service men in the Dominion.

Presbytery Scores Church Gambling

'Get - Something - for - Nothing Methods' Are No Way to Raise Funds, Report Says

NEW YORK, Jan. 14. Church fund-raising through the use of gambling devices was condemned by the Presbytery of New York in a strongly worded report asserting that if the church had to resort to "the get - something-for-nothing methods" to maintain itself financially, "then its spiritual influence is of dubious quality."

The report, adopted unanimously by the Presbytery, noted that although there was "an unprecedented wave of gambling mania sweeping over the country," a wholesome trend could be seen in the fact that an increasing number of churches had "a better conscience." The report added: "We commend their example."

The adoption of the report, drafted by the committee on social education and action, took place at a meeting of the Presbytery in the parish house of the West End Presbyterian Church, Amsterdam Avenue and 105th Street.

In a discussion that preceded the vote, Dr. J. V. Moldenhawer, the Moderator, asked if there were any Presbyterian churches about which there was common knowledge that they used gambling devices. None was mentioned, but it was pointed out that bingo was commonly played in churches. "I cannot imagine churches making or losing money out of bingo," he rolled.

A strong condemnation of gambling in churches that the report contained was demanded by Dr. Wesley Mezaw, Minister of the West Washington Presbyterian Church, who said the question of a State lottery would come up and to what test it "we as a church should have our skirts clean." In answer

Dr. Moldenhawer declared of the report that "there is disapproval of gambling in every line of it."

"It is common knowledge that all sorts of near and outright gambling devices are being promoted or openly advocated," the report declared. "Some very clever and plausible arguments are being presented in justification of the scheme."

"The church cannot wage successful war against this mania unless our own record is above reproach. Judgment must begin at the house of God, and we note with profound satisfaction that a better conscience upon such matters obtains in an increasing number of churches. We commend their example."

"In these days, when church budgets are being pinched, and the money-raising methods which are no credit to the church, the church cannot afford to put itself in a compromising position by resorting to the get-something-for-nothing methods however harmless they may seem. If the church cannot maintain itself financially without resorting to questionable and undignified methods, then its spiritual influence is of dubious quality."

The report concluded with a reiterated "word of commendation for all those churches which zealously seek to keep themselves clean and uncommenced by the gambling mania of our day."

Earlier in the meeting a similar attack on the use of gambling devices to raise money by churches was made by Miss Rachel K. McDowell. Addressing the Presbytery at luncheon on the subject "If I Were a Preacher," Miss McDowell told the assembled 120 ministers: "I would not allow in my church any fair, bank days, bridge parties or similar affairs to raise money for the church. Money should come to the church voluntarily. It should be clean money."

Modesty may be a virtue in the individual but it never built a business. The non-advertised product is the one which gathers dust on the merchants' shelves.

There may be people who have time and patience to dig around the shops and find unknown brands, but most buyers cannot afford to experiment. They take the daily shopping seriously and buy products they know.

Not only do they save time and money by buying advertised brands; they avoid disappointment as well. They know that the products they see advertised consistently in their daily newspapers are good.

Therefore, the most successful companies are those which make sure the Canadian buying public is thoroughly familiar with the services or products they have to offer by advertising them regularly in the Canadian daily newspapers.
