THE VALUE OF GOOD ROADS

DIED.
Province. It is well known that we do not come anywhere near supplying our own needs in agricultural products, and we would be doing well if we were to accomplish that much. But there is a bigger field to enter. The thousand million dollar market of Great Britain is wide open and we can get our share of it. We should be able to get it much more easily than our Ontario brethren who send their farm products all the way down to the seaboard for shipment, past the very farms very often that ought to be supplying the same kind of products. This opportunity is more open to us than it ever was before inasmuch as we have better transportation arrangements. One of the most hopeful things there is for the Maritime Provinces is the existence of this great, easily reached, open market for which we are amply fitted by nature to produce. The best of it is that our farmers are opening their eyes to it and that the College of Agriculture at Truro is stimulating the interest of our farmers in more progressive methods of agriculture. We believe that the day is coming when our natural advantages in this department will have the attention paid them that they deserve. But why not hasten the day? Why should we wait until the idea slowly indigests itself into the minds of our farmers and business men?
Why not put a great amount of stress upon the matter at once and set everybody thinking at once? We could do nothing more effective to bring about prosperity in our agricultural industry than to open the eyes of our people wide to the opportunity.
It is better to try to talk the hopeful side of things than to dwell on the other side. While it is foolish not to recognize difficulties or feel disappointments, there is yet a great compensation for the spirit of hopefulness. The merchant who is telling everyone that comes to his store that the mail order houses are driving him out of business and that trade generally is worse than he has ever seen it, is not only injuring his own prospects, but is injuring the prospects of the community in which he lives. He may be unsettling the mind of a man who has not discovered that things were so bad or he may intensify the feeling on the part of some that things are going that way.
Half the people who have left the Maritime Provinces to go to the United States—perhaps more than half—would have been a great deal better off if they had remained at home. They seem to have thought that if they could only get to the place of their desire, making a living would be easier. But they have not found it so. The new problems of life they have had to face may not have been the same as the old ones, but they have been just as difficult, and in many cases more difficult.
Life is continuing to struggle and we overcome an obstacle today only to encounter a new one tomorrow. And when we hear of these new parts of Canada and the States where men seem to be making all kinds of money we must not lose sight of the fact that there are just as many worries and difficulties to be overcome there as there are here in the east.

and we should not take the results of one year's work, or even two or three years, as an example of what the new country will do as compared with ours.
There are some people coming back to Nova Scotia this year and taking up the old farms, and those people have proved by actual experience that the old Province was not such a bad place after all. When the country merchant here listens to his customers complaining because things what he can't cheer them up and cause them to feel more confidence in signs that they are thinking of pulling up stakes, it is a matter of business for him to try and dismiss these thoughts from their minds and do them—and better for him.

Stops Pain in the Bladder, Kidneys and Back.

Wouldn't it be nice within a week or so to begin to say goodbye forever to the scalding, dribbling, straining, or too frequent passage of urine; the forehead and the back-of-the-head aches; the stitches and pains in the back; the growing muscle weakness; spots before the eyes; yellow skin; sluggish bowels; swollen eyelids or ankles; leg cramps; unnatural short breath; sleeplessness and despondency?
I have a recipe for these troubles that you can depend on, and if you want to make a quick recovery, you ought to write and get a copy of it. Many a doctor would charge you $3.50 just for writing this prescription, but I have it and will be glad to send it to you entirely free. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 1821 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send it by return mail in a plain envelope. As you will see when you get it, this recipe contains only pure, harmless remedies, but it has great healing and pain-convulsing power.
It will quicken up your power once you use it so I think you had better see what it is without delay. I will send you a copy free—you can use it and cure yourself at home.

JUST PUBLISHED

Webster's NEW INTERNATIONAL Dictionary, (G. & C. Merriam Co., Springfield, Mass.) surpasses the old International as much as that book exceeded its predecessor. On the old foundation a new superstructure has been built. The reconstruction has been carried on through many years by a large force of trained workers, under the supervision of Dr. W. T. Harris, former United States Commissioner of Education, and reinforced by many eminent specialists. The definitions have been rearranged and amplified. The number of terms defined has been more than doubled. The etymology, synonyms, pronunciation, have received unsparing scholarly labor. The language of English literature for over seven centuries, the terminology of the arts and sciences, and the every-day speech of street, shop, and household, are presented with fullness and clearness. In size of vocabulary, in richness of general information, and in convenience of consultation, the book sets a new mark in lexicography.

400,000 words and phrases.
6000 illustrations.
2700 pages.

MRS. MARGARET ANDERSON
She Will Tell You How to Stop a Man From Drink
The remedy can be given secretly, so there is no publicity of your private affairs. She wants every man or woman who has drunkenness in their home to write to her so she can tell them just what remedy she used. Hundreds have freed their homes from drink by using the information she gave them, but here are still hundreds of others who need it should have it, so we earnestly advise every one of our readers who have a dear one who drinks, to drop her a line to-day.
The proofs of the hundreds of really remarkable cures are too strong to be doubted or denied. Yet she makes no charge for her help, (she asks for no money and acceptance) so there is no reason why you should not write her at once. She only requests that you are personally interested in curing one who drinks. Send your letter with confidence to her home. Here is her address:
Mrs. Margaret Anderson, 166 Home Avenue, Hillburn, New York.
Note: Write your full name and address plainly—do not use initials.
