Presentation To Covehead Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Marshall who recently moved into their home in West Covehead were given a pleasant surprise by their neighbors and other friends from Covehead and Stanhope, on Wednesday evening when they were the guests of honor at a function in Covehead Hall.

The young couple were escorted to their seats by Miss Mary Horgan and Malcolm McLauchlan as Mrs. Warren Marshall played the wedding march, and they were presented with a well filled purse and also with many other useful gifts.

The address was read by D. Miller Bearisto and the presentation of the purse of money made by Lloyd Shaw

Mrs. Marshall is the former Ruby Blondon of Glen Valley who taught in Stanhope School for a year prior to her marriage.

The address expressed the goodwill and regard for the young couple and welcomed "Ruby to our community life in which her husband has always lived a friend highly regarded by us all."

"We wish you every blessing in your married life together and among us. We would ask you to accept this small token of our high regard for you both and as a simple expression of our pleasure in having you Edgar so happily married and to so charming a wife to share a social, church and community life," the address concluded.

After the presentation refreshments were served and a most enjoyable hour was spent by all those present.

GLOBAL CROCKERY

PRESTON, England —(CP)— Crockery from a canteen in Preston railway station goes all around the world. Cups taken away by servicemen have been known to turn up in the United States, Africa, India and Italy.

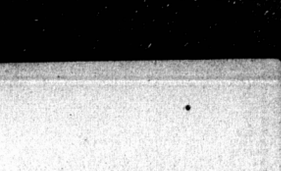
Chief justice Sir Oscar Daly presides over the de Marigny trial at the Nassau courthouse. In court, he wears white wig and red robe.

Lady Oakes, widow of the murder victim, is a prosecution witness. She flew from her Maine home to testify against her son-in-law, de Marigny.

These are two of the most-photographed figures in the Oakes murder trial at Nassau. Count Alfred de Marigny, lighting a cigaret, is charged with the slaying of Sir Harry Oakes last July. Constantly at his side is Nassau detective Lieut. John Douglas, who testified for the prosecution, quoting de Marigny as saying Oakes "should have been killed anyhow."

TAXI FAMINE

LONDON, —(CP)— Taxi owners predict a cab-famine for London this winter. There are only 4,500 taxis left in the Metropolitan area, about half the pre-war number, and the demand has increased 50 per cent.



FURS

The trapping season begins on Monday, November 1st. I will be buying all kinds of furs, and as usual paying highest market prices. There is a closed season on Beaver and Otter.

Skunk skins are in demand and besides buying the skins we pay the bounty of $1.00 for the nose. Call and see me before disposing of your furs.

Italy's battle-famed Volturno river is narrow, as rivers go, but bridging it under fire was a difficult task for American Army engineers. Here sections of the pontoon bridge are brought down a new roadway chewed out of the river bank by bulldozers, left. Not long after the bridge is halfway across the river while an American soldier stands guard over the operations.

Completed, this heavy pontoon bridge became the main span for Rome-bound Fifth Army troops on the central sector of the Volturno river front. A crane is being taken across to prepare a tank landing space on the opposite shore. To obtain pictures of this N. S. Army bridge-building operation, NEA-Acme war pool photographer Bert Brandt shuttled around the Volturno in a rubber boat, right.
