Changes In Immigration Policy

NEW YORK, July 24.—The human side of immigration must be considered along with its economic aspect, if the problem is to be solved, says a report published today by the National Industrial Conference Board on "The Immigration Problem in the United States." Far-reaching changes in the government's immigration policy are recommended.

"It is clear," the report says, "that a wide, comprehensive and human national immigration policy cannot be based exclusively on the consideration of any immediate special or purely economic aspect of the problem, but must be developed out of broad, far-sighted and scientifically-grounded views of national and international social and economic progress and human welfare."

The board, after suggesting that inconsistencies arising from the way the present laws are handled should be avoided in the future, says that the state and labor departments fail to work in harmony on the immigration problem. No examination is held abroad to determine mental fitness, the selective function being in the hands of steamship companies, the report adds which undertake the work "to avoid heavy fines and not from any sense of public duty."

"Not enough care is taken to detect mental defects in ports of entry," the report adds. "Facilities are cramped, and the new law has only added new difficulties."

Some of the theories on which the three percent law was enacted were based on false facts, the report finds. The idea that all Europe was on its way to America in 1917 has been proved incorrect.

There is an increasing tendency among immigrants to remain in this country, the report says, and statistics are given to bear out the claim.

The government is blamed in the report for slow naturalization of aliens. There is a great need for increased personnel in the naturalization bureau and for a simpler and standardized law. "It is doubtful if one year of residence in this country has done anything to eliminate this need," the report adds.

It is shown to have the most serious immigration problem, but the government there is trying to find a way out.

In summarizing the limitation question, the report says that "the immigration problem is fundamentally so human a problem, and the existing knowledge regarding the inherent value and possibility of assimilation of foreign stocks is so scanty and controversial that the effectiveness of selection through the more or less accidental method of percentage limitation is seriously open to question."

U. S. Farm Bureau To Adopt New Market Measures

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The American Farm Bureau Federation intends to press hard for the adoption of its plan to have 200,000,000 bushels of wheat with the price of wheat for the government drawn from the market this year.

Mr. Silver points out that the farmers will need no more by intermediate credit banks, which were authorized in the last session of Congress.

This is the plan which the President has been asked by the farmers to do what the law entitles them to do and to use the credit machinery which has already been provided for their benefit.

Under the law, he points out, the farmer can obtain credits up to 75 per cent of value through the 75 intermediate credit banks, on which the association would take a receipt for the grain but it would be stored in the farmer's granary.

As Mr. Silver explains the Farm Bureau Federation, holds that there is no other way to protect the interests of the wheat grower and that unless this method is adopted the plan to have 200,000,000 bushels of wheat with the price of wheat for the government drawn from the market this year.

Wonderful Tea!

Users of KING COLE Orange Pekoe are frequently heard to remark: "It's really wonderful tea." This is not particularly in reference to its outstanding quality although that is necessarily included, but is due to the wonderful way it "spends." For KING COLE Orange Pekoe is a rich liquoring tea as well as a deliciously flavorful one. Skilful blending combines these two great tea qualities for your enjoyment.

WORMS IN CHILDREN WORK HAVE. These pests attack the tender lining of the intestines and, if left to pursue their ravages undisturbed, will ultimately perforate the wall of the intestine. Because these worms are of the hook variety that cling to and feed upon the interior surface, Miller's Worm Powders will not only exterminate these worms, of whatever variety but will serve to repair the injury they have done.
