

Woman's Realm Social and Personal Fashions Literature

The Housewife And Her Activities

FUTURE DAYS
The Master has willed it so, that mortals never should know whether there lies in the future years...

JUDGING OTHERS
No judge human nature right. A man may sometimes have a very small experience, provided he has a very large heart.

PLEASURE
All pleasure must be bought at the price of pain. The difference between false pleasure and true is just this; for the true, the price is paid before you enjoy it.

SOLITUDE
Little do men perceive what solitude is, and how far it extends; for a crowd is not company; men's faces are but like pictures in a gallery; and talk but a tinkling cymbal where there is no love.

BAKING A CAKE
A cake can be baked most successfully in a tin with the cover on. First pierce two holes in the cover, then grease the tin well and fill it with the cake mixture.

ERASE WRINKLES FROM FACE AND THROAT
Rich night creams with which to smooth away fine lines and wrinkles that winter wind and steam-heated rooms etched into face and throat are the news of the moment.

MIMOSA FOR SPRING
Mimosa is the color for this spring. Hats, gloves, pocketbooks, vells are featured in this gorgeous color.

SPRING GARDEN BUTTONS
Add zest to your new spring suit or refresh last season's with the new courtly buttons—garden varieties of fruits and vegetables in riotous gay colors.

PICK YOUR SHOES
Shoes which match an evening gown will give greater height than those which contrast, although if they contrast with the gown and match a jacket or shoulder pose, they will tend to have a lengthening effect.

Coat trimmings have much that is new to say for themselves. Trapunto, or quilting, appears over and over again on lapels, collars and even sleeves.

Be sure—if you are serving hot clams, before a meal, that the clams are piping hot. This means that you will usually have to refill a plate before it is half empty.

Use for adhesive tape: To hold torn shoe linings in place; to fasten loose sock leaves; to repair torn sheet music; to mend rubber hose raincoats and overcoats.

Cubes of cranberry jelly make an effective garnish for fruit and vegetable salads, croquettes, a la king combinations and roasts.

There is nothing too mean to say about fashion, says Elizabeth Hawes, the little designer.

Pré the vertical lines between brows, and with clockwise motions, work cream into the skin around your eyes.

The way you do your hair depends on four things: 1. Your type and personality.

2. The shape of your face: whether it needs broadening or lengthening; whether it suits you best to have your hair drawn back off your face or softly curled round it.

3. The sort of hair you have; its color and texture.

4. The sort of life you lead. Not meaning whether you stay up in night clubs every other night, but whether you have the time and the patience to keep a complicated hair set going.

There are many uncommon vegetables which grow about the backyard. Some of them should be tried every year to see whether you like them.

Letts are cousins of the onion, highly valued by Europeans. They are fried sometimes baked, and often used in soups.

Okra is another good summer vegetable. It is used in soups and stews. It is very hardy, and like its cousin, the pumpkin, it is all in the ground all winter, and dug up for use whenever needed.

Celery, the rooted celery, gives the celery taste to cooked things much better than celery itself. It is good for salads and will keep well over winter.

French endive, chicory, should be sown in the spring. It matures during the summer months, and when dug and put away in sand will sprout tender shoots which make excellent winter salads.

Kale, cress, corn salad, dandelion mustard and marrows are other vegetables infrequently seen in the market. Pick out a few of them this year. The varieties are welcome, and the presence of new plants in the garden will be interesting to you.

Peppers are not so uncommon, but better in the home garden. Eggplants are usually available on the market, but can be easily grown at home.

Chinese cabbage, or celery cabbage, as it is often called, is gaining in popularity and would be a welcome addition to your vegetable garden.

Peppers are not so uncommon, but better in the home garden. Eggplants are usually available on the market, but can be easily grown at home.

VAN WYCK MASON'S The CASTLE ISLAND CASE With CANDID CAMERA CLUES by HENRY CLAY GIPSON

CHAPTER XXVII
We find that the deceased, Barbara James Winslow Grafton, died by strangulation at the hands of person or persons unknown.

In a shaking voice the foreman of the coroner's jury announced his verdict and, for at least twenty seconds, a penetrating stillness pervaded Freshwater's Hall's spacious game room.

Features taut and shiny with sweat, Inspector Boyd stepped forward and took charge of the situation. "Your verdict, Doctor?"

"The verdict, sir, is murder, premeditated and atrocious!" "Thank you," the C. I. D. man's voice did not increase in volume but it held the metallic timbre of a prison door clanging shut.

"Again silence fell to be broken by Gail Grafton's gentle sobbing and weeping, as the father's attempts to comfort her. From his corner Major Allenby studied the whole group.

Yard next Cora Sue, sobered at last, her eyes red from weeping; Kathleen was clinging with difficulty to her usual sang froid; Creepy did not leave the floor and Stanley Gibbons sat hunched over, eyes riveted on Gail clad in a black tailored suit.

Inspector Boyd resumed, "Incredible as it may seem, we have every reason to believe that Mrs. Grafton's murderer is in this room."

On first, however, I recommend that a diving apparatus be brought to the island. So far there has been no success in a search for the object used to strangle Mrs. Grafton—though a search might come nearer to the case."

Allenby picked up a police photograph depicting the close-up of the murdered girl's throat. For some minutes he scanned the print. "I see imprints on the flesh a pattern of used was coarsely woven—flat."

Inspector Boyd leaned forward. "To me, Major, in your opinion could a woman have committed this crime?"

"Yes. Most of the women present were good to superlative swimmers. I was struck with the fact while watching them in the water or where the attack took place?"

Allenby's squarish shoulders rose in an apologetic shrug. "No, it would be impossible to say. The moon was dodging in among the shrubs and the surf was loud enough to drown out any but the shrillest cries."

"I see, Tell us, Major, how do you account for the fact that Mrs. Grafton's disappearance escaped your notice?"

A faint grimace swept over Allenby's features. "Because my attention was directed to two other people both of whom I thought in more danger than Mrs. Grafton."

"You wouldn't care to say at this point, who those people were?"

"Gail was one—the other, well, it was only a guess and a bad one, so I won't give the name."

"Do you believe that these two women were together at the time of the attack?"

"I am not sure, but I believe they were together at the time of the attack."

"Now the modern camera joins the magnifying glass of Sherlock Holmes as potent instruments of crime detection."

Some of them give important clues as to its ultimate solution. Check them for detail as you read the story!

As you read the story, you should be able to beat Major Roger Allenby to the discovery of the guilty party or parties.

Read the story from day to day and, above all, examine its camera clues most carefully!

AT THE HANDS OF PERSON OR PERSONS UNKNOWN? Police photo reveals "a pattern of some sort" on the throat of the murdered Mrs. Barbara Grafton

Allenby picked up a police photograph depicting the close-up of the murdered girl's throat. For some minutes he scanned the print.

Inspector Boyd leaned forward. "To me, Major, in your opinion could a woman have committed this crime?"

"Yes. Most of the women present were good to superlative swimmers. I was struck with the fact while watching them in the water or where the attack took place?"

Allenby's squarish shoulders rose in an apologetic shrug. "No, it would be impossible to say. The moon was dodging in among the shrubs and the surf was loud enough to drown out any but the shrillest cries."

"I see, Tell us, Major, how do you account for the fact that Mrs. Grafton's disappearance escaped your notice?"

A faint grimace swept over Allenby's features. "Because my attention was directed to two other people both of whom I thought in more danger than Mrs. Grafton."

"You wouldn't care to say at this point, who those people were?"

"Gail was one—the other, well, it was only a guess and a bad one, so I won't give the name."

"Do you believe that these two women were together at the time of the attack?"

"I am not sure, but I believe they were together at the time of the attack."

Now the modern camera joins the magnifying glass of Sherlock Holmes as potent instruments of crime detection.

Some of them give important clues as to its ultimate solution. Check them for detail as you read the story!

As you read the story, you should be able to beat Major Roger Allenby to the discovery of the guilty party or parties.

Read the story from day to day and, above all, examine its camera clues most carefully!

Have YOU the Detective Instinct? Then Clip This Story for — CLUES!

Now the modern camera joins the magnifying glass of Sherlock Holmes as potent instruments of crime detection.

Some of them give important clues as to its ultimate solution. Check them for detail as you read the story!

As you read the story, you should be able to beat Major Roger Allenby to the discovery of the guilty party or parties.

Read the story from day to day and, above all, examine its camera clues most carefully!

murders were committed by the same person?"

"Sorry, Inspector, I'm not certain even of that."

The Police Superintendent, however, remained curious. "Did you say, Major, you know who killed Patricia Fortier?"

"Not exactly, that," Allenby corrected quickly, "but within the last few months I have become reasonably certain."

"Good lord, you don't say so! Who was it?"

Allenby colored a little. "If you don't mind I'd prefer to make no statement yet. You see, I'm not quite certain whether one person committed both crimes. To make an arrest now might spoil a clean slate."

"On the other hand a delay might be fatal—let the guilty person escape!"

"I wonder, Mr. Tyson! With all the boats under guard, a suspect cannot hope to leave this island."

The Superintendent looked unconvinced. "Even a good swimmer?"

"Not through the currents they say flow around the island."

"The glass is dropping like lead," Boyd added, "provide we're keeping a patrol boat ready on St. Catherine's beach."

"I'll concede you the point, Major," Tyson sighed, "provide the steps you're contemplating meet with my approval."

"Well, gentlemen, what luck did you have in locating Judy Fortier?"

Constable Lunt shifted his weight, looked uncomfortable. "Go on, man, speak up," Superintendent Tyson's incisive voice directed.

"Well, sir, we located her—and we didn't."

"Don't talk nonsense. What are you trying to say?"

"... after a lot of inquiry we discovered that Miss Fortier has been living with a Portuguese family near the harbor of Devonshire and Smith's Parish."

Inspector Boyd took up the account. "The old fisherman couldn't even talk English and was very stupid. His wife was no better, so we found someone to translate. It turned out that these people found Miss Fortier lying exhausted and unconscious on their doorstep in the early morning of August 27th—the day after she was supposed to have committed suicide."

"I quite recall the date," remarked the Superintendent acidly. "Even Miss Fortier's photograph in the coroner's report."

"They said she appeared to have been badly beaten and bruised. She'd a nasty coral cut on her scalp and was out of her head for over ten days."

"Why didn't they notify the police?"

Boyd shrugged. "Araid of getting into trouble, I fancy. They even took care of her themselves for fear of running up a doctor's bill."

(To Be Continued)

Copyright by Van Wyck Mason and Henry Clay Gipson; distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

The Deceased Have No Right to Rule Living, Especially When Happiness or Marriage is Endangered, 80 Ways Should be Found to Circumvent Such Plans

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am an elderly widow. When my husband died he left me very comfortably situated, but he planned that my son should have the bulk of my estate.

However, we just cannot get along on account of my son's wife, who is everything very unhappy for me. She is a very nice girl, but she is very much against me. She is very much against me. She is very much against me.

Answer: The only sane thing for you to do is to tell your son and your disagreeable daughter-in-law that they must get a home of their own. This will be for the good of all concerned.

When a mother-in-law and a daughter-in-law can live together in peace and happiness it is a miracle because they are naturally enemies.

Other things will always be in each other's way, for each will be determined to be the boss and run the house in her own way.

Then comes the contest of both age and youth, which are bound to result in head-on collisions, for mother-in-law thinks that because of her age and experience she knows everything.

Don't be afraid to broach the subject to your son and his wife. Cause them to bump up against the wall and don't feel that you should be bound by your husband's plan for you all to live together.

Dear Dorothy Dix—Do you think the modern idea of colleges having courses in the study of marriage a wise policy?

Answer: I am heartily in favor of the study of marriage being included in every college curriculum. Since virtually all young people expect to marry, why should they not be taught in school something about how to make a success of the most important thing they are ever going to do in life?

Yes, what boys and girls need to know more than anything else in the world is how to get along with their parents, their husbands, and their wives.

Heretofore we have left the matter entirely to individual experimentation in which the knowledge acquired always came too late to be of any service.

A psychologist who lectures in one such class tells me that he stresses the importance of picking out for a husband or wife a woman that they would like to have for the future.

I do not think that on an $1800 salary a boy can afford a $200 diamond engagement ring, and I don't think that is for young men who have never been married and that the Duke of Windsor did not wear a Warfield ring because she was a widow.

What nonsense! Of course, a widow gets an engagement ring when it is her second or third or fourth offense. And what about that queen of emerald engagement rings that we read so much about in the apt that the Duke gave Mrs. Simpson?

FASHION GUIDES FOR THE HOME DRESSMAKER

You'll thank your lucky stars with the first breath of spring, if you have this charming boero costume in your wardrobe.

Follow Easy Home Lessons Get in the limelight. Surprise em with lively tap dancing steps when your turn comes to shine in the Big Apple.

You can quickly teach yourself to tap dance by practicing at home with diagrams.

See how easy this jolly Irish step is: 1—Keep weight on right foot as you brush ball of left foot quickly forward, grazing the floor with a sharp tap sound.

2—Brush ball of left foot back, repeating tap sound. 3—Hop on ball of right foot. 4—Step on ball of left foot.

Repeat the Irish, brushing the right foot forward to start. Fit these tap sounds to a lively fox-trot or to a catchy old-time like "Turkey in the Straw."

Before you know it you'll be dancing shorts or slacks or a gay peasant costume for your first party performance.

Follow diagrams and directions in our 52-page booklet. Basic steps. Practice routines and full-length ones—waltz buck and military.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in stamps or coin (coin preferred) wrap coin carefully, address to Charlottetown Guardian giving: Style No. 2786 Size...

Name Street Address City Province

Gaily Colorful and Easy to Knit By Mayfair

450 MAYFAIR NO. 450

Cool and warm under a suit when cool winds blow; colorful and casually smart over a dark frock and a real asset to any wardrobe is this SNOUGGLE jacket.

The pattern includes complete easy-to-follow knitting instructions in sizes 12, 14, 16 and 18.

For complete pattern and instructions for all of these designs, send 20 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Charlottetown Guardian Needlework Department.

Name Street Address City Province

Uncommon Vegetables To Grow

BRING NEW TASTES AND FLAVORS TO YOUR TABLE. MOST OF THEM ARE EASILY GROWN FROM SEED.

There are many uncommon vegetables which grow about the backyard. Some of them should be tried every year to see whether you like them.

Letts are cousins of the onion, highly valued by Europeans. They are fried sometimes baked, and often used in soups.

Okra is another good summer vegetable. It is used in soups and stews. It is very hardy, and like its cousin, the pumpkin, it is all in the ground all winter, and dug up for use whenever needed.

Celery, the rooted celery, gives the celery taste to cooked things much better than celery itself. It is good for salads and will keep well over winter.

French endive, chicory, should be sown in the spring. It matures during the summer months, and when dug and put away in sand will sprout tender shoots which make excellent winter salads.

Kale, cress, corn salad, dandelion mustard and marrows are other vegetables infrequently seen in the market.

Peppers are not so uncommon, but better in the home garden. Eggplants are usually available on the market, but can be easily grown at home.

Chinese cabbage, or celery cabbage, as it is often called, is gaining in popularity and would be a welcome addition to your vegetable garden.

Peppers are not so uncommon, but better in the home garden. Eggplants are usually available on the market, but can be easily grown at home.

Chinese cabbage, or celery cabbage, as it is often called, is gaining in popularity and would be a welcome addition to your vegetable garden.

Peppers are not so uncommon, but better in the home garden. Eggplants are usually available on the market, but can be easily grown at home.

A Morning Smile

A lady went to the fish shop and asked for a nice smoked haddock. "How about this one, lady?" said the fishmonger's assistant.

"No," says the dear lady, "I don't quite like the look of that one."

"Well, your honor," says the assistant, picking up another fish; "he's a proper Clark Gable, he is.... look at his ears."

WEAK IN FAITH The rector of a parish church was good to pray for rain. He asked his former churchwarden if he thought such a prayer would be fitting.

"The answer was, 'Well, you can say it if you like, sir, but I tell you it'll be no use with this quarter!'"

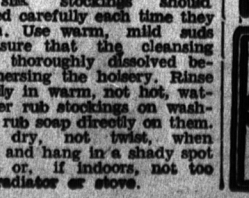

LEMON FILLING: Three tablespoons cornstarch, 2-3 cup sugar, 1 cup boiling water, 2 egg-yolks, 1 teaspoon butter, 4 table-spoons lemon juice, 1 table-spoon grated lemon rind.

Mix together the cornstarch and sugar. Add boiling water; stir until thick. Cook for 15 minutes.

Put the egg-whites, sugar, corn syrup, water and lemon juice into the top of a double boiler and stir well. Now put the top of double boiler over rapidly boiling water and beat with Dover beater for 7 minutes, until the frosting will stand in peaks. Remove from heat; add lemon rind and again beat until thick enough to spread.

LONGER LIFE FOR YOUR GOOD SILK STOCKINGS Since perspiration affects silk fibers, silk stockings should be washed carefully each time they are worn.

Head Colds: Heat Mince's and Save Throat Heat, then rub well into affected parts. Real relief... quickly!

THE COOK'S CORNER

SPICED PRUNE CAKE One-half cup shortening, 2-cup white sugar, 1-4 cup corn syrup, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1-2 cup thick sour milk, 2 cups flour, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cream of tartar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg and allspice, 2 cups cooked chopped prunes.

Cream the shortening, gradually add sugar and corn syrup, beat until fluffy. Add unbaked, beat one at a time, stirring well after each addition.

Put the egg-whites, sugar, corn syrup, water and lemon juice into the top of a double boiler and stir well. Now put the top of double boiler over rapidly boiling water and beat with Dover beater for 7 minutes, until the frosting will stand in peaks.

Repeat the Irish, brushing the right foot forward to start. Fit these tap sounds to a lively fox-trot or to a catchy old-time like "Turkey in the Straw."

Before you know it you'll be dancing shorts or slacks or a gay peasant costume for your first party performance.

Follow diagrams and directions in our 52-page booklet. Basic steps. Practice routines and full-length ones—waltz buck and military.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in stamps or coin (coin preferred) wrap coin carefully, address to Charlottetown Guardian giving: Style No. 2786 Size...

Name Street Address City Province

Home Service

Impress Your Crowd With Tricky Tap Steps

You'll thank your lucky stars with the first breath of spring, if you have this charming boero costume in your wardrobe.

Follow Easy Home Lessons Get in the limelight. Surprise em with lively tap dancing steps when your turn comes to shine in the Big Apple.

You can quickly teach yourself to tap dance by practicing at home with diagrams.

See how easy this jolly Irish step is: 1—Keep weight on right foot as you brush ball of left foot quickly forward, grazing the floor with a sharp tap sound.

2—Brush ball of left foot back, repeating tap sound. 3—Hop on ball of right foot. 4—Step on ball of left foot.

Repeat the Irish, brushing the right foot forward to start. Fit these tap sounds to a lively fox-trot or to a catchy old-time like "Turkey in the Straw."

Before you know it you'll be dancing shorts or slacks or a gay peasant costume for your first party performance.

Follow diagrams and directions in our 52-page booklet. Basic steps. Practice routines and full-length ones—waltz buck and military.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in stamps or coin (coin preferred) wrap coin carefully, address to Charlottetown Guardian giving: Style No. 2786 Size...

Name Street Address City Province