Chicago Sets New Attendance Mark But Black Hawks Lose 1-0 Decision To Americans

CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—(AP)—A crowd of 15,211 helped Chicago Black Hawks establish a new opening game attendance mark at the Stadium tonight, but the Hawks themselves had to submit to a 1-0 defeat in their National Hockey League debut against New York Americans.

The only score came in the third period when Johnny Sorrell and Phil Field swooped down on goalie Paul Goodman after a Hawk surge had been broken up and Sorrell tallied from close in at 6:01. Field got the assist.

Two minutes later Phil Hergeshimer got the Hawk's first clean cut scoring opportunity when he took a pass from Cully Dahlstrom alone in front of goalie Earl Robertson, but his drive was wide of the net.

In the latter stages of the game, the Americans effectively tied up the Hawks to go on to their first league victory in two starts. They dropped their opener to Detroit 4-2. The previous game attendance record for the Stadium was 14,864, established last year.

WARTIME INNINGS FOR COLOR-BLIND

LONDON, Nov. 7.—(C P)—Color-blindness is a defect which disqualifies applicants for a variety of jobs such as engine-drivers and taxi drivers, but it may prove of use in war.

Color-blind airmen have proved they can detect camouflaged guns that normal eyes cannot see. It may be that a lot of camouflage designed to deceive the color-blind will have to be used to hide some ammunition depots, barracks and other strategic material from them.

One person out of every 55 cannot see red from green, and out of 50 cannot see green from red. Very rare are the totally color-blind to whom the world appears like a photograph in black and white. The most common type of color blindness is called "daltonism" because, although it was known for centuries, it was first studied by the subject of John Dalton, the famous chemist, who in 1794 published an account of his own case and analyzed its peculiarities. For days he went about in his scarlet gown of a Doctor of Civil Laws at Oxford happily ignorant of its effect on those around him. And asked what color gown he pointed to an evergreen.

PAPER WARNS

LONDON, Nov. 7.—(C P)—Warning that there can be "no walkover to victory" for Britain is sounded by the Daily Sketch in an editorial.

"There appears to be at the moment rather too much easy optimism, mostly engendered by the magnificent work of the R. A. F.," says the Sketch. "This work indeed gives us grounds for a steady confidence in the ultra result. But that does not justify even an approach to the assumption that we have anything but a long and hard road in front of us."

"That we shall beat him (the enemy) no one doubts who has made a careful reckoning of all the factors involved. But there is a danger that after arrival at this conclusion, we may forget the factors."

Interpreting The War News

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Now that Mussolini's forces in Greece are again on the march, Great Britain must soon disclose her strategy and the extent of her ability to aid her little Greek ally.

Italy and Athens agree that the Ionian River must be held as a buffer after a rousing start and an unexplained eight-day halt on the Kalamos certainly means a far exact nature of the Fascist thrust is not clear, however. Even if it observers believe, the real "big push" of the Italian attack on Greece, there are circumstances which tend to make it a more costly operation for Italy than it would have been eight days ago.

That eight-day Italian halt on the heavier ton of Italian lives in the new drive, even if it can fully re- gain lost momentum. Within that time Britain has moved up both her air and sea power.

From British bases on the Greek island of Crete, a strategic air attack on advancing Italian columns is not only possible but already planned. And the resumed fascist drive also is now exposed to attack from the sea. It is aimed down the Kalamos River jump-off from the protection of that open sea flank from British assaults must needs be a task assigned to the Italian navy as well as to the Fascist air units. That suggests the stage is being set in the Ionian Sea, between the island of Italy and the Greek coast, for a British-Italian naval clash. British leaders, from Prime Minister Churchill down, have frequently challenged their Italian foe to just such a contest.

Lady Byng Present At Ottawa Ceremony

OTTAWA, Nov. 7.—(CP)—Probably for the first time in the 73 years since Confederation, the wife of a Governor-General mounted the throne in the Senate chamber today under the eyes of another woman who preceded her to the same red-cushioned seat.

When Princess Alice, wife of the Earl of Athlone, accompanied her husband to the throne at today's opening of Parliament, Lady Byng of Vimy was a member of the viceregal party.

As wife of a former Governor-General, Lady Byng mounted to the same chair when she attended the opening and prorogation of Parliament sessions between 1921 and 1926.

Not since July 1, 1867, when Viscount Monck took office as first Governor-General of the new Dominion has this situation been duplicated, according to available parliamentary records.

Princess Alice is the third Princess to live in Canada as wife of a Governor-General. Her predecessors were Princess Louise, wife of the Marquess of Lorne, and Princess Louise-Margaret, wife of the Duke of Connaught.

Princess Louise-Margaret was in Canada after the First Great War began, but she also was present at parliamentary ceremonies in peacetime when the opening of a new session was an affair of social brilliance.

In contrast, Princess Alice's first attendance in the Senate chamber on the opening day was in an atmosphere of subdued dignity imposed by the tragedy of war.

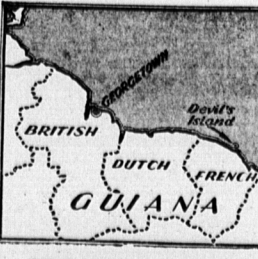

The evening gowns of satin and velvet, the furs, the lavish jewelry which brightened the austere Senate chamber in peacetime was replaced by simple afternoon clothes.

In the Governor-General's box in the Senate Chamber with Lady Byng was Princess Juliana of the Netherlands, a refugee from the war zone who now is living here; Lady May Abel-Smith, daughter of the Earl of Athlone and Princess Alice; and Lady Redfern, wife of Sir Shuldham Redfern, secretary to the Governor-General.

SIDE WITH DE GAULLE
Ninety-five per cent. of the 3,000 convict guards on Devil's Island have offered their services to Gen. Charles De Gaulle for the re-establishment of Free France. Men without families in France and therefore not in danger of bringing reprisals on them, have already left, according to reports believed to be reliable.

THE VERSATILE CAMEL

"Many an Arab's life," writes William Beebe in the bulletin of the New York Zoological Society, "has been saved in mid-desert by the siphons of water obtained by the sacrifice of his favorite riding camel. Dead camels furnish potatoes, meat and most durable leather suitable for such diverse articles as sandals and water bottles. And so on. Imagine a motor car which, in addition to transportation, could furnish a constant renewed supply of nourishing water, oil and gas, and independently useful wires, mud-guards and seat-covers!"
