

MOTHER!
Child's Best Laxative is
"California Fig Syrup"

Tongue Shows if
Bilious, Constipated

Harry Mother! Even a fretful, peevish child loves the pleasant taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful today may prevent a sick child tomorrow.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

Removal Notice!

MacDougall & MacAulay and Walker & Doyle have removed their Shops and Offices from 236 Kent Street to 195 Grafton St. where they will be pleased to see all their old customers and as many new ones as wish to patronize them.

See them for your carpenter work and painting.
12-1-2661.

Canadian National Railways

CHANGE IN TRAIN SERVICE BETWEEN SUMMERSIDE & TIGNISH.

Effective Monday, Dec. 3rd, No. 4 train shown in Time table leaving Summerside at 10 a. m. will leave at 7.30 a. m. and arrive at Summerside at 10.40 a. m. instead of 1.10 p. m.

Train No. 211 will leave Summerside at 1.00 p. m. instead of 12.30 and arrive at Tignish at 6.40 p. m. instead of 6.10.

DISTRICT PASSENGER AGENT'S OFFICE.
517-11-27-101.

Children's Aid Society

The postponed Annual Meeting of this Society will be held in the City Council Chamber, on the evening of Tuesday next, the 4th December at 8 o'clock, to receive the report of the committee appointed to consider the proposal that the scope of the Society shall be Province-wide and to elect officers for the current year.

The committee will meet in the City School Board Rooms on Tuesday next at 3 o'clock.

W. J. P. McMILLAN, President
577-11-29-tsm41.

DOMINION OF CANADA PROVINCE OF PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

In The Probate Court

14th George V. A. D., 1923

IN RE-ESTATE OF JOHN CURRAN, late of Charlottetown in Queen's County in the said Province, deceased, testate

By The Honourable A. BANNERMAN Warburton Surrogate, Judge of Probate, &c., &c.,

To the Sheriff of the County of Queen's County, or any Constable or literate person within said County,

GREETING:

WHEREAS upon reading the petition on file of William Curran of Charlottetown aforesaid, retired farmer and Percy Landrigan of Charlottetown aforesaid, Mail Clerk, the executors of the above named estate, praying that a Citation may be issued for the purpose hereinafter set forth: You are therefore hereby required to cite all persons interested in the said Estate to be and appear before me at a Probate Court to be held in the Court House in Charlottetown, in Queen's County, in the said Province on Thursday the twelfth day of December next, coming, at the hour of eleven o'clock, forenoon, of the same day to show cause if any they can why the accounts of the said Estate should not be passed and the Estate closed as prayed for in said petition and on Motion of Donald McKinnon Proctor for the said Petitioner, AND I do hereby order that a true copy hereof be forthwith published in some newspaper published in Charlottetown aforesaid, once in each week for at least four consecutive weeks from the date hereof and that a true copy hereof be forthwith posted in the following public places respectively, namely, in the hall of the Court House in Charlottetown aforesaid, at or near the City Weigh Scale and at or near the Bank of Nova Scotia both in Charlottetown aforesaid so that all persons interested in the said Estate as aforesaid may have due notice thereof.

GIVEN under my Hand and the Seal of the said Court this fifteenth day of November A. D. 1923 and in the fourteenth year of His Majesty's reign.

L. S. A. BANNERMAN, Judge of Probate
160-12-4-Tue.

REWARD!

$5.00 will be given for the return of 1-200 ft. Oxygen cylinder No. 18768 and 1—Prest-O-Lite Tank No. 23226, these cylinders were last used by Rev. Fred M. Clay for operating a lantern at a lecture somewhere near Mt. Stewart.

Improve Your Complexion By Using Cuticura

Bathe with Cuticura Soap and hot water to free the pores of impurities and follow with a gentle application of Cuticura Ointment to soothe and heal. They are ideal for the toilet, as is also Cuticura Talcum for powdering and perfuming.

Soap 25c, Ointment 25c and 50c, Talcum 25c. Sold throughout the Dominion. Canadian Depot: Lyons, Limited, 344 St. Paul St., Montreal.

KILLS BACTERIA
Antiseptic Effect Attributed to Tobacco Smoke

Pipe-smokers have an advantage in health over men who do not smoke, according to an American doctor who saw service as a surgeon with the American Expeditionary Force, in the world war.

"During the war," he says, "I was in charge of over 500 soldiers at a post with marshes nearby, and dysentery raged with virulence. I noticed that the heaviest smokers, who went about with pipes in their mouths, did not contract the disease. I smoked all the time and was free from it. So that smoking is in reality a great protective against disease."

According to the Pasteur Periodical, a magazine issued by the celebrated Pasteur Institute in Paris, tobacco smoke is highly antiseptic and kills, in a few moments, the primary bacteria of cholera, diphtheria and cerebrospinal meningitis.

Sulphur Soothes Ugly, Itching Skin

The First Application Makes Skin Cool and Comfortable

If you are suffering from eczema or some other torturing, embarrassing skin trouble Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist.

This sulphur preparation, because of its germ destroying properties, seldom fails to quickly subdue itching, even of fiery eczema. The first application makes the skin cool and comfortable. Rash and blotches are healed right up. Rowles Mentho-Sulphur is applied like any pleasant cold cream and is perfectly harmless. You can obtain a small jar from any good druggist.

DOMINION OF CANADA PROVINCE OF PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND

In The Probate Court

14th George V. A. D., 1923

IN RE-ESTATE OF CHARLES E. McNEILL, late of Lower Montague in King's County in the said Province deceased testate.

By The Honourable A. BANNERMAN Warburton, Surrogate Judge of Probate &c., &c.,

To the Sheriff of the County of King's County or any Constable or literate person within said County,

GREETING

WHEREAS upon reading the petition on file of James M. Hewitt of Lower Montague aforesaid, Farmer and Lobster Packer, the Executor of the above named Estate, praying that a citation may be issued for the purpose herein after set forth: You are therefore hereby required to cite all persons interested in the said Estate to be and appear before me at a Probate Court to be held in the Court House in Charlottetown, in Queen's County, in the said Province on Tuesday the eighth day of January next, coming, at the hour of eleven o'clock, forenoon, of the same day to show cause if any they can why the said Accounts of the said Estate should not be passed and the Estate closed as prayed for in said petition and on motion of J. D. Stewart, Esq., Proctor for said Petitioner, AND I do hereby order that a true copy hereof be forthwith published in some newspaper published in Charlottetown aforesaid, once in each week for at least four consecutive weeks from the date hereof and that a true copy hereof be forthwith posted in the following public places respectively, namely, in the hall of the Court House in Georgetown in King's County aforesaid, and at Poole & Thompson's Store at Montague in King's County aforesaid, so that all persons interested in the said Estate as aforesaid may have due notice thereof.

GIVEN under my Hand and the Seal of the said Court this Thirtieth day of November A. D. 1923 and in the Fourteenth year of His Majesty's reign.

(Sgd.) A. B. WARBURTON, Judge of Probate
160-12-4-Tue.

REWARD!

$5.00 will be given for the return of 1-200 ft. Oxygen cylinder No. 18768 and 1—Prest-O-Lite Tank No. 23226, these cylinders were last used by Rev. Fred M. Clay for operating a lantern at a lecture somewhere near Mt. Stewart.

Published by arrangement with Associated First National Pictures, Inc. Watch for the screen version produced by Frank Lloyd with Corinne Griffith as Countess Zattiany.

SYNOPSIS

At a first night performance in New York a beautiful young woman attracts attention by rising and leisurely surveying the audience through her glasses. Clavering, a newspaper columnist, and his cousin, Dinwiddie, are particularly interested. Dinwiddie declaring she is the image of Mary Ogden, a belle of thirty years ago, who had married a Count Zattiany. He is convinced that this is Mary's daughter, but all efforts to establish her identity prove futile.

Clavering finally manages to meet her, and she tells him she is the Countess Josef Zattiany, a Mrs. Vane merely grunted. Mrs. Ogden exclaimed crossly, "Oh, no one ever could argue with you, Mary Ogden. The truth is," she added, in a sudden burst of enlightenment that astonished herself, "I don't suppose any of us would mind if you didn't look younger than our daughters. That sticks in our craw. Why not admit it?"

Mrs. Ogden chuckled. She and Isabel Ruyter snapped at each other like two belligerent old cats every time they crossed each other's path, but with the exception of Mary Ogden, whom she loved, she liked her better than any of her old friends.

But once in a while Mrs. Vane drew herself up (figuratively). "Speak for yourself. I may be old, but I am too old to accept new ideas, but this one certainly seems to me downright immoral and indecent. This is not intended to reflect on you personally, Mary and of course you were more or less demoralized by your close contact with the wife. I mean the idea—the thing—itself. We may call in doctors and surgeons when we are in bodily discomfort, and be thankful that they are more advanced than in our mother's time, when people died of appendicitis every day in the week and called it inflammation of the bowels. But no one can tell me that rejuvenation is not against the laws of nature. What are you going to do with this new youth—never saw any one look less indifferent to life!—make fools of men again—of our sons?"

"Who can tell," asked Mary maliciously, "if anything but a more amusing time to come back to New York after thirty-four years and be a belle again, with the sons and grandsons of my old friends proposing to me?"

"Do you really mean that?" Mrs. Vane almost rose. She recalled that her youngest son had met Madame Zattiany in Mrs. Ogden's box on Monday night and had been mooning about the house ever since. "If I thought that—"

Mary Zattiany, who understood Polly? Mary laughed outright. "Your son—Harry is his name, is it not?—is remarkably good looking and very charming. After all, where could you find a safer and more understanding wife for him than a woman who has had not only the opportunity to know the ways and means of the primer, but looks—so young that he is bound to forget it and be led like a lamb? Girls, those uncharted seas, are always a risk."

"Stop tormenting Polly," exclaimed Mrs. Ogden. "Mary has no intention of marrying any one. She's only waiting for her estate to be settled in order to return to Europe and devote herself to certain plans of reconstruction."

"Is that true?"

"Quite true," said Madame Zattiany, smiling. "Don't worry, Polly. If I marry it will be some one you are not interested in too personally, and it is doubtful if I ever marry at all. There's a tremendous work to be done in Europe, and so far as lies in my power I shall do my share. If I marry it will be some one who can help me. I can assure you I long since ceased to be susceptible, particularly to young men. Remember that while my brain has been rejuvenated with the rest of my physical structure, my mind is as old as it was before the treatment." She gave a slight unattractive shiver. "My memory, that for years before the war was dull and inactive, is now as vigorous as ever."

Several of the women recalled those old stories of Countess Zattiany's youth, and looked at her sharply. There was a general atmosphere of uneasiness in the large respectable room. But whether or not they gave her the benefit of the doubt, they had always given her due credit for neither being found nor embarrassing her virtuous friends.

Mrs. Tracy was the first to break the silence. "But you will come to all of us as long as you stay, will you not? I do so want to give you a dinner next week."

"Yes, indeed," the chorus was eager, and sincere enough. After all, nothing could alter the fact that she was one of them.

"Oh, I have enjoyed meeting you all again, and I am hoping to see more of you," Madame Zattiany felt that she could do no less than be gracious. "I have become a very quiet person, but I will go with pleasure."

"You must let us see you daily while you are with us," cried Mrs. Goodrich, her spirits soaring at the prospect. As Mary stood up and adjusted her hat before the mirror she felt that she had successfully distracted their attention from a quick sigh of utter boredom. "You are too kind, Nelly," she murmured, "but then you always were."

"Yes, go, Mary," said Mrs. Ogden, peremptorily, and rising also. "Clear out and let them talk you over. They'll burst if you don't. Human nature can stand just so much and no more."

Madame Zattiany took her leave amid much laughter, more or less perfunctory and one and all, whatever their reactions, insisted that she must give her old friends the pleasure of entertaining her, and of seeing her as often as possible as long as she remained in New York. She escaped at last. That was over. But tomorrow night! To-morrow night. Every wheel and axle seemed to be revolving out of the words. Well, if he were repelled and revolted, no doubt it would be

Or were you only too glad to take advantage of the progress of science?"

Mrs. Vane merely grunted. Mrs. Ogden exclaimed crossly, "Oh, no one ever could argue with you, Mary Ogden. The truth is," she added, in a sudden burst of enlightenment that astonished herself, "I don't suppose any of us would mind if you didn't look younger than our daughters. That sticks in our craw. Why not admit it?"

Mrs. Ogden chuckled. She and Isabel Ruyter snapped at each other like two belligerent old cats every time they crossed each other's path, but with the exception of Mary Ogden, whom she loved, she liked her better than any of her old friends.

But once in a while Mrs. Vane drew herself up (figuratively). "Speak for yourself. I may be old, but I am too old to accept new ideas, but this one certainly seems to me downright immoral and indecent. This is not intended to reflect on you personally, Mary and of course you were more or less demoralized by your close contact with the wife. I mean the idea—the thing—itself. We may call in doctors and surgeons when we are in bodily discomfort, and be thankful that they are more advanced than in our mother's time, when people died of appendicitis every day in the week and called it inflammation of the bowels. But no one can tell me that rejuvenation is not against the laws of nature. What are you going to do with this new youth—never saw any one look less indifferent to life!—make fools of men again—of our sons?"

"Who can tell," asked Mary maliciously, "if anything but a more amusing time to come back to New York after thirty-four years and be a belle again, with the sons and grandsons of my old friends proposing to me?"

"Do you really mean that?" Mrs. Vane almost rose. She recalled that her youngest son had met Madame Zattiany in Mrs. Ogden's box on Monday night and had been mooning about the house ever since. "If I thought that—"

Mary Zattiany, who understood Polly? Mary laughed outright. "Your son—Harry is his name, is it not?—is remarkably good looking and very charming. After all, where could you find a safer and more understanding wife for him than a woman who has had not only the opportunity to know the ways and means of the primer, but looks—so young that he is bound to forget it and be led like a lamb? Girls, those uncharted seas, are always a risk."

"Stop tormenting Polly," exclaimed Mrs. Ogden. "Mary has no intention of marrying any one. She's only waiting for her estate to be settled in order to return to Europe and devote herself to certain plans of reconstruction."

"Is that true?"

"Quite true," said Madame Zattiany, smiling. "Don't worry, Polly. If I marry it will be some one you are not interested in too personally, and it is doubtful if I ever marry at all. There's a tremendous work to be done in Europe, and so far as lies in my power I shall do my share. If I marry it will be some one who can help me. I can assure you I long since ceased to be susceptible, particularly to young men. Remember that while my brain has been rejuvenated with the rest of my physical structure, my mind is as old as it was before the treatment." She gave a slight unattractive shiver. "My memory, that for years before the war was dull and inactive, is now as vigorous as ever."

Several of the women recalled those old stories of Countess Zattiany's youth, and looked at her sharply. There was a general atmosphere of uneasiness in the large respectable room. But whether or not they gave her the benefit of the doubt, they had always given her due credit for neither being found nor embarrassing her virtuous friends.

Mrs. Tracy was the first to break the silence. "But you will come to all of us as long as you stay, will you not? I do so want to give you a dinner next week."

"Yes, indeed," the chorus was eager, and sincere enough. After all, nothing could alter the fact that she was one of them.

"Oh, I have enjoyed meeting you all again, and I am hoping to see more of you," Madame Zattiany felt that she could do no less than be gracious. "I have become a very quiet person, but I will go with pleasure."

"You must let us see you daily while you are with us," cried Mrs. Goodrich, her spirits soaring at the prospect. As Mary stood up and adjusted her hat before the mirror she felt that she had successfully distracted their attention from a quick sigh of utter boredom. "You are too kind, Nelly," she murmured, "but then you always were."

"Yes, go, Mary," said Mrs. Ogden, peremptorily, and rising also. "Clear out and let them talk you over. They'll burst if you don't. Human nature can stand just so much and no more."

Madame Zattiany took her leave amid much laughter, more or less perfunctory and one and all, whatever their reactions, insisted that she must give her old friends the pleasure of entertaining her, and of seeing her as often as possible as long as she remained in New York. She escaped at last. That was over. But tomorrow night! To-morrow night. Every wheel and axle seemed to be revolving out of the words. Well, if he were repelled and revolted, no doubt it would be

ABSORBED thru the skin, and, at the same time,

INHALED, as a vapor, Vicks is the modern DIRECT treatment for all cold troubles.

VICKS VAPORUB
OVER 17 MILLION JARS USED YEARLY

The Middle Ground

By Marion Rubincam.

A LETTER FROM JORDAN

Chapter 42

Mrs. Talbot lived in a constant state of wonder that winter—even in a constant state of disapproval of the little flat, and it was not easy after the big and difficult farmhouse. She did the marketing, which took her out in the streets alone. So she learned to find her way about the immediate neighborhood.

An acquaintance she made in the apartment house helped her. A woman living on the floor below told her cheaper places to buy material.

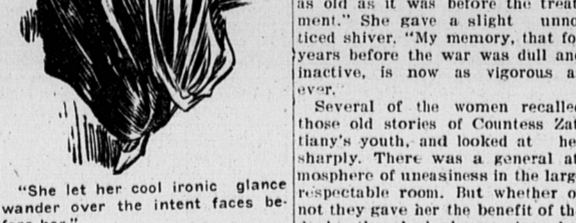

Presently she learned to cross streets with the crowds and find herself feeling at home in the big stores and on the business streets. She even began to read—and she began a habit that once represented to her all the luxury in the world—taking an afternoon nap.

She was getting better food—Jane saw to that—more rest, since the work was easy, and with nice clothes—Amy saw to that, she looked and felt nearly ten years younger than she had.

She even began to read a little, picking up the books around the house. Most of them shocked her, yet as there were none of the old-fashioned classics she had been taught constituted literature, she had to read what was there.

She would lay a book down in strong disapproval of its story, yet find herself wondering what was coming next—and after a few days, she would go back and finish it.

Of Amy she saw little, that young lady being so engrossed with her mind to spare him nothing. He would hear far more than she had told those women. Certainly he should be given full opportunity to come to his senses. If he refused to take it, on his head be the consequences. She would have done her part.

(To Be Continued)

SPRINGFIELD SCHOOL

Honor roll of Springfield School No. 95, Grade X.—1, Marshall Matheson, Grade IX.—1, Louis Lambie, 2, Nina Somers, Grade I.—1, Allison Mayne, 2, Scott Sinclair, 3, Ruth McLeod, Grade V.—1, Lionel Faid, 2, John Hickox, Grade IV.—1, Dorothy Mayne, 2, Winnifred Sinclair, 3, Thomas Jackson, Grade III.—Crawford Sinclair, 2, Margaret Ford, 3, Clarence Haslam, Grade II.—1, Ruth Lambie, 2, Arthur Lambie, 3, Donald Sinclair.—Carol Simpson,

All Are Delighted with Vicks

ISLAND FAMILIES FIND IT WONDERFUL FOR COLD TROUBLES

Prince Edward Island people became acquainted last winter with Vicks VapoRub, the vaporizing salve for all cold troubles.

In the hundreds of homes where it has been tried, Vicks is already a stand-by for croup, children's colds, bronchitis, catarrh and various skin hurts and itches.

THE NEW EXTERNAL TREATMENT

Vicks, the discovery of a North Carolina druggist, is a combination in salve form of the old time-ried remedies, Camphor Menthol, Eucalyptus Thyme Oil of Turpentine and other volatile oils.

When Vicks is applied it has two immediate actions. Externally, it is absorbed through and stimulates the skin, relieving the soreness and tightness of the chest. Internally, the volatile ingredients, released as vapors by the body heat, are inhaled directly into the affected air passages, loosening the phlegm and relieving the congestion and inflammation.

For croup and common colds you just rub Vicks over throat and chest and cover with a warm flannel cloth. One application at bedtime usually prevents a threatened attack of croup. Colds are ordinarily broken up over night. Croup attacks are usually eased in 15 minutes.

For deep chest colds, tonsillitis, bronchitis, or incipient pneumonia hot wet towels should first be applied over the throat and chest to open the pores of the skin and then use Vicks. For head colds, asthmatic or catarrhal troubles, insert a little Vicks up the nostrils, snuffing well back. Also melt some in a spoon or tin cup and inhale the vapors arising.

In the United States where Vicks originated, it is almost universally used in preference to internal "dosing." Mothers prefer it for children's cold troubles because it acts directly and quickly, and because it is applied externally and hence does not disturb the most delicate stomach. It is free, also, for cuts, burns, scalds, bruises, sores, bites, stings, itching skin troubles and other forms of skin inflammation.

50c a jar at all drug stores

If you prefer to test Vicks before purchasing, cut out this coupon and mail it to the Vicks Chemical Company, 344 St. Paul Street, W., Montreal, P. Q. A free test size package will be sent you promptly.

VICKS VAPORUB
OVER 17 MILLION JARS USED YEARLY

The Middle Ground

By Marion Rubincam.

A LETTER FROM JORDAN

Chapter 42

Mrs. Talbot lived in a constant state of wonder that winter—even in a constant state of disapproval of the little flat, and it was not easy after the big and difficult farmhouse. She did the marketing, which took her out in the streets alone. So she learned to find her way about the immediate neighborhood.

An acquaintance she made in the apartment house helped her. A woman living on the floor below told her cheaper places to buy material.

Presently she learned to cross streets with the crowds and find herself feeling at home in the big stores and on the business streets. She even began to read—and she began a habit that once represented to her all the luxury in the world—taking an afternoon nap.

She was getting better food—Jane saw to that—more rest, since the work was easy, and with nice clothes—Amy saw to that, she looked and felt nearly ten years younger than she had.

She even began to read a little, picking up the books around the house. Most of them shocked her, yet as there were none of the old-fashioned classics she had been taught constituted literature, she had to read what was there.

She would lay a book down in strong disapproval of its story, yet find herself wondering what was coming next—and after a few days, she would go back and finish it.

Of Amy she saw little, that young lady being so engrossed with her

you also have been led away by your children, you will come at once."

There was no greeting at the beginning or the end. Jordan had plainly spoken what he thought.

The woman dropped the letter and sat thinking. Her duty—to stay home with Jordan to whom she had been a good wife for more than 30 years, or to stay on her own with two children—who obviously needed her care—even if they did not appreciate it—and with Luther, who liked to sit and read while she sat quietly by sewing or darning. She sat for an hour—contrasting the attractive little flat, and the ugly farmhouse, draughty in winter and badly heated with stoves where the work was too hard for her because Jordan refused to spend money for household improvements.

Tomorrow—Claire

FARQUHAR STEAMSHIP COMPANIES

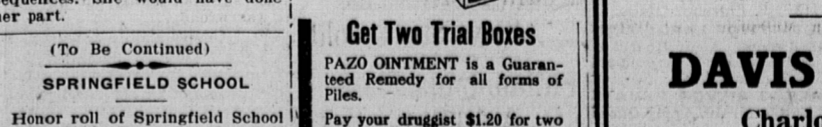

Steamer "JAN"

Charlottetown to St. John's, Nfld.
Next Sailing About December 11th

This steamer will leave Charlottetown about December 11th and should arrive at St. John's, in time for the Xmas market. Shippers requiring space for Cattle, Poultry, Produce, etc. Apply to

CARVELL BROS., Agents
550-11-29-tst61.

Superior Fresh Pork Sausages

DAVIS & FRASER

Charlottetown, P. E. I.
At present retail prices cheapest in meat product obtainable.
NO BONE NO WASTE
Our Sausage man is making them better than ever. Fresh daily.

REPORTS FROM ISLAND PEOPLE

Last winter each Prince Edward Island druggist gave away to his customers samples of Vicks with the understanding that they would test this new remedy and report the results. We are giving below a few reports from the many that were received.

Charlottetown
Miss Nora Mahar of 141 Dorchester Street, Charlottetown, P. E. I., says: "I have tried Vicks VapoRub and have found it to be the best remedy for colds that I have ever used. I used it myself as did also my sisters, and I can say that it is a wonder worker. I can't praise Vicks VapoRub too highly and will always use it."

Marshfield
Mr. W. J. Scott, Route No. 7, Marshfield, P. E. I., writes: "Vicks VapoRub did me quite a lot of good. As I am troubled with bronchitis, I put a small quantity up my nose and bathed my chest with hot water and then rubbed my chest well with Vicks. I put on a hot flannel and was eased in a short time. Vicks is the best remedy I ever had for bronchitis. I intend to keep a supply on hand."

St. Mary's Route
Mr. John H. Senechaut, Box 28, St. Mary's, Route, P. E. I., says: "Just a line to let you know that I used Vicks as directed for catarrh and found it good."

Bear River
Mr. Alphonsus Daigle of Bear River, P. E. I., writes: "I have used Vicks VapoRub and have found it a great remedy for colds, croup, cuts and burns. My father used it and found it very satisfactory. I cannot praise Vicks VapoRub too much and never want to be without it."

Cape Traverse
Miss Bessie Dunn of Cape Traverse, P. E. I., says: "I have tried Vicks VapoRub for cold in the head and sore throat and found it all that you claimed for it."

Albany
Miss Alice Pearson, Route 2, Albany, P. E. I., writes: "My mother is delighted with Vicks VapoRub. When she takes a cold it develops as a very raw and sore throat followed by a terrible cough. She had such a cold and decided to try Vicks. The application of the salve several times on her tongue, saved her from having a cough, and she is now completely well of her cold. Vicks is indeed wonderful."

you also have been led away by your children, you will come at once."

There was no greeting at the beginning or the end. Jordan had plainly spoken what he thought.

The woman dropped the letter and sat thinking. Her duty—to stay home with Jordan to whom she had been a good wife for more than 30 years, or to stay on her own with two children—who obviously needed her care—even if they did not appreciate it—and with Luther, who liked to sit and read while she sat quietly by sewing or darning. She sat for an hour—contrasting the attractive little flat, and the ugly farmhouse, draughty in winter and badly heated with stoves where the work was too hard for her because Jordan refused to spend money for household improvements.

Tomorrow—Claire

FARQUHAR STEAMSHIP COMPANIES

Steamer "JAN"

Charlottetown to St. John's, Nfld.
Next Sailing About December 11th

This steamer will leave Charlottetown about December 11th and should arrive at St. John's, in time for the Xmas market. Shippers requiring space for Cattle, Poultry, Produce, etc. Apply to

CARVELL BROS., Agents
550-11-29-tst61.

Superior Fresh Pork Sausages

DAVIS & FRASER

Charlottetown, P. E. I.
At present retail prices cheapest in meat product obtainable.
NO BONE NO WASTE
Our Sausage man is making them better than ever. Fresh daily.

you also have been led away by your children, you will come at once."

There was no greeting at the beginning or the end. Jordan had plainly spoken what he thought.

The woman dropped the letter and sat thinking. Her duty—to stay home with Jordan to whom she had been a good wife for more than 30 years, or to stay on her own with two children—who obviously needed her care—even if they did not appreciate it—and with Luther, who liked to sit and read while she sat quietly by sewing or darning. She sat for an hour—contrasting the attractive little flat, and the ugly farmhouse, draughty in winter and badly heated with stoves where the work was too hard for her because Jordan refused to spend money for household improvements.

Tomorrow—Claire

FARQUHAR STEAMSHIP COMPANIES

Steamer "JAN"

Charlottetown to St. John's, Nfld.
Next Sailing About December 11th

This steamer will leave Charlottetown about December 11th and should arrive at St. John's, in time for the Xmas market. Shippers requiring space for Cattle, Poultry, Produce, etc. Apply to

CARVELL BROS., Agents
550-11-29-tst61.