ONE of the show window attractions of Charlottetown is the International Correspondence Schools' display in S. A. McDonald's store. The general effect of the display is good. The back ground is set off descriptive cards and photos of the School buildings at Seranton, which have a floor space of seven acres. In the front ground is shown the work of some of the P. E. Island students of these schools. Noteworthy is the superior advanced Mechanical Drawings by John Otto Coles, Milton Station, the Show Cards by Wm. F. King and the General Illustrating Plates by Margaret Smith, both of this city. The middle rear ground space of the window is occupied by the Language Phonograph Outfit and many volumes of the Library of Technology. To either side of these are the Electrical and Drawing Outfits. The exhibit in general not only impresses one with the magnitude of this institution with its army of 700,000 students, but it also strikingly illustrates the proficiency which the students attain in the various courses taught by the I. C. Schools.

The Union Commercial College has issued a neat prospectus dealing with the work done at that institution. The prospectus is an excellent photograph of the principal Wm. Moran and in the introduction is said: "The object of the Union Commercial College is to prepare young men and women for business life and good useful citizenship. By being alert and always striving for the best we aim to obtain and hold the confidence of the public. We make no promises we cannot fulfill. Parents who send their sons and daughters to us can rest assured that they will not be allowed to waste their time. Students are kept busy all the time while in college. Students are so trained that when they leave college they are at once able to fill a position. Our graduates compare favorably with those of the leading Business Colleges of Canada." To the public we extend a cordial invitation to visit the College at any time. The booklet then deals with the Bookkeeping, Arithmetic, English, Penmanship, Shorthand, Typing, and in the concluding pages has photos of a number of the graduates with the full list. An accompanying slip contains photos of E. S. Eaton, B. A., the assistant in tractor with particulars of the business course.

Some Dealers Think They Have a Monopoly of Buying Furniture

Let them think so, it does nobody any harm, and it pleases them. But for fear the public might be led away by their extravagant utterances, we humbly rise to remark, that we have been and are still buying from almost every manufacturer in this broad Dominion—and further we are content to sell at a much smaller profit than most people ask. We would like the opportunity of showing you our furniture, and would like you to compare, and we think we can convince you that what we say is true.
