A meeting of the residents of Toronto settlement was held on the 14th inst for the purpose of selecting a name for the post office to be established here shortly. Edgar G. Gidding was appointed chairman and George H. Moore, Sec. The chairman briefly explained the object of the meeting stating that the P. O. department refused to open a post office named Toronto on account of the City of that name in Ontario and desired that the resident select a name held by no other P. O. in Canada, After much discussion and a number of names suggested it was decided to name the post office, Abney.—Com.

James F. Sayre, an old and highly respected citizen of Moncton, died at his home, Highfield Street on Sunday last. Mr. Sayre had been ailing with heart trouble for some time and had been bedfast for about nine days. Deceased was seventy-eight years of age and had been a resident of Moncton for about thirty-five years, being employed in the I. C. R. all the time. A few months ago Mr. Sayre retired from the railway service under the provident fund. He was highly esteemed by the citizens generally and enjoyed the confidence of the railway officials. Deceased was a son of the late Sheriff Sayre and was born in Dorchester. He leaves no family, but is survived by Mrs. Sayre, who was formerly a Miss Stewart of St. Stephen. Mrs. Edward Chandler of this city is a niece of the deceased.

The following extract is from Patton's Monthly and the Mr. Pooley referred to belongs to this Province, being a native of Tryon. He visited his old home last winter: "The third man, Jack Stewart, was a typical American, born of foreign parents. He had been brought up in the West, and had joined the rush of gold seekers in the Klondyke in '98. He and his partner, Jack Pooley, had gone into Dawson via. Valdez and the Copper River. This was one of the less frequented routes, because of the fact that the distance, five hundred miles, was all overland, and no trail for over two-thirds of the way. It had taken them almost five months to cover the distance pulling their supplies on a sled over the ice in winter. They required more provisions than they could haul on one trip. Thus, at first, each mile forward meant five, as they went back twice for the other sleds. The hardship and exposure of this terrible trip had left its scar. We could not get Jack to talk about his experiences. It was a page in his life he would not reopen. It seemed too horrible for him to recall, and he shrank from even thinking about it. We learned from Mac that Jack was snowblind for over a month. Finally, at the Klondyke, like most others, they found all the available ground covered by claims. They worked up the river, and later located a quartz ore vein near Carcross. This had been turned over to a Canadian company which agreed to pay nothing down, but took an option to purchase for sixty thousand dollars at the end of five years after they had opened the mine. Fortunately, the mine proved a success and the two men were notified that the company intended to exercise their option. The payment was due in November, 1907, so that now the two Jacks have reaped the reward of their labors. They were two among the very few men who have made money from claims, going in without capital or experience."

Mr. Nash's lecture, A Canadian Statesman is spoken of as one that every Islander should hear.

Answering questions, in the Dominion House of Commons the other day, Hon. Mr. Graham said that Kenneth Falconer, whose accounting operation cost the marine department $50,000, received $43,000 for services in re-organizing the books of the Intercolonial and Prince Edward Island railway in 1906.

C. H. Pruner of the Union Commercial College gave a very interesting talk to the City teachers at the Queen Square School last evening. His subject was penmanship. Mr. Pruner is an artist and an enthusiast in his work. He is much in favor of system in work, easy exercises followed by more difficult. Legibility, rapidity and ease were the points to be cared for. He thought that adjustable furniture indespensible to progress on penmanship.

Rev. George I. Foster, now of Cleveland, Ohio, has composed the words and music of "The New Operetta, Cinderella or the Glass Slipper." It is to be presented by fifty-five children and is shortly to be performed in one of the big theatres of that city for the benefit of the unemployed. There are four acts, and besides the big caste of performers there is an orchestra of thirteen, with Mr. Foster at the piano.

Arrangements for attending the biennial encampment of the Uniform Rank of the K. of P. in Boston, Aug. 2 to 10, are being made by the St. John branch. Both St. John companies are expected to be well represented. It was reported that contingents would also go from St. Stephen, Milltown, Fredericton, Moncton, New Glasgow, Charlottetown and other places in the maritime provinces. Consideration was also given to the proposal to take the necessary arrangements. As the bands of the 62nd regiment and the Artillery will probably be attending the tercentenary at Quebec during the latter part of August, it was suggested that the services of the Fredericton military band might be secured.
