BRITISH ASS. FOR ADVANCEMENT OF SCIENCE'S NOW IN SESSION AT TORONTO

(Canadian Press) TORONTO, Aug. 6.—The inaugural meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science was held in Convocation Hall here to-day.

Horace Lamb, M. A., B. Sc., F. R. S., professor of mathematics at Trinity College, Cambridge University, was elected president of the association for the year 1925 and it was decided to hold next year's meeting in Southampton, England.

The following message from H. R. H. the Prince of Wales was read by the president.

Greetings From Prince of Wales St. James' Palace S. W. I.

Dear Mr. President, Will you be good enough to convey to the members of the British Association at their inaugural meeting in Toronto my cordial good wishes for a very successful session?

My knowledge of Canada assures me that your visit will be warmly welcomed and that nothing but good can come of such a gathering where the representatives of the most advanced thought from the Old Country will meet in discussion the equally keen and active intellects of the Younger Land.

My interest has been particularly arrested by one item that is to come up for discussion, namely the educational Training of Boys and Girls in this country for Life Overseas.

The call of the Empire for a wider distribution of the home population, for men and women to open up the vast unutilized areas in the great Overseas Dominions is more imperative today than at any time in its history.

I congratulate the Association on this showing in its deliberations such a broad interest in these problems, and I trust, and indeed am confident, that the influence thus exercised may result in great and extended benefits to the Empire.

Yours truly, EDWARD VII. The principal feature of the opening meeting was the presidential address delivered by Major General Sir David Bruce a comprehensive report of which herewith follows:

Monsignor Belford Says $300 Was Demanded Before Operation

(Canadian Press) NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The world lashing of an unnamed physician who is charged with having refused to handle an appendicitis case until his patient produced $300 in advance of the operation created such a stir Sunday in Brooklyn Catholic Church circles when it appeared in the August issue of "The Mentor," the organ of the Church of the Nativity, that its author, Monsignor John J. Belford, announced that he would bring his attack before the president of the Kings County Medical Society in an effort to have the doctor's license revoked.

Under the caption "A Doctor to Avoid" Monsignor Belford told the story of a man who went to this physician for advice and treatment. The patient, who was found Sunday to be John Griffin, of 29 Spencer Place Brooklyn, is an employee in the press rooms of a New York newspaper.

Forced to Return Home.

Four or five weeks ago, according to the article, Griffin's case was diagnosed by this physician as acute appendicitis. At that time the doctor directed him to go immediately to the Jewish Hospital for an operation. This Griffin agreed to do, he said.

"Then," Father Belford wrote, "came a demand from the M. D. (Continued on Page 3)

LANDING OF CORNWALLIS AT HALIFAX RE-ACTED YESTERDAY

Wonderful Pageant Was Witnessed By 10,000 People.—Presentation Made To Commander Sir F. L. Field.

(Canadian Press) HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 6.—A historic scene was re-acted here today in connection with the anniversary of the landing of Cornwallis at Halifax, 175 years ago was carried out in pageantry on the campus of Dalhousie University near what is believed to be the exact spot upon which Cornwallis planted the British flag in 1749.

Shortly after noon a tall adzed stumpy little craft, gaudily painted swung up the quiet waters of the Northwest arm and sent a boat ashore loaded with red coated officers and swarthy sailors. The craft was a replica of the one sailed by Cornwallis and the landing party included "Cornwallis" and his staff.

On the shore they were met by two friendly Indians who guided them to a grassy glade a short distance inland. But whereas the historic landing 175 years ago was witnessed by only a half dozen French and peering savages the route of march today was lined with thousands of people and the "grassy glade" was walled in, not by the forest of Cornwallis' time but a throng of cheering people estimated to be nearly ten thousand strong.

The ceremony of administering the oath of allegiance to Governor Mascarene and his followers who had come up from the settlement of Annapolis for that purpose, was duly carried out, and again the stern visaged Acadians from Grand Pre came forward and declared their determination to remain loyal to France and not to swear allegiance to England. They were allowed to withdraw while the Indians came forward and silently presented the pipe of peace.

After all had solemnly puffed the symbolic pipe the party gathered around the council table in commemoration of Cornwallis' first council and the most striking feature of this section of the pageant was the fact that the long table used in the play was the identical table used 175 years ago.
