FAVOR TEN HOURS AS A DAY'S WORK

BERNE, Sept. 23.—(Special).—The international conference for the Protection of Workers which was convened last Monday by the Swiss Federal Council yesterday adopted a resolution favoring a limit of ten hours as a working day for all women and for children under sixteen years of age. It was decided also that night work by children under fourteen years of age, without exception, should be forbidden.

MODERN DANCING.

"So that dance lasted till 2 o'clock did it?" grumbled the old man, as the sweet young thing came down to breakfast a little late, but looking as fresh as a daisy. "And I suppose you danced every dance? Yes, And you're one of these delicate girls. If I'd ask you to walk downtown some day you'd faint, and yet they say dancing is equivalent to walking ten miles!"

Twice Proven Cure for Nerves

Irritable, Hysterical, Sleepless, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food Restores Health.

There is a message in this letter for thousands of women who are suffering from broken-down nervous systems. Sleepless nights, much irritability over little things, spells of dizziness and nervous sick headaches are among the symptoms.

Mrs. W. J. May, 88 Annette street, Toronto, writes: "Some years ago I suffered from nervous trouble, and took Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which completely cured me. About six months ago I received a shock which again shattered my nervous system to such an extent that I was irritable and hysterical, and could not sleep nights. I began to use the Nerve Food again and was not disappointed. Improvement was apparent from the first box, and now I am entirely well."

PRISONERS CAUGHT COUNTERFEITING

PETER HEAD, Sept. 23.—(Special).—That counterfeit bank notes, so skillfully executed as to deceive the local bankers and shopkeepers, were made by convicts in the prison here was a startling discovery made today by Scotland Yard detectives. In the printing of the bank notes the convicts had used paper in which rations had been served to them.

HOW SOME FAMOUS BOOKS WERE WRITTEN.

It is more than 50 years since "East Lynne" was published, yet both the novel and the play founded upon it are as popular as ever. The novel was written in bed. In fact, so ill was Mrs. Henry Wood, its author, that she did not expect to complete it. Much of the novel was penned when its author could not even sit up. Yet the book is by no means restful. On the contrary, it is very exciting.

Sir Walter Scott wrote, or rather dictated, his most popular novel, "Ivanhoe," in bed—or at least from a sick couch. He had two secretaries, who used to take turns at writing down the fruits of his fertile fancy, for, although he was in the most constant and severe pain, the interest of the great story never ceased, but went on unchecked to the end.

"The Road Mender," by Michael Fairless, was written in bed. "Michael Fairless" is the pen name of a young girl who died while still in her "teens," and she wrote "The Road Mender" on her death bed, finishing it but a few hours before actually quitting "this mortal vale" forever. Her career is one of the most remarkable and pathetic records in the history of literature.

"Weir of Hermiston," Robert Louis Stevenson's last unfinished book, was written in bed, or rather dictated to the novelist's devoted wife. "Katri-ona," too, which is the sequel to "Kidnapped," written about the heather-clad hills of the highlands on the tropical island, Samoa, was mainly written "in a recumbent position," for it is certain that long before his early and lamented death Stevenson spent much of his time on the couch, working to the very last hour of his life.

Mark Twain wrote nearly all his later books in bed. So persistent a "sluggard" was he that he had a specially contrived bed-desk fitted up, so that he could write without trouble or exertion while propped luxuriously among his pillows. He used to aver that most of his best thoughts came to him in bed, and that the trouble and worry of getting up, shaving and dressing dispersed them. All and left him in no mood for composition. He was mending his literary labors. He was of the opinion that bed was the very best place for the author, and he acted upon his belief. Keats wrote one of the finest and most pathetic sonnets in literature on his death bed; Charles Wesley wrote a lovely hymn on his, and Mozart, as is well known, composed, as he lay dying, the famous "Requiem," which was first performed at his own burial.

ISLE OF MY DREAMS.

Dear Isle that ever haunts my dreams Though from it far I wander Its beauty re-appears and beams Before me as I ponder.

A fertile soil of deep red hue Beneath a rich green carpet Above a sea of deepest blue Quickly the tourists mark it.

The waters that its shores surround Abound with living treasures Its woods and rivers, parks and streams Afford all kinds of pleasures.

Its fruitful orchards, fragrant flowers Its wealth of vegetation Its handsome homesteads and its bowers Impel true admiration.

Dear peaceful Island of the free Where times are always lively Its winters wild are filled with glee Its summers mild are lovely.

Cured Eczema Like Magic

Suffered for Years—Tried All Kinds of Treatment—Surprised at Results From Dr. Chase's Ointment.

You can soon tell when people are enthusiastic about medical treatment by the language they use. After experimenting with all sorts of ointments in a vain effort to obtain relief and cure, the writer of this letter was astonished at the quick and satisfactory results obtained by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

"It worked like magic," she writes. Indeed, it is surprising the healing that is often effected in a single night by this great ointment. The stinging and itching are relieved at once, and cure is only a matter of time and patient treatment.

Mrs. Clements, 15 Strange street, Toronto, Ont., writes: "I have suffered from eczema for years, and after using all kinds of ointment, at last tried Dr. Chase's Ointment. It worked like magic and proved a God-send to me. I would advise anyone suffering from eczema to try one box and be convinced." 60 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.
