THE MARKETS

(Canadian Press)

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 6.—Despite limited export demand, dealers continue to demand high prices for these, according to traders on the Montreal wholesale produce market today. Many factories have already closed down owing to inadequate milk supplies, but asking prices on the market today were unchanged at 19 1/2 cents per pound for Ontario cheese, with Quebec at 19 cents. Some sales were reported today at 1/4 cent per pound lower, but these were exceptional. Prices in other branches of the market were all steady, with butter generally quoted at 38 1/2 to 39 for eastern townships number 1, pasteurized in a wholesale way. Poultry and egg sales were reported steady.

OTTAWA.—(Eggs)—There is no change in Canadian egg markets today. Receipts continue light and at the majority of centres storage eggs are forming the large bulk of the trading.

TORONTO, Ont.—Egg receipts here continue light and the market is firm although British Columbia eggs are proving rather difficult to move at the asking price of 62 cents for extras F. O. B. Vancouver. Dealers are quoting shippers for ungraded eggs delivered cases returned, extras 52-55; firsts 44-46; pullet extras 38-44; seconds 33. Dealers are quoting for dressed turkeys 36-45 cents per pound and for geese 20 cents per pound delivered.

MONTREAL.—Egg receipts here today were 672 cases as compared to 1,826 cases on the corresponding day a year ago. The market continues firm with a good demand and sales of both fresh and storage eggs are active at unchanged prices. Storage eggs are moving to retailers at extras 45; firsts 40; seconds 35.

HALIFAX, N. S.—The local egg market is firm and steady with no changes in prices since the week end. Fresh eggs receipts are consisting mostly of pullet eggs and a good demand for storage stocks. Owing to the continued mild weather, the demand for poultry is very limited.

SAINT JOHN.—The egg market here has again advanced under light receipts which are now so short that fresh eggs are hardly a factor of the market and storage eggs are filling the bulk of the demand. For the few fresh eggs arriving, dealers are quoting country shippers, extras 53-55; firsts 44-46; seconds 30-32.

ISLAND BOY PASSES IN ENGINEERING.—Peter A. Steele, son of R. J. Steele, Newport, P. E. I., has received his diploma having passed his final examinations in structural engineering. Mr. Steele is still in his early thirties but has travelled and worked in many places in Canada, United States and Mexico. During the last three years he has resided in or near Glouce Bay, and filled the position of foreman iron-worker for the Dominion Coal Company. Being anxious to still better his conditions in the industrial world he studied persistently and faithfully in his spare time to a successful end. The diploma entitles Mr. Steele to supervise or inspect the erection of any of the modern skyscrapers. It is eleven years since he was last on the Island, but hopes to pay his old home an extended visit before he undertakes his new duties which are offered him in the United States.

THE MISSION.—Another splendid congregation was present in St. Peter's Cathedral last evening when the missioner took his text from the 15th verse of the 3rd chapter of Genesis. There then followed the instructional address on the Sacraments. The subject was dealt with in a very convincing manner, and the reason shown why God chose to teach his people by and through Sacraments. The individual Sacraments will be dealt with later in the mission. One of the most helpful things in the mission is the use of the question box. One question asked last evening referred to the wide spread error in regard to King Henry VIII having founded the Church of England. The answer given by the Missioner confounded the error. The Missioner hopes to devote an evening to the history of the English Church during which he will trace the history of the Church back to the centuries previous to the arrival of the great Saint Augustine. The mission will continue tonight at 7:30, and all are invited to be present.

THANK OFFERING SERVICE

An interesting service was conducted in the Baptist Schoolroom last evening by the ladies of the Baptist Missionary Union, on the occasion of their annual thank offering. Mrs. J. A. Clark occupied the chair, and gave a brief, interesting outline of the activities of the organization—paying a graceful tribute to the quietly efficient work of the President, Mrs. A. W. Stern. Mrs. A. C. Vincent's fine soprano voice was heard to good advantage in "Beautiful Garden of Prayer." An eloquent address by Dr. A. C. Vincent was listened to with close attention. A large and encouraging thanksgiving offering for missions was contributed.

INSTITUTE MEETING.—The October meeting of the Launching Women's Institute was held at 10:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. John McCormack with seventeen members and three visitors present. Meeting opened by singing Institute Ode Roll Call was answered by each member paying a small sum of money, four dollars and thirty cents being realized which will go to buy a new flag, a flag pole having been recently placed on the school grounds. After roll call reports of different committees were heard. Sick committee reported fruit had been sent to a sick person in the district. School committee reported visiting the school which was found very comfortable and a good attendance of pupils. The card-play planned at our last meeting will be held Tuesday, Nov. 12th at the home of Mrs. Annes Macdonald. New committees were appointed as follows: Sick, Mrs. George McPherson and Mrs. John McCormack. School, Mrs. Peter Walker and Mrs. Daniel McCormack. Needless to say the members one and all are very proud of having the beautiful Hearts prize placed in the school and a glass case to enclose same will be put in the school room. Mrs. Hugh McPhee and Mrs. Daniel G. McCormack were appointed to look after the work. Meeting closed by singing National Anthem and serving a dainty Halo's tea supper by the hostess. Next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Peter Walker. As this is the annual meeting roll call will be answered with payment of membership fees.

In an experimental stage and the boats that do not, how exist should be constructed for it. These boats need to have good carrying capacity, light draught, chilled holds, seaworthiness and good speed. The Department was hopeful that if it were prepared to enter into an arrangement for five years on a subsidy basis boats would be built that would be available for reasonable subsidy rates. Hence advertisements calling for tenders for such boats on the above basis were issued last year, but the lowest tender received was so high that the Department felt that at least until we had the experience of another year it would not be justified in accepting it. In the light of this year's experience you will probably have noticed in the Nova Scotia papers that tenders have again been called for the supplying of five boats for this collecting work. The Department is now satisfied that if suitable boats are made available the benefits of the fresh fish markets can be extended to large sections of the coast.

2. It is also a fact that the extension of the fresh fish business, whether by the use of collecting boats or otherwise, detrimentally affects the cured fish industry, as to the extent that those who have been engaged in curing fish turn to the fresh fish industry, the supply for the cured fish industry is diminishing. On the other hand, there is no compulsion on any portion of the coast for the fishermen to sell their catches for the fresh fish markets and such is therefore done only when the fishermen consider it to be in their best interest to do so. Obviously those selling their fish as landed have to spend less time on shore and consequently are in a position to produce more fish in the same time, apart from the fact that prices are usually higher for fish sold for the fresh fish markets than when prepared for and sold in cured fish markets.

3. The need for bait trawlers is an evident one and this Department has been and still is giving consideration to some method whereby the fishermen will be encouraged with proper assistance to provide themselves in a co-operative way with facilities for storing bait, or where necessary for freezing and storing such. It is hoped that details of such proposals will be worked out before very long.

Yours truly,
(Sgd.) Wm. A. Found,
Deputy Minister of Fisheries.

Organization of Fishermen

October 31, 1929.

Dear Mr. Sclanders:

You have this Department's thanks for your letter of the 24th instant, and let me assure you that it appreciates the attitude of your Board in such matters.

With the resolution urging the need for organization amongst the fishermen, not only is this Department in full accord, but action has already been taken. As you point out, the Minister on several occasions when on the coast during the past summer, indicated the importance to the fishermen in their own interests of becoming properly organized. The need for such more and more impressed itself as the conditions on the different parts of the coast became evident. Immediately following that our arrangements were made for the employment of Dr. M. M. Coady of St. Francis Xavier University, who has during the past few years been making a special study of improvement of rural conditions and organization, and who is, therefore, probably equipped for taking a lead in such work as no other man at the present time in the Maritime Provinces is. He has been engaged for several weeks past in this work, and will continue it until it is completed, which it is hoped, will be done by the end of the approaching winter.

The desirability for loans under proper conditions being available to fishermen is also realized. The problem of arranging for such is, however, no easy one. As you will realize on examination of the Farm Loan Act, if it were extended to the fisheries no useful purpose would be served, and the experience of other countries in the matter shows the need for the greatest care. The matter is, however, continuing to be investigated, and I wish to add that if your Board has any suggestion of a suitable method for arranging for such loans, this Department would very much appreciate being informed in detail regarding such.

Yours truly,
(Signed) W. A. FOUND,
Deputy Minister of Fisheries

DOOMED TO DEVIL'S ISLAND

PARIS, Nov. 6.—Fifty-five doomed men, chained together in gangs of four, carrying all their belongings in sacks slung over their shoulders, were marched through the crowded streets of La Rochelle, from the railway station to the prison.

They were convicted, condemned by French justice to banishment on Devil's Island, the dreaded penal settlement off the coast of French Guiana, with little hope of return and less of escape.

Some tried to shield their faces from the curious crowd that they shuffled along. Among them was a youth of sixteen, who murdered his father at Rouen. Chained to him was Jules Laperre, who was notorious during the war as a spy in the pay of Germany. Many of the miserable wretches had beards, which prevented the public from recognizing them as the central figures in recent murder trials.

The convicts are to be taken to Saint Martin de Re, where they will remain until the vessel arrives to convey them to the terrible settlement. They travelled to La Rochelle by railway in special prison cars. Each man, chained hand and foot, was placed in a separate steel cell on a long corridor down the middle of the train, which travelled all over France from prison to prison until it was filled.

While holding to their native costume native women of India have adopted the fashion of wearing American silk hosiery.

When Miss Susan Lawrence, 50-year-old, recently tried to settle a school strike at East Ham, England, she was howled down by parents of the pupils.

Petition

At a meeting of the S. P. C. A. executive held in the city hall Tuesday evening a communication was received from John McE. Wilson, general manager of the Ontario Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals urging all branches to petition the Minister of Justice to have the laws pertaining to the protection of animals and the prosecution of offenders revised.

The Ontario S. P. C. A. in taking the initiative suggests the following which were approved by the meeting:

1. That all shipments of livestock shall be passed upon or examined by an official of the railway carrying same before leaving point of shipment.
 2. That in case of animals arriving in a sick, injured or diseased condition, or from overcrowding or any other form of defective shipment, resulting in prohibition, that the case shall be tried at the point of unloading.
 3. That all bulls of mature age shall be securely tied during transportation.
 4. That Section 536, paragraph "A" and "B" be so amended to include all animals and birds.
 5. That the maximum penalty under section 537 of the Criminal Code should be increased to a penalty not exceeding $300 or two years' imprisonment.
 6. That Section 538 be so amended as to include all animals and birds.
 7. That Section 542 be so amended as to increase the penalty from $50 or three months' imprisonment to $300 or two years' imprisonment with or without hard labor or both.
 8. That it be against the law to keep any cattle, horses, sheep, swine or any other animal under conditions which would lead to suffering or are unsanitary.
 9. That it be against the law for any person to administer any drug or use any device whatsoever for the purpose of producing abnormal conditions. (This suggestion is made in the interest of show horses in the ring and horses used for racing.)
- It was decided to hold the annual meeting on December 2nd.

WEDDING BELLS

St. Columba Catholic Church was the scene of a very pretty event last Wednesday morning at nine o'clock, when the pastor, Rev. Father R. J. McDonald, united in holy wedlock, Miss Mae Donovan daughter of Mr. John James Donovan, of Bayfield, to Mr. Alex. McDonald, son of John L. McDonald, of Big Pond. There were few friends present at the Nuptial Ceremony except the bridal party. The Church was nicely decorated for the occasion. The bride looked charming in a gown of rose georgette with hat to match and carried a bouquet of sweet peas. The ceremony over, the bridal party motored to Souris for luncheon, when, after whiling away the afternoon, motored back to the home of the bride at Bayfield, where a most enjoyable old-time wedding supper was participated in by some eighty friends and relatives. After due justice to the heavily laden table, dancing began with the "wedding reel" and followed by step dance, quadrille waltz and the music of two violins playing in unison and continued to well past day-break. A large number of wedding presents were brought in by the guests, including many cash envelopes and cheques to the bride and groom.

Book Reviews

"THE STUMBLING SHEPHERD"

A protest against certain formalistic tendencies of the age is voiced by the Rev. Canon H. A. Coady, of St. John, N. B., in his book "The Stumbling Shepherd" (McClelland and Stewart, Toronto). The author has chosen fiction as the vehicle in which to re-state the great truth that "the letter killeth but the spirit maketh alive," and while there is embodied sufficient of the dramatic to fully attract the casual reader, the thoughtful man and the student will find much in its pages to induce spiritual life. When such minds reflect on a certain type of mind, otherwise well stored with good intention, is apt to dwell too much on outward forms and ceremonies, and to lose sight of the inward and wield the destiny of a church, the result is disastrous, as may be seen in Britain where the Establishment is entering upon perilous times. For lack of spiritual life, religion (which should be first in lagging behind and losing its hold on the mass of the people) and trade, science, and pleasure are usurping its place. The author goes to the root of the matter by a happy illustration: "I believe in forms and so does every builder. A form is necessary for the holding and binding things together, such as cement, for instance. So religious forms are important for the preservation of truth. The danger comes when the forms are given too much emphasis.... The tyranny of form often crushes the vital spiritual life."

So much for the purpose of the book; now for the story. The Rev. Mr. Landrose, an elderly country clergyman (I dislike the word "parson"), is called to a summer hotel to visit a sick woman. Finding that she is in extremis, in his compassion he administers Holy Communion, although he knows she is excommunicate. This is his first conflict with the rules of his church, and he is very uneasy. He becomes more so when the dying woman induces him to accept the guardianship of her grand-daughter, and to become the trustee of her fortune. The young lady resents the implied restraint—a common trait in these days—and takes an amusing way to break her bonds, but her guardian's kindness of heart and simplicity turn the scale. An irreligious near-dowell tries to injure the clergyman's reputation and succeeds for a time, since his flock are indifferent, if not antagonistic—the result of his preaching the rules and history of his Church instead of descending to the "needs of poor hard-working people." On his way to attend the Synod he hears a street preacher and recognizes that this man has a power over the hearts of men which he lacks. Further acquaintance brings out the fact that the preacher had been turned from atheism by a chance word of his own years before, and this man becomes a powerful factor in setting Mr. Landrose in the right way, and in clearing up the mystery and intrigue which his visit to the dying woman had involved him. There are many touches, with the ward as heroine, story and an almost idyllic love liaison and thrilling episodes in this pervades the book, which is heartily recommended to the reading public as a piece of sterling literature.—A.
