CONFERENCE OF THE POWERS

(By The Canadian Press) CAPE TOWN, Feb. 7.—Newspaper publishers and editors gathered from all parts of the Empire at delegates to the Fifth Imperial Press Conference tonight heard their meeting characterized as a "conference of the powers" in a message from Sir Robert Borden, former prime minister of Canada.

"So impressive an assembly is indeed a 'conference of the powers' and an inspiration to those endowed with imagination to realize its significance," said Sir Robert Borden in his message.

"To our Commonwealth 'league of nations' the service of the press is indispensable," he said. "In every advanced democracy it is a commanding although unofficial instrument of governance. Its freedom is closely associated with the liberties of the people. The standards which it upholds, of public and of private life, are of vital concern to every nation, since they profoundly affect not only present-day tendencies but the future of mankind."

"In bidding Godspeed to the Conference in all its activities, may I add a personal word? My association with South Africa statesmen—Botha, Smuts, Hertzog and others—has always been a happy memory. In years crowded with momentous events and chartered with decisions of supreme significance, I found leaders of the United Kingdom with vision and patriotism not limited to the Empire or to the Commonwealth but broad as humanity."

Mr. Norman Smith also read a message from Mr. Hon. R. B. Bennett, prime minister of Canada, as follows: "I have asked the Chairman of the Canadian Section to convey to my friend General Hertzog, your distinguished Prime Minister, and Sir Smuts, my warmest regards. I met General Hertzog in London in 1930 and realized that he had made a truly great contribution to the history of the development of constitutional government within the Empire. His colleague, Mr. Havenga, later was leader of the South Africa delegation at the Imperial Conference in this city and the memory of his speeches and his grasp of economic problems still is fresh in the minds of all who heard him. Of course, General Smuts is almost a mythical figure and enjoys a place of peculiar affection in the heart of Canadians. As a statesman, publicist and philosopher he enjoys a world reputation."

"To all these responsible for the maintenance of government in the Union of South Africa I send the kindest regards and best wishes of those who in the Dominion of Canada discharge similar responsibilities."

"I trust the deliberations of the Press Conference will result in constructive measures being taken to promote the interchange of Empire news."

Hon. Frank Carrel, of the Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph, a member of the Canadian delegation, read a message from Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, recalling the deep friendship which existed between General Botha, South Africa's first prime minister, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, when the new constitution for South Africa was being considered.

The message said: "This personal exchange of views did much to remove many natural doubts in the mind of General Botha and to make assurance doubly sure as to the successful working of British institutions. In subsequent developments and definition of the status of the nations of the British Commonwealth, it was also my privilege to co-operate at Imperial Conference in London with the present Prime Minister of South Africa, General Hertzog, and with his present colleague the former Prime Minister, General Smuts."

TRINIDADIAN GREET KENTS

Royal Newlyweds Endear Themselves to Colonials.

(C. F. Cable) (By Guardian's Special Wire) PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, Feb. 7.—Breaking their own rule against formally of their honeymoon tour, Great Britain's famous royal newlyweds today shook hands with more than 12,000 Trinidadians gathered at the Governor's garden party.

It was an exciting surprise for the holidaying colonialists who had been told the visitors would make an appearance only—when the smiling Duke and Duchess of Kent stood beside Governor Sir A. Claude Hollis and Lady Hollis and began to receive.

Elaborate Fashion Parade A seemingly endless line of eager guests filed past the couple, and as the women went by, the beautiful Princess Marina, wearing a simple walking frock of white and black crepe, saw the most elaborate fashion parade in the history of the colony.

Shortly after their arrival yesterday, the Prince changed to sport clothes and went unannounced to the officers' mess of the Trinidad constabulary. Not until he had played several hard games of squash and left for his hotel had most of the officers known the identity of the tall, good-looking stranger.

Informal Dance A secluded private dining room had been prepared to afford the couple absolute privacy at meals, but they waved this aside and joined the rest of the guests in the hotel's main dining room. After dinner they stepped out to the music of the hotel orchestra in an informal dance.

Today they borrowed a car from the Governor and went off on an impromptu picnic at Point Balaie, the picturesque coastal setting that inspired one of Noel Coward's latest plays.

At the point, a few miles out of town, they hired a launch and crossed to a tiny wooded island, where they enjoyed an outing before appearing at the garden party.
